Will Rogers Remarks:

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It looks like we are going to get disarmament, but I want to tell you we are paying dearly for it; for after all I question if it is not better to have a big navy, lots of taxes and yet social peace in Washington than no navy, no taxes, yet not enough seats at the right of the President to go around.

So Premier MacDonald and his charming, no-smoking, no-rouging daughter have brought peace to the world. But they have unconsciously unleashed the social hounds of war. And now it's death to the poor devil who has to seat 'em.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Abrupt Ending of Bribe Case Feared as ex-Secretary's Health Remains Poor

Testimony Begun to Show He Accepted $100,000 from Doheny for Oil Lease

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—An abrupt ending of Albert B. Fall's trial on bribery charges is being threatened by his precarious health.

ALBERT B. FALL

During opening arguments in the case arising from the notorious Elk Hills (Cal.) oil lease, he was excused from the courtroom today because of rising temperature, increased pulse and coughing of blood. The former Interior Secretary, who is 68 years of age, and suffered a bronchial attack last week, was helped home by his family and the trial continued under agreement of counsel.

Zooming Plane Lifts Veil of Centuries on Vista Never Seen by White Men

Scientists "All Het Up" as Gleaming White Edifices Lure Wondering Gaze

MIAMI (Fla.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Discovery of additional Mayan ruins, believed never before seen by white men, was the result of the newest aerial adventure today by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his flight over the dense jungles of Guatemala.

The discovery was announced in a terse radio message received here from the Lindbergh plane as it wheeled over impenetrable tropical tangles in the vicinity of Lake Yaxha, British Honduras. The message was copied at the Pan-American Airways wireless headquarters here, which is maintaining almost constant communication with the flight.

Five columns of gleaming white were sighted near Tical, Guatemala.

"They must be massive edifices," said the radio message. "Lindbergh is making wide circles and the scientists are jotting down notes. Everybody has turned observer."

PASSES OVER CAMP

A few minutes later, the plane passed high over Dr. Ricketson's jungle camp, situated so deep in the forests that it is the only cleared spot in many miles. Vegetation which had grown fifteen feet in nine months was found to cover the partly cleared ruins of a pyramid, at Uaxactun, believed to have been a Mayan astronomical observatory dating to the first century after Christ.

Stories rivaling the adventures of fiction were ticked into the air by the radio operator as the Lindbergh party flew over country where the natives scarcely knew the whirring plane from some giant bird of the air.

They scattered to their huts, terrified at the strange monster above them. At one time Indian huts were sighted and Lindbergh circled low so that Mrs. Lindbergh might take pictures, but the panic-stricken natives fled before she could operate the camera.

Accompanied by Dr. A. S. Kidder, head of the archeological branch of Carnegie Institution; Oliver H. Ricketson, also of the Carnegie staff; Radio Operator Ehmer and W. I. I. Van Dusen of New York, Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh spent today penetrating areas of British Honduras and Guatemala from Belize, the present base.

NATIVES THRILLED

Halt for lunch was called today at a tiny island, 300 feet off shore near Floreo, where the natives were thrilled at their glimpse of an airplane. After Mrs. Lindbergh served a lunch of bananas, chocolate and biscuits, the party was off again to a ringing cheer from the populace. Greetings were extended by Col. Lindbergh and Dr. Kidder to the head man of the village, which is situated seven days from civilization by pack mule and where gasoline sold for $5 per gallon.

Shortly after leaving the village, the plane was circling above the village of chicle hunters, who fled at the approach of the ship. During the afternoon as the party turned back toward Belize from the interior, Lindbergh skirted several rain squalls. So delighted was the aviator with a glimpse of green islands in the Caribbean that in midafternoon, after three and a half hours' flying over dense jungles, he landed momentarily off a small island in the Gulf of Amatique.

Col. Lindbergh landed at Belize, British Honduras, at 6:25 p.m., according to radio advices to Pan-American headquarters here.

MEMBERS OF PARTY RETURN TO MIAMI TODAY

BELIZE (British Honduras) Oct. 8. (AP)—Members of the Lindbergh aerial exploration party will return to Miami tomorrow. Their last flight in search of traces of the ancient Mayan civilization was made today and carried them over the western boundary of this colony with a landing in Flores Lake, Peten, Guatemala.

Their flight tomorrow by way of Cozumel and Havana will complete for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife their circuit flight around the Caribbean in the interests of new international mail services of the Pan-American Airways. They left Miami on the morning of September 20 and arrived here on the 4th inst. This city has been the base for exploration flights during the past three days over the jungles of Yucatan Peninsula.

Although the flight tomorrow lies over the regular commercial route the party still will be over the ancient land of the Mayas until Cozumel is passed and will continue its observations.

PERMANENT MACHINERY FOR UNIONIZING CITY

San Franciscans Organize Labor Council Here; Adventures in Journalism and Politics

This is the ninth of a series of articles on the open-shop war of Los Angeles. Others will follow daily.

It was in 1903, after a long series of reverses in their efforts to unionize Los Angeles, that officials of the San Francisco units of the American Federation of Labor appear to have come to the conclusion that the real reason for their failure in the task assigned them and accepted by them was the lack of an efficient central organization in this field, plus the lack of newspaper representation of the general circulation type calculated to offset the constant exposure by The Times of their plans and fiascos. Both deficiencies they set about remedying.

For some years there had been a loosely organized association of union locals sometimes referred to as the Los Angeles Council of Labor, but it had proven woefully inefficient in holding its units together and in preventing their individual disintegration in the face of unfavorable community sentiment toward their cause. Much of the early and painful organization work had come undone almost as soon as the organizers had completed it and passed on to other fields. The barbers' union had fallen to pieces from internal dissension, the brewery workers' union was little better, the cooks and waiters and the butchers' organizations could make no headway against their open shop competition and were seriously discouraged. Even the building trades and metal workers' unions, usually the backbone of unionism in any community, were crumbling through personal jealousies, dissatisfaction and desertions.

FORM LABOR COUNCIL

To cure these ills and to show the Los Angeles unions how to do things San Francisco fashion, had come P. H. (sometimes called "Pinhead") McCarthy, Bay City labor boss and politician. He called a convention of representatives of all the unions then existing in Los Angeles county and laid before them a plan for an imposing central federation to have general jurisdiction in the co-ordination of strikes and other unionite activities in this area. This body was to be modeled on the lines of the powerful and successful directing body of San Francisco union labor and was to be called the Los Angeles Central Labor Council. The man who made the motion calling for the appointment of a committee to carry out McCarthy's plan was Francis Drake, head of the local typographical union, the labor editor who later, as fire commissioner, figured prominently in the campaign to unionize the Los Angeles police and fire departments and whose appointment by Mayor Porter to the present Police Commission was lately the subject of a lively skirmish.

McCarthy's plan did not have smooth sailing. As he expressed it; "This is the damnedest town to work I ever tackled." The local union leaders resented the idea of a San Franciscan horning into their affairs and telling them how to spend the dues they had collected. Three times the plan appeared to have fallen through com-

STRIKE ENDS AND FRUIT BAN LIFTS

Union Labor Row Costs Shippers and Merchants of East Huge Sum

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The railroad embargo in fresh fruits and vegetables consigned to New York was lifted today as the strike of 2000 Union Market truck drivers was brought to an amicable end. It is estimated the strike has cost shippers and merchants several hundred thousand dollars.

A compromise was reached between all four factions involved in the drivers' strike, partly through the efforts of Lieut.-Gov. Lehman, who acted to bring the opposing groups together.

Through a new understanding with the Fruit and Produce Trade Association the Market Truckmen's Association was able to grant a salary increase to satisfy the demands of their striking drivers. Commission merchants also will be involved in the new rules and regulations to be drawn up between the Produce Trade and Truckmen's associations.

The union drivers were granted a $5 weekly increase and regular pay for overtime after the tenth hour, but the nine-hour day was retained. The union had sought an eight-hour day.

More than $6,000,000 worth of perishables had been tied up in the railroad yards through the walkout which occurred Saturday noon.

Disbursing Officer for Destroyer Squadron and $50,000 Reported Missing

CHARLESTON (S. C.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Announcement of the disappearance of Lieut. Charles Musel, Supply Corps, United States Navy, disbursing officer for the fortieth division of the destroyer squadron, with approximately $50,000 of government funds, was made today by Capt. W. R. Capt. Sexton said Musel has been missing eight days. He had obtained leave of absence over Sunday and left his ship, the U.S.S. Gilmer, Saturday, September 28.

The money, Capt. Sexton said, was to have been used for paying off the officers and men of the division.

BYRD DOGS ALL SET TO GO

Supporting Party Will Set Out on Perilous Trip as Soon as Warm Days Arrive

BY RUSSELL OWEN

[Copyright, 1929, by the Los Angeles Times, New York Times Company and St. Louis Post Dispatch. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.]

LITTLE AMERICA (Antarctica) Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—As soon as a break in the weather comes, and a few warm days can be expected the dog teams of the first party to go south, the supporting party, will leave the base and start on their difficult journey over the upheaved bay ice, which at some places has been forced up nearly fifty feet and up to the barrier surface where the route will lie through two badly crevassed areas. They are all ready to go but it has been unusually cold this spring and the start will not be made until the weather moderates enough so that the dogs will not become exhausted.

Sleds are being packed and everything is being brought together so that there will be as little delay as possible when Commander Byrd gives the word to begin the long hike. He has checked all the equipment and satisfied himself that sleds and loads are efficiently arranged.

PLANE PREPARED

And while the land parties are chafing under the restraint imposed on them by the cold—for it was 43 below last night, which is much colder than when Amundsen started his polar journey on the 19th—the work on the planes is going ahead steadily. Today the snow is being shoveled away from around the Fairchild and the wings being put back in place so that by dinner time the welcome sight of a plane ready to fly will make clear the fact that summer is coming. The plane will be left with the landing gear and the skiis in the hole, where they have been all winter, so firmly frozen in that a storm would tear the wings off the plane without moving the skiis. Such a storm is not anticipated here where wind velocities do not reach the intensity experienced at the Rockefeller Mountains last summer when the Fokker was blown away.

The engine of the plane is tuned, the carburetor has been taken out and adjusted and cleaned, and if it becomes necessary at any time to go to the assistance of the dog teams the plane is all ready to fly. Everyone is anxious to see it in the

NAVAL CONFERENCE BASIS DISCLOSED IN INVITATION

Total Elimination of Submarines Regarded Stumbling Block to Five-Power Agreement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—The American government is expected to accept the invitation of the British government to the London naval limitation conference before Prime Minister MacDonald departs from the United States next Tuesday.

Simultaneously with the making public of the text of the invitation State Department officials tonight began preparing the draft of the reply which will be submitted to President Hoover for his final approval.

Since the Chief Executive has been acquainted in advance with the text of the invitation and had approved its substance, it was a foregone conclusion that the acceptance will be without reservations.

The invitation reviews the Anglo-American conversations in which it is stated agreement had been reached on the following:

(1.) The Kellogg pact is the starting point of the agreement.

(2.) Anglo-American parity of all naval categories shall be reached by the end of 1936.

(3.) The desirability to reconsider the battleship replacement programs of the Washington treaty of 1922 with a view to diminishing the amount of replacement construction therein implied.

(4.) Total abolition of submarines, subject to conference with other naval powers.

SUBMARINE ISSUE

The invitation says it is considered desirable that the conference should be summoned for the third week in January to consider categories of vessels not covered in the Washington treaty and to deal with the questions so covered in Paragraph 2, Article XXI of that treaty.

The suggestion for total abolition of submarines, subject to conference with other naval powers, was regarded here in some informed quarters as a possible stumbling block for the projected conference. While the United States and Great Britain are in agreement on this proposition, there are indications that Japan, France and Italy will reject it.

The French stood out at the Washington Conference against any limitation of submarines, but finally agreed to a tonnage of 90,000. This type of craft is viewed by the French as essential to their national defense and a similar view has been taken by Japan and Italy.

A limitation of the tonnage in this category of craft ultimately may be reached, but it is the consensus here that this question furnishes the most difficult hurdle for the representatives of the five leading naval powers.

Premier MacDonald has stated that the translation of the Anglo-American agreement on cruisers and destroyers into a binding agreement depends upon an accord among all five powers on auxiliary war craft.

NOTE TO DAWES

Since the American government concurred beforehand in the terms of the invitation a formal draft was not handed to Ambassador Dawes. Instead he was given copies of the notes to Japan, France and Italy, signed by Arthur Henderson, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and the following note addressed to himself:

"Your Excellency:

"I have the honor to transmit to Your Excellency herewith copies of the notes which I am today addressing to the French, Italian and Japanese ambassadors in London, inviting the French, Italian and Japanese governments to participate in a five-power conference to deal with the question of naval disarmament, which it is proposed to hold in London in the latter part of January, next.

"As I understand that the government of the United States concur in the terms of the inclosed notes, I shall be grateful if Your Excellency will be so good as to confirm my impression that they will find it possible to participate in the conference above mentioned."

The text of identic notes to the French, Italian and Japanese ambassadors follows:

"Your Excellency:

"I have the honor to inform Your Excellency that the informal con-

Premier Leaves White House for Series of Informal Engagements

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—President Hoover today declared the friendliness being accorded Prime Minister MacDonald by the American people to be more important than the decisions which might be reached on the problems affecting Anglo-American relations during the Premier's visit.

The President's statement was made shortly after the Premier and his daughter Ishbel had returned to the British Embassy from the White House, where they were the guests of the Chief Executive and Mrs. Hoover.

The unreserved manner in which the conversations have been carried on by the two statesmen was emphasized by the President in remarking that he and the British leader had "to search only for those things that will promote the increase of good will and moral solidarity between the two countries."

HOOVER STATEMENT

The President's statement said:

"There is nothing that I can report at the present moment on the conversations with the Prime Minister. These conversations are continuing in the most friendly of atmospheres. We fortunately have no controversies between our countries to be settled. We are, therefore, able to discuss our mutual problems in the long-distance view and solely in the broad aspect of human welfare in the largest sense.

"Moreover, we are able to carry our conversations without circumlocution and in absolute frankness with recognition of the point of view of both sides. Neither of us has anything to reserve. We have to search only for those things that will promote the increase of goodwill and moral solidarity between the two countries. The Prime Minister possesses a wealth of Scotch humor which lubricates any discussion.

"More important than all is the great evidence shown by the press and the American people of genuine friendliness to the Prime Minister of Great Britain and to his people. The demonstration that is in progress is itself of more importance than any incidental conclusion that he and I might come to on matters concerning our two nations."

PRINCIPLES IN ACCORD

Simultaneously, the Prime Minister in an informal talk with American and British newspaper men at the British Embassy, expressed his appreciation of their efforts in contributing to the success of his visit.

Twice during the day did the leaders of the English-speaking nations continue their informal talk. Before the Prime Minister took leave of his Presidential host, they ex-

SOCIAL QUEENS NEAR CRISIS

Mrs. Gann and Alice Longworth Stand Close to Each Other at Reception With Backs Turned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Dolly Curtis Gann stood within three feet of each other this evening in the drawing-room of the British Embassy where Sir Esme and Lady Isabella Howard had assembled Washington's choicest to do honor to Great Britain's Prime Minister and his daughter, Ishbel.

Oddly enough, however, both ladies had their backs turned on each other. And so, of course, there could be no greeting.

The Speaker's wife, a vivid figure in a bluish velvet grown, was telling a story that was causing a lot of laughter in the circle that pressed eagerly in about her. Suddenly somebody in the outer circle nudged somebody and he nudged his neighbor, and presently while the inner circle listened to Theodore Roosevelt's animated daughter, the outer circle looked over at the Vice-President's sister and her husband.

SUSPENSE RUNS HIGH

Mrs. Gann, tall and regal in ivory satin, was shaking hands with Ishbel MacDonald, demure in a simple white frock. Men fingered decorations that kings had given them and women fidgeted with their diamonds as they tried to appear not to be watching the scene.

But it was a brief one.

Slowly Mrs. Gann moved across the room. Her husband led her to a window seat where several of her friends were resting. Mrs. Longworth reached a crisis in the story she was telling and there was a peal of laughter. Mr. Gann passed a pleasantry with his friends and led his wife on past a basket of pink roses and out into the next room. Mrs. Longworth, still animated, plunged into another anecdote and the incident was over.

ALICE REMAINS

The wife of the Speaker remained in the drawing room. The sister of the Vice-President did not return to it.

Neither had been to the small, formal dinner which preceded the reception to Washington's five hundred. Mrs. Longworth did not go because she and her husband had declined, thinking they would be out of town. The Speaker still is away but his wife returned last night "to attend to some things about the house," and will leave again Thursday.

Mrs. Gann did not go because she was not invited. And she was

NAVY PARLEY INVITATION REPLY BEING DRAFTED

Washington Expected to Set Up No Reservations to Principles Specified by London

versations on the subject of naval disarmament which have been proceeding in London during the last three months between the Prime Minister and the Ambassador of the United States have now reached a stage at which it is possible to say that there is no point outstanding of such serious importance as to prevent an agreement.

"From time to time the Prime Minister has notified Your Excellency of the progress made in these discussions and I now have the honor to state that provisional and informal agreement has been reached on the following principles:

ACCORD REACHED

"(1) The conversations have been one of the results of the treaty for the renunciation of war signed at Paris in 1928 which brought about a realignment of our national attitudes on the subject of security in consequence of the provision that war should not be used as an instrument of national policy in the relations of nations one to another. Therefore, the peace pact has been regarded as the starting point of agreement.

"(2.) It has been agreed to adopt the principle of parity in each of the several categories and that such parity shall be reached by December 31, 1936. Consultation between His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom and His Majesty's government in the dominions has taken place and it is contemplated that the program of parity on the British side should be related to naval forces of all parts of the empire.

"(3.) The question of battleship strength was also touched upon during the conversations and it has been agreed in these conversations that subject to the assent of other signatory powers it would be desirable to reconsider the battleship replacement programs provided for in the Washington treaty of 1922 with the view of diminishing the amount of replacement construction implied under that treaty.

"(4.) Since both the government of the United States and His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom adhere to the attitude that they have publicly adopted in regard to the desirability of securing the total abolition of the submarine, this matter hardly gave rise to discussion during the recent conversations. They recognize, however, that no final settlement on this subject can be reached except in conference with the other naval powers.

CONFERENCE DATE

"In view of the scope of these discussions both governments consider it most desirable that a conference should be summoned to consider the categories not covered by the Washington treaty and to arrange for and deal with the questions covered by the second paragraph of Article 21 of that treaty. It is our earnest hope that the (blank) government will agree to the desirability of such a conference. His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom and the government of the United States are in accord that such a conference should be held in London at the beginning of the third week of January, 1930, and it is hoped that the (blank) government will be willing to appoint representatives to attend it.

"A similar invitation is being addressed to the governments of (blank) and the United States and His Majesty's governments in the dominions are being asked to appoint representatives to take part in the conference. I should be grateful if Your Excellency would cause the above invitation to be addressed to the (blank) government.

SUCCESS BESPOKEN

"In the same way as the two governments have kept Your Excellency informally au courant of the recent discussions, so now His Majesty's government will be willing, in the interval before the proposed conference, to continue informal conversations with Your Excellency on any points which may require elucidation. The importance of reviewing the whole naval situation at an early date is so vital in the interests of general disarmament that I trust that Your Excellency's government will see their way to accept this invitation and that the date proposed will be agreeable to them.

"His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom propose to communicate to you in due course their views as to the subjects which they think should be discussed at the conference, and will be glad to receive a corresponding communication from the (blank) government.

"It is hoped that at this conference the principal naval powers may be successful in reaching agreement. I should like to emphasize that His Majesty's government have discovered no inclination in any quarter to set up new machinery for dealing with the naval disarmament question; on the contrary, it is hoped that by this means a text can be elaborated which will facilitate the task of the League of Nations preparatory commission and of the subsequent general disarmament conference."

ITALY WOULD GREET ACCORD WITH "RESERVES"

ROME, Oct. 8. (AP)—An accord between England and America on naval affairs will be greeted in Italy by "adhesion and with reserves," the influential newspaper Giornale D'Italia said today.

It adds that although Italy desires peace and limitation of armaments, she will have something to say about submarines.

The newspaper considers submarines a defensive arm necessary for nations like Italy, which have a long coast line to guard and insufficient finances to protect it with many costly surface vessels.

Tevere, Rome daily, in an editorial today purported to see the welding of an Anglo-Saxon hegemony in the Hoover-MacDonald conversations.

FRENCH TO HANG BACK IN ANSWERING BID

PARIS, Oct. 8. (AP)—The French reply to the invitation to attend a five-power naval conference early next year is likely to be a qualified conditional acceptance. The British invitation was received today, but it is probable that no answer will be sent before next Wednesday, the day after the next council of ministers.

The invitation raised many questions which the French feel necessitate study by the interested French ministries of Foreign Affairs, Marine and Finance.

It then must be discussed by the council of ministers under the presidency of President Doumergue and the text of the reply must be adopted.

The Foreign Office spent the entire day translating the British document, which was not available for publication in Paris before 9 p.m.

It was felt in some quarters that the text raised questions on fundamental points in the discussion of naval disarmament, which are contrary to the French policy of considering the London conference as merely a forward step in the general disarmament debate under the auspices of the League of Nations. This is where qualifications and conditions are likely to enter French acceptance.

No attempt to hide surprise at the length and nature of the document was made by officialdom tonight. It was freely said in circles close to the Foreign Office that had France received a four-line invitation to attend a five-power preliminary naval disarmament conference at London in January instead of a four-page document raising many questions, a similar short unqualified acceptance might have been dispatched to London tomorrow or Thursday.

OFFER TO DISCUSS VIEWS WINS LONDON COMMENDATION

LONDON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Observers tonight see as the most noteworthy point in the invitations to France, Italy, Japan and the United States for a naval conference the frank offer of the British government to communicate its views on naval disarmament to the other governments in the interval before convocation of the conference.

The governments concerned are invited similarly to send communications here. It evidently is intended that there be the fullest discussion between the powers before the conference convenes.

If the invitations are accepted in this spirit, it is believed that there will be little or no break between the Anglo-American conversations recently satisfactorily concluded and the opening of the larger five-power sphere of negotiations pending the actual conference.

The more optimistic observers even hope that as the brief visit of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to President Hoover set the seal on negotiations at greater length informally conducted here so the assembly of the government representatives during the third week of January might find the ground well paved for the drafting of a convention.

The Foreign Office tonight made public the text of the British invitations together with Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson's covering letter to United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes asking the latter to confirm his impression that the United States will find it possible to take part in the conference.

Brilliant Rose Premiere and Flower Display! Friday and Saturday, October 11th and 12th

Featuring the Formal Opening of the New Administration Building of Howard & Smith at the Montebello Nurseries

We cordially invite the flower-loving public on these dates to inspect our modern general headquarters. For the occasion we are presenting a floral display of impressive character and magnitude.

As the main feature in conjunction with the opening we shall stage a Rose Show embracing a great number of varieties and including a series of novelties of transcending beauty not yet in commerce and never before exhibited in this country.

If you are fond of blossoms come and enjoy the world's loveliest and latest creations and the acme of colorful and fragrant charm as expressed in the Rose, reigning Queen of all flowers.

This preview is of a sensational nature and represents the most magnificent collection ever shown in the Americas—rare types in marvelous and entrancing hues.

We are happy to arrange this event in compliment to our customers and friends, through whose patronage and good will this institution has risen from its humble beginning at Ninth and Olive streets to a position of international rank, with extensive nurseries growing seeds, plants and bulbs for distribution throughout the entire world. We shall be delighted to welcome strangers and visitors in California.

We have issued no special announcements or invitations. Consider this as yours and come—and bring your friends! You will see the birthplace of the far-famed Los Angeles Rose and many others originated here and which through intrinsic merit have won their way into rose gardens around the globe; and you will enjoy the glory of the blooms and the outing.

Open all day and until 9 o'clock both evenings.

changed views informally for an hour. Then again during the afternoon he visited the White House for a brief meeting.

Their conversations have dealt with the broad principles of Anglo-American relations and world peace; and the question of recognition by the United States of the soviet government in Russia has not been touched on.

The discussions have been of the most friendly and frank nature and have covered a wide range of subjects constituting problems for either or both. It was disclosed on high authority tonight that the talks have not resulted in a single disagreement in principles. They have been confronted on several occasions with differences where the American and British policy in a case were at variance and their opinions on various subjects have shown marked differences, but in the main, each has seen the other's side of the question and has conceded allowances.

VISITS TOMBS

The official part of his visit—as guest of the President—concluded, the Prime Minister is now free for his first informal social engagements. Upon his return to the Embassy, the Premier joined Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, for a visit to the Washington Cathedral, where the Premier stood a while before the tomb of Woodrow Wilson, the war-time President.

Mr. MacDonald showed keen interest in the battle flag of the first detachment of American troops to enter London. This flag is on a staff placed at the head of the Wilson tomb. He also paid homage at the tomb of Admiral Dewey, the hero of Manila.

The visit to the cathedral was made without previous preparation. Afterward the Premier and the Ambassador stopped at the new British Embassy now under construction on Massachusetts avenue. The Prime Minister inspected the site, commenting favorably to the Ambassador on the progress which is being made with the main building.

The first formal function at the home of a representative of a part of the British Empire was held today at the Canadian Legation, where Minister and Mrs. Massey entertained the Prime Minister and Miss MacDonald at luncheon. The ranking guests were Secretary and Mrs. Stimson. The other guests included the British Ambassador and Lady Howard, Secretary Mellon, Senator and Mrs. William E. Borah and Joseph P. Cotton, the Undersecretary of State.

PHONE COMPANY FILES CONSOLIDATION BRIEF

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. Washington's Five Hundred at Howard Reception

not invited because, according to the complicated rules of etiquette, it was more polite to the Vice-President to omit him from the list than to include him. Here is the reason for that apparent paradox:

STIMSON HONORED

Diplomats look upon our Secretary of State as ranking man after our President, since the Secretary of State is liaison officer between them and the United States. So, the unwritten law advises a diplomat never to invite a Vice-President and a Secretary to the same dinner. And today's dinner, honoring a visiting Prime Minister, singled out Secretary of State Stimson for an almost equal honor. Therefore it really would have been rude to have invited Vice-President Curtis.

But a reception is different from a dinner. Nobody ranks anybody when everybody is migrating through a series of rooms. Therefore the Vice-President and his sister and her husband were all invited and all came.

The dinner itself, while small, was brilliant. Its forty-one guests represented the Prime Minister's own party, Great Britain's various colonial officials in this country, our administration's key-men; a selected group from Congress and a still smaller representation from the nonofficial group at the nation's capital.

WOMEN HONORED

Four women comprised this nonofficial group honored with a dinner invitation: Mrs. Frederick McCormick-Goodhart, formerly of Chicago; Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, widow of the former Ambassador to Great Britain; Mrs. Henry W. Dimock and Mrs. Bayard Cutting. Two of the Congresswomen were included: Florida's Ruth Bryan Owen and New York's Ruth Pratt.

Senator and Mrs. Borah, Senator Hale and Representative Porter were the only elect from Congress.

Admirals and generals, domestic dowagers and foreign celebrities thronged the high-ceilinged rooms when the reception started at 10 o'clock. Men from the Scotch regiment, gay in scarlet tunics, stood guard at the stairs. Portraits of the King and Queen of England smiled down on the party, and the faces of former monarchs watched the party, one of the most brilliant ever given in Washington, where many brilliant parties are given. Upstairs a Scotch Highlander in kilts piped a tune.

DECORATIONS WORN

The red sash of the Order of the Bath, the ribbon of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, the Rosette of Honor and the Medal of Merit flashed across the gold braid of uniforms and the sleek black of coats. The invitations had read "decorations" and all the guests who had any wore them.

When, at last, the guests grew weary of watching to see if Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Longworth would meet, they left the receiving room. Then Mrs. J. Borden Harriman took Ishbel away for a talk on welfare work and the Scotch Highlander piped less frequently and Chicago's Joseph Leiter, surveying the crowds, said:

"Everybody who's anybody's here tonight."

And he wasn't wrong.

Efforts to Oust Flat Dweller End in Failure

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) Combined efforts of the police, wrecking crews, the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings and officials of the Henry Mandel Associates, builders, today failed to dislodge Mrs. Tillie Hart from the old dwelling she occupies on West Twenty-third street.

A three-hour siege, the culmination of a ninety-day legal controversy aimed at ousting her in order that the building may be demolished to make way for a $25,000,000 apartment project the Mandel Company has planned, ended in at least a temporary victory for Mrs. Hart, when a representative of the Bureau of Buildings decided that a Supreme Court order must be had before she can be ejected. Mrs. Hart holds a sublease on the property running to May, 1930.

Convict Called in Prison Case

TRIAL OF FALL PROVES ORDEAL

bribe from Edward L. Doheny for the oil lease. Owen J. Roberts, government prosecutor, obtained a favorable ruling for introduction of evidence bearing on the Fall-Sinclair Teapot Dome scandal. He said he does not expect to go into that phase "until just before we reach the end of the trial."

"I do not expect that we will reach the end of the trial," commented Justice Hitz.

Dr. H. T. Safford of El Paso, Tex., asked today that the hours of court tomorrow be made shorter and counsel for both sides expressed the opinion that the former Cabinet officer will not be able to continue the trial more than a few days at the best. Fall has insisted that he will go through with the trial.

Defense counsel today painted a picture favorable to Fall after the prosecution had held him up as a man who accepted a bribe and betrayed a public trust while sitting in the Harding Cabinet.

DOCUMENTS OFFERED

The government introduced four witnesses. The first produced all of the documents from the Department of the Interior and Fall's letters together with those of Secretary of the Navy Denby, which bore on the subject of the Elk Hills lease. They also called Graham Young, formerly treasurer of Blair & Co., New York, who told of Edward J. Doheny, Jr., withdrawing $100,000 in cash, which later is expected to be shown to have been brought here.

After the jury had been excused for the day Roberts offered evidence of leases granted by Fall prior to that given the Doheny company.

NOTE IDENTIFIED

Ernest K. Hill, secretary to former Senator Lenroot and clerk of the Senate Public Lands Committee during the early part of the oil investigation, was the third witness. He identified the note Fall gave Doheny for $100,000 which was presented to the committee by Doheny. The signature had been torn off.

Hill also identified a letter received by the committee from Fall in 1924, and another addressed to Senator Walsh of Montana, at Miami, Fla.

Fall's travel vouchers in 1921 showed he left Washington December 1, going to El Paso, and other places, and returning to Washington January 26, 1922.

The government then called C. C. Chase of El Paso, Fall's son-in-law, but he did not respond, having accompanied his father-in-law to his hotel when Fall was excused.

Planes in Ford Reliability Hop All Reach Goal

CAMDEN (N. Y.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Bringing more than two-score passengers in addition to the pilots and dropping out of the sky in quick succession, the twenty-nine airplanes in the Ford reliability tour landed late today at Camden Central Airport after a short flight from Roosevelt Field, N. Y. The pilots included three women.

The two Waco planes piloted by John Livingston of Aurora, Ill., and Art Davis of Lansing, Mich., retained their one-two leadership of the tour with perfect scores for the fourth day's two short hops, from Springfield, Mass., to New York City, and thence here.

D. Morgan Hackman, flying a Fairchild open biplane, forged into third place from sixth. Mrs. Keith Miller of New York City, the petite Australian aviatrix, clung to tenth place with two skillful hops.

METHODISTS HIT AT RUM BUYERS

Temperance Board Wants Dry Law Tightened

Requests Congress to Pass Sheppard Bill

Purchaser Held as Guilty as Bootlegger

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—The Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, appealed to Congress tonight to enact into the law the Sheppard bill to brand the man who buys liquor as a criminal.

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., chairman, and Eugene L. Crawford, secretary, signed the petition supporting the bill, introduced by Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, author of the Eighteenth Amendment. The board previously had suggested such a move.

The latest development in this new prohibition issue followed an attack on the proposal in the Senate by another Democrat—Hawes, of Missouri—who said, "It would put another army of millions of men and women in the lawless class."

REASON FOR EXEMPTION

The Cannon statement held that purchasers and sellers of liquor "should be held equally by the law as enemies of its home, the school, the children, and the State."

"The principal reason for exempting the purchaser from punishment in the present Volstead Act," it said, "was the expectation that the testimony of the purchaser would be necessary for the conviction of the seller, but ten years' experience seems to have demonstrated that better results can be secured in curtailing traffic if the purchaser is also branded as a criminal eliminating the open flaunting of the law by persons without sense of shame who are willing to show contempt for the effort to promote social betterment merely to indulge their own personal appetite."

CURREN'S STATEMENT

Earlier, Henry H. Curren, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, had asserted that Congress had deliberately left such a proposition as that made by Sheppard out of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Congress cannot put it into the Volstead Act now without nullifying the amendment on which the Volstead Act is based," he contended.

In the Senate Hawes expressed a similar view. He said that if the scope of the dry amendment is to be extended, "it should be extended by another amendment to the Constitution."

"The submission of a Constitutional amendment at this time," the Missouri Senator added, "might be a good thing; it might provide a referendum desired by many."

PETRELS SIGHTED

There are signs that the birds are about to come back to us. Mike Thorne saw the first one a few days ago when he was out skiing along the edge of the barrier. It was a petrel and although it was flying in the brilliant glare of the sun he thinks it was an Antarctic petrel, one of the first birds to come back to this frozen land when the sun returns. A day or so later Paul Seipel saw two or three petrels out near the edge of the ice and a black object in the water half a mile away which he thought was too big to be a seal and might have been a whale.

Baby seals are being born on the bay ice near the big cracks and openings in the pressure ridges. One only a day old was found yesterday, a scrawny little fellow about a yard long with hair a dirty grayish brown. They are not white like the northern baby seals for there is no animal on the ice here like the polar bear against which protective coloration is necessary. For several days after they are born the baby seals lie on the ice before venturing into the water and when, as today, the sun is hidden by clouds and a chill wind is blowing the ice seems rather cold. But in a few days they are fat and full of life and ready to take their first plunge into the water under their mother's guidance and instruction.

A Test Every Man Past 40 Should Make

Medical authorities agree that 65 per cent of all men past middle age (many much younger) are afflicted with a disorder of the prostate gland. Aches in feet, legs and back, frequent nightly risings, sciatic pains are some of the signs—and now a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science has written a remarkably interesting free book that tells of other symptoms and just what they mean. No longer should a man approaching or past the prime of life be content to regard these pains and conditions as inevitable signs of approaching age. Already more than 50,000 men have used the amazing method described in this book to restore their health and vigor—and to restore the prostate gland to its proper functioning. Arrange immediately for this book. Call in person if possible, otherwise mail your request to the Electro Thermal Company, Dept. B-158, 303 Van Nuys Bldg., Los Angeles—the concern that is distributing this book for the author—it will be sent to you absolutely free, without obligation. Simply send name and address. But don't delay, for the edition of this book is limited—[Advertisement.

INDIAN WRITING PROVES PUZZLE

Meaning of Symbols Rouses Scientist's Curiosity

Some Pictographs Believed Used in Ceremonies

Decorations Found on Many California Farms

By a Times Staff Correspondent

BERKELEY, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) Will science ever be able to interpret the exact meaning of the thousands of cryptic symbols painted or inscribed on rocks by American Indians of past ages?

Dr. Julian H. Steward, formerly of the University of California, now a member of the faculty at the University of Michigan, thinks not.

In a thesis on Indian petroglyphs and pictographs found throughout California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and Lower California, Dr. Steward says:

"We can probably never know precisely why many of the petroglyphs and pictographs were made. But we can guess that many of them were made for some religious or ceremonial purpose."

NOT IDLE CARVINGS

Most of the highly imaginative explanations of these mysterious evidences left by a dead people, he says, are too far-fetched to merit comment. On the other hand, neither does he believe, as some have suggested, that the paintings and inscriptions were just the idle amusement of ancient redskin artists.

The explanation that these rock decorations, found on scores of farms in California, are entirely meaningless, he says, is refuted by the fact that within each locality the design of the symbols has a tendency to be the same on all rocks, showing the artist was consciously following some tribal custom or tradition.

In support of his contention that many of the petroglyphs and pictographs probably have a ceremonial or religious significance, and in spite of the fact that present-day natives occupying districts where such rock decorations are found know nothing about any religious use to which they could be put, Dr. Steward cites several cases of different tribes requiring art work on rocks as part of puberty rites or adolescent ceremonies for their children.

GIRLS' RITES REPRESENTED

Among the Luiseno and Capeno Indians, for example, there is definite knowledge that young girls at the age of puberty were made to sleep in a pit containing heated rocks for three days, and then, after going around with their faces painted for three months, were required to race to some selected rock and paint red, diamond-shaped designs on it with iron oxide mixed into a paint.

Petrography or rock writing is a very old custom among primitive peoples, he points out, and is known throughout the world. In the Americas, the commonest designs are circles, zigzags, sun disks, human representations, zoomorphic and many naturalistic figures, and a large number of curvilinear designs.

SNOWDEN'S RESIDENCE TO GO DRY

Exchequer Chancellor's Wife Defies Critics as She Bans Strong Drink

[Copyright, 1929, by Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 8, (Exclusive)—The official residence of Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, 11 Downing street, is going "dry."

Mrs. Philip Snowden made this momentous declaration tonight speaking before the assembly of the Congregational Union of England and Wales at Norwich. Mrs. Snowden said:

"It has been suggested to me that what is suitable for Mrs. Snowden is not suitable for the wife of the Chancellor of the Exchequer; that while I am entitled to be a bigoted teetotaler if I like in one position—because nobody cares about that—in the other I must set a proper example to the nation. There is to be no alternative whatsoever. I shall not become less of a total abstainer and my new dwelling will no more know strong drink that did my old one."

HAWLEY TO INSPECT ALL STATE DAMS

Berkeley Man Named by Gov. Young to New Post Created by Legislature

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 8. (AP)—The appointment of George W. Hawley of Berkeley as deputy in charge of all dams in California other than Federal structures was announced by Gov. Young today. The appointment carries out provisions of legislation passed by the 1929 Legislature placing supervision of dams under jurisdiction of the Department of Public Works. Hawley will serve under the direction of State engineer Hyatt.

Hawley, a graduate of Stanford University, has had a hand in several important water projects in the State, officials said. These included the San Pablo and Upper San Leandro projects of the East Bay Water Company and construction of the Woodward Dam and reservoir control for the South San Joaquin Irrigation District. He was consulting engineer for the irrigation of about 100,000 acres of land in the Davis-Woodland area; reported on the diversion, storage and treatment works making Sacramento River waters available for domestic and industrial use in the Port Costa area and was engineer in charge of hydroelectric investigation for the Oregon Electric Railway Company.

PANAMA CITY TO HAVE NEW GAMBLING CASINO

PANAMA CITY, Oct. 8. (AP)—T. G. Deque, Secretary of the Treasury, has signed a contract with Ben Gray, Inc., of New York, for construction and operation of a $150,000 tourist hotel and gambling casino in Panama City. The concession was given in accordance with a law enacted by the National Assembly at its last session allowing certain forms of gambling.

COTTON CROP'S OUTLOOK GAINS

Figures for 1st Inst. Set It at 14,915,000 Bales

Crop Expected to be More Than That of Last Year

About 6,000,000 Bales Have Been Ginned Up to Date

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—A cotton crop of 14,915,000 bales this year was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture.

The department said this was indicated by the condition of the crop on the 1st inst., which was 55 per cent of normal. A month ago production of 14,825,000 bales was indicated on the condition of the crop of September 1, which was 55.4 per cent of a normal. Last year's crop totaled 14,478,000 bales and the condition on October 1 was 54.4 per cent of a normal.

INDICATED TOTALS

The condition on October 1 and the indicated production by States follow:

State—	Condition	Indicated production
Virginia	70	48,000
North Carolina	55	835,000
South Carolina	55	880,000
Georgia	58	1,390,000
Florida	67	30,000

Arizona	83	157,000
California	88	232,000
All other States	79	11,000
Lower California	85	75,000

GINNING FIGURES

The Census Bureau announced today 5,905,650 running bales of the growth of 1929, including 169,507 round bales, counted as half-bales, had been ginned prior to the 1st inst.

To October 1 last year 4,961,360 running bales, including 82,240 round bales, had been ginned and in 1927 to the same date 5,944,739 running bales, including 163,687 round bales, had been ginned.

Ginning by States to October 1 were:

State	Bales
Alabama	578,273

CALIFORNIA CROP PUT AT 232,000 BALES

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—California's cotton crop was placed at 232,000 bales by the Federal-State crop-reporting service, the same forecast as was made on the basis of conditions September 1.

If weather conditions continue favorable during the remainder of the harvest period the 1929 production will exceed that of 1928 by approximately 60,000 bales.

The average production per acre in California is estimated at 359 pounds, more than double the national average of 153 pounds.

California now has 309,000 acres devoted to cotton culture.

Lower California is expected to produce 75,000 bales, a decrease of 5000 bales from last year.

Revolver Used in Wife Killing on Farm Found

INDEPENDENCE (Kan.) Oct. 8. (AP)—A revolver admittedly used by Carl Schuetz, Montgomery county dairy farmer, to kill his wife, was found today by Sheriff Lewis a half-mile from the couple's farm where the shooting occurred.

The weapon apparently was lost by Schuetz as he climbed under a barbed-wire fence. Chambers of the gun were empty.

Mrs. Schuetz was found slain two weeks ago Sunday.

Schuetz is held today in default of $30,000 bond for his appearance for preliminary hearing here, the 21st inst.

Witness in Jury Quiz Murdered

EAST CHICAGO (Ind.) Oct. 8. (AP) Deputy Sheriff Samuel Goldberg, a witness before the Federal grand jury inquiry into Lake county corruption, died today of wounds inflicted last night by a negro, James Britt. Federal officers said the shooting was the result of a quarrel.

Britt was arrested and will be charged with first-degree murder, officers said.

White Russians Victims of Raids Over Border

Doomed Group Tied Up and Then Bullet-Riddled

HARBIN, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—White Russian refugees from the district along the Argun River north of Hailar in Heilunkgiang Province are bringing detailed accounts of the activities of soviet cavalry operations in that territory. They state that the Reds surrounded the town of Yakasha at daylight last Tuesday and drove the male citizens to the outskirts, where they mowed them down with machine guns. Only seven badly wounded survived, who were taken to Hailar for hospitalization.

From there the Reds went to the adjoining villages of Tenehay and Chando, where they repeated the process. They then went back to Yakasha on Friday, took away a number of women and drove off all horses, cattle and sheep. No Chinese were reported killed but the number of Russians murdered amounted to about eighty. According to various reports, they all were tied together and mowed down by machine guns.

In all cases the Red leader informed the villagers that they were enemies of soviet Russia. Since the soviet revolution the river district has been populated by Russian emigrants, many of them being former members of the Russian army, and also including several hundred ex-employees of the Chinese Eastern Railway, who refused to return to soviet Russia and settled on the Chinese side of the line.

Bandits Employ Machine Gun as They Rob Eight

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP) — While eight officers of the California Building and Loan Association were in conference late last night five men, one of whom carried a machine gun, entered, made them lie on the floor, and stole $4750. The robbers made Frank Stack, treasurer, open the safe, which contained $4400, and then robbed the officers of $350.

The organization was robbed about a year ago when Stack and a stenographer were held up in the offices by four men who stole $5700 from the safe.

ACTORS DOUBLE OWN VOICES

Many Recent Developments in New Film Industry Stressed at Toronto Gathering

TORONTO, Oct. 8. (AP)—One of the newest developments in sound pictures enables a "speaking" actor to remain silent during the filming and retire to an acoustically perfected room to speak his words. His speech later is copied into the picture so that it seems simultaneous with the action. This is one of dozens of sound-film developments of the past six months described to the Society of Motion Picture Engineers today in the progress committee report.

"There has been further progress in voice doubling," says the report, "so that it can on occasion be done to a very high grade of perfection, but a public reaction has developed against it. The practice is therefore being rapidly discontinued.

NEW FILM MATERIALS

"A somewhat related method is very promising, which involves recording the sound and scene with the same actors, but at different times. This method makes it possible to do the recording in acoustically proper rooms without confusion of lights and camera. The method is to do the sound-recording first and then to do the photography by interlocking cameras with a play-back device. There promises to be an expanding use of this method, particularly in musical numbers."

The report says noninflammable film appears by patent records to be under process of standardization.

New York's nearness to the centers of sound equipment has increased picture studios there, but without affecting Hollywood.

Orange make-up without eye shading is declared most successful for use in all-color motion pictures.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

By January, 1930, more than 9000 theaters are expected to be equipped for sound.

Earphones for deaf patrons are coming in. So also are home or amateur talkies, and "animation" of family albums.

Lubrication of sound film by use of paraffin wax is described in a report by J. I. Crabtree, Otto Sandvik and C. E. Ives of the Eastman Kodak laboratories. It keeps the surface of the film from getting rough and "noisy." Even after 130 runs it is said no excessive noise developed on lubricated film.

Women are delighted

Listerine is a natural astringent, its formula being basically similar to that of scented astringents costing from 2 to 5 times as much.

Women by the thousands have used it and say that it achieves excellent results in the treatment of enlarged pores, oily skin, and flabby face muscles.

Moreover, it's a safe antiseptic, capable of destroying the most powerful disease germs, so that when you use it you know you are protecting yourself against possible skin infections.

Men use it after shaving

Listerine doused on the face full strength after shaving, imparts a wonderful sense of invigoration. Wakes up the skin. Ends rawness and burning, and leaves the face with a wonderful sense of coolness. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

FOES OF TARIFF HAVE OWN WAY

Watson Clings to Hope in Ultimate Victory

Even He Admits Bill in Bad Way at Present

Ashurst Cautioned Against Caustic Remarks

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Some of the regular Republicans in the Senate became so disgusted and disheartened today over the way the Democratic-insurgent coalition is riding rough shod over the tariff that they were ready to throw up the sponge, so to speak, and go home.

Senator Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island, and Senator Frederic H. Sackett of Kentucky, chairman of the Senate Steering Committee, are two who feel that inasmuch as the coalition has demonstrated time and again that they have the votes to rewrite the tariff bill to suit their own ideas, the regular Republicans might as well adjourn the Senate and let the blame for tariff defeat rest where it belongs.

WATSON'S HANDS FULL

There are other Republican regulars holding the same opinion and Senator Watson, the Republican leader, had his hands full today seeking to dissuade a definite move along a line he considers rash at this time. Watson remains an optimist on the tariff. He is still confident that ultimately things will turn the way of the administration forces and a bill acceptable to President Hoover and the country will come out of the present confusion. He is quite evidently pinning his hopes on the well-managed House and in the likelihood the lower branch will refuse to go along with the Senate bill in many changes, notably the elimination of the flexible tariff provision, and that the deadlock created in conference between the two houses finally will bring capitulation on the part of the Senate, just as happened in the case of the farm bill with its debenture clause.

But that the Republic tariff is in a bad way even Watson has to admit at the moment. The coalition forces have been making it over with a free hand since they successfully displayed their superior strength in vital flexible provisions and dealt President Hoover a stinging blow on that issue a week ago.

DEBATE BITTER

They had their way again today when they eliminated a Republican proposal to authorize manufacturers, producers, wholesalers, agricultural, consumers' and labor organizations to intervene in customs cases involving reappraisals. The Democrats and insurgents threw that out by a vote of 44 to 41 and afterward eliminated two other Republican amendments. One would have given the right to manufacturers, producers, wholesalers and representatives of labor organizations to appear in customs courts as parties at interests in cases involving protests made by importers. The other would have extended the further right to these interests to appeal such decisions to the Supreme Court.

One committee amendment to extend to labor unions the right now enjoyed by manufacturers, producers and wholesalers to appear in cases involving appraisals and classifications was adopted, but later an amendment to eliminate the whole section was offered by Senator Harrison, and a vote was deferred until tomorrow. Senator Harrison's motion would deprive all interests of the right to intervention.

Debate on this and other amendments aroused spasms of bitter partisanship from the Democratic side, aimed chiefly at Senator Reed of Pennsylvania. Senator Ashurst of Arizona led the attack and at one stage grew so violent and personal he had to be warned by the chair that he was coming perilously close to violating the Senate rules.

ASHURST CAUTIONED

"The Senator from Pennsylvania," Ashurst declared, "pins his hopes of securing adoption of this amendment upon the fact that Mr. Matthew Woll (vice-president of the American Federation of Labor,) favors it. The amendment is one of the most cynical propositions I have ever seen presented to the Senate. Its selfishness would be sublime if it were not sinister. What is particularly resented by true friends of labor is that Senators who favor the amendment are attempting to make somebody believe they are acting in the interest of labor.

"If the Senator from Pennsylvania should retire from the Senate, or from his law firm, he could become opulent as an actor. He has made some people believe that he is sincere in advocating this amendment. I am glad to say I do not so believe. Does the chairman of the committee believe, does the presiding officer believe that the Senator from Pennsylvania is sincere in it?"

"The president pro tem thinks that the Senator from Arizona is perilously near infringing the rule," interrupted Senator Moses of New Hampshire, presiding.

TONE MODERATED

"Yes," retorted Ashurst, "I have no doubt I am perilously near it, but I am not at it. A man may be fired at but if not hit he is not hurt. That is what I am doing. I am grazing, going perilously near transgressing the rules, but I am not transgressing them. Why, Mr. President, to impute to the Senator from Pennsylvania the ability to portray Lord Mansfield and Edwin Booth, to impute to him the ability to portray the splendid zeal and great ability of Walter Hampden—is that challenging his motives?"

The Arizona Senator then took a more moderate tone and his words which in the olden days would surely have called on a duel were passed over without serious aftermath. But his speech did serve as the signal for unloosing of other bitter shafts some of them from insurgent Republicans whom Reed promptly denounced as "Al Smith Republicans."

When that term left the lips of the Pennsylvania Senator, McMaster of North Dakota, an insurgent, leaped to his feet.

"I suppose," he shouted, "there are independent Republicans, Al Smith Republicans and Grundy Republicans, and I suppose the Senator from Pennsylvania is a faithful representative of the Grundy kind."

The reference was to Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, and a power in tariff framing for many years.

"If the Senator chooses to label my kind of Republicanism by Mr. Grundy's name," Reed replied, "I do not particularly care, for it is a question of the essence of things and not of the epithets that may be tossed from one side of this chamber to the other."

MORE DELAY AHEAD

And in this bitter atmosphere continues the tariff debate.

There is so much downright disgust on the Republican side that there is no longer any apparent effort to hasten discussion of the bill.

The administrative provisions, which the Senate started to discuss as long ago as September 9, are still unfinished. The Senate must still hear Senator Cutting of New Mexico denounce the attempt to prevent the importation of "Liberal" books and magazines and there are half a dozen items which might drag the debate out for days.

And even when the administrative section is finished the Senate cannot proceed at once to the schedules which levy the rates, for Senator Thomas of Oklahoma intends to submit his resolution limiting all tariff changes to agriculture. Although he has been warned that his Democratic colleagues will not rally around him, Thomas thinks it would be advisable to put the Senate on record before they take up the manufacturing schedules. Even though he fails he cannot help adding to the bitterness and the general confusion. And apparently that is a part of the strategy of the coalition, to make the regular Republicans angrier and angrier, and eventually to make the whole tariff question so nauseating to the people of the country that they will applaud any effort to sidetrack it for good.

DOUBLE DOUBLE-CROSS DOUBLES THEIR TROUBLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—The understanding was that Marshall Field & Co. were to be robbed of about $1200. But the two young fellows who conceived the idea got to robbing each other and wound up in jail without any profit whatsoever.

Laurice La Roche, 20 years of age, helper on a Marshall Field truck, was held up at a gun point yesterday and forced to hand over $632 which was being transferred from one store to another. Later La Roche admitted the robbery was a frame-up and he named Harold Pemberton, 18, as his co-plotter and the hold-up man. They were to divide the plunder, La Roche said.

Going deeper into the matter police learned that La Roche, fearing the well-known double-cross, had removed $553 from the package before Pemberton arrived. He said that if Pemberton later had offered him half of the $632 he would have accepted that, too.

Pemberton, told of this, was disgusted. He called La Roche by several inelegant titles, one of which was double-crosser.

"Thought you were pulling a fast one, eh?" he shouted at La Roche. "Well, I was set to get most of the dough myself. I was going to be square and split the $632 with you. Then I was going to have a friend of mine hold you up and take it away again."

MISTRIAL DECLARED IN POULTRY CASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—A mistrial was declared today in the case of the more than eighty poultry dealers accused of violating the Sherman antitrust law by monopolizing the live poultry industry in the metropolitan area, but a new trial was immediately started on agreement by both sides.

The mistrial was declared by Federal Judge Knox when it was found that a juror was a friend and lodge brother of Benjamin Simon, one of the key defendants.

STABILIZATION PLAN CLARIFIED

Possible Losses to be Borne by Revolving Fund

Relief Measures Classed as Normal or Emergency

Chairman Legge of Federal Board Explains Stand

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board informed the Senate Agriculture Committee today that when losses occur from conducting stabilization operations in extraordinary circumstances they will be borne by the $500,000,000 farm-relief revolving fund.

This information was contained in a letter to Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the committee, in which the board sought to make its position clear on the stabilization question because Legge said testimony before the committee last week appeared to have left some confusion.

The board chairman said that stabilization is considered by him to lend itself to normal as well as extraordinary operations, but added the attempt of board members to draw this distinction before the committee may not have been made plain because of the multitude of questions propounded in relation to this phase of farm relief.

TOOTH DECAY is caused by germs. Pyorrhea usually results from germs and tartar. Virtually every common disease of teeth and gums is caused by germ infection. Dentists know how true this is.

Germs are imprisoned in a dingy, gluelike coating on the teeth called film. There they breed by millions in contact with the teeth and tissues.

Germ-laden film covers every tiny crevice of the enamel.

Film clings so stubbornly ordinary ways are not successful in removing it. You must use the special formula called Pepsodent. Then what a change! The instant it touches your teeth you will notice how utterly different it is by the way it feels.

Film vanishes. Teeth become gleaming white. Yet Pepsodent acts gently. No pumice, harmful grit or crude abrasive—but a soft, creamy paste that is prescribed for the softest teeth and tenderest gums.

LOWER CLASSES HATE SOVIETISM

Marion Finds Little Fellow Much Dissatisfied

Clerical Workers Constantly Fear Loss of Jobs

Maid Servants Also Display Reactionary Spirit

BY PAUL MARION

This is the fourth of a series of seven daily articles in which Paul Marion, for eight years an outstanding figure in the French Communist party, and chief of the political agitation and propaganda section, tells of his disillusionment after fifteen months in soviet Russia. What he found in Russia led him to resign from his party. In these articles he describes what he found.

PARIS, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—It should not be forgotten that Russia, with a population of 150,000,000, has a working class, properly so-called, of only 2,500,000.

In the cities, even in Moscow, the greater proportion of the inhabitants do not belong to the working class. Mostly they are clerical workers in offices and shops, employees of the soviet administration, and, to an enormous extent, people in all sorts of humble jobs.

These employees approximate the working class in their standard of living, but they differ from it in their mentality, their habits and their social origins. The government treats them without any regard at all.

They have no right, like the industrial proletariat, to the moral caresses of official flattery; they are not allowed to criticise the technical development of the place in which they may be working, nor may they question their all-powerful masters.

They do not work long hours, mostly from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and they draw modest wages, which are about the same as those paid unskilled laborers.

They try, nevertheless, to imitate the small bourgeois of a bygone era. They are mostly recruited from among the former employees of the Czarist regime, and they are the relatives or descendants of the former small bourgeoisie and even of the late bourgeoisie, properly speaking, and sometimes of the nobility itself.

These people live in constant fear of the staff reductions which now and then throw some of them into unemployment. They adopt all kinds of unimaginable plans to keep their jobs or to find new employment if they get out of work. Influential friends and favoritism, too, play a much more important part in the lives of these people, as indeed they play also in the lives of soviet functionaries, than occurs in Western Europe.

When these small bourgeois can be persuaded to speak frankly (generally they pretend to be utterly indifferent to and ignorant of politics) they curse the Communists and either express a wish that the "Whites" may come back into power or that a democratic republic may be set up.

Should difficulties arise they are not to be relied upon from the soviet point of view, and whenever a political crisis occurs within the Communist party they are secretly tending toward the Right.

Some of them, notably the so-called economists whose business it is to make the necessary plans and draw up statistical data for the trusts, the co-operative associations and the economic services of the state, are definitely Menshevists. They express admiration for the social democratic system of Europe, and they look toward Germany and America for leadership. They will even show you with pride the complete works of Hilferding, Socialist theorist, hidden in their bookcases behind a heap of official literature.

There are those, too, among the technicians, who in their secret hearts are ferociously anti-Communist. They are not asking merely for a return of the past regime; they pray for the establishment of capitalism, and their sufferings are increased by the fact that over and over again they have to pay lip service to the Communists. They feel this very deeply.

The people who feel themselves most out of touch with the Bolshevist regime, however, and in their despair and misery display the most reactionary spirit, are those composing the immense crowd of the small folk of Moscow. Among these are the Dvorniks, who are officially appointed to look after the Czar's apartment-houses; the porters and hotel and shop employees, and the maid servants.

Except in the working class households every Moscow family, however, poor, has a maid. It would be impossible to do without such assistance, owing to the long drawn-out character of household work in Russia and the interminable waiting in queues outside shops.

To this class must be added clerks, cab drivers, match and fruit sellers, beggars without number and derelict children.

At the same time, among a portion of the employees of the soviet, in the great mass of black-coated workers, among most intellectuals and technical experts and among people who in other countries would belong to the lower middle class, deep hatred prevails against Communism.

Administrative pressure, however, blind fear of the political police, resignation which is a Slav characteristic, centuries of despotism and the absence of any kind of organized political opposition keep the people passive.

It must be recorded, though, that the town dwellers' hostility to the soviet regime is as nothing compared with the hatred felt for it by the dwellers in the villages and the countryside.

FAN HEATS AUTO MOTOR WHEN SPEED RUNS HIGH

BERKELEY, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) "It is a fact that a racing automobile probably would burn up if a fan were installed in it, and that a car driven on the open road at thirty-five to forty miles per hour does not need a fan," said Prof. Vincent C. George of the University of California at a meeting of the Northern California section of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

"The numerous types of fans used in automobiles are placed in various positions, the blades are of varied shapes, the number of blades is variable, and so is the fan speed in proportion to the engine speed. The problem, therefore, is to design a fan which will best suit the needs of the individual automobile.

"Automobiles need no fan when they are traveling at fairly high rates of speed, due to the head winds. They need air when they are under a heavy pull and going at a fairly low rate of speed. It is doubtful if, at sixty miles per hour, any power is absorbed by the fan because the head wind is so great it rushes in and probably helps to drive the fan."

British Actors Decide to Form Just One Group

LONDON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Hundreds of British actors and actresses from the highest paid stars to the least important back-row hoofers got together today and passed a resolution in favor of one efficient and powerful actors' organization for England. It would be based on the principles of the American Actors' Equity Association.

John Emerson, former president of Equity, offered his services and Equity's in helping form the British organization.

Suggestions were made to leaders of the Stage Guild and of the Actors' Association, which now are sepaarte and conflicting groups, that they abandon these organizations and start all over again with a British Equity.

OKLAHOMA OIL FLOW CHECKED

Producers Unanimously Vote to Cut Production

Wells to be Held Down to Market Demands

Petroleum Congress Hailed for Action Taken

TULSA (Okla.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Oil men gathered here from other States and foreign countries for the sixth annual International Petroleum Exposition and Congress saw Oklahoma operators take a far-reaching step today toward stabilization of the industry by curtailment of production.

Without a dissenting voice a meeting of representatives of twenty-two oil companies operating in Oklahoma's flush pools gave approval to a plan designed to cut production to estimated market requirements for the remainder of the year. The State Corporation Commission will be asked to make effective immediately the pro rata program sanctioned by the operators.

Market demand for Oklahoma oil until January 1, is estimated at 660,000 barrels daily and to that figure the producers hope to limit the output. Potential daily average production for the rest of the year is estimated in excess of 800,000 barrels.

Prediction that today's harmonious meeting will be remembered as "the beginning of a new era" in the oil industry, was voiced by W. G. Skelly of Tulsa, one of the world's largest independent producers.

E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, who presided over the session in the absence of C. C. Herndon, chairman of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association's committee on curtailment plans, declared the meeting exemplified a new spirit of cooperation that should go far in solution of the economic problems confronting the industry.

Tomorrow will see the annual reunion of the Old-Timers' Club, which has as a requisite for membership a record of fifty years' service in the "game."

Vasconcelos Campaigner Assassinated

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Aurelio Celis, chairman of the Tampico division of the National Antire-electionist party and director at Tampico of the Presidential campaign of José Vasconcelos, the party's nominee and antigovernment candidate, was shot and killed this evening as he was entering his home in Tampico, according to press dispatches. No details of who killed Celis are contained in the dispatches.

Tampico was one of the cities recently visited by Vasconcelos on his campaign tour, where violent clashes occurred between his partisans and those of the opposition's candidate, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, resulting in several persons being killed.

RIGHT TO STRIKE WIFE UPHELD

Court Ruling Permits One Crack on Chin in Three Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—A man is legally entitled to wallop his wife once in three years, provided he hasn't treated her cruelly otherwise, it was decided today by Supreme Court Justice Ingraham after considering the highly tumultuous marital affairs of Morris Kaufman, 50 years of age, the fish baron of Peck's Slip.

Mrs. Yetta Kaufman, 48 testified that on August 2, 1928, Morris struck her on the chin.

Counsel for Kaufman contended that "but one single isolated act of violent conduct in the three years of the Kaufmans' married life" did not constitute grounds of cruelty in a separation action. Justice Ingraham upheld him, throwing the case out of court.

SEARCHER FOR PLANES TURNS UP

'Punch' Dickins, Canadian Ace, Reports No Success in MacAlpine Hunt

WINNIPEG (Man.) Oct. 8. (AP)—A radio message today told of a 1500-mile flight by a Canadian aviator over the barren lands of the Canadian Northwest in an unsuccessful search for eight aerial prospectors, missing for thirty days.

"Punch" Dickins, known as one of the most skilled Arctic flyers, radioed from Fort Smith on Alberta's northern boundary that he had completed a search from Fort Reliance, at the east end of Great Slake Lake, to Bathurst, Inlet, on Canada's far northern coast, flying at times within the Arctic Circle.

No word had been received from Dickins in four days and plans were under way to send a relief plane in search of him. He explained, however, that he had made the flight in the three days planned, but had been storm bound at Reliance for three days.

The flight of the Western Canada Airways pilot eliminated from the search all but a short section of the route which Col. C. D. N. MacAlpine and his seven companions had intended to cover in their two planes. Only a fifty-mile area remains to be scanned, but the possibility exists that the prospectors may have been forced from their course.

BERLIN MAYOR REACHES COAST

Arrives in San Francisco on Tour of Nation

Says Prohibition Spreads Among German Youth

Sklarek Scandal in Home Town Minimized

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—German youth steadily is using less and less alcohol because it has found it cannot excel at athletics on an alcoholic diet, according to Mayor Gustav Boess of Berlin, who arrived here at the head of a party of distinguished German municipal authorities for the purpose of studying local governments in the United States.

HE DOESN'T DRINK

Although he eschewed comment on prohibition in the United States, he declared:

"I have not used alcohol in any form for many years. It is not from any scruples, but because of my doctor's orders.

"But it is a fact that in Germany the young people are drinking less and less. That is because they are going in for sports and athletics on a large scale and they cannot drink and excel in sports, so they cease drinking."

The arrival of the German party was coincidental with receipt of reports from Berlin that the entire city government had become involved in what is known as the Sklarek scandal, in which the city treasury is asserted to have been looted of more than $2,000,000. The Sklarek Brothers are owners of a company furnishing Berlin with clothing, linen and hospital supplies.

CHARGES CALLED FALSE

"The charges are all false," declared Herr Boess. "This is merely a trick to try to discredit the city government while I am absent from my country.

"I have no intention of cutting my tour short. I will go on as originally scheduled.

"The facts about the Sklarek Brothers are well known in Germany. It is really of no importance."

Mayor Boess and his party will remain here for two days, leaving for Los Angeles Thursday at 7:45 a.m. and arriving there at 7:45 p.m. on that day. He is accompanied by Frau Boess, Herr Jens Nydahl, chief city school commissioner of Berlin, and Frau Nydahl; Dr. W. Von Drigalski, city health commissioner; Herr Wilhelm Benecke, city councillor, and Frau Benecke, and Dr. Willy Mueller-Wieland, superior city administration councillor.

Herr Boess has been Mayor of the German capital city since 1921, when he was elected for a term of twelve years.

COSTE RELATES FLIGHT PERILS

French Record Setters Fight Snowstorm Hours

Buckle on Chutes Ready to Thwart Disaster

Pair Down in Manchuria Fly for Fifty-one Hours

TSITSIHAR (Manchuria) Oct. 8. (AP)—With a new world's record for long-distance, nonstop flights safely made across two continents, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte explained today that only terrific gales and snowstorms in the region of Lake Baikal, Siberia, had prevented their reaching Tokio from Paris.

The French airmen declared that the snowstorms nearly made their flight end in disaster. They lost their way in the blinding snowfall, which also interfered with the proper functioning of their motor.

"During the worst of the storm, I thought sure we were doomed," Coste said.

"We brought out our parachutes for the first time, adjusting the harness to our shoulders. The snow made visibility almost impossible, and the wind was the worst I ever experienced.

"Bellonte had the greatest difficulty in keeping the motor running.

SUSPECTED BY CHINESE

"The wind and snow continued violent for hours, so that we had to use much gasoline in climbing to higher altitudes and endeavoring to dodge the storm.

"I believe that if it hadn't been for the bad weather at Lake Baikal we should have reached Tokio."

The aviators, after being forced to land at Mulart, a village sixty miles north of here, walked that distance in three days. They had to make many detours because of flood conditions along the River Nonni.

They had some difficulty persuading the Mulart villagers that they were not Russian airmen forced down on a scouting flight, but finally were escorted before Chinese officials who spoke English. Bellonte tried to explain that they were French, and eventually they were permitted to go on to Tsitsihar.

The landing and subsequent misadventures caused more excitement in this corner of Manchuria than a Russian bombing expedition would have.

FLY FIFTY-ONE HOURS

With difficulty the airmen persuaded Gen. Wan Fu-Lin, governor of the district, that they were not Russians. Coste finally was permitted to send telegrams. These difficulties explain why the world was without news of his flight for so many days.

The French Consul Reynaud from Harbin, who went to their rescue has examined Coste's records and found them in order. He is convinced that Coste's new world record will stand, but it must be homologated officially.

It had been estimated unofficially that Coste made a flight of 6158 miles from Le Bourget to Mulart. Coste's own records show that his flying time, allowing for differences in Chinese time and French time, was fifty-one hours.

The aviators, who left Le Bourget Friday morning in their red Breguet "?," landed at Mulart late Sunday afternoon, Chinese time, as darkness was falling and their gasoline was draining away to the last drop.

MOFFETT CAUTIONS AMERICA

Admiral in Radio Address Says Nation Has Fallen Behind in Achievement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, tonight called upon the country to boast less and do more toward attaining leadership.

In an address broadcast over the network of the National Broadcasting Company, the admiral said, "We spend more on perfume and cigarettes than we do for national defense, including aviation.

"We are trailing in many things where we should, as a nation and people, lead," he continued. "The worst of it is that we are getting used to it.

"During the Graf Zeppelin's triumph I heard little protest from the press or elsewhere deploring the back seat we had taken and are content to slumber in. The glory of the round-the-world flight could have been ours.

"All honor to the recently defeated Germans who lead the world today in lighter-than-air craft, who have the greatest merchant ship afloat, the greatest man-of-war for her displacement and the greatest flying boat. They may have been defeated materially, but their spirit is unbroken. It is possible that victorious and rich America has become soft and decadent in some ways—is boasting instead of doing."

GARY POLICE ARRESTED IN LIQUOR QUIZ

Eight Members of Force Held on Federal Charges as Rum Conspirators

GARY (Ind.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Eight members of the Gary police and detective forces including two captains and two lieutenants, were arrested by United States marshals early tonight, on warrants charging conspiracy to violate the liquor laws. The men were indicted by the Federal grand jury at South Bend which recently concluded an investigation into law enforcement conditions in Northern Indiana.

Those under arrest are James R. Bodicka, captain of detectives; John R. Smith, captain of police; Frank R. Galloway, lieutenant of detectives; Matt Leach, lieutenant of police; John Papp, Frank Cook and Oscar Salzman, detective sergeants, and Henry Probl, detective.

NEW TYPE AUTOGIRO TAKES AIR

First American-Built Ship Has Improvements Over Previous Models

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8. (AP)—The first American-built autogiro, manufactured by the Pitcairn Aircraft, Inc., plant near here, has been put through its initial test flight and pronounced satisfactory, it was announced today.

In virtual secrecy the "windmill" plane, in which are incorporated new features, was wheeled from the factory in the presence of construction engineers and mechanics and Senor Juan De La Cierva, Spanish inventor of the plane, took the ship up on its first short flight.

The autogiro is sustained in flight by a revolving horizontal rotor or set of four vanes. The American-made autogiro has a new-shape landing gear which lets the plane down with utmost ease, the manufacturers assert. Another new feature is that the motor is tilted down at a 6½-deg. angle to the line of the fuselage. This was done to make easier the starting of the motor blades.

SCHOOLS DAMAGED BY QUAKE

Roads Made Dangerous by Saturday's Heavy Shocks on Island of Hawaii

HILO (Hawaii) Oct. 8. (AP)—As results of the earthquake which shook the Island of Hawaii severely for twenty-three seconds Saturday night, two schoolhouses have been closed because of damage to them and the County Supervisors have warned travelers that the roads between Waimea and Puu Waawaa are dangerous because of cave-ins and slides. Gangs of men were making temporary repairs today, permanent repairs awaiting cessation of the hundreds of shocks felt since September 19 in the vicinity of dormant volcanoes.

The town of Puu Waawaa was hit hardest. The family of a ranch owner named Hind were forced to live in tents, their house having been made uninhabitable. The total damage in the Kona district on the west side of Hawaii Island was estimated at $60,000.

Sinclair Well in New Oklahoma Field Burning

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 8. (AP)—Visible for more than forty miles, flames leaped high in the air tonight as the Sinclair Oil and Gas Company's No. 3 Stamper well, ignited early today following an explosion at the well, continued to burn.

Mack and F. T. Kemley, oil-well fire fighters from Tulsa, arrived in Oklahoma City tonight and immediately began plans to extinguish the first disastrous fire in the new Oklahoma City oil field.

Resulting from an explosion of the separator at the well, the flames burst out shortly before 3 a.m. and continued throughout the day, a giant flaming torch.

The well was bailed in less than an hour before the fire, and was estimated at 150 barrels of oil an hour.

Maniac's Shot Kills Doctor

SPOKANE, Oct. 8. (AP)—Dr. Mitchell Langworthy, well-known orthopedic physician, died at 4 p.m. today as a result of wounds inflicted by John Salmi, laborer, who also wounded Miss Gale Rogers, nurse, and then shot himself mortally through the head.

Police today said they had concluded Salmi was demented, suffering from the delusion that he was not being treated fairly by doctors and was not receiving just compensation from the State for injuries he sustained while working on the Cascade Tunnel in 1927.

Dr. Langworthy had examined the man for the State Insurance Commission.

First Russian Talkie Exhibited

LENINGRAD (U.S.S.R.) Oct. 8. (AP)—The first talking motion-picture theater in soviet Russia was opened here today. All apparatus and equipment are of soviet manufacture and the production is said to be on a par with similar American and European films.

Engineer Shorin, who invented the mechanism, said the soviet government intends to produce within the next two or three years talking movies to the value of 100,000,000 rubles (about $50,000,000.)

Survey Planned of Bay Floor

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—The most important thing to be done before San Francisco can expect a transbay bridge to Oakland is to learn what conditions are on the floor of the bay to support such a bridge.

With this succinct conclusion, the San Francisco Bay Bridge Commission, appointed jointly by President Hoover and Gov. Young, announced at its local session today that engineering studies on the bay floor will be undertaken immediately. Extensive borings will be made and soundings taken all over the bay.

PLEA MADE FOR GIANT CONCERNS

Chamber Man Asks Public to Suspend Judgment

Wants Large Mergers Given Chance to Prove Selves

Dawn of New Philosophy in Business Sighted

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, tonight voiced a plea for suspended public judgment on giant aggregations of capital until the recently formed large holding companies and investment trusts can prove their value to American economic life.

Speaking before the New York City Life Underwriters' Association, Mr. Barnes asserted that the new financial agencies should be judged not by size alone, but by the methods and ideals under which they operate.

"All these movements must prove themselves by the age-old method of trial and error," Mr. Barnes said. "If their business judgment of their methods are wrong, they will, under test, be amended or abandoned.

"If single ownership comes to mean unreasonable price agreement, or a suppression of the freedom of open markets, or restriction and refusal of sound commercial credits, or if they prove to suppress invention and enterprise, then they must fall of their own weight, or under a storm of public condemnation.

"But if these vast combinations provide skilled management from a wider knowledge than is possible to a single industry, if they . . . will effect real economies and eliminate real waste in business practices, they may be made to prove that America has again led the world in a new philosophy of the conduct of industry."

Mexico's Curb Bill Approved

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8. (AP)—The Senate today gave tentative approval to a bill which strictly will regulate the practice of professions in Mexico by others than native born. Foreigners under the bill would be required to register, pass an examination at the National University or some school supervised by the Department of Public Instruction, be able to speak and write Spanish and become naturalized citizens.

Few over 40 know these important facts

Doctors urge this important safeguard against an increasing menace to health that gives no warning.

THE Medical profession has come to this conclusion about the age of 40 being the turning point in health:

Over half the people past 40 are afflicted with kidney ailment in varying degree. Caused, it says, by overwork of these vital organs. 75% of poisonous waste from the body is excreted by the kidneys, much of it in too concentrated form. Break down of tissue is inevitable. Kidneys become clogged, throwing back into the system poisons which should be eliminated.

Kidney ailments thus become the underlying factor of some of our most serious ills.

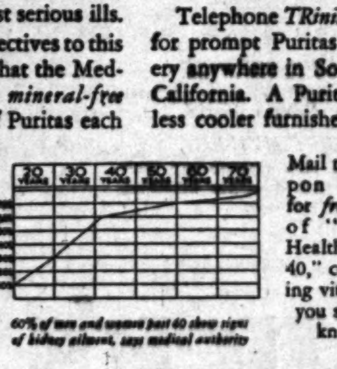
One of the most potent correctives to this increasingly prevalent ailment that the Medical Profession knows is pure mineral-free water. Drink six full glasses of Puritas each day, with and between meals.

First, it dilutes the poisonous waste, absorbs and washes it away, thus lightening the load of kidneys.

Then, because Puritas water is mineral-free it leaves no deposit of minerals in kidneys, thus preventing additional burden.

Puritas is freed of all minerals and impurities by scientific distillation and aeration. It is by chemical analysis, water in its purest state. Doctors urge Puritas as health-protection to both adults and children. Though its taste you'll find different at first, each drink becomes increasingly enjoyable.

Telephone TRinity 1861 for prompt Puritas delivery anywhere in Southern California. A Puritas iceless cooler furnished free.



60% of men and women past 40 show signs of kidney ailment, says medical authority

Banker Was Winter Resident of California

Senator's Son Director in Many Companies

He Organized Power Plant While in Denver

DOVER (N. H.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Edward Warren Rollins, Boston banker, and for many years a winter resident of California, died at his summer home here today. He was 79 years of age.

Mr. Rollins was born in Concord, N. H., and was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1871. In 1872 he became a civil engineer for the Colorado Central Railroad, eventually becoming cashier and treasurer of the construction company engaged in building the road.

STARTS LIGHT PLANT

In 1876 he founded an investment security company in Denver, the outgrowth of which was the banking firm of E. H. Rollins and Sons, of which he was for many years head.

During his residence in Denver, Mr. Rollins organized the electric lighting plant of that city, which was the third central-station plant to be built in the United States.

SON OF SENATOR

He was a director of the British Columbia Packers', Ltd., the Cities Service Company and the Southern California Edison Company. He was a member of many clubs. A singular honor was paid to Mr. Rollins last February, when he received the degree of Doctor of Laws from Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla.

Mr. Rollins was the son of the late Senator E. H. Rollins of New Hampshire, and his brother, Frank West Rollins, who died in 1915, had served as Governor of New Hampshire. He leaves two sons and eight grandchildren.

TWO CITIES ASK FOR PEACE BANK

London and Brussels Both Make Requests

Switzerland or Holland More Likely to Get It

Tax Question to Influence Location Decision

BADEN BADEN (Germany) Oct. 8. (AP)—Two of the seven countries participating in the conference on the Bank for International Settlements have thrown their hats into the ring for bringing the bank to their respective capitals, Great Britain and Belgium.

Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced at the recent Hague conference that the British government sought to have the bank at London and the British delegation here is understood to have supported this view in private conversations.

Efforts to bring the bank to Brussels also are being made, but in view of objections against placing the bank in any creditor country the chances for either Brussels or London seem somewhat doubtful, Switzerland and Holland, as neutral countries, appear more likely candidates.

Yesterday's arrival of Ivan Ruuth, director of the Swedish State Bank, started rumors that he was bidding for Stockholm but he has denied this.

So far as can be determined the smaller European countries consider the bank a good thing to fight for as they regard it as a sort of peace insurance and a guarantee for the stability of their currency. At the same time they will want certain guarantees that the bank will not dominate the economic affairs of their country. The question of taxation exemption will also strongly influence the decision regarding the bank's domicile.

Good tobaccos . . . made good by Nature, not by "artificial treatment." That's the secret of OLD GOLD'S goodness

A skilled chef may be able to make a doubtful steak taste good by artificial flavoring and sauces. But it's still dangerous to your stomach.

So it is with cigarette tobaccos. "Heat-treating" is useful to "set" and "sterilize" the tobaccos . . . and all cigarette makers have used it for years. But "heat-treating" cannot take the place of good tobacco in making a honey-smooth cigarette. OLD GOLD tobaccos are just naturally good.

HUNDRED-YEAR FLYER PASSES

New England's Centenarian Enthusiast Dies

Celebrated 101st Natal Day With Long Flight

First Husband, Forty-niner, Died in California

CHICOPEE (Mass.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Mrs. Almatia Bennett, who achieved local fame by taking up aviation on her ninety-fifth birthday, died early today, exactly one month after her one hundred and third birthday, which was observed with a short flight over a local airfield.

"Grandma" Bennett, as she was affectionately known, passed away in her sleep, her life gradually flickering out from the infirmities of age.

She first came into prominence on her ninety-fifth birthday when she flew over Portland, Me., in an open plane piloted by Capt. Harry Jones of Old Orchard. At that time "Grandma" Bennett made a date with Capt. Jones to fly with him again on her one hundredth birthday. She kept it, motoring to Portland for the purpose. On her one hundred and first birthday she motored to Boston, whence she flew to Old Orchard and Portland. Since that time she had flown three times over the Connecticut Valley from local flying fields. On the last occasion, a month ago, she was piloted by Miss Maud Irving Tait of this city.

Mrs. Bennett was born on a farm at Freedom, Me. She married Calvin Farr, who went west as a gold-seeker and died soon after reaching California. After the Civil War she married Joseph Bennett.

Her chief occupation in the last ten years has been the making of quilts, caring for her own household wants and listening to the radio.

MEXICAN LABOR CODE HIT AGAIN

Mining Industry Voices Its Objections to Plan

Suspension of Work Held to Be Certain Result

Some Provisions Declared to Prohibit New Work

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—The Mexican mining industry has added its formal objections to that of the oil industry and other important enterprises in Mexico to the new proposed labor law now before Congress. In presenting their case to the Chamber of Deputies the mining men of the country laid their argument before the legislators in a statement drawn up by the National Chamber of Mines and indorsed by the largest American and British mining interests in the country.

The new law, if made effective, according to this statement, will mean an increase in production cost of 34½ per cent, and this so far as only five articles of the law are concerned. Other articles would mean increases that "cannot as yet be estimated," the statement asserts.

HOME PLAN HIT

One provision opposed strenuously by all employers is that industry must construct suitable homes for its workers. In this connection, the statement says, "in the mining industry it is essential to operate on a basis of absolute economy in order to permit work in new districts, and if a good part of capital is to be invested in houses this expense will increase so much the production cost as to make new undertaking impossible and result in the immediate abandonment of zones now being exploited."

OTHER OBJECTIONS

The mandatory clause in the law for preferential employment to be given union men likewise is one of the chief objections raised by the mining men as are the provisions of the law regulating the discharge of workers.

The statement contains the assertion that "most of the mining companies in the republic cannot meet the increased cost of production" created by the law and the statement adds:

"The result would be suspension of work in all fields where the increases cannot be borne."

OVERCROWDING BRINGS MUTINY

Stormy Scenes at Colorado's Penitentiary Retold

Bastile Dating Back to 1869 Long Stood Vacant

Latest Break Spells Death for Twelve in Riot

CANON CITY (Colo.) Oct. 8. (AP)—When vigilantes went out of style and the latch strings on the outside of the cabins were replaced by locks, the Territory of Colorado built its first penitentiary.

The first building of the dozen now comprising the State prison here was constructed in 1869, seven years before Colorado was admitted to the Union to become the Centennial State. This old structure, built of stone that withstood the beatings of centuries in its natural state, now is the administration building and just as solid and substantial as the day it was finished, even though one of the worst prison mutinies in the history of the nation took place around it last week. Twelve men were killed.

FIRST CONVICT

Law and order, then the subject of talk here and there in the Territory, had not made its full effect felt and organized parties of men administered their own justice via the rope route. But society gained the upper hand and June 13, 1871, the first convict was sentenced to the penitentiary, then two years old and without an inmate. He was John Schepler, No. 1, given a year on grand larceny charges.

Selection of Canon City for the penitentiary was natural. The town, though nestled in a valley from which towering mountains seem to grow, offered no particular advantage except that it was close to immense rock quarries. Transportation of rock, a mighty matter in the early days of the State, was not a power derrick and flat car process, so the necessity for economy of construction decreed the location.

PICTURESQUE TOWN

Canon City lies in the heart of a picturesque fruit-growing valley in the center of the State. Only to the west does the barren and brush-covered ground remain and this is gradually being set to fruit. The town is little more than a quarter of a mile from the entrance to the Grand Canyon of the Arkansas River, a canyon deeper for its width and descent than any other in the Western Hemisphere. The Arkansas River, billowy white, roars and tumbles its foamy way down the Royal Gorge.

Tracks of a railroad known by all travelers of the route for its suspended bridge across the raging torrent, appear toy-like from a special platform atop the canyon wall, easily reached by automobile. To the west and south, the mighty Sangre de Cristo range rises to a height of 14,000 feet, snow-capped peaks rearing into the sky. Northwest Black Mountain is white tipped at an altitude of more than 11,000 feet. East, a small range completes the circle of mountains. The town is virtually built around the prison.

As time passed and the population of the State increased, first with the lure of gold and other precious metals, then stock raising, then agriculture and manufacturing, ways of the people changed. Avarice and greed increased and larger and stronger enforcement bodies brought more of the violators to justice. Prison quarters soon were cramped and insufficient. Additions were made, but not enough.

CONGESTION INCREASES

Farms, mostly fruit, were added and convicts sent out to work on them. A canning factory in receivership was obtained by the State and the convicts were given employment there to help pass the time. An automobile license factory was installed. Convicts were put out to construct highways. The convict farms had quarters for the prisoners. But even all this was not enough.

Restrictions had to be made when convicts fled from road gangs and farms. The last five years at the prison have been marked by bloodshed, rioting and scandal. Four wardens have been installed, a fifth being unable to press his claim successfully after being appointed by a Governor. Assertions of "politics" were made. Warden Tom Tynan, bitterly attacked, left.

ESCAPE ATTEMPTS

Antonio Neroni, a prisoner, was beaten to death in 1924. Within a few days two convicts vainly attempted to escape, stabbing Deputy Warden G. W. Buchanan. Early in 1925 the housing and work problem thrust prominently to the fore. About that time a small number of convicts made a dash for freedom and injured a guard, George Bickman. Robert Baldwin, slayer, escaped a short time after these events. Two guards were suspended following the escape of a life termer, George Marquette.

The summer of 1926 Jimmy Pardue killed a fellow-convict but was exonerated on a self-defense plea. The Governor was asked by the warden to pardon eighty men to relieve the housing situation. Six men escaped from one road camp.

Then came, last week, the mutiny which cost twelve lives and great damage to the penitentiary. Pardue, the killer, was one of the ringleaders in the revolt and one of those killed.

Water Boy King of Afghanistan Seems All Wet

MOSCOW, Oct. 8. (AP)—Habibullah Khan, Afghanistan's water boy king, is proving to his own satisfaction once more the old adage "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

Reports here from Tarmez say he is hard pressed to hold the throne he won as Bacha Sakao, from Amanullah Khan. Tribesmen led by Nadir Khan are said to be nearing Kabul, his capital, in a successful advance from the Lohar Valley.

Habibullah mobilized all the forces at his command including police to defend the city while his adherents hastily evacuated their families and property into Kuhistan. Latest advices say Nadir has captured Fort Balahissar and that fighting is going on in the southeastern ouskirts of Kabul.

If you should lift the body of every car in Buick's field—and compare the chassis—
then you too would choose
The New BUICK

If you were to lift the body from the chassis of any one of a hundred cars—and compare the vitally important details of chassis design and construction—you would find Buick so outstandingly superior in all phases of fine car engineering that you would almost inevitably make Buick your choice. Here is what you would see in this famous chassis:

Buick's great new Valve-in-Head engine—developing 99 horsepower in the 124- and 132-inch models, and 80½ horsepower in the 118-inch models. The most powerful automobile engine of its size in the world. Representing 26 years of constant, aggressive improvement. Triple-sealed against wear, and incorporating such signal refinements as counterweighted crankshaft with torsion balancer, carburetor heat control and positive-pressure gas pump. Unapproached in sturdiness, all-round performance-ability, reliability and economy as well.

Buick's new Controlled Servo Enclosed Mechanical Brakes—revealing clearcut leadership over any other brakes of the day. Of the widely-favored internal-expanding type. Providing smooth, positive, silent braking, with minimum pedal pressure. Assuring absolute control of the car over all roads. And—because fully protected against dust, dirt and water—operating at maximum efficiency in any weather.

Buick's new frictionless steering gear and new Road Shock Eliminator—twin advancements introduced by Buick. Providing marvelous new handling ease. The Buick wheel offering effortless control throughout its entire turning range—and the new Road Shock Eliminator assuring complete freedom from annoying jolts and jars, even over the roughest roads.

Buick's unprecedented provision for riding comfort—new, longer rear springs, and new Lovejoy Duodraulic Shock Absorbers, front and rear. Working in perfect harmony—combining to check both bound and rebound—and providing a degree of riding ease without parallel anywhere.

And, finally, such established Buick superiorities as the famous double-drop frame of finest, toughest steel . . . the massive side and cross members reinforced at points of stress to insure the greatest roadability and long life . . . the celebrated torque tube drive, Buick multiple-disc clutch, self-lubricating differential, and numerous other features.

When the list of Buick's chassis features—entirely aside from the irresistible appeal of Buick's new Fisher Bodies—reads like a roll-call of all that is soundest and best in fine car engineering . . . and when, in addition, you can buy a Buick for as little as $1225, f. o. b. factory . . . what wonder that all comparisons lead to Buick! What wonder that more than 2,000,000 people have invested their money in Buicks—and that from two to five times as many are purchasing this new Buick as any other automobile priced above $1200!

MACHINERY TO UNIONIZE CITY

San Franciscans Set Up a Labor Council Here

Hearst Induced to Start a Los Angeles Paper

Class Newspapers, Politics Other Tools Employed

pletely. But McCarthy was not a politician for nothing. He made the objectors his lieutenants, gave them titles and salaries and within a year the organization was in more or less successful operation under the nominal direction of Alex Morrison.

Such was the origin of the present Central Labor Council, which, thereafter was in at least theoretical charge of the campaigns previously directed from San Francisco. It was the most important part of the offensive machinery created for the purpose of unionizing Los Angeles.

It was not enough, however. The closed-shop forces had long felt the need of a newspaper of general circulation which would be as sympathetic to their views as The Times was hostile to them. They felt, with considerable justification, that The Times was the chief visible obstacle in the way of their control of the city. As long as The Times could not be unionized, boycotted out of business or silenced by threats, the best thing, they considered, would be to try to neutralize it in kind.

UNIONS AND "EXAMINER"

Just what understanding was arrived at between the Federation of Labor's agents and William Randolph Hearst, whereby the latter was to start a newspaper here in opposition to The Times has never been made public. The story current at the time was that a very large subsidy in the form of subscriptions and other valuable considerations was offered Hearst to induce him to start one of his chain papers here.

In any case and by what may have been a coincidence, the Los Angeles Examiner was launched in 1903, the same year the new and local machinery for unionizing the city was created by a labor boss from Hearst's home city of San Francisco, seat of his oldest daily.

For a time, at least, the new newspaper enjoyed all the patronage the unions could influence in its favor. On December 12, 1903, organized labor massed practically its whole active strength in a street celebration in the Examiner's honor. The parade took twenty-six minutes to pass a given point, the marchers numbering 2843. There was a prodigal display of fireworks in front of the Examiner office and a general jollification. Arthur Hay, the representative of the American Federation of Labor who was then directing the perennial campaign of that organization against The Times, spent much time and effort boosting for the new paper among local merchants.

However, Hearst appears to have been a disappointment to his sponsors. Whether they expected too much or whether a sensitive publisher's ear detected a warning note in the reception of unionist propaganda by a strongly open-shop community, the fact remains that the Examiner's early and warm support of the laborite program was soon greatly modified. Within a year the Hearst Los Angeles venture was in distinct disfavor with many of its erstwhile enthusiasts in the Central Labor Council.

The real breach between the McCarthy cohorts and Hearst, however, came in 1906 when the unions were running Stanley Wilson for Mayor and were confidently expecting the Examiner to support him.

Los Angeles took its politics very seriously in those days and the Examiner management realized that to espouse the cause of Wilson would be unpopular in the community to a degree likely to be reflected in revenues, always a sensitive spot in the Hearst organization. The Examiner was still in the red at that time, anyway. Hearst himself had sunk large sums into his campaign for the Governorship of New York that year. His local manager wired him the Los Angeles situation and asked for instructions. Hearst wired back: "I guess we've had enough politics for one year."

The Examiner did not support Wilson and the unions turned on it with bitter recriminations and resolutions.

LABOR NEWSPAPERS

The unions, of course, have had their own publications as media for news and closed-shop propaganda almost from the time the first unions were organized in Los Angeles. The earliest was the Labor World, published in the '80's by Capt. Richard Colver of the Typographical Union. In 1901 L. W. Rogers, a former associate of Eugene V. Debs in the American Railway Union, established the Labor Union News. In 1907 a feeling that the union mouthpiece should be owned by the unions themselves rather than by an individual led to the formation of the Union Labor News Company. Former Councilman Fred C. Wheeler was one of its promoters. It bought the News, changed its name to the Citizen and installed John Murray as editor. Murray's health failed and he was soon succeeded by Stanley B. Wilson.

In 1915 the Labor Temple Association, which operated the Labor Temple, tried to buy the Citizen with the idea of making it still more representative of all local unions. The offer was rejected and the association started a rival labor paper called the Labor Press, with Francis Drake as editor. After three months of competition the Citizen was sold to the Labor Temple Association, which then merged the two papers, retaining the name of the Citizen. Drake replaced Wilson as editor. In 1917 the Citizen passed into the hands of the Central Labor Council. In 1924, when the national union of carpenters seceded from the American Federation of Labor's building trades council, the local carpenters' union left the Central Labor Council and revived the old Labor Press, with Drake as editor. When the American Federation of Labor national convention was held here in 1927 the breach with the carpenters was healed and the Labor Press again went out of existence. James K. Byrne succeeded Drake as editor of the Citizen when Drake went with the carpenters and was in turn succeeded by Harvey E. Garman, who has edited the Citizen since 1924. Like all the other local labor papers, the Citizen is a weekly. Besides it, several local unions have their own organs, such as the Encore, mouthpiece of the musicians' union.

IN POLITICS

Politics is a third channel through which organized labor has sought to further and supplement its more direct methods looking toward Los Angeles control. While it had as candidate for Mayor in 1902 a man named McGahan, its organized political activities began in earnest under McCarthy in 1903 and have continued, though without outstanding success, ever since. McCarthy aspired to a place here similar to that occupied by Abe Ruef in San Francisco. In fact, political observers of the day describe a coalition of McCarthy and Ruef forces whereby it was proposed to elect union Mayors of both Los Angeles and San Francisco and a Governor of the State—a post for which McCarthy himself was said to be a candidate. This ambitious program was declared to have been the real inspiration of McCarthy's coming to Los Angeles in the first place, as it was of his subsequent activities.

McCarthy and his forces sponsored the candidacy of Stanley Wilson for Mayor in 1906, ostensibly on a municipal ownership platform. His overwhelming defeat by open-shop votes was a serious setback for McCarthy and for Drake, the labor editor previously mentioned and one of McCarthy's strongest allies. Drake shook the dust of Los Angeles from his feet in disgust. On his arrival in San Francisco he was quoted as saying:

"You can't unionize Southern California. You might just as well pour water on a duck's back. I don't believe now Los Angeles will ever be a union town. There is no chance for the unions there. The people are against them. We helped The Times instead of hurting it. Let the damned old town be scab if it wants to. I'm going to Oakland to live and try to get a stand in with the Republican push." But, as has been seen, Drake was back in Los Angeles a few years later.

One of the major political efforts of unionism here came in 1910 when a plan was formed to organize and launch a "union labor party" in conjunction with the Socialists and, by their combined votes, to secure a majority of the county offices in the fall elections of that year. At a preliminary convention a minimum of 8000 union votes was promised and speakers representing both declared that organized labor and Socialism were natural political allies, being branches of the same movement.

The same year saw one of the oddest political moves in the history of unionism. The latter had precipitated a strike of the union brewers, a long-drawn-out affair in which the union was being badly beaten. Another attempted boycott, like that of 1897, of the "unfair" beer was considerably vitiated when it was discovered that union pickets were drinking the "scab" product in preference to that bearing the union label.

As a last resort, it was announced that the unions would sponsor a local prohibition measure to make Los Angeles a "dry" town in order to prevent the manufacture and consumption of any more of the hateful "unfair" brew.

Even unionism was astonished. There was a good deal of talk about cutting off one's nose to spite his face. However, in spite of vigorous internal opposition, petitions were actually prepared and the movement, theretofore regarded as merely an amusing gesture, took on an aspect of genuineness.

However, none of unionism's political plans of that year or for many years to come was destined to bear any fruit. The tragedy of October 1, 1910, buried them under an avalanche of popular indignation.

Tomorrow's article will deal with Los Angeles' machinery of defense developed over a period of years against the recurrent attacks of the closed-shop forces.

He Often Went The Whole Day Without Eating

"There is an old saying that what your eyes see your heart is bound to believe, and that's exactly the reason I started Sargon. When I saw with my own eyes how this medicine took my sick wife, and almost made a new woman out of her, that was enough for me, and I started it. I have gained fifteen pounds and never felt better in my life.

"I had indigestion so bad that many a time I would go a whole day without eating a bite. When I did eat anything it disagreed with me and I suffered with my stomach just about all the time. It must have been some sort of rheumatic trouble that made my ankles swell like they did, but sometimes I could hardly get to town and back. I was so nervous that I couldn't half sleep, and was as bilious as I could be, and felt weak and fagged out nearly all the time.

"I started Sargon and it seemed like it acted on my whole system at one time. I didn't feel better in one way but in every way. It's a pleasure now to sit down to the table. My food tastes good, digest fine and I don't know what stomach trouble is now! I am not nervous like I was, sleep fine and am as strong and full of energy as I was twenty years ago.

"My wife and I went to the Iowa Day picnic at Long Beach the other day, and had a big time. A few weeks ago, when my wife started Sargon, she had to use crutches on account of rheumatism. I wish you could have seen her at the picnic, walking around as good as anybody and having just as much fun!

"I don't believe there is another laxative like Sargon Pills. They ended my biliousness without the least nausea of any kind, and my wife thinks as much of them as I do. We are mailing Sargon booklets to our friends in Des Moines, and telling them if they can't get this medicine there, to let us know, and we will send it to them and I guess that's enough to tell anybody what we think about the treatment."

The above statement was recently made by C. M. Clark, 3904 Sunsweep, Hollywood.

RAIL MEN URGE UNIONS' MERGER

Brotherhood Chief Declares for A.F.L. Association

Chorus of Objectors Swells Against Proposal

Organization Asked to Fight Day's Economic Trend

TORONTO, Oct. 8. (AP)—An approach toward uniting the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the largest single union in the railroad field, with the American Federation of Labor, was made today in open session of the federation convention.

Albert Whitney, chief of the brotherhood, told delegates who rose and cheered him that he saw no reason for the brotherhood to remain separated from the remainder of the union labor movement and that he intended to ask the lodges of the order to vote on a proposal to affiliate.

OBJECTIONS AIRED

Immediately some of the long-standing differences which have kept the trainmen's brotherhood, like the Brotherhoods of Engineers and Conductors, outside of federation ranks, were aired.

Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Teamsters' Union, warned the convention that proposals to affiliate the brotherhoods with the federation had been raised before but always failed because craft organizations now associated with the federation could not allow the full extent of brotherhood claims to exercise jurisdiction over trades.

T. N. Taylor, delegate from the Indiana State Federation, sought to take the floor away from Tobin on a point of order, asserting that his remarks "were not helping the American Federation of Labor," but William Green, president of the federation, ruled that Tobin might proceed. The incident was dropped for the moment but is expected to arise in later convention assemblies.

STEM ECONOMIC TIDE

Spencer J. Miller, secretary of the Workers' Education Bureau, in the course of an address on that body's work, called for attention of organized labor to modern economic tendencies, asserting that merger of productive units was proceeding so fast that twenty-five American banks might be expected to control the country's industry within a few years. He mentioned also an old dispute before the federation relating to the policy of Brookwood Labor College in New York, declaring efforts to reconcile that institution with federation policy had been unsuccessful during the year.

Convention sessions were adjourned until Thursday to allow delegates to visit Niagara Falls and be guests at a dinner of the Premier and Cabinet of the Ontario provincial government.

ONE HUNDREDTH BOMBING NOTED

Chicago Police Mark Event by Holding Unionist

No Charges Brought Against Him, Despite Threats

Wrecked Building Worked on by Open-Shop Men

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Following the explosion of the 100th bomb of the year, which wrecked a two-story brick building under construction at 2101 Marmora avenue, Edwin Hansen, a delegate for Local No. 181 of the Carpenters' Union, was placed under arrest tonight in connection with the crime. Two nonunion carpenters were employed on the building.

John Wilczynski, contractor for the bombed building, was called to the State's Attorney's office and quizzed. He said he had been threatened over the telephone by Hansen.

The contractor said he had employed on the building a man who lived at his home and also two sons. They were employed as carpenters' helpers and were not members of the carpenters' union.

Hansen visited the building about three weeks ago and warned Wilczynski that the nonunion men must be taken off the job. He also told the union men they should not work with the others. The contractor said that he was also told by Hansen that he should come to union headquarters and "square matters." He said that he was told that the alternative would be a bomb.

After Wilczynski told of this threat detectives were sent to the branch union headquarters to arrest Hansen. He was taken before the bombing victim and the latter repeated his previous accusations in the presence of the labor agent. Hansen denied that he had made any such statements and later, when efforts were made to question him at the detective bureau, he kept repeating, "I refuse to make a statement unless my lawyer is present."

No formal charge was made against Hansen tonight but the police said if a writ of habeas corpus was sought for his release that two charges—malicious mischief and destroying property by explosives—will be lodged against him.

Wilczynski has twice been the victim of bombers. A building being constructed by him on North Mason avenue was bombed last May and at that time officials of the plasterers' union were indicted. The case, however, later was dropped.

DANCER FINDS "PARKER SMILE" WINS FRIEN

LUCILLE HERRICK, dancing medienne, widely known to trons of stage and screen, of the latest of Hollywood ties to acquire the famous "Parker Smile."

MAGNETIC personality—twinkling eyes and twinkling —and a flashing, scintillating, fectious "Parker Smile." That the vision that thousands theater-goers have enjoyed. Miss Lucille Herrick has appeared throughout the United States during the last eight years in musical comedies and sketches in vaudeville, but now she has definitely "gone Hollywood," making her home at 2264 West street, Los Angeles. Her exceptional talents are being used by motion picture producers there in rious "prologues" to "World Premiers" of new motion pictures.

Miss Herrick says that the first thing she heard about in Hollywood was the "Parker Smile"—the indicative of good teeth, health and good humor, which to be acquired by a visit to a group of local dentists who use the nationally famous E. R. Parker System. She continued:

"On reaching Hollywood my first thought was of my teeth as I have been told that my smile has won me more friends—and fan letters—than anything else. My friends in Hollywood assured me that wearing a "Parker Smile" was quite the vogue in the motion picture world and that Los Angeles dentists who use the E. R. Parker System were really fine and most reasonable in their prices.

"I had heard of the E. R. Parker System while in the east but never had an opportunity to try it until I reached Los Angeles. So with the advice of my friends in my ears I visited local dentists who use the E. R. Parker System — and was more than delighted with the attention I received. From the smiling, white-robed young lady attendant who greeted me, to the able doctor who ushered me from the chair, I was made to feel as if I was the most important person who had ever sought advice as to her teeth. The treatment was skillful and absolutely painless and the offices and operating rooms found to be models of sanitary efficiency in equipment. I certainly advise all my friends to acquire the 'Parker Smile' as speedily as possible."

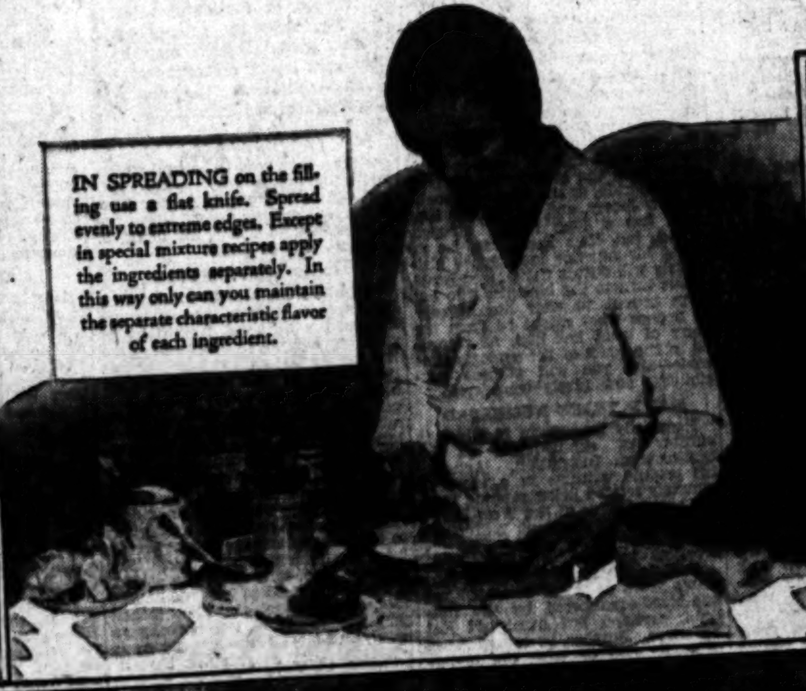
FIRST OF ALL [illegible] only Wonder Bread for your sandwiches. My friends [illegible] exclusively. [illegible] so much [illegible] better, and [illegible] delicate [illegible] able [illegible] to the taste of the sandwich itself.



IN SPREADING on the filling use a flat knife. Spread evenly to extreme edges. Except in special mixture recipes apply the ingredients separately. In this way only can you maintain the separate characteristic flavor of each ingredient.

CUT YOUR sandwich from point to point, dividing it into four portions. Then, as you eat towards the crust, you taste filling at every bite. Remove every bit of crust from delicate canape sandwiches. But not from the hearty, full-meal variety.

A LESSON IN SANDWICH MAKING! This group of young housewives are receiving expert instruction in exactly how the modern sandwich should be made. Toasted sandwiches, topless sandwiches, hearty sandwiches, dainty sandwiches . . . there's a secret to every one. This photograph was taken in Alice Adams Proctor's model kitchen, where the famous domestic scientist conducts her experiments.

An exposition of the do's and don'ts of sandwich making by the famous domestic scientist

Why she considers the exclusive use of Wonder Bread of utmost importance

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

The old-fashioned sandwich has come into its own! And it's here, I believe, to stay.

Today you see sandwiches everywhere. At luncheons, at teas, even at formal dinners!

But still sandwich making, as practiced by our foremost chefs, remains a little known art. There are so few really authentic recipes to follow! Even our cleverest hostesses are often frankly at a loss.

Sensing here an important need, I have spent the past year experimenting with sandwiches in endless variety. My friends have found my discoveries most helpful.

Through the courtesy of the Continental Baking Company I am printing them here for the first time, together with three of my original recipes.

Do read them over and then try the recipes. The results, I believe, will delight you.

My Most Important Secret

Without question, much of the success of the sandwiches I make is due to the bread I use.

Under no circumstances will I consider any bread but Wonder Bread. There are several excellent reasons for this.

First of all, I find it so easy to slice, even when extremely fresh. No matter how thin I may cut it, it never crumbles. This is due, I suppose, to its remarkably fine texture.

Second, the delightful way it toasts. There are never any burned edges to cut off. Nor any scorched, uneven spots. Every slice is the same even, golden brown. With toasted sandwiches so popular today, these superior toasting qualities cannot be overlooked.

Third, and in many ways the most important, is the flavor. I have tasted practically every loaf of bread you can buy and many others that you can't, but never have I found the same delicacy of flavor that I find in Wonder Bread. I believe you will be quick to agree to this.

About My Ingredients

Next in importance to the use of Wonder Bread are the fillings I use and the ways I prepare them.

Before slicing the bread I see that all necessary tools and ingredients are close at hand. It is highly important, you see, to combine the filling and the bread quickly.

I see that my lettuce is washed and dried, salad dressings mixed, my fillings completely prepared, ingredients in cans, ready opened.

Under no circumstances do I mix my ingredients. Except in special mixture recipes, always keep them completely separate. This allows each individual ingredient to maintain its own characteristic flavor.

How to Spread on Filling

To spread on the filling I use a flat knife. I am careful to spread to even thickness and to the extreme edges.

In making exceptionally thin sandwiches I advise a rather unusual procedure even with Wonder Bread. Spread the filling on the open surface of the loaf before slicing. This eliminates all possibility of breaking the bread while applying the filling.

Cutting a Sandwich

There is but one really correct way to cut a sandwich. This is from corner to corner, dividing the sandwich into four parts.

Thus in eating you taste filling at every bite. You eat towards the crust. The crust itself may then be discarded.

Remove the crusts from dainty appetizer sandwiches. But not from the hearty "full meal" variety. The men, you'll find, want them on!

My Sandwich Booklet

Through many, many experiments I have personally developed several delightful new sandwich creations. These, together with several old standbys prepared in unusual ways, I have included in my new "Wonder Sandwich Booklet." Three of these recipes are reprinted on this page.

Won't you let me mail you a copy with my personal compliments? Do not even send a stamped envelope. Just mail the coupon below.

Do Try Wonder Bread

By all means give Wonder Bread a trial. You will find it delightful in every way. Above all, do not overlook its dietetic advantages. With the new knowledge of balanced diet, Wonder Bread is becoming increasingly important for children.

It offers an abundance of calories to replenish energy burned up at work or play. Also valuable proteins to foster rich blood and sturdy muscles.

Go ask your grocer for a loaf today.

You never would believe sandwiches could be so delicious.

WONDER CORNUCOPIA SANDWICH . . . Cut very thin pieces of Wonder Bread, with all crusts removed, into fan-shaped pieces. Spread with creamed butter and cover with a thin piece of smoked sturgeon cut the shape of, but a trifle smaller than, the bread. Roll like a cornucopia and seal with butter along the lapping edge. Small sprigs of parsley stuck in the top of each cornucopia add to the appearance.

Pack on a damp cloth, lapping side down, and cover with a damp cloth until needed.

Creamed mushrooms, olive and cheese, creamed chicken or lobster—in fact, any tasteful moist filling, makes the cornucopia sandwich a delight.

WONDER PINEAPPLE CREAM CHEESE SANDWICH . . . Butter two slices of Wonder Bread. Spread one slice generously with cream cheese. On top of the cheese place a layer of drained, crushed pineapple. Do not mix cheese and pineapple. Cover with second buttered slice of bread. Remove crusts and cut diagonally. Now garnish your completed sandwich with tiny lettuce leaves and olives.

WONDER FISH CLUB SPECIAL . . . Ingredients: Kippered herring drained and fried quickly in butter, 3 Wonder Bread slices ½ inch thick, mayonnaise. Two crisp leaves of lettuce and two slices of tomato soaked for a few minutes in French dressing. Directions: Toast bread golden brown. Spread one piece on two sides for center, two pieces on one side for top and bottom. Between the first and second pieces arrange lettuce, tomato and mayonnaise. Between second and third piece place piping hot kippered herring. Serve at once with a bit of celery and an olive.

WHITNALL MAY HEAD LEAGUE

Municipalities Convention to Elect Tomorrow

Friends Back Move for Los Angeles Planner

Riverside and Long Beach Seek Next Meeting

By "Times" Staff Correspondent

OAKLAND, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—G. Gordon Whitnall, Los Angeles City Planning Director, may be the next president of the League of California Municipalities. His friends began a concerted movement today to line up support for him and by nightfall expressed confidence in his chances. The election is scheduled for Thursday.

Other candidates appearing on the Whitnall slate are William J. Locke of Alameda for executive secretary and H. A. Mason of San Francisco for secretary-treasurer. Coincidentally, the delegates will consider a proposed amendment to the league's constitution asking a salary of $500 monthly for the executive secretary.

LUNDBERG SPEAKS

Dr. William Wells of Riverside today was named chairman of the resolutions committee. Riverside and Long Beach are making determined efforts to get the next convention.

The principal addresses were delivered by A. J. Lundberg, president of the Key System Transit Company, speaking on differences between public and private ownership, and Railroad Commissioner Carr, who made a plea for united support of action now under way to prevent increases in telephone rates.

Lundberg declared the lack of State supervision of finances of publicly owned utilities makes it impossible to draw absolute conclusions about the success or failure of their operations, as there is no common basis upon which to start.

"I think," he asserted, "one of the things we should all do is to work for a method of compelling publicly owned utilities to keep their books in the standard manner prescribed for privately owned companies, so we can compare results in an intelligent manner and know what we are talking about, instead of having the mass of misinformation that we have on public ownership.

SHOULD KEEP BOOKS

"Privately operated street railways must keep their books in accordance with the uniform classification of accounts prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. But in the case of municipally owned railways there is no law that compels them to keep their books that way, so they keep them to suit themselves."

Carr urged that cities throughout California take action to present their side of the telephone rate controversy to the Railroad Commission. He said public utilities have competent engineers to present their side but municipalities have no one who can afford to give sufficient time to the matter to do it justice. Carr said utilities invariably present the better case because their engineers are in a position to study each bit of evidence. The municipalities, he said, would be doing the Railroad Commission a favor if they hired engineers whose duty it would be to present the people's side in cases of request for rate increases.

COMMITTEE REPORT

Milton Bryan, assistant City Attorney of Los Angeles, chairman of the city attorneys' telephone rate case committee, made a report of the activities of the committee during the last year. The committee was authorized to continue its work and it was decided the city attorneys of California, if they are to win the fight against the increase in telephone rates, must rely upon the success of measures introduced in Congress by Senator Couzens.

"The California Railroad Commission has no jurisdiction over the American Telephone and Telegraph Company," said Bryan, "and yet the value of this company's properties and the value of its appliances and patents must be definitely established before we in California can establish the fact that the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company gets value received for the money it pays to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"The American company charges the Pacific company a certain percentage of its gross revenues for the use of basic patents owned by the national company. It also sells the local company its equipment. It is absolutely essential to establish whether these charges are fair before we can determine whether the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company must have an increase in rates in order to make a fair return on its investment. The Couzens measures will provide the money and the facilities with which the Interstate Commerce Commission can investigate the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, so that we may get this information."

CLOISTER CALLS HEIRESS

Angeleno's Daughter, Released from Vows to Claim Bequest, Now Plans Return to Cell

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8. (AP)—A nun who in 1926 was released from her vows to fight for an inheritance as Miss Jeanne Lemesneger, plans to reenter the convent of the Good Shepherd in St. Louis, although she is assured of worldly financial independence with property worth $1,500,000.

Miss Lemesneger, now 38 years of age, was Sister Philomene before she was freed from her vows. She left the convent here to go to Los Angeles to fight for an inheritance from her father, the late George Lemesneger, wine manufacturer, which then was threatened.

Having won the inheritance through a decision of the Supreme Court of California, Miss Lemesneger announced she intends to return to the anonymity of the cloister. Whether her fortune, which her attorney says will be worth $3,000,000 in five years, will follow her back into the cloister depends upon her own desires. Usually this is the case. Undecided, also, is whether she will again don the white habit of the Good Shepherd or that of some other order.

She is the sole surviving daughter of George Lemesneger, who emigrated from France in 1872 and achieved wealth as a wine manufacturer in Los Angeles. He also purchased tracts near the city when it was a town of less than 10,000. It now has become valuable real estate.

Of the estate, now estimated to be worth $5,000,000 to $8,000,000, Miss Lemesneger is heir to one-third. The heirs of her half-sister, Yvonne, Countess de Coatparquet, and those of her sister, Louise, will share equally with her on the death of Jeanne's stepmother under the decision of the court.

Official Result of 1929 Balloon Race Announced

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Ward T. Van Orman's victory in the 1929 international Gordon Bennett balloon race was officially confirmed today by the National Aeronautic Association which announced that Van Orman, piloting a balloon for the Goodyear Zeppelin Company, traveled 341 miles.

Capt. W. E. Kepner, United States Army, was second, with 338 miles, and Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, in a navy balloon, was third, with 304 miles. The Belgian pilot, Ernest De Muyter, traveled 226 miles to finish fourth.

BUGS EVENTUAL WORLD RULERS

Insects Better Equipped for Struggle, Says Scientist

Man's Days Numbered, But They Yet May Be Many

Ants Domesticate Animals; Spiders Engineers

BY ALLEN SHOENFIELD

(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

This is the fourth of five consecutive articles written after a thorough study of the war being waged by the United States to control or check the scourge of insects, to combat an invasion whose possible disastrous effects are beyond belief.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Tell the average student of entomology that the tiny, gossamer-winged creature he regards with so much interest may one day rule the world and he will gaze at you quizzically, doubting your sanity.

Engage in a similar conversation the government expert who has just returned from a hand-to-hand battle with the Mediterranean fruit fly in Florida, or the Japanese beetle in New Jersey, and he will say that man has a long hard struggle ahead, but that there can be no doubt his superior intelligence ultimately will outwit the winged hosts.

But turn to the biologist who has been taught to view life broadly, to deduce what might be from the story of what has been as recorded in the rocks of the geologic time scale—and you will glimpse possibilities now rarely considered.

MAN'S YEARS NUMBERED

Nominally Dr. Austin H. Clark is curator of echinoderms at the Smithsonian Institution. Actually his prolific writings in a score of remotely related fields, ranging from the extinct birds of the West Indies to a study of fragrant butterflies, stamp him as a scientist of the broadest interests.

And Dr. Clark is convinced that man's years of world dominion are numbered—numbered by the millions, perhaps, but numbered just the same. Further, by easy steps of logic, he reasons that the insects which at present merely plague man one day will rule him and finally exterminate him. It is a startling conclusion, yet the reasoning is simple.

CONTROL THEORY FAULTY

"Our belief that we are controlling the spread of our insect enemies is wholly without foundation," says Dr. Clark. "We point with pride to the destruction of millions of pests through use of soil poisons, contact sprays, parasites, traps and what not. We place an incredible faith in the efficiency of our quarantine regulations, both to keep out foreign invaders and to prevent the spread of a pest once it has entered the country. We are relying on fallacies, and research along wholly new lines would indicate this is true.

"We think to be rid of the Japanese beetle by plowing 1500 pounds of arsenate of lead periodically into the soil. But has anyone sought to determine not the immediate but the ultimate effect of this poison on the benign organisms, the bacteria, on which the fertility of the soil depends? Not to my knowledge. It is possible that by such means we merely are salvaging our crops from the pests today, to starve with them tomorrow when the soil no longer will produce our common food.

STALLING FOR TIME

"To retain the example of the Japanese beetle, on which we have been working for thirteen years only to admit at last that it never can be eradicated but may be 'controlled'—we have introduced from Japan several species of parasites, and for a time we put our whole trust in their ability to kill off the beetle. But has anyone sought to learn whether these parasites do not also have hyperparasites which feed upon them? It is more than likely the case.

"Neither the introduction of parasites nor the perfection of mechanical traps is more than an attempt to stall for time. This is admitted by those able to take an unbiased view. Our quarantine regulations have proved hopelessly inadequate. This is demonstrated by the almost yearly discovery of some brand-new and dangerous pest within the boundaries of the country. Nor has it ever been shown that these regulations are effective in checking the spread of a pest once it has indicated its natural rate of distribution.

HAPPY GUESSWORK

"The whole trouble is that we have met the gigantic task of battling the insect world without quite knowing what we have to face. We have resorted to a kind of happy guesswork. We have assumed that insects are endowed with human intelligence, when, in fact, they have certain physiological attributes which make them almost superhuman.

"Little or no work yet has been done in insect physiology; we have had to guess at the extreme complexity of these organisms for lack of dependable data. Until we learn to respect and to hold in awe this type of life we shall make absolutely no progress. And in my opinion we cannot in any case do much more than stave off the day when the age of insects will succeed the age of man. I am by no means the first to advance this hypothesis, and it becomes increasingly evident I am not to be the last.

LIFE-CYCLES STUDIED

"What is the history of life-cycles on the earth? In Mesozoic times the reptiles, cold-blooded creatures, were the dominant living type, but for some unknown reason their supremacy came to an end with the end of the Cretaceous. Then came the warm-blooded mammals, which culminated in the Pleistocene. With their disappearance extensive cultivation of the soil was possible, and man increased in numbers and influence until he rules the earth. It is dominance working through a warm-blooded mammal endowed with a highly developed central nervous system; that is, a brain.

"What are conditions on the earth today?"

"There exist four different types of life which are distinguished from all other types by having two characters in common: Independence of the temperature and humidity of their environment and exceptional ability to travel. There is man, there are the mammals which are not serious factors and will never again predominate; there are the birds which are much less numerous than they used to be, and which, while having a very great advantage in being able to get from place to place, have that added the uselessness except for flight, of the first pair of limbs.

MAN LIKE INSECTS

"Finally there are the insects. The body temperature of insects is not appreciably different from that of their surroundings. They can adapt themselves to changing temperatures quite as well as mammals or birds, simply becoming torpid if it gets too hot or too cold. When adults they are protected from a loss of moisture by a thick impervious covering. They can cover enormous distances, as we know too well.

"It is true that insects are small, but it is wrong to despise or underrate them, for that very fact gives to them an advantage not possessed by man, mammals or birds. The average man, it is generally stated, is equal in weight to 3,760,000 houseflies. To the biologist this means that the ability of the housefly to survive under adverse conditions is 3,760,000 times as great as that of man.

"We always have considered man more closely related to the higher apes than to any other animal. So he is, structurally. But strangely many of his chief attributes and activities are more like those of insects than like any mammal.

SOME KEEP ANIMALS

"Some insects keep others as domestic animals, and in a few cases the latter would have disappeared but for the care taken of them by their masters. Thus the ants care for and protect various kinds of aphids, jassids and membracids, as well as the caterpillars of certain lycaenid butterflies for the sake of the honey-like secretions they produce.

"Sometimes these ants build elaborate structures over their creatures as we build stables for our cows. Some of the aphids they carry to safety underground in winter, and some of the caterpillars they herd into their own nests in the daytime, driving them out at night to feed and home again at dawn.

BUGS USE TOOLS

"We say in our pride that man is the only tool-using animal. That requires modification. He may be the only user of tools of his own fashioning, but certain insects are adept at using for their purposes whatever may be available. Consider the spinning ants which use their own grubs as we use needle and thread, the caterpillar-wasps that use a little pebble to smooth the earth down over a buried caterpillar.

"A few insects like a certain curious bug of Java use narcotics to make their intended victims helpless. When an ant approaches they rise, exposing long hairs which are wet with a secretion from special glands. The ant greedily licks off the substance, which is intoxicating. When it is 'groggy,' the bug stabs it suddenly through the neck with its sharp beak and sucks out the juices.

"Many ants practice an elaborate kind of agriculture, growing certain types of fungi with as much skill as we show in growing our crops.

KNOW ENGINEERING

"The pitfalls of ant-lions and the snares of the grubs of fungus-gnats and spiders are most extraordinary structures, showing an engineering knowledge which is in its way quite exhaustive.

"In two entirely different groups of insects, the neuropteroid termites and the hymenopterous ants, bees and wasps, there are found most complicated social systems, superficially much like though fundamentally wholly different from the human. Many insects, both solitary and social kinds, have a definite conception of private property and their rights thereto.

"The human instinct for clothing the body, sometimes for warmth and sometimes merely for adornment, is found in many wholly different species of insects. Large numbers, like the caddis worms and clothes moths, do this in their larval stages. But many more do this in the pupal stage, spinning a cocoon of silk or of felt-silk and hair, or a mixture of silk and other substances, which is sometimes waterproofed to guard against loss of moisture.

"But if all this proves anything it proves merely that what man can do and often believes himself alone in doing the insects have done for untold ages. It is not, however, through paralleling man's achievements but in going above and beyond them that the insect will reach supremacy. It will achieve its destinity, I feel sure, through its knowledge and practice of chemistry. How is this to be accomplished?"

RACKETEERS IN GRAPE MARKET

Chicago Dry Administrator Tells of Scheme Worked on Consignees

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Grape juice racketeers are operating in Chicago, it was revealed today by E. C. Yellowley, prohibition administrator.

The racketeers snoop out the consignees of car lots of grapes, pose as prohibition agents and frighten the consignees so that they refuse such shipments, Yellowley said. Then the racketeers bid in the shipments at a fraction of their real value.

Mr. Yellowley pointed out that grape products may be bought legally unless the purchaser intends the manufacture of alcoholic liquors.

U. C. Receives Anonymous Gift

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—An anonymous donation of $42,500, to be placed in the general fund of the University of California, was the largest of gifts aggregating $50,000 reported to the Board of Regents today by President Campbell.

Two resignations were accepted and five scholarships awarded.

DEATH REVEALS LONDON SECRET

Harold Begbie Author of Sensational Books

"Gentleman With Duster" from His Pen

Able Writer Succumbs After Brilliant Career

(Copyright, 1929, by New York Herald-Tribune.)

LONDON, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Harold Begbie, whose identity as "The Gentleman With the Duster" often was rumored but never confirmed in literary circles in London, died today.

Not until after his death did the publishers confirm the rumor that Begbie really was the author of "The Mirrors of Downing Street." In addition to this work he was the author of many other books, his published works including novals, biographies and verse. Mr. Begbie was an advocate of prison reform. His biography of Gen. Booth was published in two volumes nine years ago. He also was an ardent golfer and wrote the biography of J. H. Taylor, one of the most famous figures of the golf world.

SECRETS SOLVED

Harold Begbie's death solves a secret of authorship which has intrigued the English reading world ever since the publication about nine years ago of "The Mirrors of Downing Street" and "The Gentleman With the Duster." For several years nobody but Begbie and his publisher knew that he had written those keen, well-informed and penetrating studies of the best known figure of English public life. Even when the rumor leaked out in the last year or two it did not pass beyond a very narrow circle. The British "who's who," which lists forty-one of Begbie's works between 1900 and 1928, makes no mention of them.

Begbie was an extraordinarily prolific writer over a wide field. His books include biographies, novels, religious and penological studies, and while writing them he still found time for topical articles, literary criticism and political and social sketches.

STARTS CAREER EARLY

He was born in the Suffolk village of Fornham St. Martin in 1871, the fifth son of Rev. Marx Hamilton Begbie, and received his education largely through tutors, though he attended for a time the great Marchant Taylor's school in the city of London.

He had no doubt about his career, and early devoted himself to writing. When he was 20 years of age, he went to live in Devon whence he sent contributions to various papers in London. He came into wide notice in America in October, 1914, when he went to that country and presented to the American public an energetic defense of the British case for entering the World War. He contributed at that time striking articles to the London Daily Chronicle, warning the British public of the efficiency of German propaganda in the United States and describing American trends with a very frank, but friendly pen.

FRATERNAL ORDER SETS NEXT MEET

Odd Fellows Unanimous for Sacramento in 1930; Officers Nominated

WATSONVILLE, Oct. 8. (AP)—Sacramento was unanimously selected today for the 1930 meeting-place of the Grand Encampment of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at the opening session here of the seventy-fifth annual meeting.

The 1500 delegates to the meeting were guests of the local Rebekah Lodge at luncheon at the Hecker picnic grounds this noon. Among those present were fourteen Past Grand Patriarchs and 300 Past Chief Patriarchs.

A street parade was held tonight, followed by a formal reception at the City Auditorium. With guests and delegates together the attendance exceeded 2000.

Nominations for officers for the coming year were made at today's meeting. The election will be held Thursday. Custom demands that lesser officers be advanced from chair to chair, leaving the only contest that for the Junior Wardenship. Under this rule the following nominations were made:

Grand Chief Patriarch, J. Francis Killeen, San Francisco; Grand High Priest, C. M. Long, San Luis Obispo; Grand Senior Warden, G. P. Troxell, Chico; Grand Junior Warden, P. J. Urich, Modesto; J. H. Cousins, Eureka; W. B. De Costa, Sacramento; Henry A. Mang, Anaheim; Harry Silver, San Jose; Scribe, M. H. Ludlow, San Francisco; Treasurer, John J. Ralph, San Francisco; Grand Representative to Sovereign Lodge, George W. Alexander, Los Angeles.

Stage Tempting Gloria Swanson

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—A. H. Woods, stage producer, is negotiating with Gloria Swanson to star under his management in a new play by Eugene Walter, he said today.

Miss Swanson said she has not committed herself but that she "might go on the stage" if it did not interfere with her motion-picture work. All of her acting has been in pictures.

BEVERLY HILLS WOMAN BENEFICIARY IN ESTATE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) Mary V. K. Simmons of 154 South Oakhurst Drive, Beverly Hills, Cal., receives $53,992 of the estate of her late cousin, Alfred G. Killmer, which was filed for appraisal in the office of the New York State Transfer Tax Department here today showing a net value of $167,985. Mr. Killmer died December 13, 1928.

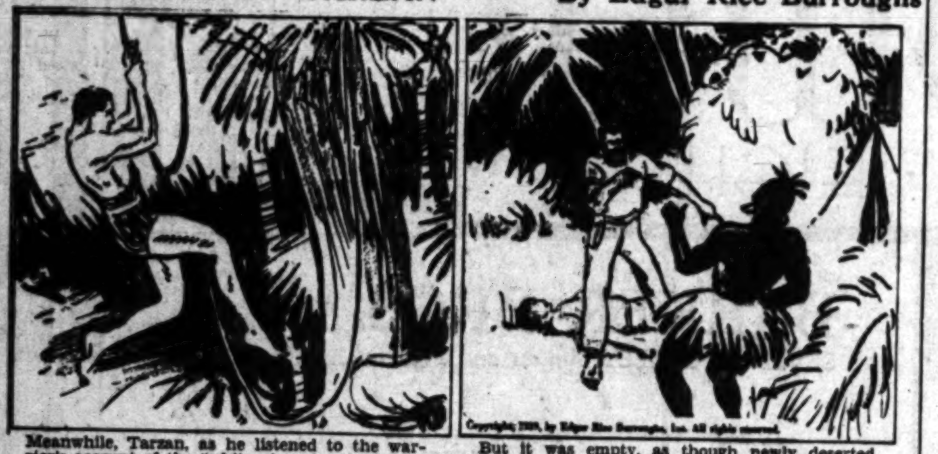
A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN

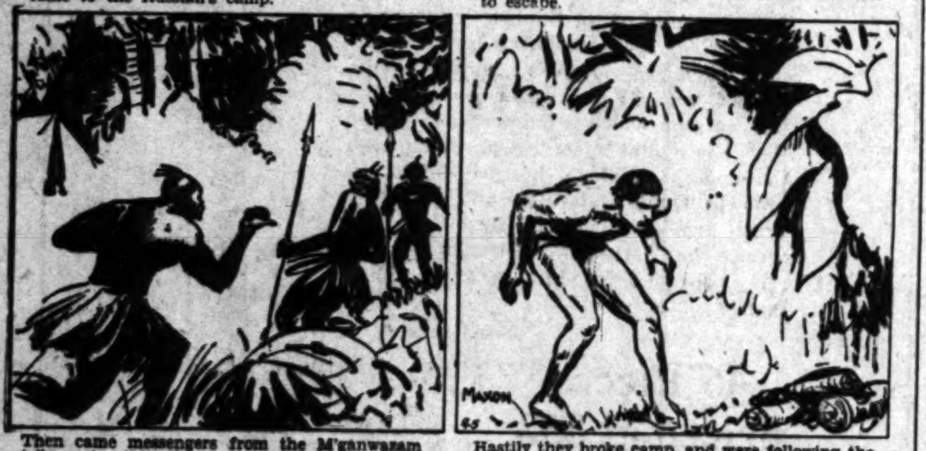
By Edgar Rice Burroughs



Copyright, 1929, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. All rights reserved.

Meanwhile, Tarzan, as he listened to the warrior's account of the "white piccaninny's" burial, believed that his little son was lost to him forever. Though his heart was nearly broken by the news, he set his teeth, more grimly determined that ever to rescue Jane, who, he was now convinced, could not be very far away. Swinging through the trees, he hastened on, and came to the Russian's camp.

But it was empty, as though newly deserted. For on the morning of Jane's escape Rokoff had been discovered stunned and bleeding within his tent. When he recovered his senses and found the girl had fled, his rage was boundless. Before he could be seized and disarmed, he had shot down several of the native sentries and some of his own men, who, he vowed, had allowed her to escape.



Then came messengers from the M'ganwazam tribe crying that the great white giant had been seen, on his way to wreak vengeance against his enemies. The blacks were terror-stricken of this creature who hunted with a fierce pack of apes and panthers at his heels. Their superstitious fears sent them scurrying into the bush. Rokoff and his few remaining sailors found themselves alone in the wilderness.

Hastily they broke camp, and were following the trail up river but a few hours when Tarzan came upon the embers of their fire. It was enough to spur him hotly forward. So it was that toward night, as Rokoff in his new camp chanced to glance toward the forest edge, his blood ran cold. What he saw was the giant figure of an almost naked white man emerging from the bush.

The California Ventura Oil Company's Cal-Ven No. 20 wildcat in Fresno Canyon, north of the Ventura-avenue field, is drilling below 4142 feet with showings of oil sand and gas in sandy shale with traces of gumbo.

Completion Increases Output

The Lincoln Drilling Company's Williams No. 3, completed recently in the old Summerland field, gives it a total daily output of approximately 500 barrels of 20-deg. gravity oil. It is producing from a depth of 1556 feet and is 200 feet deeper than the Williams No. 1, first completion in the new sand in that area.

Lincoln's Medcliff No. 1, one-half mile west of the Palisades field, recently suspended with bottom of the hole at 2430 feet, failing to encounter oil showings.

Finance Concern Omits Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—While officials of West American Finance Corporation decline to comment on the passing of the 20-cent preferred dividend yesterday, they intimate that possibly fractional payment may be made after an audit of accumulated real estate is completed. The preferred stock is cumulative and the present passing represents the first dividend omission.

Elimination of more than $300,000 in bad debts assumed from the auto finance division has been responsible for the showing, but the company is now making profits, according to officials. During the current quarter, earnings after deduction for current and auto finance bad debts amounted to approximately $21,000 as against $38,000 for the quarterly preferred dividend requirement.

Tone on London Exchange Firm

LONDON, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Shares of concerns of Anglo-American interest were again in good demand on the stock exchange today and trading had a confident tone. The market as a whole had a firm tone with business on a larger scale. Tobaccos were active, while artificial silks were steady and textiles quiet. Swedish matches and cables had a firm tone. The oil group was strong with Royal Dutch a special feature. The mining list had a firm tone with Rio Tinto especially strong after dividend increases. Rhodesian and rubber issues were firm. Ford Motors, Ltd., was quoted around £3 7-16 and Brazilian Tractions around 72. International Nickels was in good demand around 55 3-4.

The gilt-edged division was buoyant. Home rails held firm and Argentine rails steady. Canadian Pacific moved upward.

Texaco in New Financing Step

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—Directors of the Texas Corporation today authorized the sale of $100,000,000 of convertible sinking fund 5 per cent fifteen-year debentures.

R. C. Holmes, president, said the proceeds would be used for further expansion of activities, including producing, transporting, refining and distributing facilites.

SANTA MARIA VALLEY RAIL NET HIGHER

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Net income of the Santa Maria Valley Railroad Company for the eight months closed August 31, last, totaled $18,549, an increase of $8216 over the same period last year. The operating revenue increased $27,231 to $121,199. A net deficit of $1887 was reported for August against a net deficit of $2696 in August, 1928. Operating revenues for the month totaled $10,224, a gain of $3376.

OMAHA BANK SOUGHT BY HOLDING CONCERN

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—The Omaha National Bank, largest financial institution between Chicago and San Francisco, is being sought by the Northwest Bancorporation, according to Dale Clark, president. The First State Bank of Malta, Mont., and the Hill County State Bank of Havre, Mont., have become members of the Northwest Bancorporation group, increasing the number of affiliated banks to seventy-three and total resources to $406,000,000.

RAIL SHARE HOLDING ISSUE WIDELY HELD

Railroad Shares Corporation, which three months ago was a closed corporation with ten shareholders, was called for trading Monday on the Chicago Stock Exchange, the turnover for the first session totaling 12,000 shares. Stockholders now number more than 8100 widely distributed in various sections of the United States, the company announced yesterday. There are 1,000,000 shares outstanding.

CLAUDE NEON WINS IN INJUNCTION SUIT

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) Judge Runyon in the United States District Court of New Jersey has issued an injunction in favor of Claude Neon Lights, Inc., restraining the Great American Neon Corporation, et al, from further infringement of the Claude patent No. 1,125,476.

JOINS BROKERAGE

Robert Miller has become associated with the Los Angeles office of Sutro Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, in the capacity of customers' man. Mr. Miller is well-known in Los Angeles brokerage circles where he has been active for the past several years.

Durant Motors to Pay Initial

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Directors of the Durant Motors Company of California declared today an initial quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on the common stock, payable the 22nd inst. to stock of record the 15th inst. This places the stock on an annual basis of 80 cents a share.

Inasmuch as earnings are reported sufficient to disburse a slightly higher dividend, it is understood that several directors favored a 25-cent dividend. It is believed here that an upward revision may be made in the rate during the first quarter of next year if earnings remain substantially as now.

NEW STOCK CALLED

Stock of the Merchants' Finance Corporation will be called for trading Monday in place of stock of Whiting Finance Company on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange. The Merchants' Finance Company and Whiting Finance Company merger became effective August 12, last.

CREDIT TOPICS ON NIGHT COURSE SLATE

"Credit Documents and the Instruments of Credit" will be discussed by P. A. Hoyt, comptroller for the Byron Jackson Company, and Adler Bristow, credit manager for Grether & Grether, this evening at University College, University of Southern California. As a special guest at the lecture, A. A. Normandin will represent the education committee of the Los Angeles Credit Men's Association which is sponsoring the twelve-week course, in co-operation with the Building Material Dealers' Credit Association and the Retail Merchants' Credit Association. Walter Sykes is instructor of the course.

MIDWEST UTILITY CUTS POWER RATE

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Rate reductions, effective December 1, amounting to an estimated saving of $1,250,000 annually to the people of the Central Northwest, have been announced by Northern States Power Company. Further reductions are expected in the future.

Electric Unit Offers Rights

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) Directors of Western Electric Company today authorized the issuance of 750,000 shares of no par common stock to holders of record the 22nd inst. at $40 a share in the ratio of one new share for each six shares held.

W. C. Allen, president of Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company, was elected a director.

STERCHI SALES UP DURING SEPTEMBER

Sterchi Bros. Stores, Inc., yesterday reported September sales of $733,211.71, an increase of 8.31 per cent over sales of $676,943.74 shown for the same month in 1928. Economies effected through the recent consolidation of the various units which make up this chain store organization and the acquisition of five new stores in August, account to some extent for this increased volume of business, it was stated.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) David A. Schulte and Udo M. Reinach today resigned as directors of Vadsco Sales Corporation and the stock holdings in the company of Mr. Schulte and his associates were purchased by J. S. Bache. Directors of Vadsco accepted Mr. Schulte's resignation on the ground that his connection with the company became untenable due to the conflict with other of his interests. Mr. Bache was elected chairman of the board.

STATISTICIANS WILL HEAR P. F. CADMAN

Paul F. Cadman, economist for Leib, Keyston & Co. and former professor of economics and dean of men at the University of California at Berkeley, will be the principal speaker tomorrow evening at the regular monthly meeting and social dinner of the Western Statistical Association to be held at the Windsor Tea Rooms. WINTER OUTPUT FOR AERO PLANTS FIXED

DETROIT, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Production schedules at the Ryan and Lockheed plants of the Detroit Aircraft Corporation for the winter call for twelve planes per month, indicating sales will approximate $600,000 monthly, according to E. S. Evans, president. The spring should see an increase in this output level as a comprehensive selling organization is now being developed for the marketing of all Detroit Aircraft products, including the Ryan and Lockheed planes, Mr. Evans stated.

BABBITT SYNDICATE MAKES PAYMENT

Checks totaling $35,000 have been mailed to members of the various trusts of Babbitt Syndicate, which brings the total disbursement to members this year of $511,297.73, O. Nicholas Gabriel of the J. B. Ransom Corporation, sales agent, announced yesterday. This compares with $322,239.51 paid in the same period last year, representing a gain of $189,058.22, or about 59 per cent.

Continental Oil and Union Deal Rumor in East

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—The recent activity in Continental Oil of Delaware seems to be based on the story heard in some quarters that this company which is a combination of Continental of Maine and Marland Oil, is negotiating to acquire other oil companies.

Some of the officials of Union Oil of California were in New York recently and they may be here still. With their arrival it was said that a deal was being discussed for a merger of Continental and Union.

Such a deal, it was pointed out, would give Continental an excellent outlet on the West Coast and be a big step in the continental expansion of Continental Oil which has the sponsorship of the Morgan group.

GOLD UNCOVERED

Officials of the National Silver Corporation reported yesterday that telluride gold ore has been encountered in Tunnel No. 1 of the Big Silver mine owned by the company and located in Inyo county.

OKLAHOMA WILL CUT OIL OUTPUT

Flush Pool Operators Vote for Program

Daily Production Fixed at 660,000 Barrels

Policy to Remain in Force Remainder of Year

TULSA (Okla.) Oct. 8. (AP)—A plan to curtail production of oil in Oklahoma for the rest of this year was approved by flush pool operators of the State meeting here today. Not a vote was cast against the proposal.

Under the resolution adopted by the operators, the State Corporation Commission will be asked to issue an order holding the State's daily average production to approximately 660,000 barrels under the more than two months' period. The potential output is estimated at 800,000 barrels daily.

The desired reduced production would be gained, under the plan, by:

A 20 per cent curtailment in the Logan county, greater Seminole, Allen Dome, Sasakwa and Pearson-St. Louis areas until the 31st inst.

Extension of the present 50 per cent proration order in the Earlsboro pool to the 31st inst.

A curtailment of 40 per cent during November in the Oklahoma City and East Earlsboro pools and a 20 per cent proration during the month in the Logan county, greater Seminole, Allen Dome, Sasakwa and Pearson-St. Louis areas.

A 50 per cent curtailment during December in the Oklahoma City and East Earlsboro pools and a 25 per cent curtailment in the other pools.

Childs Company Income Makes Sharp Advance

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) Showing an increase of 139 per cent, operating income of Childs Company for the nine months ended September 30, last was $1,663,259, as against $695,415 in the 1928 period, according to a report issued today. Gross sales for the period were $20,405,507, as against $19,583,762 for the corresponding months of last year.

In September gross sales gained 7.2 per cent, totaling $2,348,290, as compared with $2,190,619 for the same month last year.

Since the new management assumed control in March, L. E. Buswell, treasurer, reported every month has shown an increase in gross sales over the corresponding month of 1928. At the same time, through greater efficiency of management, costs were lowered so that the net result passed last year's by a wide margin, he added.

Prices Raised on Cigarettes

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) United Cigar Stores today advanced the price of popular brands of cigarettes to 15 cents a package straight instead of two packages for 25 cents previously. Philip Morris & Co., Ltd., has advanced the price of Players cigarettes 40 cents per thousand to $8.40 and Oxford Blues 50 cents to $13.75.

The executive committee of Schulte Retail Stores Corporation will meet not later than Tuesday of next week to decide on a policy of management in regard to raising the price of popular brands of cigarettes.

UNION OIL STEP SIGNIFICANT

Indicates Decision to Share Prosperity Currently, and Encourage Wider Ownership

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Some idea of the motives actuating the management of the Union Oil Company in inaugurating the cash and stock dividend policy may be understood from a prediction that both Union Oil and Union Oil Associates will shortly be listed in several new markets. It is understood that Union Oil Associates is to be listed on the New York Curb, and both stocks on the Vancouver, Portland and Seattle stock exchanges.

This program undoubtedly anticipates the wider distribution of Union Oil shares that should follow the new policy in the payment of dividends. The attractive yield to the investor through the combination of stock and cash is expected to substantially swell the ranks of Union Oil stockholders and thereby develop new business for the company.

OIL INDUSTRY LAST

With corporations in other lines the customer-partner relationship has been fostered by this or similar programs, but in the petroleum business there has been very little effort expended in this direction. Oil companies have not been greatly interested in recruiting large armies of stockholders and it is significant of a new spirit in the Union Oil management that it is the first of the large companies in the industry to take this step.

At the last count the stockholders of Union Oil and Union Oil Associates only numbered approximately 10,000, of which 75 per cent are resident in California. Yet one-third of the company's retail business is done in the northwestern States of Oregon and Washington and a considerable portion on the Pacific Coast of Canada. In these sections the company would probably like to have more stockholders in order to develop a customer-partner relationship.

PROSPERITY SHARED

Basically, however, the new Union Oil dividend policy is likely attributable to a desire to currently pass on the company's prosperity to stockholders, and still not impair cash resources. In most lines of business this is the trend. Managements are paying out each quarter as much as possible to stockholders so long as business warrants, rather than distribute large extras in cash or stock at irregular intervals. In this era of wide and intensive interest in corporate affairs, the stockholders are not particularly enthusiastic over companies reputed to have large hidden reserves and assets. They are much more impressed with the company that pays while business is good and still maintains an adequate reserve position.

Union is expected to earn around $3.40 to $3.50 this year, a margin over the regular annual dividend of $2 sufficient to warrant some consideration of higher returns to stockholders. In recognition of this position, the company has elected to pay a companion dividend in stock, which permits the conservation of cash to plow back into property or meet emergencies. Evidently the stockholders are the beneficiaries in two directions.

Under the combined dividend in cash and stock, assuming a market of $55, the return to the investor on Union is 7.6 per cent. At $100 a share the investment return would be 6 per cent.

Higher Prices on Tires Loom

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive) General upward price revisions in tires to consumers, dealers, commercial accounts, original equipment purchasers and mail-order houses are scheduled to begin within the next two weeks, according to well-founded reports circulated in trade circles today.

Leading tire producers are expected to advance prices to dealers 10 per cent. This will be passed on to consumers by dealers. There will be a corresponding price advance to large commercial buyers. Automobile and truck manufacturers who buy tires for original equipment will be asked to pay somewhat higher prices and a determined effort will be made to improve one of the most troublesome problems of tire makers, the mail-order houses, according to the reports.

Valuation Fixed on Rock Island

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—A final valuation of $251,909,983 for rate making purposes was placed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission upon the owned and used property of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad as of June 30, 1915.

The valuation decision was made by the commission last February, three months before the Supreme Court handed down its decision in the St. Louis and O'Fallon case which held that cost of duplication must be given due consideration in making valuations. The property owned but not used was valued at $236,435 and the property used but not owned was valued at $70,319,312.

MEETING CALLED

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Stockholders of Utah Radio Products Company at the special meeting called for the 28th inst. in addition to voting on an increase of the capital stock will consider increasing the board of directors from seven to fifteen members. David Neff, president of the company, has resigned but the name of his successor has not been announced.

STOCK POLICY VOTED BY NEON

Electrical Products Board to Pay 6 Per Cent

Cash Dividend Also Raised to $1 Annually

Howse Reports Business at Prosperous Level

In addition to increasing the cash dividend on the common stock from 80 cents to $1 a share annually, directors of the Claude Neon Electrical Products Corporation, Ltd., at a meeting yesterday afternoon also declared an annual 6 per cent common stock dividend.

The directors changed the common dividend periods to conform to the calendar quarters so that the first quarterly cash disbursement at the new rate of 25 cents a share on the common and the first semiannual stock dividend of 3 per cent a share will both be payable January 1, next, to stock of record December 19, next.

The regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on the common due at this time was declared payable on November 1, next, to stock of record the 20th inst. The second semiannual stock dividend of 3 per cent will be payable July 1, next, to stock of record June 20, next.

YIELD INCREASES

Figured on the closing price of the common stock on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange yesterday at $53 a share, the new cash and stock dividend rate shows a yield of 7.88 per cent while on a market price of $60 a share the yield would be 7.66 per cent and a $70 a share, 7.42 per cent.

Commenting on the action of the board, Paul D. Howse, president, said that as the business was at a high ebb with satisfactory earnings, the directors desired to distribute the earnings much more generously than in the past to the stockholders who number in excess of 1400. The corporation has no bank loans or indebtedness of any character and its cash balances are quite satisfactory, he added.

STOCK CONVERTED

The exchange of the common stock of the Arizona corporation to the Delaware corporation is progressing satisfactorily, more than 85 per cent having been exchanged, Mr. Howse stated. More than 1000 shares of preferred stock of the Delaware corporation have been converted into common stock, he said.

He pointed out that a number of notable suits involving the Georges Claude patents have recently been won in the East and the benefit of these decisions will shortly be felt on the Pacific Coast. With new features in Neon lighting to be released by the Claude Laboratories in New York, prospects for the company are excellent, he concluded.

Average Daily Oil Output in Fresh Decline

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The daily average gross crude-oil production in the United States decreased 13,350 barrels for the week ended the 5th inst., totaling 2,887,050 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of California was 2,000,750 barrels, a decrease of 21,950.

Refineries representing 14.4 per cent of the estimated daily potential refinery capacity, operating at 83.3 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average run of crude oil to stills as 2,726,000 barrels.

Daily average the previous week was 2,725,200 barrels for refineries representing 94.4 per cent of potential capacity operating at 84.8 per cent of their capacities.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The monthly government report on cotton showing an indicated yield of 14,915,000 bales and a condition of 55.0 per cent, resulted in heavy liquidation and southern selling in the market today and brought a sharp downward readjustment in values. The crop estimate was larger than generally expected and old long holdings came out in volume. The trade was the principal buyer and although large quantities of cotton passed into the possession of spinners the demand was not sufficient to readily absorb the heavy offerings. As the inquiry otherwise was small buyers were inclined to be cautious.

After sharp declines, the midafternoon market was slightly steadier at advances of 5 to 7 points from the earlier lows, but still 40 to 42 points net lower.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (Exclusive)—Cottonseed oil more active and easier today, closing 2 to 9 points lower on the active positions. The principal reason for the break was the bearish government cotton crop report, although further hedge pressure and the upset state of lard, tallow and grease contributed. The official cotton crop estimate of 14,915,000 bales was around 200,000 bales in excess of expectations and resulted in some local pressure. The buying was light and scattered. Sales, 10,000 barrels. Prime crude, 7.37½; prime summer, yellow, spot, 9.20; Oct., 9.22; Dec., 9.28; Jan., 9.28; March, 9.36; May, 9.47.

Sinclair Finds Citrus, Oil, Motion-Pictures and Tourists Chief Sources of Prosperity

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

Southern California's prosperity, heading up in Los Angeles, seems to be the result of its activities in four lines: Citrus, oil, movies and tourists. This is the order of their relative importance, too, according to one of their leading business men.

It began as a tourist town. Many travelers, spending a winter in California, liked the climate so well they returned to make permanent homes. But in returning, they brought with them millions in cash. This is what really gave Southern California its big start.

Had the new arrivals entered the State with no cash reserves, the spectacular development which has been witnessed in Southern California probably would have been delayed a quarter of a century.

California's annual crops are now worth, according to recent estimates, better than $2,000,000,000. The citrus crop will develop and expand in the future to the extent that water can be made available for larger and larger areas. For water is the life of the farm. Without it the farmer has little chance.

But the oil development since 1922 has been phenomenal. Oil was discovered in California away back in the eighties. But little was made of it until the Standard Oil and other large units entered the field. Since then its flowing gold has made thousands of Californians rich. Today California has 10,560 wells, producing 883,000 barrels a day. This is more than 250,000 barrels a day above the record of one year ago. The problem of overproduction was never more acute than it is at this moment. California is wrestling now with it.

But Southern California—with its citrus, oil, movies and tourists—is seeking new worlds. Within five years its accomplishments in the field of manufacture should astonish the country.

Los Angeles has fifteen banks that are members of the clearing-house association. In addition it has fourteen banks that are not members. But they are small institutions having less than 2 per cent of the total receipts of the city.

But of the big banks, two stand out above the rest. They are the Security-First National Bank, which has capital assets of $50,000,000, and total resources on July 1, last, of $607,000,000; and the Bank of America whose capital assets total $33,000,000 and its resources $364,000,000.

The Security-First National has about 40 per cent of the total banking deposits of the city. For the total deposits in the city of Los Angeles on July 1, last, amounted to $979,902,000. The Security-First National had $398,144,000 of this amount. They also had $147,402,000 in branches outside of the city. So their total deposits were $545,546,000.

The Bank of America—a Giannini institution—had on the same date $115,270,000 in deposits within the city limits. But it had, in addition, $213,493,000 outside the city.

The Bank of Italy—another Giannini institution—had total deposits of $132,850,000 within the city limits. So in size it is second only to the Security. The two Giannini institutions, therefore, centering in Los Angeles have total deposits in Los Angeles of $248,000,000 and outside the city $213,000,000, making a total deposit of $461,000,000.

Two other banks are around the $100,000,000 mark in deposits. The Citizens' National Trust and Savings Bank with $113,741,000 and the California Bank with $104,229,000.

In bank deposits Los Angeles banks on July 1, last, had $1,351,000,000—making the city a close competitor of San Francisco.

BACIGALUPI TO VACATE BANK POST

Bank of Italy National Chief Recommends A. J. Mount as Successor

Following a meeting of the board of directors of the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings Association, James A. Bacigalupi, president, yesterday afternoon announced that upon the completion of his five-year term of office on the 17th inst., he would recommend the selection of A. J. Mount, vice-president, as his successor. This action is in accordance with the plan of rotation of executives each five years which was established by A. P. Giannini in 1924.

A. Pedrini, who has been associated with the bank since its inception in 1904, and who was its first cashier, will become president of National Bankitaly Company and of Bankitaly Company of America, while L. M. Giannini will advance to the chairmanship of the board of directors of both organizations, it was also announced.

Mr. Bacigalupi is to become a member of the bank's advisory committee with L. M. Giannini and P. C. Hale. He will also continue to serve on the board of directors and the general executive committee. In his new office he will share with the other members of the advisory committee the responsibility for shaping major policies, and counseling with the directing heads of the bank.

"The organization in charge of the affairs of the Bank of Italy cannot be surpassed in efficiency, harmony or loyalty," said Mr. Bacigalupi in his report to the board of directors.

The Bank of Italy will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of its foundation on the 17th inst. At which time the official changes will be made.

LEAVES FOR EAST

J. O. Hunsaker and O. K. Hunsaker, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Aircraft Finance Corporation of America, have left for St. Louis to confer with board members there on the advisability of extending the operations of the company to that city.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The bond market showed another measure of improvement today. Although the gain averaged smaller than that of yesterday, viewing the list as a whole, sentiment continued more favorable. Time money was unchanged at 8¾@9 per cent, but an easier undertone was reported. Call funds were in plentiful supply at 6½, the renewal rate, and later at 6 per cent.

Rails again displayed the best tone. The gains recorded by this group, particularly first-grade issues, were small but the fact that these bulwarks of the bond market were making an upward turn was taken as an encouraging factor. Traders reported that investors showed more inclination to turn from stocks to the fixed-charge securities.

Some convertibles drew good support, especially in the last hour, when American Telephone 4½s were run up 6½ points, part of which they lost before the close. These debentures, which had a large turnover, finished with a net gain of 3½. International Telephone 4½s and American International 5½s advanced 2½ each.

Seasoned rails that moved higher included Atchison general 4s, Illinois Central 4¾s and collateral 4s, Erie 5s, Missouri, Kansas & Texas 4½s, the New York Central and Nickel Plate issues and Union Pacific first 4s. St. Paul and Seaboard Air Line bonds also advanced.

Industrials and utilities had a tendency to irregularity, although bonds of good grade were supported.

United States government securities advanced slightly. The volume in the irregular foreign group was very light.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Stock Market Prices Hold to Narrow Fluctuations as Trading Activity Lags

Settling down to a moderate activity, yesterday's trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, influenced in part by the irregular operations on the New York markets, supplied few price changes of any consequence. California Bank was a feature of the session when on a transfer of 180 shares the stock shot up 2 points to a new high at 147. Other banks were steady.

Union Oil issues, having featured the market for the past two weeks, slowed up somewhat, but still led the activity. Both issues sold down after early strength, Union Oil Company dropping 5-8 and Union Associates ½, both closing the session at 53½. Richfield and Rio Grande eased off 1-4 each, while Standard of California firmed up 3-8 to 76 3-4, holding the strength manifested on the previous session. Macmillan traded at 32, off ½. There wer no sales in Pacific Western Oil, which had a closing bid at 21.

Trading in Southern California Edison was unusually light and on sales at 83½ the stock was up 3-8. Transamerica and Pacific Finance turned fractionally lower and Pacific America Fire reacted 2 points to 72.

Pacific Clay Products was a strong spot of the industrial list with an advance of 1 1-4 points to 33 1-4. Douglas Aircraft reacted 3-4 to 26 1-4, while Emsco Derrick swung up a point to 31. Home Service traded at 26, up 2 points.

Sales totaled 21,421 shares valued at $916,637; previous day, 44,473 shares valued at $2,251,167.

LOS ANGELES CURB

Claude Neon Electrical Products continued to hold the speculative interest of traders on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange yesterday but those on the long side of the stock anticipating the declaration of a larger quarterly dividend were overridden by a flurry of selling. From Monday's sharp advance the stock was forced down 3 1-4 points to 53.

Pacific Associates was the only other major issue which was traded in any great volume and on sales in excess of 1000 shares the stock gained 3-4 to 38½. Gladding McBean, on a turnover of fifty shares, dropped 1 1-4 points to 88. The stock was especially active on Monday. Mexican Seaboard advanced 1 3-4 points to 32 3-4 and Samson Tire rallied 1 3-4 to 15. The few other changes were confined to small fractions. The activity was brisk among the list of stocks quoted in cents but prices were unchanged for the most part.

Sales totaled 72,775 shares valued at $315,934; previous day, 89,279 shares valued at $931,145.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Quiet accumulation of stocks for investment portfolios went on in the San Francisco stock market today. Only moderate trading on behalf of speculative accounts was in evidence, that being confined to issues active in eastern professional trading. Prices showed no definite trend, but there were enough losses to more than offset gains, another respect in which western trading followed the lead of Wall street.

Competitive buying influenced by eastern commission house advices was credited with lifting several utilities, industrials and oils slightly. Turnover totaled only 38,465 shares, with a market value of $1,836,963—an exceptionally low mark.

Pacific Lighting common at 128¼ led the utilities with a gain of 1¾. Pacific Gas and Electric common was up one point at 79.

Standard Oil of California and Shell Union showed fractional gains, the former moving up on favorable brokerage house advices, comparing the issue with Standard of New Jersey which has lately outdistanced its western contemporary.

Oils showing losses of less than one point were Union and Union Associates, Richfield and Tidewater. Some uneasiness in the group was attributed to reports that the Ohio Oil Company's test well in the South Kettleman Field—the only well drilled in the great south dome area—was flowing 20,000 barrels of hot salt water daily. While some speculators sold on the assumption that the whole south dome probably would become a disappointment, others bought, reasoning that the bad news is out, that it strengthens the position of companies with consistent production, or that other wells may prove the field at a time when further exploration becomes more profitable. It was reported that more than half a million dollars was put into the Ohio well. Bank of California, which owns extensive tracts in the vicinity of the Ohio well, dropped 25 points to 300 on the news of the salt water strike.

Industrials slipping in the dull trading included Atlas Diesel, Bond and Share, Caterpillar, Crown Zellerbach, Investors Association, Leslie Salt and Schlesinger, which hit a new low at 11½. Advances of more than a point were scored by Jantzen Knitting Mills and Langendorf Baking A, while lesser gains were recorded by Rainier Pulp and Paper, Byron Jackson, Golden State Milk, Union Sugar, Food Machinery and Oliver Filters A. Trans-America lost ⅛ at 63⅝.

BAY CITY CURB

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Throughout the early part of the curb exchange session today a tone of indecision held sway over the majority of the trading. Toward the close, however, stocks closed with a flurry at or above the previous closing prices. In the issues which recorded a slight total, the general tendency was toward lower levels, while in those which were comparatively active, comparatively large totals were scored.

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Trading on the local rubber exchange today again displayed a bullish trend as plans for the much talked of stabilization plan began to shape out. The foreign markets which heretofore had been indifferent to the scheme yesterday responded with substantial gains. The turnover was 1000 contracts, or 2672 long tons.

London spot was steady and ⅛d higher, at 10 1-16d, while the October delivery in Singapore rose 5-16d to 9 15-16d. The market here gained ¼c to 20⅝.

Women Investors Want to Know
How... What... When... Where Before They Invest!

Women investors must be satisfied upon all the facts concerning a security before they invest. "How long have you been in business?" "How long have you paid dividends?" "Who are your officers and directors?" "What is the yearly income of the company?" "Can I buy on the installment plan?"---these are typical questions asked by more than 50,000 women in Southern California who have bought more than $50,000,000 worth of Edison securities. They would not have invested their money unless they had been satisfied that Edison securities were a good investment.

Let us tell you all about these securities and how you may purchase them on the Monthly Payment Plan if you wish. Just fill in the coupon below and mail it today for full information.

The following information has been supplied by Mr. Victor Emanuel, President of the Corporation, in a letter dated October 7, 1929:

Business: United States Electric Power Corporation has been organized under the laws of the State of Maryland for the purpose, among others, of acquiring interests in electric power and other public utility companies.

The Corporation is authorized to buy, sell, trade in or hold stocks and other securities of any kind, dividend-paying or non-dividend-paying, and of domestic or foreign origin.

The Corporation will be equipped and empowered to supply financial assistance in connection with the business development and operations of public utility companies and to supply engineering and management for companies in which it holds majority or minority control.

Assets: The Corporation has assets at cost (which is less than current market value) in excess of $90,000,000.

Capitalization: The capitalization of the Corporation is as follows:

	Authorized	Outstanding
Preferred Stock (No Par Value)	1,000,000 shares	none
Class A Stock (No Par Value)	2,000,000 shares	2,000,000 shares
Common Stock (No Par Value)	20,000,000 shares	4,500,000 shares*

*Not including 8,500,000 shares reserved for the exercise of stock purchase warrants at $25 per share on or before January 2, 1940, of which warrants to subscribe to 2,000,000 shares of Common Stock (non-detachable from the stock certificates except by the Corporation at time of exercise) and warrants entitling the holders to subscribe to 2,000,000 additional shares of Common Stock will be issued with the Class A Stock.

Certificates for this issue of Common Stock carry stock purchase warrants, non-detachable except by the Corporation at the time of exercise, entitling the holders to purchase on or before January 2, 1940, at a price of $25 per share, additional Common Stock at the rate of one share for each share held. Provision has been made in certain cases for the adjustment of the stock purchase price and for the protection of all of the above mentioned warrants against dilution.

The Corporation has at present no funded debt or preferred stock outstanding.

The Common Stock and Class A Stock share equally share for share in all respects as regards dividends and in liquidation. Each holder of Common Stock has one vote for each share held and the holders of the Class A Stock outstanding at any time have as a class voting power equal to the total votes appertaining to the remaining outstanding stock of the Corporation. The Directors may authorize the issuance of additional shares of any class without offering them to the shareholders of any class.

TONE ON STOCK MARKET SHAKY

high flyer, shooting up 45 points to 655. American Machine and Foundry jumped some 20 points to a new peak and Otis Steel, Columbian Carbon, Continental Bank, Electric Storage Battery, and Warren Brothers reached new high ground in gains of about 5 to 15 points. Eastman Kodak jumped about 10 points to a new peak, but lost most of its gain before the close.

In the commodity markets grains were firm, wheat and corn selling up a cent and more on bullish crop estimates and weather predictions. Cotton, however, closed nearly $2 a bale lower on the government crop estimate, which was larger than anticipated.

Foreign exchanges were generally firm, sterling cables and French francs reaching new high ground for the year. The Canadian dollar, however, slumped to 98.87½ cents, a new 1929 low.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—Bullish price tendencies predominated in today's curb market, but there were several soft spots scattered throughout the list. While Wall street was pleased at the further easing of credit conditions, favorable trade reports and the assurance that Secretary Mellon will continue in office through the Hoover administration, considerable uneasiness was created by reports that loans in some of the large commission houses showed little change from last week.

American Light & Traction and Commonwealth Edison, each up about 20 points, and Middle West Utilities, and Northern States Power A, up 10 each, led the public utilities. Electric Bond & Share closed only fractionally higher at 162¾ after having sold nearly 2 points above that figure. Standard Power & Light was marked up 7 points.

Firestone Tire jumped 13½ points on the announcement of an increase in tire prices. Dubilier Radio ran up more than 5 points on response to another court victory in its patent suit. Aluminum Company of America jumped 40 points on a few sales.

Common stock of Duval Sulphur, the third largest producer in the United States, was admitted to trading, selling between 160 and 162. Community Water Service, another newcomer, sold between 16¾ and 17½.

Cities Service crossed 64 to another new high. Russell's Stores and Beeman Brothers were among the issues to reach new low ground.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

Total stock sales today, 1,051,000 shares.
Year ago, 1,714,000.
Total bond sales today, $3,610,000.
Year ago, $7,128,000.

Leading the West in Steel Fabrication

Consolidated Steel Corporation

Today this company is in a great period of expansion. Outlying territories are being developed, additional manufacturing units are being acquired, and with the last few months assets have increased by more than $2,000,000.

Business volume is constantly growing, and was last estimated at over $13,000,000 annually. At this rate earnings should approximate $2.50 per common share.

With Consolidated Steel in this strategic position, and in view of the company's close affiliation with a strong local financial and industrial group, we believe this stock merits consideration.

We will gladly furnish you additional details regarding this outstanding company.

METAL MARKETS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Daily Metal Trade today says: Finished steel prices are losing ground stubbornly with weakness reported ten days ago apparently exaggerated. New steel demand, however, has expanded only slightly in some directions and receded further in other directions. Recent reports of weakness in prices of plates, shapes and bars, strongly denied by leading producers, caused hesitancy among buyers.

In the Chicago district some regular consumers, evidently satisfied with the situation, have in the past few days signed fourth quarter contracts with prices unchanged from third quarter levels.

METAL PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—Copper, steady; electrolytic, spot and future, 18.

Iron, steady, unchanged.

Tin, easy; spot, 43.37; future, 44.00.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—A little business is being transacted in the wool market, but the buying is on a strictly hand-to-mouth basis, owing to the uncertainty of the present level of prices. Fine wools are easier than last week. Prices on 58s-60s now appear lower than the 56s and 48s-50s. Grades are as yet about steady.

DRIED FRUITS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—Dried fruit, steady.

President, Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co., Inc.

Mr. Lucius Boomer, President, summarizes his letter to the Bankers as follows:

THE CORPORATION: This Corporation has been organized under the laws of the State of New York for the purpose of erecting and operating a new hotel to bear the same name and to carry on the traditions which for over 35 years made the old Waldorf the best known and most popular of all hotels. Interests affiliated with the management of the old Waldorf have associated themselves with a strong banking group formed to carry out this purpose.

The prestige and good will of the old Waldorf, built up during its many years of activity, constitute an asset of great value to the new enterprise, which should assure liberal patronage from the start.

LOCATION: The location at Park Avenue, 49th and 50th Streets, is ideal. It is in the highly desirable Park Avenue residential section and immediately adjacent to the new uptown business center. It is conveniently near the Fifth Avenue shopping district and the Grand Central Terminal and only a short walk from the Broadway theatre center.

THE HOTEL: The present plans and specifications of the Hotel to be erected provide that it shall be 47 stories in height, modern, fireproof, of steel, stone and brick, shall have a cubage of construction of over 20,000,000 cubic feet, and contain over 2,200 guest rooms, besides adequate banquet halls, dining and other public rooms. In addition to appropriate lobbies and public rooms, the first and second floors will afford considerable space for rental to high-class retail shops, brokers' offices, etc., which space may confidently be expected to yield large rentals.

Thompson-Starrett Company, Inc., are to be the builders and Schultze & Weaver are the architects. The new Hotel Waldorf-Astoria is expected to be ready for occupancy during the Fall of 1931.

SECURITY OF BONDS: A grant for a term of years will be given by the New York Central Railroad Company, owner of the fee, to its subsidiary, New York State Realty and Terminal Company. The New York Central Railroad will cause such grant to be released from the lien of its general mortgages. Such subsidiary will lease the property to Hotel Waldorf-Astoria Corporation. The security of these Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be a closed first mortgage on such leasehold covering the entire block (approximately 81,000 square feet) from Park to Lexington Avenues, and from 49th to 50th Streets, New York City (excepting certain sub-surface and analogous rights), a modern 47-story Waldorf-Astoria Hotel building to be erected thereon, and furnishings and equipment thereof. When the mortgage securing these Bonds is recorded, the term grant from which the leasehold is derived will be free of all liens and will not be affected by any liens upon the fee, and should any subsequent mortgage be placed upon either land or building, it will not affect the leasehold and the mortgage securing these bonds.

FINANCIAL PROGRAM: It is estimated that the entire operation, including the construction of and furnishing of the Hotel, organization expenses, financing and carrying charges, working capital, etc., will total about $28,100,000. An agreement with New York State Realty and Terminal Company, the Lessor of the mortgaged leasehold, provides the terms under which it will pay up to $10,000,000 toward the cost of the project. It is expected that the sale of shares of the Corporation's Common Stock, together with the proceeds from the sale of these First Mortgage Leasehold Bonds, will provide the balance of the financial requirements.

LEASE: The first lease period is for twenty-six (26) years and eleven (11) months; the Corporation is given the right to one twenty-one (21) year renewal, and thereafter at the option of New York State Realty and Terminal Company either a further twenty-one (21) year renewal or the receipt by the Corporation of the then value of the building. Rent under the first lease period does not commence until January 1, 1930, although demolition and certain sub-surface work will proceed in the interim.

EARNINGS: Horwath & Horwath, leading authorities on hotel operation, have estimated that, commencing with the first year of normal operation, and after reasonable allowance for vacancies, the annual earnings should be as follows:

Gross income	$11,007,500
Operating and management expenses, ground rent, insurance, real estate taxes, building and sinking fund rental	7,505,630
Net earnings available for interest on this issue, depreciation and Federal and State taxes	$ 3,501,870
Maximum annual interest requirement on Bonds	$ 770,000

Net earnings as above indicated are equivalent to over 4.5 times such annual interest requirement.

After deducting interest, estimated depreciation, Federal income and New York State franchise taxes, and after providing funds for the amortization within thirty-one years from the date of the commencement of the first lease period of (1) the $11,000,000 principal amount of bonds and of (2) an amount equivalent to the entire presently to be outstanding amount of common stock at $50 per share, the earnings above indicated would, at the rental rate for the first lease period, be about $10 per share upon the 171,000 shares of common stock to be presently outstanding.

COMMON STOCK: Under the provisions of the lease, the building rental and sinking fund rental should cease within thirty-one (31) years from the date of the commencement of the first lease period. During such time, the operation of the sinking fund upon the bonds should result in their amortization and, based on the estimate of Horwath & Horwath of earnings from normal operations, there should be available for distribution to the common stockholders annual amounts which if accumulated with interest at the rate of 6% per annum, compounded semi-annually, would in the aggregate be equivalent to the entire presently to be outstanding amount of common stock at $50 per share. Such amounts available for distribution to the common stockholders would be in addition to dividends which may be distributed to them from the remaining normal earnings which are estimated at about $10 per share.

We offer these bonds, with warrants, when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of counsel, Messrs. Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy for the undersigned, and Messrs. McNamara & Seymour for the Corporation. We reserve the right to reject subscriptions in whole or in part, to allot less than the amount applied for, and to close the subscription books at any time without notice. Temporary bonds or interim receipts deliverable in the first instance at the office of Hallgarten & Co., 44 Pine Street, New York City.

Wheat Futures Turn Higher on Bullish Market

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Suggestions that Argentina's yield of wheat has been cut in half compared with 1928, did much today to hoist the wheat market here. Moreover, indications pointed to broadening of export demand for wheat from North America. According to trade gossip that received considerable attention, it is expected that Europe will have to come to the United States in earnest for wheat very shortly, despite assertions that stocks of wheat abroad are piling up.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat today were firm at the day's top level, 1⅛@1¼c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed at ⅜c off to ⅜@½c up, oats ⅛@⅜c advance and provisions ranging from 7c decline to a rise of 10c.

As the wheat market situation was sized up today by one of the foremost Chicago authorities, Europe appears to be getting close to the point where demand for wheat from the United States will be more necessitous than for a long time. In this connection, he especially emphasized less favorable Argentine crop advices and small receipts in this country and Canada, together with evidence that the bulk of speculative holdings of North American wheat is in strong hands. Particular notice, too, was drawn to cables received today reporting that field conditions for wheat both in Santa Fe and Cordoba provinces, Argentina, are discouraging to growers.

Dominated to a great extent by such factors, wheat values here showed an upward trend today from start to finish. The trade virtually ignored assertions that stocks of wheat at Liverpool have doubled within a month, that Antwerp is heavily stocked with wheat and that supplies are accumulating in Hamburg and Rotterdam. Little or no attention either was given to the fact that world's available stocks of wheat were announced today as having increased 21,363,000 bushels for the week.

Evening-up of accounts so as to be prepared for the government crop report tomorrow afternoon helped to rally the corn market today in the late dealings. Earlier, the chief influence was favorable weather prevailing over the greater part of the corn belt. Oats swayed with corn.

Provisions were mostly easier as a result of some selling pressure on lard.

Hi-Y Clubs of Three Counties in Jamboree

HANFORD, Oct. 8.—Fred Hanson, member of the national council and regional secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, was the principal speaker at the annual Hi-Y jamboree at the Civic Auditorium tonight. Leaders and members of groups from towns and cities in Tulare, Fresno and Kings counties attended, numbering more than 300 persons, who sat down to a dinner which was followed by a program of music and speaking.

Harry Hoyt, local secretary; C. F. Mueller, secretary of Fresno county, and Lawrence Downey, secretary of Tulare county, were other speakers. Attorney S. J. W. Sharp acted as toastmaster; H. C. Kinnee led the singing, and Rev. E. A. Anderson of the First Baptist Church gave the invocation. A model Hi-Y meeting was demonstrated by the Kingsburg group.

Rail Traffic at High for Year

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Loading of revenue freight for week ended September 28, last, totaled 1,202,111 cars, the highest for any week so far this year, and third highest on record, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced today.

Compared with the corresponding week last year, the total for the week of September 28, was an increase of 5146 cars, and an increase of 75,208 cars over the corresponding week in 1927. It also was 35,781 cars above the preceding week this year, with increases being reported in the loading of all commodities except grain and grain products, and ore.

NEW OIL POOL OPENED IN WEST TEXAS AREA

AUSTIN (Tex.) Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Report of the opening of a new oil pool in Ector county in the West Texas area, was received by the oil-and-gas division of the Railroad Commission today. The initial well was drilled jointly by the Humble Oil and Refining Company, the Atlanta Producing Company and the Penn Oil Company. It flowed by heads at the rate of 5000 barrels daily from a depth of 3720 feet. It was shut down awaiting storage. It is three miles from the nearest producer.

MINING COMPANY DISTRIBUTION DUE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—H. E. Dodge, secretary of Mason Valley Mines Company, in a letter to stockholders today stated that a distribution in liquidation will be made shortly. As nearly as can be determined at present, the distribution will amount to approximately $2 a share. Since the stockholders on April 22, last, voted to dissolve the corporation all mining property has been sold with the exception of Majuba Hill property which is not considered important.

DOGS BRING REVENUE

ONTARIO, Oct. 8.—There is a monetary value to the dogs that run the streets of the city, according to a report on file by City License Collector Ed Holman with City Clerk D. B. Wynne. During the past four months Holman has collected $1007 in dog licenses. The town has been pretty well rid of undesirable dogs, he reported, declaring that 136 have been destroyed and seventeen sent out of town.

VETERANS OUTLINE FETES

Tulare Legion Granted Use of County Fairground; Lindsay and Porterville Combine Efforts

TULARE, Oct. 8.—Directors of the Tulare Chamber of Commerce have voted to allow the local American Legion use of the fairground for the Legion's celebration of Armistice Day.

The fairground represents an investment of more than $1000,000, and is said to be ideal for the proposed celebration which will include a rodeo, a "forty-nine" camp, dancing, band concerts, and athletic contests.

Legionnaires will have as assistants in making the day a success a special committee appointed for that purpose by the chamber.

The program will include a historical parade for the morning and both a rodeo and football game for the afternoon.

In the parade there will be a contingent of full-blooded Indians from different parts of the valley, different Legion and Auxiliary units; high schools from various towns of the county staging a pageant; Spanish-American war and G. A. R. veterans and a long line of floats and decorated cars entered by fraternal organizations and others.

The Tulare ex-service men are handling their celebration on a self-supporting basis, and have announced that they do not expect to ask for donations.

EX-SERVICEMEN PLAN JOINT CELEBRATION

LINDSAY, Oct. 8.—Lindsay Post, American Legion, again will join with Porterville, Post No. 20, in the celebration of Armistice Day at Porterville, and the following named Legionnaires have been appointed to work with the neighboring post:

General chairman, Gilbert L. Taggard; Eugene T. Gable, Elmer R. Spitler, A. M. Verfurth, Wesley A. Maas, Clyde V. Parsons, Roland Fitton, Edward Shearer, Kingsley Burnell, James E. Palmer, R. E. Strawford, Ford A. Chatters, John G. Boardman, Harlin North and Vernon T. Sisson.

LEGION AUXILIARY PICKS NEW LEADERS

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 8.—New officers have been elected by the auxiliary of the Porterville American Legion as follows: President, Mrs. Clara Belden; first vice-president, Mrs. Mary Falconer; second vice-president, Mrs. Mary Parrish; Chaplain, Mrs. Ruth Gibson; historian, Mrs. Sara Woods; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Marie Miramon; marshal, Mrs. Violet Poundstone; secretary, Mrs. Arzella Delaney; terasurer, Mrs. Nora Singleton; executive committee, Mesdames Clara Belden, Arzella Delaney, Mildred Flory, Ruth Gibson and Vina Robinson. Installation of officers will be held on Friday evening, the 25th inst.

COLLISION ROBS FOUR OF PARENTS

Stein District Couple Succumb to Injuries in Highway Accident

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 8.—William Azevado, 34 years of age, widely-known rancher of the Stein district and a member of a prominent Kern family, is dead, the second victim of an automobile collision on the Bakersfield-Taft highway Saturday morning. His wife, Anna, preceded him in death less than twenty-four hours. Both received severe injuries and shock.

They leave four small children, Frank, 10; Mary, 8; Kina, 6, and Louie, 3.

Theodore Ted Didgen, of Maricopa, official of the O. C. Feld Gasoline Company of that district, is still suffering from a dislocated hip sustained when the automobile he was driving crashed with the Azevado machine at the H-street intersection between the Greenfield and Panama stations.

The crash victims made their home on their ranch in the Stein district and both were residents of this city. Azevado leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Azevado, also of the Stein district, seven brothers and fourt sisters, all of whom reside here.

Mrs. Azevado leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel J. Gonzales, a sister and one brother, all residents of this city.

Harvey Named to Head Kern Scout Council

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 8.—Election of Attorney T. N. Harvey, pioneer leader in Boy Scout activity in this district, as president of the Kern County Council, Boy Scouts of America, was the highlight of a special meeting of the council board of directors today. He succeeds C. M. Small of Fellows. Harvey's record as Kern Scout commissioner for many years made him a unanimous choice for the presidency.

Ben Slater, newly-elected member of the board, was named Scout commissioner to succeed the new president. The resignation of A. C. Dimon, council treasurer, was accepted and Director S. E. Dillon was elected to succeed him. Dimon has been transferred to Oakland by the Bank of Italy.

Seven new directors elected are William L. Rigsbee, Harold Owens, Slater, Clarence Cullimore and V. N. Mickelberry of Bakersfield; Clarence Cullen of Taft, and J. B. Stenens of Fellows.

Old-Timers of Eagles Honored

TULARE, Oct. 8.—Eagles from Porterville, Hanford and Visalia gathered here tonight to assist the local Eagles' Lodge in celebrating Veterans' Night. Twenty members of the aerie, who have been affiliated with the order twenty years or more, were honored by their fellow-lodge members. After the chicken dinner which opened the evening's festivities, eight rounds of boxing and an old-time fiddlers' contest entertained the crowd. Veterans' buttons were presented to those who have been members for a score of years.

CANADIAN NATIONAL UNIT PLANS RIGHTS

TORONTO, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Canadian National Corporation, Ltd., today called a special meeting of stockholders for November 6 for the purpose of considering a resolution extending the power of the company to declare a stock dividend and to transact such other business as may come before the meeting.

TRAPP BACK FROM EAST

A large expansion program is under way for the National Thrift Corporation of America, according to R. E. Trapp, general agent for the company, who returned to the head offices here yesterday after an extended tour of the East. While away, he visited the company's offices in Oklahoma City, Wichita, Detroit, Denver, Minneapolis and other cities where the Los Angeles organization is considering the opening of offices.

Tulare County Gets Cup Won at State Fair

VISALIA, Oct. 8.—A twelve-inch silver trophy cup was presented to the Tulare County Board of Supervisors today by the Diamond Jubilee State Fair Committee for this county's exhibits at the State Fair.

The exhibit consisted of a huge relief map depicting the proposed San Joaquin Valley water-conservation plan, and was the work of A. E. Miot, veteran secretary of the Tulare County Board of Trade.

P. M. Pfrimmer, chairman of the Supervisors, accepted the cup on behalf of the county. It is marked "for meritorious exhibit at the diamond jubilee State fair."

Park Visitors Law Abiding

SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK, Oct. 8.—According to a report just issued from the office of the superintendent, the thousands of visitors to Sequoia and Gen. Grant national parks during the 1929 season were singularly law abiding and came to enjoy and leave unharmed the magnificent park region. Court cases before the United States Commissioner were only nine in number and resulted in nine convictions: Six traffic, one fire, two poaching. Fines totaled $295.

GRADE SEPARATION AT WASCO ORDERED

WASCO, Oct. 8.—This city will have a new subway under the Santa Fe tracks and will abandon its old crossing between Fifth and Sixth streets, according to Supervisor W. R. Woollomes. The State Railroad Commission has permitted the change and abandonment of the old crossing and has authorized the construction of the new underpass at the intersection of the railroad crossing and California avenue. This new underpass is expected to save many lives in the future, as the crossing is an important one and considerable traffic crosses the railway at the point.

POOL SEEKS MORE GRAPES

Euless-Dermer Group Announces Packing Contract With E. Y. Foley Company

FRESNO, Oct. 8.—Leaders of the Euless-Dermer raisin pool began an energetic campaign for more tonnage today after announcing that they plan to market the fruit using the facilities of the E. Y. Foley Company to pack and process the raisins.

The pool is seeking new contracts with its members and such additional growers as care to participate to expire on October 1, 1930, and calling for a minimum of 4 cents a pound on standard Thompsons and 3½ cents for Sultanas and Muscats. The pool leaders announced that arrangements had been made with local banks whereby the same advance, as is available from Federal funds through the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers would be paid to members of the pool.

In making the announcement, John Euless said:

"The contract provides for a monthly accounting to the grower of all raisins sold, also for a distribution to the growers of their pro-rata returns at monthly periods. All funds will be handled by the pool officials and the manufacturer, Foley, will be paid out of the gross returns on the basis of carload shipments and packing."

Euless announced that the pool's agreement with Foley for charges of 1 1-4 cents for twenty-five-pound boxes and 1½ cents for carton pack, covered not only manufacturing but sales costs, leaving the entire sum, minus the original deduction of 35 cents a ton for overhead costs of the pool, received from sales, to be distributed to the growers.

Euless said the manufacturer had assured the pool a market for at least 25,000 tons at prices which would return the grower the amount required by the contract. He said these sales could be made today at a price which would return the grower a net of 4 1-4 cents, adding that later in the season this could be increased to 4½ cents.

OFFICERS FREED ON RIOT MURDER CHARGE

BUT SHERIFF AND ELEVEN OTHER DEPUTIES TO FACE TRIAL IN SLAYINGS

MARION (N. C.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Murder charges against three sheriff's deputies growing out of the killing of five strikers in a riot at the Marion Manufacturing Company's plant today were dismissed after the State's Attorney announced that he accepted a nonsuit in their cases.

Those dismissed are W. G. Biggerstaff, John Snoddy and John Bowan. The freeing of the three deputies left Sheriff Adkins and eleven deputies to face charges of murder and conspiracy to murder lodged against them in warrants sworn out by attorneys for the strikers.

The State then closed its evidence in the murder charges and strikers' attorneys agreed to waive preliminary hearings on charges of rebellion lodged against the strikers by the Sheriff.

The strikers, between fifty and sixty of them, were bound over under $500 bonds until the regular term of the Superior Court.

NOTICIAS MUNDIALES DE ULTIMA HORA

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

También los Escoceses Estudiarán la Cuestión del Licor

LONDRES, Octubre 8.—A raíz del nombramiento de la real comisión que va a estudiar la cuestión del licor en Inglaterra, análoga comisión ha sido nombrada para Escocia, en donde ya se ejercita, hasta cierto punto, la opción local.

Preside la comisión escocesa Lord Mackay, uno de los senadores del Colegio de Justicia de Escocia, y los demás miembros son hombres y mujeres de profesiones muy diversas, y, seguramente, de encontrados pareceres en el problema que va a discutirse. John Dewar, por ejemplo, es director de una famosa destilería; el Reverendo John Harry Miller fue moderador de la Iglesia Libre Unida; y la señora Forrester-Paton es hija del destacado jurisconsulto, Lord Shaw.

La Policía de Berlín Recobra unas Joyas Robadas

BERLIN, Octubre 8.—Hoy descubrió la policía las alhajas, valoradas en $20,000, que fueron robadas de la embajada francesa en ausencia del embajador Pierre de Margerie, que asistía el domingo a las exequias del doctor Stresemann.

En un registro final practicado en la embajada, la policía halló las joyas debajo de la escalera, en un paquete mal envuelto en papel.

Otra Industria que Protesta Contra el Código Mejicano del Trabajo

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Octubre 8. La industria minera mejicana ha unido sus objeciones formales a las de la industria petrolera y las de otras empresas importantes de Méjico, contra el proyecto de ley sobre Trabajo, que se debate ahora en el congreso. Los mineros del país presentaron ante la cámara de diputados una exposición de motivos redactada por la Cámara Nacional de Minería, y secundada por las más importantes empresas mineras norteamericanas y británicas que hay en Méjico.

Hácese ver en el escrito en cuestión que, si se aprueba la nueva ley, vendrá un aumento de 34 1-2 por ciento en el coste de producción; y eso, teniendo en cuenta sólo cinco artículos de la ley. Por concepto de otros artículos de la misma, habrá aumentos que "todavía no pueden calcularse", según se asienta en la declaración a que nos referimos.

Resultados Oficiales de la Carrera de Globos de 1929

WASHINGTON, Octubre 8.—La victoria de Ward T. Van Orman en la carrera aerostática internacional Gordon Bennett de 1929 ha sido oficialmente confirmada hoy por la Sociedad Aeronáutica Nacional, que hace saber que Van Orman, piloto de un globo de la Goodyear Zeppelin Company, voló 341 millas. En segundo lugar, viene el capitán W. E. Kepner, del ejército norteamericano, que recorrió 338. En tercero, el teniente T. G. W. Settle, que voló 304 millas en un globo de la Armada. En cuarto, viene, por último, el piloto belga Ernest de Muyter, que viajó sólo 226 millas por el aire.

Doctor que Muere de un Balazo que le Dispara un Lunático

SPOKANE, Octubre 8.—El doctor Mitchell Langworthy, médico ortopédico muy conocido, falleció hoy a las 4 p.m. de resultas de las heridas que le infligió el jornalero John Salmi, quien hirió también a la enfermera, señorita Gale Rogers, y se disparó luego un tiro mortal en la cabeza.

La policía dijo hoy que había llegado a la conclusión de que Salmi sufría de demencia, y se figuraba que los doctores lo trataban injustamente, y que no recibía debida compensación del Estado por las lesiones que recibió trabajando en 1927 en el Túnel de la Cascada.

TRANSIT NEEDS REVIEWED

Attorney Believes Subway Will Cure Los Angeles of Downtown Traffic Ills

Rapid transit for Los Angeles, and for as large an area of Southern California as it will be practicable for such a system to serve, will relieve traffic congestion, reduce the number of accidents, save money and time for commuters, increase property values and make for the growth and prosperity of all Southland communities, according to the opinion expressed yesterday by David R. Faries, attorney, in an address at the City Club.

Dismissing the idea of elevated railways on the grounds that such a method of transportation is unsightly, dangerous, noisy and a menace to property values, Mr. Faries spoke in favor of subways, telling briefly the story of the universal progress of that mode of travel since its inauguration in London in 1853.

NEW LAW CITED

Mentioning the fact that when New York started its subway system in 1900, the passengers numbered 100,000,000 persons a year, the speaker said that today Los Angeles railways carry 225,000,000 passengers, annually. New York today has 260 miles of subways and their popularity and utility are attested by the fact that that city now is engaged in constructing additional subways to serve the people. Construction, the speaker stated, usually is carried on at night, a block at a time, with almost no interference with daily traffic.

Calling attention to California's new law, authorizing creation of public transportation district, Mr. Faries said that subway districts for Los Angeles, and for certain outlying districts, would be sound socially, economically and financially.

CONTRIBUTIONS PROPOSED

"Assuming that we want subways, how shall they be financed?" asked Mr. Faries. "Because of the tremendous cost, $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 per mile, the returns on investments will hardly warrant private interests in their construction and operation. City-wide bond issues or taxation will, for obvious reasons, be impractical and unpopular. In our opinion, the right method for raising funds for a subway system would be through the contributions of property owners of districts to be most benefited by the system.

MRS. PIXLEY ESTATE SET AT $200,000

Will of Writer's Widow Filed for Probate Tells Disposition of Ashes

The will of Mrs. Isabel McRoy Pixley, widow of Frank Pixley, playwright, was admitted to probate by Superior Judge Crail yesterday. Mrs. Pixley, who died in London, left an estate of $200,000.

By the unusual terms of the will regarding burial of the decedent, the ashes of Mrs. Pixley, after cremation, are to be placed in an urn with the ashes of her husband, and interred in a mausoleum, at Akron, O.

A $5000 fund donated to the Actors' Association is to be known as the "Frank Pixley, famous playwright, author of King Dodo, Prince of Pilsen, Burgomaster and Woodland benefit." Five thousand dollars to build a marble statue is left to the American Legion in San Francisco, and the residue goes to found a scholarship at Akron University to be known as the "Frank Pixley endowment."

Several other bequests to relatives are contained in the will, which is dated May 31, last.

IOWA GROUP TO PICNIC

The semiannual all-day picnic and reunion of the Pottawattamie county (Iowa) Society will be held in the glen north of the speakers' stand at Sycamore Grove Park next Saturday, the 12th inst., it was announced yesterday by Lucius C. Dale, secretary. In event of rain the picnic will be held the following Saturday.

POLICE JOBS CAUSE CLASH

Commissioner Combats Legal Adviser's Opinion Regarding Chief Davis's Powers

A clash between Deputy City Attorney Kitzmiller and the Police Commission as to the power of a general manager of a city department marked the meeting of the commission yesterday, when it learned that the appointment of Capt. Homer B. Cross as deputy chief by Chief Davis, general manager of the Police Department, must stand, in the opinion of City Attorney and the Civil Service Department, even though the commission has disapproved the appointment.

Kitzmiller cited City Attorney Werner's opinion that under Sec. 80 of the City Charter the general manager appoints the members of his staff, subject only to the rules of the Civil Service Department when the question of the Police Commission's recent order to the Chief, directing him to get the approval of the commission before making any appointment, was raised.

WARM ARGUMENTS

Commissioner Drake took issue with Kitzmiller, holding that the City Attorney's opinion on the subject is erroneous, according to Sec. 79, which he read, as follows:

"The board of each department shall appoint and shall have power to remove a general manager for the department who shall be the chief administrative officer of his department. Such general manager shall not be a member of the board nor shall he have been a member within one year prior to his appointment. The board may issue instructions to the general manager of its department concerning his exercise of any of the powers conferred upon him by this charter."

Kitzmiller pointed out that the board has this power of supervision except where it comes in conflict with the civil service regulations. He asked the board, if it had no intention of complying with the opinion of the City Attorney, why it went to the trouble of asking for such opinions. The arguments on the subject between Drake and Kitzmiller grew quite warm.

Commissioner Thorpe supported Drake and Commissioner Coe made

INHALATOR BABY FAILS TO LIVE

Infant Dies in Hospital After 100-Hour Battle By Rescue Squad

After it was supposed that the tireless efforts of the rescue squad of the Huntington Park police department had saved the life of the newly born son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward I. Kirk of Huntington Park, the baby died early yesterday morning at the California Lutheran Hospital.

Since Thursday morning firemen had been working in three-hour shifts with the child, and on Monday afternoon he was thought to be in a strong enough condition to be taken to the hospital to be put into an incubator. The inhalator was operated for more than 100 hours.

JONES SEES HOUSTON IN LOS ANGELES

Famous Texas Democrat Compares Similar Points on Visit With Bankers

Texas Democrats, like those of other States, are satisfied with the present prosperity of the nation, is the opinion of Jesse Holman Jones of Houston, Tex., who is credited with getting the Democratic Convention for his home city, and who holds to the belief that while the followers of his political faith may not agree with the Republicans, they do now admit that the country is in good hands.

JESSE HOLMAN JONES

"And, anyway," Mr. Jones said yesterday, "I am here on a pleasure trip and politics are far from my mind." He came to California as a delegate to the American Bankers' Association convention and said that this is his first visit to the State.

"Although I only have had the opportunity of seeing Los Angeles for two days, I have been very much interested with the evident plans which have been made for the future," he said. "Los Angeles and Houston are similarly situated, each with a harbor development and with oil as a principal export item."

Houston, according to Mr. Jones, has built a new sky line in the last ten years and has been one of the bright spots in the commercial history of the Southwest. His own bank, the National Bank of Commerce, recently has opened a new building, one of a dozen new structures which house the city's commercial interests.

Mr. Jones is a member of a party attending the bankers' convention which, will remain here for three days, and then return to their homes by way of San Diego.

FALL DOWN SHAFT FATAL FOR MEXICAN

Falling one story down an elevator shaft at 203 North Los Angeles street yesterday, an unidentified man of about 48 years of age, suffered a fractured skull from which he died a few minutes later. Police learned that he had been seen recently loitering about the Plaza and was employed just the day before by a Mexican newspaper company at the above address. He was engaged in moving heavy rolls of paper when he fell into the open shaft, it was stated. The body was removed to the County Morgue. The man is described as a Mexican.

LETTER BEACON IN FAR ALASKA

Message of Wife Printed in "The Times" Causes Bank Officer in Northern Mining Camp to Return to Los Angeles and Surrender Self on Charge of Grand Theft

Two weeks ago a stranger walked into a general merchandising store in an obscure mining camp in Alaska. Stomping clumps of a soft October snow from his heavy boots, he opened the collar of his mackinaw, blew on his reddened fingers and then quietly walked to the counter. After purchasing a sack of tobacco he drifted over to a circle of rough-clad miners grouped about a cannon metal stove whose bulging sides were glowing a rosy red. With only a slight nod of his head as a response to a perfunctory greeting he sat down on an upturned dried-apple box and proceeded to fill a pipe.

The store reeked of harness oil, newly tanned pelts and burning shoe soles. It was dimly lit by a ponderous kerosene lamp suspended from the ceiling in the center of the room. Outside with the gathering dusk a north wind howled spasmodically around the eaves.

Such was the setting. A few minutes passed. The stranger sat in reverie as the group of men discussed the opportunity of listening to the 1929 world series games two weeks hence over the storekeeper's new radio. One of the men had been reading a newspaper. He had laid it on a bench near by. The stranger's eye fell upon it and, after a moment of peculiar hesitancy, he picked it up. It was a copy of The Los Angeles Times.

Silently he read through the columns. Then, upon turning a page, he held the paper rigidly in his hands. Some moments later he laid the paper to one side, buttoned up his mackinaw, knocked the ashes from his pipe and rose to his feet. Unnoticed he left the store.

Yesterday that stranger walked into central police station and surrendered himself to Detective Lieutenants Posner and Crowley. He is Walter McNeill, 37 years of age, wanted for two months for the grand theft of $11,000 from the Bank of America branch at Seventh and Figueroa streets, according to police records. McNeill was assistant manager of the branch, according to police. When the shortage was found McNeill suddenly had disappeared.

Shortly after his disappearance and the issuance of a warrant for his arrest his wife wrote him a letter appealing to him to return and make restitution. The letter was published in The Times. And it was that story with the accompanying letter which McNeill had read in the copy he picked up in the faraway Alaskan mining camp, he told police yesterday.

"I had traveled all over Canada," he said, "trying to find a way out. Then up into Alaska. The days and nights were a ceaseless torture. When I read my wife's letter in The Times half of the burden seemed to have been lifted from my shoulders. It showed me the right way. And here I am."

RAIL FRANCHISE FIGHT BREWING

Rival Companies Seek Right to Channel Banks

New Harbor Outlet Will Benefit East Side

P. E. and Unidentified Group in Competition

A battle royal for millions in an industrial way will be fought out before the Board of Supervisors, it was learned yesterday, over a new railroad outlet into the harbor district, especially Long Beach Harbor, from the great, rapidly developing industrial area that extends from Southeast Los Angeles to Northwest Long Beach. It will be over the right to use the banks of the Los Angeles River flood control channel.

On the one side is arrayed the Pacific Electric Railway, backed by its parent, Southern Pacific Railroad. On the other side is a group whose identity so far has been kept secret from the public generally with the exception of Le Roy M. Edwards is its attorney. Both are seeking to have the Supervisors lease them railroad rights of way along the channel.

RANCH LINE PLANNED

Whatever be the interests back of Edwards's proposal, the Janss Investment Corporation intends to build a line from Montana Ranch to the Edwards line if it ever materializes, according to Herman Janss. Montana Ranch embraces 8000 acres just north of Signal Hill and is owned by W. A. and J. Ross Clarke interests, but shortly is to be subdivided, Janss said, and developed into an industrial tract. He said the tract will gain an outlet by the proposed line to Long Beach Harbor, where the municipality is beginning a $2,000,000 improvement.

Janss said he understands that the Edwards line, which will run along the west river bank from Dominguez street, Los Angeles, to Anaheim Road, Long Beach, there to connect with a Long Beach municipal line to docks, will be a neutral line open to any and all alike.

CITY INTERESTED

Some of the observers of the Edwards' proposal believe that back of it is a group that sees an opportunity to acquire an enormously valuable rail outlet from what is certain to be an even far greater industrial territory and then to sell its services to any shipper or shipping interest. Because the outlet can reach Long Beach Harbor with especial ease, Long Beach city officials have interested themselves deeply in the prospects.

There is speculation in a possible interest that the Santa Fe Railroad might have in any such a line. Edwards filed his lease proposal in September, about the time that Santa Fe interests at a cost of $6,000,000 added the 1135-acre Bandini estate to their $15,000,000 Central Manufacturing District holdings. Such a line as Edwards proposes, if extended northward from Dominguez street, would go into the Santa Fe territory and give that great industrial area a splendid outlet, shipping men pointed out, compared with Santa Fe's present very circuitous access to harbor territory.

PACIFIC ELECTRIC

Yesterday the Pacific Electric sent a letter to the Supervisors setting out that as long ago as 1925 it had filed with them a proposal to lease both sides of the channel from Long Beach Harbor north to a point about corresponding with the Dominguez street, north boundary of Edwards's proposal.

Both the Edwards and Pacific Electric proposals for lease are to be investigated by Supervisors Graves and Wright. The situation is complicated a bit by the fact that about a year ago the board leased all the land in question to an oil company. However, this is not expected to prove much of a barrier to either railroad project.

It is understood in some quarters that if the Pacific Electric should acquire the rights it will agree to keep the facilities open to any and all shippers and shipping interests through, say, possibly a joint operating agreement among the three

WATER AND POWER BOARD NOMINEE

E. M. Scofield

CITY POST HONOR GOES TO SCOFIELD

Engineering Construction Company Head Interested in Power Problems

E. M. Scofield, president of the Scofield Engineering Construction Company, was nominated by Mayor Porter yesterday as a member of the Board of Water and Power Commissioners to succeed Will E. Keller, who resigned recently. The nomination was sent in to the Council and referred to the Water and Power Committee.

Although he said he prefers to await final action on his appointment by the Council before making any extended comment, Mr. Scofield said he has been interested in the water and power problems of the city for a number of years. Only yesterday he returned from a tour of the Owens Valley. He observed that in the past it was hard to arrive at any clear understanding of the problem because of the propaganda issued in connection with it.

"I expressed my willingness to Mayor Porter to serve on the board because I feel that I owe something to the city in the line of public service," said Mr. Scofield.

The company of which Mr. Scofield is the head is one of the outstanding engineering construction companies in the country. Mr. Scofield said his organization has been doing business in Southern California since 1905, the original headquarters of the company having been in Philadelphia. Mr. Scofield came west during the World War and built ships for the government at San Diego.

He and his family have been in Los Angeles since 1920. They reside at 168 South Beachwood Drive. The company works on a cost-plus or fixed fee basis only. It specializes in the construction of tall buildings, among its work in the city being such structures as the Biltmore Hotel and Theater, Pacific Finance Building, Barker Brothers, Pacific Southwest Building, United Artists' Theater, Pacific Southwest Bank Building at Pasadena and others.

Antiwine Tonic Ordinance Draft Given to Council

City Attorney Werner yesterday completed and submitted to the Council his draft of the ordinance ordered by Council prohibiting the sale of wine tonics in Los Angeles except upon physicians' prescriptions.

The number of prescriptions which can issue each month was left open in the draft, Werner leaving that to Council to decide. Council will take action today, probably setting a date for consideration of the ordinance.

OFFICE SURVEY CONTINUES

Col. Quinlan Will Remain to Further Investigate Housing of Federal Activities

Because of the many conditions to be investigated regarding space in Los Angeles and San Diego for Federal offices, Col. D. P. Quinlan, special assistant to the chief government co-ordinator, will remain in Los Angeles for some time, it was learned yesterday at the Federal Building. In a telegram received from Admiral H. H. Rousseau, chief co-ordinator, Col. Quinlan was instructed to stay in Los Angeles until he has made a complete survey of the situation.

The vast increase in governmental business in Los Angeles, at the harbor and at San Diego, has brought about serious housing conditions because of which the government is paying large sums in rents, it was stated by Col. Quinlan. After a conference with Col. Quinlan, U. S. Atty. McNabb recommended to the government that the assistant chief co-ordinator remain until he has had an opportunity to learn completely about office space needed by various Federal activities.

"I intend to examine all real estate and buildings owned by the government in this section," said Col. Quinlan. "The government holdings here, I understand, are rather large. At present the problem is to find space in other buildings for activities now operating in the Federal Building, not including those having to do with the administration of justice."

It was stated that the opening of another United States District Court here, a matter now before Congress, will require considerably more space in the Federal Building. It is anticipated that the additional court will be established here and that all offices now in the Federal Building, except those relating to the administration of justice, such as the United States Attorney's office, the courts, the court clerk and kindred offices, will be moved to buildings to be rented.

In the meantime plans are to be made for a new Federal Building, costing $11,000,000, exclusive of $1,500,000 already provided for a site. Such a recommendation is to be forwarded to the chief co-ordinator and then submitted to Congress.

Col. Quinlan today is to examine sites for a new postoffice for the

PRINGLE STORY BACKED BY BOY

Lad Describes Screaming and Struggles of Girl

Another Witness Also Helps Present State's Case

Bitter Cross-quiz Indulged in by Defense Counsel

From the lips of Louis Fisher, a 16-year-old boy, late yesterday afternoon came some of the most colorful testimony yet presented at the trial of Alexander Pantages in Superior Judge Fricke's court.

Coatless and with shirt open at the neck and sleeves rolled up, the youth took the witness stand as a surprise prosecution witness and told, substantially, the following story:

That he is employed as a copy boy on an afternoon newspaper and that on the afternoon of August 9, last, he was in the office of William Jobleman, publicity man for the Pantages Theater, delivering proofs of advertising matter.

"I heard screams," said young Fisher. "They started and continued one after another."

Jobleman's office, Fisher explained, is almost directly opposite the little room on the mezzanine floor of the Pantages Theater Building where Eunice Pringle testified Pantages attacked her.

SCENE DESCRIBED

Fisher said that he ran to the door of the advertising office and saw the Pringle girl trying to pull herself through the door of the room opposite, her screams continuing.

"I saw a man's hands around her waist and his shoulders and hips behind her; I could not see his head," the boy continued.

At the suggestion of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stewart, the youthful witness arose on the witness stand and demonstrated on his own body the position of the hands he had seen.

About this time, Fisher declared, Jobleman came up behind him and motioned him to go down the stairs toward the street.

"Did you go slowly or rapidly?" asked Stewart.

"I went rapidly," stated the witness, his face breaking into a boyish grin and the courtroom into a ripple of laughter.

CROWD GATHERED

The boy ran down two short flights of stairs to the street entrance, he testified, and there found a crowd of twenty or thirty persons gathered. Among them was Fred Taylor Wise, another State's witness that had preceded Fisher on the stand.

"Wise ran upstairs and I followed him," said the youngster on the witness stand.

"Well, what did you see then?" continued the prosecutor.

"I saw Pantages standing in the little room putting up his suspenders," replied the boy.

"Was there anyone else in the room?" again interrogated the Deputy District Attorney.

After several more questions, it finally was elicited from the witness that he thought there was but that he had no clear recollection of someone he believes stood behind Pantages.

GIRL BEGAN TO CRY

At the time Fisher said he first saw the Pringle girl trying to get out of the door of the little room her hair was down and he later noticed her dress was torn at the side and that she began crying after she ceased screaming.

Obviously unused to courtroom procedure, the Fisher boy kept Defense Counsel Giesler, Gilbert and Ford continuously objecting to his expression of conclusions he had drawn from what he said he saw.

"I saw Miss Pringle struggling to get away," he said at one time, and a few minutes later voiced the opinion that "she was scared to death." All these expressions drew a storm of objections and were stricken from the record, but so frequently did they recur in one form or another that finally Judge Fricke took over the witness and explained to him that he must testify only to what he saw and heard and not what his opinion of conditions were.

CONSIDERABLY EXCITED

During the judge's examination, however, it was established by Fisher that "she (Miss Pringle) was pulling one way and he (Pantages) was pulling the other way" when he

"BUT there is neither East nor West, border nor breed, nor birth When two strong men stand face to face, though they come from the ends of the earth."

ALONE WITH GOD

Sitting before an open fireplace in a log cabin in the hills of Virginia, Herbert Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald talked to each other of peace and war.

Diplomatic tricks — slippery statesmen—hypocritic pitfalls—hot air—double dealing and polite crookery such as distinguished the peace conference at Versailles were missing.

Two strong, honest men—alone in the mountains with God.

HOOVER AND MacDONALD

Such men as Hoover and MacDonald instinctively seek such places.

They are two of the strongest men who ever headed two great nations.

Hoover, the Iowa blacksmith's son; Ramsay MacDonald, son of a Scotch laborer; in their hands is the destiny of the world.

AN EPOCHAL JOURNEY

Never before has the head of the greatest empire in the world girded himself for a journey to the head of the wealthiest nation.

He carried with him the hope and expectation of all the civilized world.

NOT TO FIGHT

Ramsay MacDonald's address to the American Congress is likely to stand forever as epochal event. What he said is the stronger in that he didn't say much. After all, naval parity is a matter of technique. The only perfect parity is a mutual determination not to fight.

"WE"

No treaty ever can be written that cannot be broken. No contract ever written that cannot be evaded. But the word of two honest men cannot be broken.

Just so, there will be no world wars if the United States and England forbid them. The little bickering hysterical countries do not matter much. If "we" means Great Britain and the United States—what we say goes.

THE STRONGER SEX

If the failure of Preacher Clark's damage suit against "Ma" Kennedy contributes in any marked way to his emotional expressions, I guess the Indians are right about a wet winter.

The tears that the weeping Lothario has already shed would pretty well fill the Boulder Dam. He weeps on the witness chair, he weeps at his lawyer's table; they find him weeping in the corridors and sitting on the stairs to have a real good cry. His lachrymal glands must be fitted with a hair trigger.

LEGAL TRIUMPHS

Legal profundity in the Pantages trial:

"Do you use a lipstick?"

"Do you have sleeves in your dresses, Miss Pringle?"

JEANNE EAGELS

Jeanne Eagels may have worn paste jewels; but there was nothing paste about her art. She was one of the few great actresses of this generation.

SHAW SUBMITS MAP

City Engineer Shaw yesterday submitted to the Council the assessment district map for the improvement of the Sixty-eighth street and Denker avenue district. The Council referred the matter to the Public Works Committee.

PRINGLE GIRL'S STORY BACKED

Copy Boy Tells of Hearing Her Screams for Help

Another Witness Also Aids Prosecution's Case

He Sticks to Accounts Under Cross-examination

saw them first in the doorway of the little office.

On cross-examination, Attorney Gilbert succeeded in drawing from the witness the statement that he had not seen Miss Pringle pass him on the stairway when he ascended the second time in following Wise. Wise previously had testified that as he (Wise) approached the door of the little room the Pringle girl emerged screaming and fled downstairs. On redirect examination, however, young Fisher admitted he was considerably excited by the time events had transpired that far.

Fisher was the last witness of the day. Today the State is expected to call W. C. Hale, another man who ascended into the theater building from the crowd in the street, and intimations were made that Hale will be followed by another surprise witness.

BITTER CROSS-QUIZ

Before young Fisher took the stand, it had been occupied by Fred Wise for several hours and Wise was the object of the most bitter cross-examination of any witness so far at the Pantages trial.

In brief, Wise testified that he was walking by the entrance to the theater building shortly after 5 p.m. on August 9, and heard screams.

"Help! help! help! Save me!" came the cries, Wise testified.

The witness said he retraced his steps to the theater entrance and stood in the front rank of a crowd that gathered there. He noticed Louis Fisher come down the steps. What conversation occurred between himself and Fisher at that time was not allowed to be told by the court, but Wise said he then ran up to the mezzanine floor.

GIRL'S HAND SEEN

When he got to the latter place, the testimony continued, Wise saw a girl's hand protruding through the door, and almost immediately William L. Gordon, a previous State's witness, succeeded in swinging the door open.

"Eunice Pringle stumbled out of the door and ran down the stairs," said Wise. "Halfway down she stumbled again and fell into the arms of W. C. Hale, who was coming up."

Wise said he turned his head from watching the girl, and saw a tall man helping Pantages to his feet and adjusting his clothing. Pantages's helper slammed the door shut, but shortly after the two came out and went up to the main offices of the theater on the second floor. Pantages had his coat on his arm, but was putting on his suspenders and stuffing in his shirt, the witness said.

Wise testified that he followed Pantages to the second floor and then descended to the street again, where he met the Pringle girl coming back with Traffic Officer Courtney. The three proceeded to Pantages's office.

"There he is, the beast, the brute; don't let him get away," the witness testified the Pringle girl said when she saw Pantages in his office.

"Pantages said it was a frameup and just blackmail," went on Wise.

"Oh, don't let him talk like that about me," cried the girl, in response, asserted the witness.

Wise said he took the girl to the offices of an optical company on the same floor and she lay on a couch. At the time, he noticed her stocking was down and her dress torn and that she had teeth marks on her neck, he declared.

Wise said he next went to the police station with the arresting officers and shortly after, at his instigation, returned to the little room in the Pantages Theater Building in company with Officers Baker and Rathbun. He said he and the policemen found Roy Keene, assistant manager of the theater, in the little room with the door closed and the lights out.

HECTIC ATTACK

Wise's cross-examination was lengthy and hectic. The defense attorneys began with the day he was born until the present and established the following facts:

(1.) That he once joined the Navy and suffered a nervous breakdown while in the service and was discharged for "constitutional inferority."

(2.) That he had held many jobs, ranging from a motion-picture extra to a dishwasher, but none of them far removed from menial labor.

(3.) That in 1926 he was in the psychopathic ward of the Los Angeles General Hospital for observation to his sanity and was on parole from that institution for nearly a year, it being stated in hospital records that were produced in court that he "was mentally sick, but not dangerously insane." He later was discharged completely from the jurisdiction of the Lunacy Commission.

On redirect examination, Prosecutor Stewart established by the witness that, although he had gone only to the sixth grade in school, by outside reading since he had so augmented his education that he was able to pass the entrance examinations for Columbia University in five subjects.

STICKS TO STORY

Despite the attack on Wise's past, Defense Attorney Gilbert was unable to shake him on any major point of his story about happenings at the Pantages Theater, and his testimony in many points stood corroborated by witnesses who preceded him or young Fisher, who followed him on the stand.

The attack on his mental condition was combated vigorously by Dist.-Atty. Fitts and Stewart, it being their contention that it should be shown that Wise was suffering from mental illness at the time of the asserted attack or is now so afflicted.

There was only one other witness at the Pantages trial yesterday, William L. Gordon resuming the stand yesterday morning to complete the testimony he began the day previous. He was being cross-examined and in response to questions fixed the time at between 5:10 and 5:15 p.m. when he first heard the Pringle girl's screams while he was working in his dress shop on the third floor. He said that his wife and a salesgirl also were in the shop at the time.

LIFE TRACED

On redirect examination he explained that he is of German descent but was born near the city of Riga, Russia. He declared that he had talked to Nicholas Dunaev, companion of the Pringle girl, on the day the attack took place and the target of many defense inferences, and that Dunaev said he had been born in Moscow.

"I have made the trip between the two cities and it takes two days and two nights by train," said Gordon.

The testimony obviously was adduced by the prosecution to combat inferences made by the defense on cross-examination that Gordon and Dunaev might have known each other in Europe.

Surprise Witness Appears Against Pantages

Frederick Taylor Wise and Louis Fisher

They were prosecution witnesses yesterday at the attack trial of Alexander Pantages.

GIRL LIQUOR CASE PUT OFF THREE WEEKS

The case of Nancy Lee, 25 years of age, Janice Hill, 19, arrested by Dist.-Atty. Fitts on liquor possession charges in connection with a raid on their apartment at 1172 North Kingsley Drive, was continued yesterday in Municipal Court to November 1 when Deputy City Prosecutor Jack explained that witnesses against the girls are engaged in the trial of Alexander Pantages in Superior Judge Fricke's court.

Fitts and police officers arrested the girls after going to their apartment to investigate a report that attempts had been made to tamper with a witness in the Pantages case. Evidence against the girls consists of a small quantity of absinthe, said to have been recovered from a bottle thrown from a window of their apartment.

Junior Chamber Names Dates of Aircraft Show

Designation of November 9 to 17 as Aircraft Week in Los Angeles was announced yesterday by M. E. McCreery, chairman of the event for the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which will sponsor the week. Purpose of Aircraft Week, McCreery said, is to stimulate general interest in the First Western Aircraft Show, to be held here at that time.

Numerous aviation features will be provided during the eleven days. Preceding opening of the show, the chamber will conduct a four-day all-California air tour, with stops at thirteen cities.

Work on the building at Wilshire Boulevard and Fairfax avenue, where the show will be held, is being completed.

The exhibits will include seventy or more airplanes and a great number of aviation instruments valued at approximately $2,000,000.

INQUIRY ON CULT DEATHS WIDENS

Demise or Disappearance of Four Investigated

Negro Guard at Village in Hills Locked Up

Statements by Members of Sect Given Police

David Thompson, negro guard of the hamlet and shrine, was taken into custody by Ventura county officers and placed in jail. The officers said they were not satisfied with the explanations offered by the guardian, who was brought to the cult headquarters by Mrs. Blackburn, following one of her trips to New Orleans. He will be given an opportunity today to go into further details of the practices and performances in the hill-top settlement.

Covered over carefully with several thicknesses of hair blankets, detectives uncovered two boxes filled with dirt and the remains of at least two dogs, after they were told by the negro shrine guard that the boxes contained clay for wall building.

DOG'S BODY EXPRESSED

One dog was wrapped and sealed in a package addressed to Mrs. B. J. Whitmore, a cult member, in Santa Monica. The package, according to the typewritten address had been shipped by express from a Kansas City (Mo.) hotel which Mrs. Whitmore is asserted to have owned. The package was marked as valued at $150.

Cult colonists said Mrs. Blackburn had the bodies of the dogs brought to the camp from Inglewood about two years ago and placed on the altar-like boxes before the door of the "temple" containing the "Lord's furniture set" built in preparation for the second appearance of a Messiah which Mrs. Blackburn has asserted will transpire.

While the investigating officers were busy in the examination and search of the cult premises, high officials of the organization, including Mrs. Blackburn, the so-called high priestess; Mrs. Weiland, the medium; Gale Conde Banks, executive secretary and transcriber; Merritt Wooddell, bearing the title of "The King of Peace" in the order, and Mrs. Martha Rhoads, were making statements to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kearney.

MONEY SOUGHT

The investigation was directed chiefly toward a more complete story of the death and burial of Willa Rhoads, 16-year-old adopted daughter of Mrs. Rhoads, followers of the teachings of Mrs. Blackburn.

The body of the young girl was discovered in a secret grave beneath the bedroom floor of her foster parents' home last Sunday, and was found after police investigators began an inquiry on the cult practices, following the arrest of the two women chieftains and the civil suits of Clifford R. Dabney. Dabney has filed five suits against the sect, which is incorporated, to recover some $44,000 in cash loans, an oil lease and the 164-acre site used by the group in the Santa Susana Hills.

THREATS CHARGED

Charges that his life had been threatened by members of an opposing faction in the order were made by Wooddell, just as he closed the interrogation on his association with members of the cult.

The threat was made, he said, in an attempt to keep him from testifying in behalf of Mrs. Blackburn and her daughter, Mrs. Weiland, in the pending civil suit. Wooddell also said that he has been shadowed mysteriously for nearly a week.

Another discovery which may throw a new light on the entire case was announced when investigators found that Mrs. Rhoads had filled a prescription at the City Drug Company pharmacy at Temple street and Broadway, three months ago.

The prescription called for spices and oils and is believed to have been used either for religious ceremonies or perhaps as a preservative for the body of her foster daughter.

The girl, according to Mrs. Rhoads, died of tooth trouble on January 1, 1925. The body was preserved in ice, salt and spices until February 10, 1927, when it was buried after a long wait for an anticipated "resurrection." It was removed from the secret crypt Sunday.

Officers now are checking the theory that the Rhoads girl may not have been dead for nearly five years as her relatives contend.

Earlier in the day Kearney questioned Mrs. Rhoads again, taking a complete statement from her covering the death of her foster daughter.

Mrs. Rhoads's story related in detail how the girl died suddenly and how Mrs. Blackburn was called to the house at 640 South Manhattan Place and told her followers that the girl must not be buried then.

"Mrs. Blackburn walked the floor," Mrs. Rhoads said, and cried, 'Oh, God. Why did this come? Why Willa?' Then she told us, 'Children, I just got the word that God said I have need of her a little while.'"

TRANSPORTED IN CAR

The following day Mrs. Blackburn came to the Manhattan address and took the body to her home at 427 North Vermont avenue. The body was wrapped in a blanket and placed in a sitting posture in the rear seat of Mrs. Blackburn's car supported by two other persons and thus transported to the other house where it was packed in salt and ice in the bath tub, the woman explained.

Failure to report the death to county authorities was explained with the statement that they feared the body would be dissected and thus prevent the girl's resurrection within a few years in accordance with their belief.

Mrs. Blackburn and her daughter also were questioned but their stories remained unchanged, except that Mrs. Blackburn admitted having knowledge of the girl's death a few hours after it occurred.

"INSPIRED" ARTICLES

Gale Conde Banks, a member of the corporation, and styled as the amanuensis of Mrs. Blackburn, made a lengthy voluntary statement, and declared that he assisted the cult leader in preparing her "inspired" articles for publication.

Banks branded as ridiculous rumors that the order was a love cult, and asserted that it is the outgrowth of spiritual revelations received by Mrs. Blackburn and that they were in accord with and understandable only through the Bible, several other religious textbooks which she exhibited and the Iliad and Odyssey.

Unacquainted with Mrs. Blackburn, he said he came to Los Angeles from Portland in 1923 in answer to call sent to him by Mrs. Blackburn through Mrs. Rhoads, then living with her husband and adopted daughter in Portland and engaged in other religious work there. Banks said he believed then and still believes that Mrs. Blackburn was given his name by an angel, who designated him as the person to help her in her work. At that time he was engaged as an instructor in a military academy, he said.

ANGEL GIVEN CREDIT

An enlisted man in the Signal Corps of the United States Army in 1917, Banks said he became acquainted with Mrs. Rhoads while she was engaged in camp welfare work. He admitted that about three months previous to his being summoned here by Mrs. Blackburn the woman had visited Mrs. Rhoads in Portland, but declares that he since has been convinced that his name was imparted to her by an angel.

Banks said that he remained in Los Angeles for about two weeks while he was being "spiritually enlightened" by Mrs. Blackburn and then went to Boston in an attempt to have the headquarters of a church organization there accept Mrs. Blackburn's revelations and writings as a supplement to the church doctrine. Failing in this, he said he was taken from the rolls of the church, of which he had been a member for twenty-five years.

When he saw Willa Rhoads during the period of her asserted illness, Banks said she was suffering from what appeared to be an ulcerated tooth. He said he was in Indianapolis at the time of her burial.

QUESTIONED ON LETTERS

Questioned about a letter from his mother in Indianapolis, which is asserted to be in possession of the District Attorney's office, in which his mother recites certain misunderstandings with Mrs. Blackburn concerning a loan of money, Banks said his mother was paid and left the colony at Santa Susana when she became dissatisfied with the simple life there. In the letter, according to Kearney, the mother asserts that letters addressed to her son were returned unclaimed. Banks said that he had been too busily engaged in his writings to make the twelve-mile trip from the colony to the postoffice where the letters were delivered.

Though listed in the agreement signed by each member of the order as one of the four persons to receive a percentage monthly from the treasury of the organization, Banks said he was unfamiliar with financial details of the order.

TITLE EXPLAINED

In explaining his title in the order of "Four Winds of the Whirlwind of God," Banks said the concord of it was the following:

"When you breathe in your breath the air comes from four directions and entering through it is caused to whirl and enter the lungs, purifying the blood of the body and destroying impurities. This is the symbol of this spiritual fact. When man breathes into his consciousness a scientific understanding of God's creation, it destroys all his erroneous beliefs and purifies his mental temple."

Chemical tests to determine whether poison caused the death of Willa Rhoads, are being made by Coroner's Physician Wagner and Chemist Abernethy. Date of the inquest has been postponed indefinitely in order to give the chemists an opportunity to discover if some chemical also was used to preserve the body besides the salt and spices that were packed about it.

According to Dr. Wagner it may require a month to determine whether some little-known poison was used. Traces of ordinary poisons easily can be traced, he asserted, and knowledge of them can be determined within a week.

The Divine Order of the Royal Arms of the Great Eleven is incorporated under the laws of California, according to an announcement made by Thomas Wade Cochrane, attorney for the two women held for trial of grand theft. The following are listed as incorporators, Cochrane said: A. H. Shroyer and Jeanette Monroe Shroyer, Mary Theresa Stewart, Flora M. and Walter F. Dingman, Gale Conde Banks, Clifford R. and Alice M. Dabney, Minnie Turner, Nettie Fisher, Arthur and Gean Toy, Emily Miller, Francis M. Satoris and Bessie Moser.

While Entertaining Friends N. B. Davis Forfeits $4000 in Jewels to Burglar

While he was entertaining friends at a bridge party, N. B. Davis reported to police yesterday, a burglar broke into a rear bedroom of his home at 7158 Hawthorne street and obtained $4000 worth of jewelry.

Attracted by the noise made by the burglar in raising a window, Davis arrived at the bedroom door just in time to see the burglar jump out of the open window. A few seconds later he heard an automobile drive away.

NEW SHULER PLEA TO GO UNHEEDED

Bar Committee Decides to Disregard Affidavit Asserting Entrapment

The efforts of Rev. R. P. Shuler to annul contempt of court proceedings through filing of an affidavit charging that he was trapped will not be considered by the committee from the bar association directing the case against the minister, it was announced yesterday.

The letter of the minister was received by the committee, and after a conference by Attorneys Shinn, Jennings and Vickers, it was decided that no reply will be made and that the questions set up will not be referred to Judges Hardy, Tappaan and Gould, unless specifically requested. The members of the committee pointed out that the testimony of Shuler in the hearing, September 16, last, on his radio utterances regarding the conduct of the trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages were voluntary, and that he refused to accept the services of an attorney when asked by the three judges. There is no question of the removal of any rights of Shuler involved in the case now before the three judges for an opinion, Attorney Shinn said. It is purely a matter of whether he committed contempt in his radio talks, Shinn pointed out.

A conference of the judges was held yesterday on the written opinion and there were indications that it will be ready for delivery Friday.

Height Record of Flying Pair Not Recognized

The airplane altitude mark of 23,200 feet believed to have been attained by Pilots Jack Frye and Lieut. Paul E. Richter, Jr., in a flight September 15, last, was not officially allowed yesterday by the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C., according to information received by Dudley Steele, chairman of the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association.

A communication, Steele announced, stated that calibration of the barograph used in the climb showed they had ascended 19,593 feet, which is 1227 feet short of the mark set on July 25, last, by Waldo Waterman, manager of the Metropolitan Airport, and which now continues to be recognized as the official American altitude record for stock-model commercial-type airplanes carrying a pay load of 2200 pounds.

Waterman climbed to 20,800 feet in a Bach plane.

Screen Colony to Fete Mayer

The film colony will pay tribute next Monday night to Louis B. Mayer, chief executive of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, when leaders of the motion picture industry will gather in the Roosevelt Hotel. Festivities include an entertainment program in which representatives of stage, screen and radio will participate.

George Olsen, master of ceremonies at the Roosevelt, has been delegated to write an "M.-G.-M. March" which can be transposed in fox trot time and which will be dedicated to Mr. Mayer.

DANCE HALL PERMIT REVOKED BY BOARD

On his admission that he had operated a dance hall at 114 East Fifteenth street before permission had been granted, the permit of Edward Morey was revoked by the Police Commission yesterday on motion of Commissioner Drake. Morey was directed to close the hall and make a new application and pay another fee if he desires to operate. Drake announced that the act upon which revocation was based will not prejudice his new application.

MRS. IRISH WON'T TAKE BRITE JOB

General Chairman Denies Any Intention of Assuming His Place in Bowl

Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish, appointed last Friday for the fifth consecutive year as general chairman of the Hollywood Bowl, yesterday branded as untrue reports which have come to her attention to the effect that she will assume the duties of the former manager, Raymond Brite.

"I have no intention whatsoever to the assume the duties of manager of the Bowl," she said, "nor am I qualified in any manner to hold so important a position for so great an organization as Hollywood Bowl. This is not a Southern California institution. It is a world possession in the realm of music. It must be free from personalities. The Bowl will not go on because of any one of us but in spite of us.

"I know our president, Mr. Balch, in making a change in managers, has no one in mind at the moment. He is visiting in the north until Thursday. At this time he is entertaining the prominent music editors with the aim of formulating a co-operative outline of next year.

"Mr. Irish and I have delayed our eastern trip to the 21st inst., and in the interim I am assuming the duties of our association, which are never arduous during the early fall months. Fortunately, I shall be able to benefit the Bowl by personally visiting managers in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago at no expense to the Bowl treasury."

Foreign Wars Veterans Posts Consolidated

By a "Times" Staff Representative

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 8. (Exclusive)—Delegations of military orders from all over Southern California tonight attended the celebration of the merging of Santa Monica and Sawtelle posts, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the Municipal Auditorium, Ocean Park. Each delegation in uniform carried its standards upon the floor for the colorful ceremony.

Department Commander Charles Hildebrand of Pasadena, presided. Gen. Robert Wankowski of Culver City, Senior Commander, Spanish-American War Veterans, spoke, as did Mayor Michel and Councilmar Barthel.

A national precedent was established when honorary memberships were conferred by the merged posts on Billie Lennon, Venice boy tenor, a protege of Tito Schipa, and on Burr MacIntosh, actor and war correspondent. Honorary membership in the auxiliary also was conferred on Ethel Boswell, accompanist of Lennon. The youth has sung frequently at entertainments at the Sawtelle Soldiers' Home.

Lease Obtained on Ross Field

Ross Field, near Arcadia, used during the World War as a balloon field, has been leased to the Knabenshue Aircraft Corporation of Los Angeles, according to a dispatch received from Washington yesterday. No official of the local company has been found to announce the details of their plans.

Assistant Secretary of War Harley drew the lease when the Adjutant-General of the California National Guard informed the War Department that the State did not wish to use the field. On August 9, last, a revocable permit was issued allowing partial use of Ross Field in connection with the training of the air units of the California militia.

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company now has a lease on the field which will expire the latter part of October. The new lease to the Knabenshue company is similar to that now held by the Goodyear company, it was announced by the War Department. It is expected that the Knabenshue corporation will occupy the field on or about November 1.

Four Arraigned on Dyer Charge

Four young men who arrived in Los Angeles on September 16, last, from Jersey City were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Head. They are charged with violating the Dyer Act by transporting a stolen car from the eastern city to Los Angeles.

The four gave their names as Irving Cheren, Sidney Sommer, Harold Berman and Louis Spitzer. They were ordered held under bail until the 11th inst. for a hearing.

REGISTRATION CLOSING

This is the final week for registration in the evening classes of the extension division of the University of California at Los Angeles, according to announcement of Director Leon J. Richardson. No registrations will be accepted after this week with the exception of eight classes which will open this week under the direction of Mrs. Claire S. Seay. Exception from the closing date also is made in connection with a class for the study of underlying art principles, which is being organized this week by Winona Wenzlick.

WILL PROVIDES FOR MARE BUT DISINHERITS MOTHER

Josephine Callaghan, armless aviatrix killed near Abilene Tex., in an airplane crash September 27, last, left twenty shares of valuable building stock for the benefit of her pet mare, "Noria," but not a cent for her mother and sister, it was disclosed in her will filed in probate court yesterday.

The mother, Bertha Washington Sullivan, and her sister Bertha Lederer, live in London. The residue of her estate was left to her nieces, Heather and Phyllis Braithwaite, also of London. No estimate of the estate was filed with the will, it being stated as worth "more than $20,000."

According to terms of the will, the mare is "not to be worked, nor sold, nor destroyed, except for humane reasons, but shall be permitted to enjoy absolute leisure for the rest of her life."

The estate, which was inherited by Miss Callaghan from her father, is represented by O'Melveny, Tuller & Meyers.

SHE'S GOING TO HEAR OWN WEDDING BELLS

Alice White

ALICE WHITE ADMITS HER BETROTHAL

Will Become Bride of Sidney Bartlett Sometime After First of Year

Alice White, blond and vivacious screen star, is going to listen to the wedding bells ring after the first of the year and they aren't going to be anybody else's but her own. Yesterday at the First National Vitaphone studios Miss White told of her betrothal to Sidney Bartlett, recently from the New York stage.

SIDNEY BARTLETT

The romance had its inception some months ago when Bartlett came here for talking pictures but Miss White repeatedly said that they were not engaged. But yesterday she was a bit more talkative.

"We are going to be married sometime after the first of the year," she said. "As soon as I am certain I can get away from the studio we will arrange for a date."

Miss White said she has not made definite plans for the wedding, nor is she in a position, she said, to say whether it will be a quiet affair or a big wedding. It was only a short time ago the little actress was elevated to stardom in pictures.

TAXI DRIVER ROBBED AND TRUSSED UP

Victim of Man and Girl Accomplice Left Tied to Tree Four Hours

Tied to a tree after being held up and robbed of his valuables and an automobile, L. O. Palme of 1315 South Flower street yesterday remained helplessly trussed up for more than four hours before his cries gained release. His adventure, reported last night to the Sheriff's office here, took place on the Covina-Spadra road a mile north of the State Narcotic Hospital. Descriptions of the bandit and a woman accomplice who robbed and tied up Palme tally with those of a man and a woman who committed a series of hold-ups in this city Monday night.

Palme is a driver for the Day and Night Auto Livery at 524 West Pico Boulevard. Yesterday morning he was hired to drive to the State Hospital. His fares were a man, 40 years of age, who represented himself to be a Federal officer, and a woman companion, 25. At a point on the Covina-Spadra road the man thrust a .38-caliber pistol against Palme's back, ordering him to halt and get out.

The pair marched the driver to a tree back from the road, robbed him of $43 in cash, a watch valued at $40, a wallet and the sedan, and drove away. Palme noted as he was forced out of the car that the dash clock registered 11:10 a.m. At 3:30 p.m., his shouts attracted two passing motorists, W. D. Saunders of Baldwin Park and V. B. Dicken of Covina, who released him and took him to Covina.

EARLY TRIAL SET FOR COUPLE IN THEFT CASE

Edward A. Kavanaugh and Mrs. Mary Kavanaugh, his wife, charged with burglarizing the United Artists' Theater at 931 South Broadway on August 19, last, taking $12,800 in cash, appeared before Superior Judge Aggeler yesterday and entered pleas of not guilty. At the request of S. S. Hahn, attorney for the two defendants, Judge Aggeler fixed the trial for an early date, the 28th inst. Both Kavanaugh and his wife are at liberty under $10,000 bond each.

STREET NAME CHANGE ASKED

A petition asking that the name of Nichols Canyon Road be changed to Genesee avenue was received by the Council yesterday from John Blair and other property owners. It was referred to the City Engineer and City Planning Committee.

QUARRY QUIZ GETS VIEWS ON BLASTING

Experts Declare Explosions at Bell Plant Would Damage Buildings

Frank Weiver, geophysicist, testified what explosions in stone quarries do to a neighborhood, yesterday before the City Planning Commission in the Alphonzo Bell cement and quarry hearing. He testified that continuous explosions, such as of necessity would occur, if a quarry were located in the Santa Monica Mountains, are ruinous in their nature, subjecting buildings and building foundations to unnecessary shock and vibration.

Louis Mayer, motion-picture producer, also testified. Mr. Mayer feared the granting of a permit to the Bell interests for the establishment of a stone quarry in the Santa Monica Mountains would greatly depreciate property values.

Arthur Taylor, former engineer for the Bell company, testified as to his understanding in the making of sales in this neighborhood for five years previous. It is his opinion, he said, that purchasers had not been informed that the Bell people contemplated putting in a stone quarry in Santa Ynez Canyon.

The hearing adjourned at 5:30 o'clock until today, no evening session being held.

BOY'S DREAM OF SCREEN FAME SPOILED BY POLICE

"Aw, heck! Now I can't be a pitcher star and buy that automobile I wanted to drive back home in some day!"

Screwing up his face in a boyish pout, 12-year-old Joe Harmor thus bared his thwarted ambition yesterday when he was taken in custody as a juvenile delinquent by Policewoman Toomey and detained pending arrangements to return him to the Orphans' Home at Tipton, Okla., which he fled three weeks ago to be an actor in Buck Jones's "horse-opera" troupe.

Joe was located at 1615 North Argyle avenue, where he had been sleeping on the floor as the guest of an unidentified roomer, who hearkened to his tale of woe several days ago when the boy scraped an acquaintance with him on the street. Aware he was a waif, the landlady communicated his plight to the police.

An airplane pilot, he told Mrs. Toomey, took Joe from Tipton to Amarillo, Tex. Stranded there, he turned to tap-dancing for kindly groups whose donations helped him keep body and soul together on a hitch-hiking trip to Los Angeles. But once here, he couldn't find Buck Jones, and thus he became a charge of the policewoman.

Still Located in House Raid

A raid made yesterday on the upper floor of a two-story house at 1162 Victoria avenue disclosed a plant for distilling rubbing alcohol into drink, Detective Lieutenant Southard reported. He led a squad of men from the Chief's office, acting on an anonymous tip received by telephone.

The detectives found eight cans of alcohol and a 100-gallon still, which was in operation, though not attended. The officers said their approach had been discovered and the attendant had fled.

HEARING FOR POLICE PLACED AFTER TRIAL

Through their attorneys, Officers M. B. Sheffield and Arthur B. McClanahan, indicted by the grand jury on charges of accepting bribes, and who will be tried in Superior Court on the 28th inst., yesterday gave notice to the Police Commission that they will appeal for a hearing on their dismissal from the department. In order that facts to be brought out at such hearing may not prejudice the minds of jurors, the commission agreed to set the date of the hearing after the close of the court trials, if they are found not guilty.

FUND DRIVE OF COLLEGE MAKES GAIN

Immaculate Heart Gifts of $50,000 Augmented by Mrs. Mallrup's $12,000

With advance donations reaching the $50,000 mark, a meeting of workers in the Immaculate Heart College building fund drive yesterday heard Mrs. Lillian Mallrup add $12,000 to the fund. Mrs. Mallrup subscribed $6000 for a private chapel in the new building recently occupied on the college campus, and $6000 for a science hall. The chapel was given in memory of her mother and the hall as a tribute to her uncle.

The library of the college will be furnished through the $10,000 cash donation made as a memorial to Henry Edward Feudge of San Bernardino, G. G. Clarken, organization chairman, announced. Other divisions of the building have been donated.

P. H. O'Neil, drive chairman, told workers that the official start of the campaign will be on the 16th inst. with a banquet at the Biltmore when Rt. Rev. Mgr. John Cawley and Reverend Father Sullivan, president of Loyola College, will speak. The drive is scheduled to be completed on the 25th inst.

Today's Bible Text

"And He said to the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee, go in peace." St. Luke vii:50.

TAKING TOLL

The death rate from traffic tragedies continues to climb. While the number of cars in this county was increasing 40 per cent the number of motor killings advanced 55 per cent. In the last five years in this county more than 2800 persons lost their lives in motor accidents. That would have made a fair-sized battle in any war.

NIGHT AND DAY

Now that it has been shown that football and racing can be carried on here at night as readily and gloriously as by day it might be mentioned that virtually every known outdoor sport can be played in this section on every day and night of the year. We have had illuminated golf for the night owls and there is not a day in the year that does not find the golfer in action. They may even pitch horseshoes and play checkers in the open all the year round.

TARIFFS IN EUROPE

The German Foreign Office proposes a two-year moratorium on tariffs between the governments of Europe. What he means is that for such a period all nations of Europe shall pledge themselves to raise no tariff walls against one another. They may adhere to existing policies, but there shall be no boosts. This would not prevent them, however, from taking reprisal action against the American schedules if they were so minded. Maybe they think they can discipline Uncle Sam for his aloofness.

BANKRUPT COMMUNE

The Communist party in Norway went into bankruptcy when a doctor who had loaned the organization $2000 demanded a return of his money. There can be no printing or propaganda until the bill is paid. Moscow has been beseeched to clear up the situation, but the soviet leaders have so far been deaf. The country is not considered favorable territory for the extension of Red doctrines although there are six Communists in the National Assembly. But they are virtually without recognition in the councils of the nation.

FLAPPERS ARE FINE

Lady Armstrong, wife of the British Consul-General at New York, is reported as having declared that our flappers are really superwomen and that they are smarter and quicker than men and can be depended upon to restore the moral balance of the country if it is ever out of alignment. Lady Armstrong is a member of the New York crime commission, which seeks methods to reduce and prevent crime. She says she is relying upon the women to supply the right action at the right moment. Well, girls, live up to your reputation.

BEAUTY SHOW

A national beauty show is being staged here this week, this city being selected, it is unofficially understood, because so much of the available material is on the ground that beauty's traveling expenses are reduced to a minimum.

Whether beauty is indigenous to Los Angeles or not, here is where it congregates for business. The movie is the magnet that draws it from every country under the sun.

Besides which, sunshine and fresh air are the best beauty specialists. With them the real necessity for lipstick and rouge are slight. To have beauty week here is not unusual. Los Angeles has it by the year.

Beauty peeks out at you from every bonnet. It is as likely as not to meet you as the maid in the home, serving pending a contract on the lot. It manages the controls on the elevator to pick up board and clothes in the interim. It types in the office for future reference. It clerks behind the counter in the metropolitan district hoping that some director may come and make a discovery of a new star as well as a purchase. It storms the gates of the studio daily to break into the rotogravure section.

So with a permanent feminine beauty show, a continuous conclave of athletes and a liberal share of the country's brains, Southern California has considerable opportunity to grow the superman. If it does not happen, nature is not at fault.

PEACE OPEN TO ALL NATIONS

There will be no co-operation between the British Empire and the United States in which all nations may not equally take part, no effort for peace in which all may not join. This was the central idea of the speech which Premier Ramsay MacDonald delivered before the Senate on Monday, and in which he made a notable contribution in the new sort of statesmanship which the past few years have been developing. The Senate has seldom listened to a clearer, better-reasoned statement of the manner in which nations should meet each other.

"In these days when two nations talk to each other," he said, "it ought to give hope and confidence to the other nations of the world, especially when neither of those nations—neither you nor we—will form any exclusive alliances directed against the existence or the interests of any other nations or group of nations on the face of the earth.

"Our idea is the free, open, intellectually and spiritually attracted co-operation of friends. We are not a criminal conspiracy to protect each other against policemen."

In the last sentence he characterized as succinctly as it ever has been done in English the guiding spirit of most of the understandings and alliances that existed before the World War and which extended and expanded that struggle till it drew in millions who had no interest in or concern with the original quarrel. It was the unexpressed purpose of the "balance of power" groupings, which were banded together ostensibly for mutual protection, but really for mutual aggression should opportunity offer.

It is too much to say that this spirit has been banished from the world, or even that it is no longer controlling, and Premier MacDonald indulges in no declaration that the millennium has arrived. But he has made it plain—it is impossible to doubt his sincerity—that it is done with so far as the present British government is concerned, and further, that he will use his best efforts while at the head of that government to put in its place what he calls a plan of international co-operation. This substitutes trust for distrust, international confidence in lieu of international suspicion.

"In the old days," he declared, "when two people used to talk together, all the other peoples used to put their hands up to their ears and say, 'What are they saying? They must be conspiring against us.' That was the spirit of war, and that spirit must be extirpated."

In the opinion of the Premier, this new idea is not held alone in the United States and in Great Britain. In France it is being developed, he declared, by Aristide Briand, in Germany it was fathered by the late Gustav Stresemann to whom the Premier paid an eloquent, touching and deserved tribute.

The Premier gave full credit to the Kellogg-Briand pact for putting this spirit to work.

"America united with France," he said, "Mr. Kellogg alongside of M. Briand, gave the word that renewed hope and renewed energy, which is encouraging us to gird our loins with more determination than ever before and pursue the path of peace.

"Where do I find the great difference that the signature of that pact has made? It is this: We signed it, you signed it, other nations signed it. Did they mean, when they put their names, or the names of their representatives, at the bottom of that pact—did they mean it to be merely an expression on paper, or did they mean it to be a guiding idea in policy?

"We mean it to be a guiding idea in policy."

Such an acceptance, he pointed out, reduces the question of naval parity to its true proportions, makes it, in reality, unimportant.

"What is this bother about parity?" he inquired. "Parity? Take it, without reserve, heaped up and flowing over."

When two nations are firmly resolved to make war between them impossible, their relative armaments cease to be significant, since the reason for comparing them has disappeared.

The Premier's visit here would have been well worth making if he had done nothing else than to make such an explanation to the United States Senate. It was a notable contribution to international understanding.

MELLON TO REMAIN

President Hoover gave a set-back to a great throng of rumormongers when he announced that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has been requested to retain his portfolio during the remainder of the President's term. There never had been any official utterance or even intimation that gave these rumors any basis, but they found belief in some quarters because they went uncontradicted. The contradiction has now been supplied.

No man is indispensable, no matter what his abilities, his experience or his position, but Secretary Mellon's post is one it is not too easy to fill. He has fulfilled his duties to the satisfaction of the nation, and despite a sputtering fire of attacks directed against him by small-bore politicians and men with personal grievances he possesses the public confidence as few Cabinet officers have had it. Furthermore, he has given an example of how best to meet and overcome petty criticism. The Mellon system is to ignore it and let official acts speak for themselves.

A man more sensitive, or less sure of his ground—a man, in other words, with an "inferiority complex"—would long since have given up such a post or worn himself out in trying to explain and justify. Secretary Mellon goes serenely on, conscious that he is right and that right justifies itself without assistance.

Secretary Mellon is the right man in the right place, as the approbation of three Presidents goes to prove. Long may he hold it!

APOSTLE OF PEACE

Dr. Hugo Gustave Stresemann was his country's noblest exponent of peace and world amity and was a great factor in ironing out all misunderstandings at the recent session of the League of Nations. His work will go on from where he left it, but he himself will be missed.

The LEE SIDE O' L. A.

BY Lee Shippey

AND if you need further evidence of how the once-great American family is shrinking, just go shopping for a washing machine.

SHRUNK
FAMILY WASHER

Even as the big family car has shrunk and the suit case has shrunk to an overnight bag the size of an old-fashioned lunch box, so the big washing machines have gone out of fashion.

"They're too bulky," the salesman tells you. "People's service porches nowadays aren't built big enough to accommodate them. And the new size family doesn't need them. In the 'used' departments now you will find the big machines selling for less than the little ones. In other words, we have fewer big machines now because we have fewer 'little ones.'"

Incidentally

When the next dictionary is published it will be sadly out of date if it does not contain this definition:

Used: the most elastic word in the language. May mean shopworn, scratched, battered or wrecked. Has completely replaced the once common "second-hand." (Obs.)

How Many Miles Per Ice Cake?

L. Side: On Santa Monica Boulevard near Western avenue yesterday I saw an elderly model T-bone flivver coupe carrying a fifty-pound chunk of ice on its right running board, against the hood. The driver acted as if he was merely carrying ice home that way, but I know better. I was picnicking on Mt. Baldy only last Sunday. I'll bet he was trying to keep his radiator cool.—Windy Side.

Chance For Wealth

Now we begin to understand why so many people who drive up Baldy in winter come down with snow all over their cars. It's a wonder some Scotchman doesn't drive up early and bring down enough to sell, halfway up, to the big crowd of Sunday afternoon drivers.

Motorized Lawn Mowers

On Seventh street yesterday we saw a man mowing the grass on a plot of lawn not more than fifteen by forty feet—and he was using a motorized lawn mower!

Where, oh, where are our rugged sons of the golden West? Any 6-year-old kid could have pushed a real lawn mower over that smooth plot of grass and enjoyed it.

We don't kick on electrical appliances for the women to use. Undoubtedly women live longer and retain their youth longer now than they did in the days when they worked harder—though even then there were more widows than widowers. And now many a woman is saved so much labor by electric sweepers, washers, ironers, egg-beaters, food grinders, dishwashers, etc., that she has to join a woman's athletic club in order to get a little exercise. But when able-bodied grown men use motorized mowers on the kind of lawns you find in walking distance of Pershing Square—we were walking, just looking around for something interesting—we can't help feeling that some of the West's olden glory is fading.

WHO CARES! SAY!

Congratulations

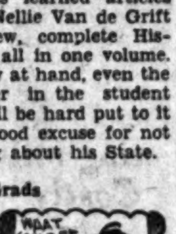
The Claremont Courier the other day sent us a handsome thirty-two-page special edition of itself and, to make sure that we wouldn't miss a word of the good stuff in it, refrained from marking itself anywhere to attract our attention to any one item. We can't blame it, however, as it was celebrating its twenty-second birthday in its new home. We used to be in country newspaper work, and if we'd been able enough to succeed like that we'd be in it still. We envy Publisher Larson and Editor Savage.

Gloom at U. S. C.

A year ago we laughed at the lady who entered a local book store and asked for the works of Charles Dickens, all in one volume. But here comes Rockwell D. Hunt, who frequently contributes learned articles to this page, and Nellie Van de Grift Sanchez with a new, complete History of California, all in one volume. With such a history at hand, even the most expert alibier in the student body at U. S. C. will be hard put to it to think up a good excuse for not knowing something about his State.

Hope for College Grads

Our news sleuths have uncovered the fact that an Oxford grad is driving a truck for a living here in Los Angeles. This shows that college men are not necessarily doomed to white-collar jobs, but can get into more gainful occupations if they have the nerve and enterprise.

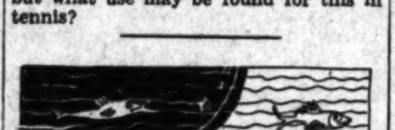


ENGLAND'S SWEETHEART

Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the British Premier and feminine head of his house, does not fuss over social place or recognition, yet it comes to her spontaneously because of her wholesome red-cheeked beauty and maidenly frankness. In any company she may sit where she likes and any prince would be proud to be her neighbor. It is explained that Ishbel is a Scotch form of Elizabeth and this winsome girl wouldn't get angry if Henry Ford called her Lizzie to her face. If she rules as hostess in the drawing-room of England's Prime Minister it is with a gentle and graceful hand. She is the sunny side of the MacDonald pilgrimage.

MAY CAN DO

One of the greatest of Japanese tennis stars has entered Pomona College. But not to study the net. He is taking up philosophy, but who knows but what use may be found for this in tennis?



THE BARNACLE

By James J. Montague

The barnacle has little wit,
But that dismays him not a whit.

He roves content beneath the sea
Serene and gay and fancy free

Until he finds a beam or block,
A vessel's bottom or a rock

Or any object that is damp,
And there he calmly pitches camp.

To him the algae and the brine
Are what to men are bread and wine.

He has no cares, he has no sorrows,
No dread of possible tomorrows,

Sometimes he dwells upon a pier,
Sometimes he leads a wild career

Upon an ocean liner whirled
Half way around the convex world,

But as his consciousness is dim
It's always just the same to him.

His shrewd philosophy of life
Avoids all trouble, woe or strife,

And though his years are somewhat short
He's always sure of his support.

You'd think that men might imitate
This shell-clad mite's dependent state,

And hold his care-free point of view—
And quite a number of them do!

FATHER'S MONEY

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

GRADING OUR PRESIDENTS

[Kansas City Star]

Surveying what he calls "The American Experiment," Bernard Fay, a Frenchman, suggests that the Presidents of this country may be divided roughly into four groups. He grades them on the basis of certain qualifications, such as intellect, force, comprehension, adaptability and the like; and he finds that seven of our chief executives have been "exceptionally gifted," six capable "above average," thirteen "average," and two "inferior." In his classification he does not include either Calvin Coolidge or Herbert Hoover.

If anything, it might seem, Mr. Fay has tended to err on the side of generosity. Unless he be blinded by partisanship, the average American will concur with the writer as to the unusual abilities of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Roosevelt and Wilson. But he might hesitate to admit into this category two other Presidents whom Mr. Fay has included—J. Q. Adams and Andrew Jackson.

In the second group, with capabilities above the average, Mr. Fay places John Adams, Madison, Monroe, Van Buren, Hayes and Cleveland. It would be interesting to know how the younger Adams and Jackson obtained a higher rating than several men herein mentioned and what, for example, were Van Buren's special claims for consideration. But it is in naming the "average" Presidents that our French critic has shown himself most charitable. A fairly respectable standard is set by the inclusion of men like Pierce, Garfield and Taft. But it is something of a jolt to find Grant and Harding admitted to their company.

On the whole, Mr. Fay's estimates are eminently sympathetic. And it is interesting to find that he considers the first twenty-eight Presidents to have a record "rather better" than that of an average hereditary dynasty, if "rather worse" than that of the British prime ministers of the last century. One need not always agree with his conclusions to appreciate the clarity of a Frenchman's judgment in such a survey.

HOTHOUSE VS. FARM

[Philadelphia Public Ledger]

Is the greenhouse going to take the place of the farm as the main source of our future supply of vegetable foods? This might be inferred from remarks by the president of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America, at its convention in this city. According to this authority, the human race need not worry for a while at least about the earth's capacity to provide food, for if the farms give out, if weather is unfavorable to crops, all the producers need do is to build hothouses. Then by artificially regulated heat and light, the sterilization of soils to kill off insect enemies, and by the stabilization of labor, the producers of vegetables can assure the public of an unfailing supply.

This intensive industrialization of food production is in line with certain extremist scientific dreams. Wasn't Mr. Ford recently talking about mechanical cows to take the place of contented ones? But on the whole, such a development is rather disquieting to contemplate. It is to be hoped that Mr. Hoover's Farm Board will be able to delay the approach of the hothouse era.

NOBODY WANTED IT

[Washington Star]

Difficulty naturally arises in paying up for a war which, it is freely admitted, was no pleasure to anybody.

THE THIN BARD

There have been and there are fat poets, but not many of them. Rhyme oozes more freely from narrow men.

LES CUISSES

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Or, if you prefer it, les jambes, or just legs . . . but anyway, cuisse means leg of a fowl.

And I want to protest . . . the talkies are certainly overdoing 'em, simply cuisseing every talkie to death. Now it's all very well, but legs are no treat to us women.

I would even suggest that they have ceased to be an irresistible treat to the gentlemen. It seems there have been rather more than a couple of hundred talkies made to date and I cannot discover more than half a dozen that don't feature legs somewhere. Why, even Von Stroheim's "Great Gabbo," just when it has us tense and poignantly expectant, holds up the whole story to give us a leg show. Even Raoul Walsh's "Cock-Eyed World," positively bursting with he-man masculinity, gets female legs in on every least opportunity.

Of course legs are always feminine in French no matter what gender they are attached to . . . gentlemen's legs, table legs, any old legs. But all the same, legs are one thing women can comfortably take for granted and it takes some spellbinder to arouse our interest in them . . . on other females.

Yet in pretty well every talkie to date leg choruses are thrust upon us. For reels at a time we are required to gaze upon wagging legs in large numbers. Vast fortunes are invested in this sort of pseudo entertainment, that legs, countless legs, may wag for our delectation in handsome settings, and no drapes.

And the curious part of it is that motion pictures depend largely upon feminine audiences to rake in the profits. They admit it. Just at the moment the publicity department of the Fox Studio is racking its united brains to think up advertising that will lure the female of the species to the "Cock-Eyed World." It's a man's picture, men adore it, but if only men support it, it won't pay. Anyway, I mean, it might pay a trumpery 20 per cent, but if the women like it it will pay the more reasonable motion-picture profit of 200 per cent. A picture that only pays 20 per cent, like those highbrow ones, is considered a frost.

Very well then. By what remarkable circumlocution of reasoning do they suppose that lines of wagging female legs in those everlasting revue pictures and back-stage stuff are going to entrance the feminine population? Sure we go to them . . . but always in the very natural belief that no studio could possibly put another row of wagging legs over on us. We rather like the talkies . . . or anyway, feel we might, if the producers would kindly get over their leg complex. We had hoped it was just a temporary epidemic, like measles, that would wear itself out in a week or so. But instead the talkies are identifying themselves almost exclusively with leg shows . . . dozens of 'em, all alike. And I warn 'em, once we women discover that precious little beyond more legs awaits us in talking pictures, we shall leave 'em cold. Why, "The Cock-Eyed World," felt to be so violently masculine, but actually containing only three pairs of obstreperous female legs, has it all over a revue-chorus as a feminine audience lure. We may be a trifle shocked, but at least we are not bored. I suggest that if the Fox people just advertise "Positively no leg chorus" in their "Cock-Eyed World" publicity, the women will flock. With a title like that, they are naturally afraid that it means everlasting leg shows, because leg shows have already convinced us the world is pretty cock-eyed.

Now in the days of long skirts we might have experienced an unholy thrill in seeing rows of female legs in tights. So daringly shocking in those days. But now . . . Great Jehosaphat, there isn't a shade of surprise, suspense, embarrassment or even a chance for some nice old-fashioned prudery left in legs. We've all got 'em, we've all seen 'em, we all show 'em and our interest in them was worn out several years ago.

If they would only try giving us male legs for a change, it might help. I will admit our interest in masculine legs has never been aroused, but perhaps it could be done. I doubt whether women could ever maintain the sustained interest in male legs that men have in female legs, but it might prove an enterprising novelty in, say, a couple of pictures. I recall that Nijinsky and Ted Shawn both managed to capture a fleeting feminine interest in male legs. Enough, perchance, to make us look speculatively at hubby's when we got home . . . but we forgot 'em next morning.

Producers and directors should remember, too, that they see these everlasting revue leg choruses in the flesh. It's quite different on the screen. Yes, even in colored pictures. There is none of the sinful excitement of a possible meeting with the owner of the legs, the second from the end, at the stage door afterwards, in a picture, even for the men. They are merely pictures, often, in the long shots, mere silhouettes . . . and really, surely, a very small proportion of males can sustain an interest in animated picture post cards for long, no matter how undressed.

In short, legs, rows and rows of jiggling, wagging female legs are just a bore, dull, tiresome, irritating, apparently introduced for no other purpose than to hold up the sequence of the story. Ask even the most persistent woman picture fan how she feels about 'em and you'll find I'm speaking for them by the million.

Post-vacation season is that time when everybody needs to borrow money and nobody has any to lend.

Plato Said It First

ALTADENA, Oct. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] "Crime Laid to Heredity" is a statement in The Times of September 23 made by Dr. H. J. Gosline, who has just resigned as pathologist to Sing Sing Prison, New York.

Plato, the Greek philosopher, who lived B. C. 429, said, "The wicked are wicked because of their organisms." He has antedated Dr. Gosline several years.

There is no more reason to doubt that criminal tendencies are inherited than there is a predisposition to certain physical diseases in a family. Knowing this to be a fact and recognizing it enables the individual to cultivate resistance to temptation and to seek an environment favorable to overcome the predisposition to crime.

Ignoring this law of our existence, which has an impelling bearing on our moral conduct invites crime.

Honk! Honk!!

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I was delighted to read today's paper, which contained an editorial regarding honking auto horns. This honking does more to keep people sick and in a bad frame of mind than anything I can think of. It is getting terrible here and I know of three families who moved away on account of this honking keeping them in such a nervous condition.

So many people honk and honk loudly when there is no reason for honking and others ride up to houses or apartment-houses and honk until some one comes.

A. M. WOODS.

Clerical Cowboys

SEATTLE (Wash.) Oct. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] How long are you going to allow a couple of clerical clowns to make your city a laughing stock?

Los Angeles boasts of its population; it is proud of its growing culture and cosmopolitanism, yet it permits a pair of publicity hounds to brand it as a bucolic Texan village.

When Los Angeles is referred to as an overgrown village can you say it is prompted by jealousy? When it is said Los Angeles is hysterical can you say it is due to envy?

Will it be necessary to film another "Two Wagons—Both Covered" to discipline the clerical cowboys who shoot up your town whenever they get a chance to make whoopee?

NATIVE SON OF L. A.

"LITTLE-GIRL-AFRAID-OF-A-POLICEMAN"

BY JENNIE VAN ALLEN

Beruffled and beribboned a wee maid fluttered along Broadway.

She was gay as a tropical bird and her little patent-leather slippers, that shone like black tar, scarcely touched the pavement.

She quivered with joy, for it was her great day—the day she had come downtown to see the circus parade. Days and days and days she had been "good" that she might be numbered among the multitude who were seeing the circus from the sidewalk.

She rejoiced in all that her eyes saw and the song of the "Go-Stop," the clanging of gongs and the honking of automobiles made sweetest music in her ears.

But while the rainbow in her sky was flashing primal colors, her mother cried as she pointed to a traffic officer:

"Look, there's a policeman! You must be a good girl or he'll take you to jail and you'll never see me again!"

The bonny face was pallid with terror. The dancing feet dragged on the pavement. The little body sagged close to the woman who had given her life, but who carelessly pulled her beautiful rainbow out of the sky.

A giant of a man with a badge that looked bigger than a gold dinner plate laid his heavy hand on the mother's shoulder and pushed her close to the curb.

"I've a good mind to arrest you for the cruelest crime a mother can commit against her child. Aren't you ashamed of yourself for trying to scare a child into being good? Teach her to be good because it's good to be good. Teach her that whether she's a saint or a sinner, a policeman is her friend."

Then he lifted the little maid in his mighty arms and holding her above the heads of the people, cried:

"See the elephant! Look at the clowns! Watch the ladies in their spangled dresses! Listen to the caliope! Oh, there are to the calliope! Here come the riders on horseback! I love a circus, don't you?"

The little voice was like a thin note played on a wind instrument:

"Oh, yes, I love a circus!"

Then her little arm went around his sunburned neck:

"I'll never again be 'a-little-girl-afraid-of-a-policeman!'"

Glasgow Keeps Low Fares

Because of the popularity of the half-penny fare on municipal street cars, authorities of Glasgow, Scotland, have voted to retain it and to attempt to secure a complete monopoly of passenger transport within the city and on trolley lines outside. The plan of charging a half-penny, equivalent to 1 cent in America, in certain zones, has been on trial for some time.

JULIAN CRASH ECHOES IN SUIT

Action for $12,000,000 Filed by Shareowner Group

Stock Exchange and Forty-six Brokers Defendants

Accounting of Profits on Issue Sales Asked

A complaint in equity for accounting and general equitable relief was filed yesterday by a group of eight stockholders of the Sunset Pacific Oil Company against the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, forty-six brokers and others and nineteen existent or former copartnerships and brokerage companies, seeking recovery of approximately $12,000,000 asserted to have been made in sales of void and overissued shares in the Julian Petroleum stock debacle.

The latest reverberation from the financial crash of the Julian corporation three years ago reveals that those appearing as plaintiffs to the action recently have demanded of the president and board of directors of the Sunset Pacific Oil Company, the rehabilitated concern, that the suit be filed in the name of the Sunset Pacific company, but were refused.

PRINCIPALS IN SUIT

Those representing themselves as stockholders who filed the suit are Sylvia S. Phelps, Frederick A. Speik, Paul R. Pratessa, D. T. Reed, A. M. Loeb, John H. Roberts, J. T. Best and F. T. Finch.

Those named defendants in the suit are Jacob Berman, also known as Jack Bennett; Pat Shipp, C. T. Harris, Leo Stanley, Leila Wagy, administratrix of the estate of A. C. Wagy, late broker; H. B. Chessher, Chessher also named as surviving partner with A. C. Wagy; Beverly Mortgage Company, G. P. Wolcott, Charles C. Aiken, Gerald C. Lambert and the Aiken-Lambert Company; Abe W. Morris, Frank L. Gardner, Banks, Huntley & Co., H. J. Barneson, C. C. Streeter, H. J. Barneson & Co., L. G. Braun, L. A. Crisler, E. G. Derby, Edward H. Dunk, McClarty Harbison, Dunk, Harbison & Co., S. H. Ellis, C. W. Finigan, J. E. Miller, Finigan & Miller, a copartnership; Buford Graves, Francis P. Graves, Clark Downey and the Buford Graves Company; Francis P. Graves & Co., G. P. Wolcott & Co., Earl G. Hay, A. L. Jameson, J. P. Lane, E. H. Newland, E. H. Schiek, J. B. Donovah, Paul J. Marasche, Torrence J. Welch, Bob Feinstein, George W. McBride, Walker, Donovan & Co., H. B. Chessher and George W. McBride of the copartnership formerly existing under the firm name of McBride & Co., comprised of A. C. Wagy, Chessher & McBride; Frank K. Benchley, Wallace P. Wagy, Wagy & Benchley, S. C. Lewis, L. P. Parsons, Los Angeles Stock Exchange, A. D. Cohen, John C. Feys, Dave Friedman, Dowell & Hull, C. H. Dowell, G. B. Hull, Chester Regal, H. S. Cahn, B. C. McCabe, Cahn, McCabe & Co., and the Sunset Pacific Oil Company.

ALLEGATIONS SET FORTH

The complaint asserts that prior to March 31, 1926, Jack Bennett, with the knowledge of S. C. Lewis, then president of the Julian corporation, manipulated the issuance of shares in the concern and caused them to be marketed over the boards of the exchange until the asserted overissue was in excess of $26,000,000, "less than $14,000,000 of which was in fact paid . . . to Julian Petroleum Corporation."

Filings in the suit carefully review the oft-told hectic financial scheme and collapse of the Julian corporation, the financial system by which it was rehabilited as the Sunset Pacific Oil Company under Federal receivership, and asserts that records as pertain to the asserted fraud set forth in the suit have been concealed, burned and otherwise destroyed.

The suit prays for an allowance of attorneys' fees from any funds which may be recovered, and asks for an accounting in the case of each defendant to the action to determine profits, if any, in dealings in the overissued stocks.

The suit was filed by the law firms of Hewitt, McCormick & Crump and Joseph L. Lewinson.

Ex-Army Expert Engaged to Run Aircraft Plant

Fred W. Herman, former army aviation engineer, was yesterday named vice-president and general manager of the Moreland Aircraft Company of this city, according to A. W. Poole, aviation manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Authority for the announcement was given by G. E. Moreland, president.

The new general manager has been connected with the Army Air Corps experimental station in Dayton, O., for eight years, being chief of the design unit of the airplane branch during the past three years.

J. L. Atwood, aeronautical engineer from Wright Field, also has been added recently to the Moreland technical staff.

Killing Suspect Held for Trial

Cruz Vicunia of Los Nietos yesterday was ordered held for trial in Superior Court by Municipal Judge Lahey on a charge of murder growing out of the shooting September 22, last, of Santiago Fuentes, oil worker of Los Nietos.

According to testimony in the case Vicunia shot and killed Fuentes after accusing the latter of paying attention to Vicunia's wife. Vicunia was ordered held without bail at the request of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Choate.

LAW OBEDIENCE URGED

Law enforcement was stressed yesterday by Lucius C. Dale, speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Zheta Chi Alumni Association in University Club. He urged attention to President Hoover's attitude in encouraging mass responsibility for law obedience first. The fraternity is active in civic affairs.

HER SCREEN KISSES STIR HUSBAND'S IRE

Jeannette Loff

When Harry Roseboom, husband of Jeannette Loff, motion-picture actress, would see his wife kissing a man on the screen he immediately would fly into a jealous rage and leave the theater, Miss Loff testified in Superior Judge Sproul's court yesterday, where she was granted a divorce from Roseboom.

This unfortunate situation, Miss Loff declared, prevented her husband from attending shows where her pictures were exhibited, and it caused disagreeable scenes at home when he did attend such a show. All of which, Attorney Roger Marchetti contended, made out a fine case of legal cruelty. And the court agreed.

Actress Finds Toting Highball Costly Sport

Having the makings of a ginger-ale highball in her car when it crashed into another machine will cost Bee Montague, musical-comedy actress, $201, according to a ruling yesterday of Municipal Judge Sheldon.

According to testimony in the case Miss Montague's car collided with one driven by E. H. Wenzel at Sunset Boulevard and Van Ness avenue. A small quantity of alcohol and ginger ale was said to have been found in Miss Montague's machine.

Judge Sheldon fined the actress $200 on a charge of transporting liquor and $1 for possessing it.

Five-Finger Plan for Hollywood Streets Assured

Final judgment of condemnation for property involved in the five-finger plan of traffic relief in Hollywood was signed by Superior Judge Craig yesterday and work can begin soon, according to attorneys in close touch with the case.

An interlocutory decree, giving the city right to condemn property near Argyle, Wilcox, Ivar, Cahuenga and Hollywood boulevards, was granted some time ago. The city will spend approximately $5,000,000 on the improvement, which will distribute traffic between Cahuenga Pass and important boulevards in the city.

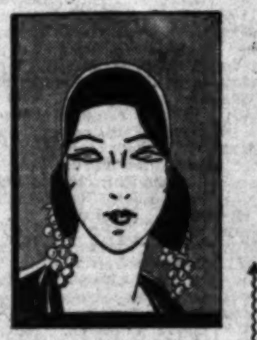
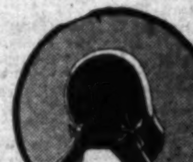
New In Millinery

Fashion does most interesting things with Fall hats, and in so many clever ways that finding a becoming model is an easy matter. Here are two outstanding styles sketched from the Millinery Section:



Brilliant-finished Crushable Imported Black Soleil, off-the-brow type, extending down on either side in wing effect; fitting well down over the neck; trimmed with clusters of small white lustre pearl-finished cherries on dangling stems of green, with leaves. A clever exposition of the vogue for black and white. $29.50.



The back plays an important part in Fall hats—a tiny brim affair in Black French Felt with front snugly fitted by means of two inverted tucks in scroll effect; a fold on either side. Two imported metal bow pins in silver and black stripes are a novel feature. $18.50.

Christmas Cards 100 for $12

No reason for not buying these now—in fact, every reason for doing so!

The designs are novel and interesting—in parchment etchings and die-stamped cards—and there are scores of them. Today's price is a special one.

Of Interest to Women

Society

by JUANA NEAL LEVY

Mr. and Mrs. Artemus Dwight Lamb, who, since their return from their extended wedding trip abroad, have been house guests at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Irving Wailes, in Fourth avenue, now are in their own cosy new home at 139 South Van Ness avenue, where they entertained with their first informal dinner party last Wednesday evening, taking their guests afterward to the grand opera.

Mrs. Lamb, formerly Miss Eleanor Wailes, one of the most popular members of the younger married set, was married last April, leaving immediately for New York where they sailed for four months' travel on the continent.

Around the World Club

The first meeting of the Around the World Club will have its setting at the home of Mrs. Chester Wallace Brown, 919 West Adams street, tomorrow at 2 p.m. Mrs. Brown, who has traveled extensively, will give the program using Peru as the vehicle, and Mrs. William Gilbert will give the current events talk. Mrs. Charles Henry Thompson is president of the organization and its personnel also includes Mrs. Hector Geiger, first vice-president, Mrs. Edward H. Uhl, second vice-president, Mrs. Warren W. Watson, recording secretary; Mrs. James W. Lindsey, treasurer, and Mrs. Rollin B. Lane, Mrs. Frederick W. Stith, Mrs. Albert A. Clay, Mrs. Russell C. Buffum and Mrs. Edwin H. Burrows, directors.

Besides their regular afternoon meetings they also give evening parties when the husbands and escorts are included.

Luncheon-Bridge

The City Association of Alpha Sigma Alpha Sorority was entertained Saturday at a bridge luncheon at the home of Mrs. Martin Jarvis. Assisting Mrs. Jarvis were Mrs. Berger and Mrs. Berry. The officers of the City Association for the coming year are, president, Mrs. Jarvis; secretary, Mrs. Clay Morstad, and treasurer, Mrs. Berger. The association is made up of the members of the different chapters in the United States who now are residing within a radius of fifty miles of Los Angeles.

At the luncheon Saturday Mrs. Dahlman from Santa Ana and Miss Lillian Bradley from Fillmore traveled the greatest distance to meet with their sorority sisters, the former being an alumna from Ohio State University, while the latter claimed Colorado Teachers' College as her school.

Lovely Affair

One of the delightful events of the week was a house-warming in the form of a surprise party honoring Mrs. Samuel R. Blake in her beautiful new home at 302 Kings Road Tuesday afternoon, last. While Mrs. Blake was absent from her home the fifty guests arrived and occupied themselves with the decorations, which were carried in the autumn shades of yellow and brown.

Entertainment was furnished by Signor Pietro Gladiatore Gentile. During the course of the afternoon Mrs. Blake was presented with a china shower.

Luncheon-Bridge

The home of Mrs. J. Clark Sellers, 345 North Mansfield avenue, was the setting for a delightful luncheon-bridge of recent date. Those bidden included Mrs. Frank Suttle, Mrs. James McGiffen, Mrs. Buron Fitts, Mrs. George Sunday, Mrs. Willis Melvin Buchanan, Mrs. George Berger, Mrs. Howard Champion, Mrs. Dally Stafford, Mrs. Samuel R. Blake, Mrs. Haskel Freeman, Mrs. William Henneman and Mrs. Thomas N. Miranda.

Shakespearan Program

The Shakespeare Study and Dramatic Club, Frederick Warde chapter, will begin its year's schedule tomorrow evening at 637 South Ardmore street with the study of "Macbeth."

J. Leighton Leigh, English actor for four years with Sir Henry Irving, and Eric Mayne, will interpret scenes, assisted by Mrs. Bert Lindley. Miss Ruth Basden, dramatic soprano, will sing, accompanied by Miss Mae Mills.

Officers of Frederick Warde chapter are Mrs. Bert Lindley, president; Mrs. C. O. Rouse, vice-president; Miss Alice L. Wardwell, recording secretary; C. W. Kesler, treasurer; Miss Helen Montgomery, corresponding secretary; Miss Elma Jane Cole, auditor; Mrs. Dana S. O'Brien Wells, director, and Mrs. C. W. Kesler, president emeritus and director.

Entertaining Cousin

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Grant are entertaining their cousin, Mrs. E. A. Rogers of Quincy, Ill., at their home at 1638 Grand View street. Many lovely affairs have been given in honor of the visitor, who has many friends in Southern California. She will return home later in the month, planning to pass the winter in Florida, but will return here next spring to pass the summer here.

Sorority Tea

Resident Pi Beta Phis will be entertained at a tea at the Wilshire Country Club Friday at 2 p.m. Mrs. Walter Burbank, the new president, will preside. In addition to the musical program, during which several vocal selections will be presented by Margaret Messer Morris, accompanied by Dorothy Robinson, the recent national convention held at the Hotel Huntington will be reviewed for the guests. A progressive and delightful year is anticipated under the guidance of Mrs. Burbank.

Wedding Anniversary

A surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Cowie of 1568 South Normandie avenue, Tuesday, the 1st inst. celebrating their twentieth wedding anniversary, when a number of friends marched in upon them to the tune of bagpipes. Those included were Messrs. and Mmes. Charles Stevenson, D. Black, H. Rosson, P. Shepperd, J. Owen, T. Kerr, Miss Effie Owen, Mrs. N. Robertson, D. Masterson, W. Bald and Ian Kerr.

Songs and dancing featured the evening, Charles Stevenson giving old Scotch songs and recitations, while Effie Owen and Ian Kerr executed the Highland Fling and Sword Dance, the music of the bagpipes adding to the charm of the occasion, and the evening closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Sorority Pledging at U.C.L.A.

Closing a rush season extending on the campus of University of California at Los Angeles over the entire summer, ending a week ago, a number of minor changes in the usual rush rules as well as the abolition of preference dinner are intended by Pan Hellenic to insure impartial judgment for both rushees and sorority.

Three sororities pledged no candidates, but among the big five which have concluded their rushings, those included are:

Alpha Phi: Misses Jeanne Hidgeman, Eileen Newcome, Helen Van Brunt, Bernice Shaw, Margaret Boyd, Betty Boyd, Margaret Wheeler, Rosemary Henery and Christine Vahey.

Delta Gamma pledged Misses Emelie Macomber, Jean Richardson, Patricia Bradley, Elizabeth Knoerpp, Gulita Caperton, Betty Burdell, Nancy Guguette, Marian Hough, Marjorie Kellar, Betty Booth, Mary Ellen Firmin, Colleen Sward, Dorothy Walters and Constance Bennett.

Kappa Alpha Theta pledged Misses Dorothy Brown, Margaret Jackson, Mary Patten, Betty Hastings, Margaret Benson, Jane Crutcher, Charlotte Garlick, Sarah Schwartz, Anna Grace Kwitz, Jane Rooney, Sue Hunter, Fern Kasl, Frances Turner, Katherine Fin, Alice Marston, Juliette Wevi, Betty Prettyman, Yvonne Garnier and Laura Wylie.

Kappa Kappa Gamma pledged Misses Dorothy Russell, Eleanor Walker, Jayne Wilson, Virginia Brown, Barbara Knepper, Bernice Robinson, Mary Louise Francis, Elizabeth Newland, Patricia Simpson, Thurya Markley, Lulu May Lloyd, Betty Janss and Dorothy Hamilton.

Pi Beta Phi pledged Misses Frances Hall, Marjorie Barter, Georgia Crowell, Lorraine Smith, Beatrice Elwell, Adele Alfork, Eleanor Thompson, Janet Rally, Dorothy Standring and Winifred Story.

While 321 women were pledged, the largest number by any one sorority was twenty-one pledged.

Several of the chapter houses on the campus at Westwood are completed or nearly so and furnished, so that there will be much entertaining next year.

HER ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Date for Wedding Will Be Set Later

[Lansing Brown studios]

Miss Sarita Miller

FORMAL announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edgar Miller of 560 Santa Anita Road, Pasadena, of the engagement of their attractive daughter, Miss Sarita Miller, to William W. Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Valentine of San Marino. No date is set as yet for the wedding, which will unite two of the most prominent families of the Southland. Miss Miller was graduated from the Westbridge School for Girls in Pasadena and is an active member of the Pasadena Junior League. Mr. Valentine claims Stanford as his alma mater.

BLACK AND WHITE IN PARIS FASHION

Winter clothes retain much of the black and white coloring that marked late summer styles here.

Furs are particularly affected by the vogue of white with black. Such combinations as black and white fox coat collars and black and white baby lamb detachable cravats are worn by some of the smartest women.

Black broadcloth coats with ermine collars, worn over black satin dresses with touches of white, are almost classic styles for autumn among well dressed French women.

WOMEN'S WHOLE LIFE SPENT ON MISSISSIPPI

Mrs. Carolina Warrick, 80 years of age, was born on the Mississippi and she still is on it. "I am a river rat and never will be anything else," she said. Piloting a weather-beaten houseboat, Mrs. Warrick recently visited Memphis on her annual trip down the river. A son accompanied her. She was born on the steamer Diana on a run between New Orleans and Louisville, the daughter of a river family.

CLUB NOTES

Offers Music Courses

The Schubert Wa-Wan Club is offering to its members this year the course of study conducted by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Mrs. Grace Widney Mabee, former Wa-Wan president and now second vice-president of the federation, will present the course, using the textbook "Epochs in Musical Progress," by Clarence Hamilton.

Class periods, twelve in number, will begin at 12:30 p.m. today in the conference room of the Biltmore, preceding a reception at 2:30 p.m.

Reciprocity Meeting

Sheriff Traeger will speak on "Early California" this noon in the Windsor Tea Rooms, before members of the Reciprocity Club, of which Mrs. Arthur J. Kerr is president. For the musical program, Etta Mae Hatfield, music chairman, will present Clara Dorster, dramatic soprano, who has recently taken up residence in Hollywood.

The new year book of the club has just been completed and will be presented to members during the luncheon.

New Study Circle

Santa Barbara-Avenue Parent-Teacher Association has established a parent education study circle, which will meet at 9:30 a.m. the second and fourth Wednesdays in the school auditorium.

The work will be directed by Mrs. Marshall Zeno, and is given with the approval of the Board of Education.

The subject to be studied this year is "The Everyday Problems of the Everyday Child." Mrs. R. Maille, past president of the association, has been appointed study circle chairman, and will conduct her first meeting today.

Special Trip Here

George McAneny, authority on city planning, will speak this noon to Ebell Club members.

For seven years Mr. McAneny was president of the New York and Associated Cities' Planning Commission. He was in Los Angeles only recently, but has made a special return trip to appear before the Ebell luncheon guests.

The event also will be the first luncheon of the year for the club, and Mrs. A. Bennett Cooke will preside.

Educator to Speak

Dr. C. K. Edmunds, president of Pomona College, will be the guest of the Women's University Club, 943 South Hoover street, on the occasion of the first dinner of the club year, to take place tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Edmunds will speak of his travels, under the title "Thirty Thousand Miles in China," and will show exceptionally interesting stereopticon views taken by himself.

The club opened its year Saturday with a program given by the courtesy of the Grand Opera Association. Mrs. Benjamin F. Bledsoe, second vice-president and program chairman, arranged the event and announced the numbers.

Opera Club Opens

With Baron and Baroness Passphory, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bevani and Edgar A. Guest, famous poet, as guests of honor, the Los Angeles Opera and Fine Arts Club will conduct its official opening in the form of a dinner at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the Mary Louise.

Mrs. J. C. Brown, social chairman, is to be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Shuey, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Moore, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Sanger, Mrs. Elizabeth McCabe Gilmore, Miss Estelleen Knecht, Miss Mabel McCallum and Miss Ann Brown.

Mme. Gloria Mayne, Mme. Francis Gray, dramatic soprano of the Boston Grand Opera Company, accompanied by William Hoffman and Violet Roan, coloratura soprano, will give the musical program.

Annual Dinner

The annual dinner of the Los Angeles Evening High School Teachers' Association will take place at 6 p.m. Saturday in the Los Angeles City Club, 833 South Spring street, with Mayor Porter as guest of honor. Other honorees are to include Mrs. Oliver C. Bryant, member of the Board of Education; Mrs. Frank Duncan, State president of the Daughters of 1812, and Mrs. Hazel Thorn Lane, chairman of the Eastern Star division of the National Illiteracy Crusade.

Comprising the evening's program, newly elected President R. K. McCausland and Prof. Earl Hill will give reports of the teachers' convention in Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Eva Jessup will describe the recent educational conventions in Europe.

NEW STYLES DOOM HUSBANDS TO TORTURE

LATEST DRESSES HAVE TO BE BUTTONED ALL UP AND DOWN BACK

No matter what women think of the new fall styles, men are almost sure to be against them, particularly married men.

There are old-fashioned hooks and eyes on many of the afternoon and evening dresses Paris favors most. Moreover, the pesky things go straight up the back in many cases and the most agile and athletic women can't get into them without help.

Autumn suits and coats revive the over-sized hoops and eyes of pre-war wraps. Some of the seductively snug fitted coats are held in place by invisible hooks here and there, fastened into tailor's loops such as have not been seen for many a day.

Another complication in the new frocks is the prevalence of rows of small buttons which actually fasten and are not mere ornaments.

Such buttons range up the front, back or sides of basque bodice dresses and add minutes to the time it takes a woman to dress.

Even gloves share the tendency to be more complicated and get away from the time-saving slip-on method of other seasons.

Health and Diet ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

THE DUCTLESS GLANDS
The Parathyroids

When doctors first began to operate upon the thyroid gland there were a number of cases where death occurred within a few days following the operation. These tragedies led to the discovery of four small bodies (parathyroid glands) located one on the outside and one on the inside surface of each of the two outside lobes of the thyroid.

The removal of the parathyroid glands leads to a profound disturbance of metabolism, acute muscular weakness, with painful cramps of the muscles of the arms and legs, and sometimes the jaws, larynx, face and abdomen. This may occur without a loss of consciousness, but eventually leads to stupor and death.

Many doctors now believe that the disease, tetany, is due to a lack of secretion of the parathyroid glands. The lack of their hormone makes the body unable to retain calcium and probably produces some active poison as the result of deranged metabolism. When tetany continues over any length of time the hair may fall out; it is usually thin and short, the nails become fragile and transversely ridged, and the teeth show peculiar horizontal grooves because of defective enamel formation, the front teeth being most often affected. In children there is a delay of bone development similar to rickets. Sometimes there is an excessive quantity of saliva, perspiration and urine.

The derangement of the parathyroid glands, themselves, seems to be caused by especially virulent toxins as may occur from gastro-intestinal disturbances, acute infections and operations on the thyroid, and a number of diseases of the nervous system.

When parathyroid disturbances are not caused by actual injury or disease of the parathyroid, they can usually be overcome by a thorough alkaline-forming diet following a short fasting regime. The foods rich in calcium seems to be of special benefits.

ADRENALS

The adrenals or supra-renal capsules, seem to produce two different internal secretions, one which maintains the blood pressure and tone of the sympathetic system and increases the amount of sugar in the blood and the muscular vigor. The other secretion has not been as well studied but it seems to be associated with precocious sexual development and it lowers the blood pressure, and a lack of this secretion seems to be associated with infantalism.

Diseases of the supra-renal glands produce bronzing of the body known as "Addison's Disease," about which I have prepared a special article which I will be glad to send to anyone interested.

OTHER GLANDS

In addition to these glands which we have just studied, there are other ductless glands, such as the carotid and coccygeal and lymphatic structures, and we have also the internal secretions produced by the liver, pancreas, duodenal mucosa and possibly the skin. The functions of the first two are not well known, the others seem to be related to digestion. For example, the mucus membrane of the duodenum, when stimulated by weak acids and soap, produces a substance which promotes a more rapid flow of pancreatic juice and the pyloric area of the stomach produces a hormone to stimulate the flow of gastric juice.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from [illegible] weeks to 6 years. Prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother. Constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

MONGOLIAN IDIOTS PERMANENTLY BACKWARD

A reader writes:

"Please publish in your column all you know about Mongolian idiocy, causes, symptoms and results in babies and older children."

ANSWER

There are many opinions as to the cause of Mongolian idiocy but none of them is authenticated, in that it holds true for every child. It has been said that such children are born to parents who are old and past the age for normal child-bearing, but this is refuted by the records of cases of Mongolian idiocy in families where both parents are young and vigorous. These children have been born into families where the parents are closely related, but this likewise has been looked upon as a happenstance. Syphilis, in one or both parents, has been given as a cause. Whatever the cause, the result seems to be a child whose cellular development is markedly defective.

The facial expression from which the type gets its name is distinctive and is apparent even in young babies. It is due to a defective skull development and is characterized by the slant eyes similar to those borne by the Mongolian races. Another outstanding characteristic is the tiny little finger, crooked inward. There are other cellular defects that show up as the child grows—leaky heart valves, a marked tendency to respiratory ailments—all indicative of the child's physical deficiencies.

The child is so obviously backward that its mental backwardness is noticed early in life. These children have a tendency to be fat, to have pasty, unhealthy skins and thin hair. They are naturally slow to walk and talk, and even if they grow to adolescence seldom reach a mental age past 5 years.

Very often they are decidedly lovable children, with good dispositions, and they learn to take care of themselves, are neat at table, have cleanly habits and are moved by music.

No statement such as this can begin to cover all types to be found under Mongolian idiots; these are the general characteristics found in most of them. While I personally know one who has reached the age of 14, they have a tendency to succumb to their frequent respiratory disturbances before the adolescent period.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORTON W. BURGESS

The ones who really think are few;
Where'er you go you'll find this true.
—Old Mother Nature.

"You will remember," said Thalessa, the big, wasplike insect whose acquaintance Peter Rabbit had made, "that I told you that I belong to the fly family and that my branch of the family is known as Ichneumon flies."

"I remember," said Peter.

"Well," replied Thalessa, "a very small member of this branch of the family, one of my smallest cousins, is responsible for the way that caterpillar looks."

Peter looked up at the leaf on which the caterpillar he had been watching was still eating. That caterpillar had a backload of what looked like little white eggs standing on end. A sudden idea popped into Peter's head.

"Do you mean," asked Peter, "that your little cousin laid all those eggs on that caterpillar's back?"

"No," said Thalessa, "I don't mean anything of the kind. Those are not eggs."

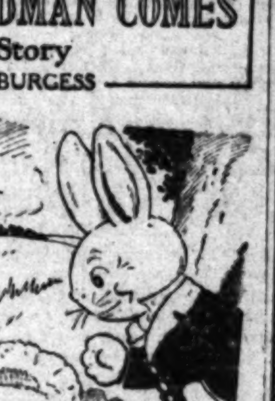
Peter blinked. "If those are not eggs, what under the sun are they?" he demanded.

"Cocoons," replied Thalessa. "Those are little white, silken cocoons. Didn't I tell you that one of my smallest cousins was responsible for them? Tell me how a tiny fly could lay eggs as big as those."

Peter scratched a long ear with a long hindfoot. "I didn't think of that," said he.

"You are just like most people," replied Thalessa tartly. "Very few people think. If they did a little real thinking there would be fewer questions asked."

Peter knew that Thalessa was quite right, but he was still curious and naturally he was bound to ask more questions. He was just on the point of doing this when that caterpillar stopped eating and started to come down the plant on which it had been feeding. This was going to give Peter a better chance to look at those little cocoons. When the caterpillar reached the ground Peter leaned over and looked very hard. He still couldn't get rid of the idea that those little cocoons were eggs, but he knew that Thalessa wouldn't tell him a wrong story. Now he began to wonder why those cocoons didn't fall off. There they were standing on end, and in spite of the moving about of the caterpillar they remained right where they were. Not one fell off.



There they were, standing on end

"I don't understand it," said Peter.

"What don't you understand?" asked Thalessa.

"What keeps those cocoons on that caterpillar's back," replied Peter.

"Oh," replied Thalessa "each one is fastened there with a bit of silk."

"What an awful job it must have been," said Peter.

"What?" asked Thalessa.

"Why, to fasten all those cocoons," replied Peter. "I don't see how your little cousin ever did such a big job as that."

This was too much for Thalessa. "Do you mean to tell me, Peter Rabbit, that you think my little cousin put all those cocoons on that caterpillar's back"? said she.

"Why, of course," replied Peter. "Didn't you tell me that she is responsible for the way that caterpillar looks?"

"I certainly did," replied Thalessa. "But I didn't tell you that she placed all those cocoons there. She didn't. All she did was to lay some eggs."

SOCIAL BUREAU AIDS CAPITAL HOSTESSES

MOTHERS PLANNING FOR DEBUTANTE DAUGHTERS FIND WAY EASY

Almost before a girl child of a family of wealth and prominence in Washington is out of the cradle, she is dated up for her debutante party.

Mothers often arrange dates for their daughters' coming out parties two years ahead. Mrs. Helen Ray Hagner, who has been a social secretary in the capital city for twenty years and knows all the ins and out of official social life, says mothers frequently come to her in the spring to bespeak dates for the winter of the year following.

Mrs. Hagner saw Washington's need for a sort of clearinghouse for social dates seven years ago and opened the first social bureau here. Today her business is incorporated and she has all she can do.

Her idea has always been to be a help and not an arbiter. She advises on the color of gowns to be worn, the character of entertainment to be given for a deb. She is first on the scene at a ball given under her direction and no forlorn girls are ever left sitting along the wall.

A hostess contemplating a dinner party tells the social secretary—there are several now in Washington—how much she wants to spend for decorations, menus and music. Then she goes away and forgets about it, attending the dinner with as carefree a mind as any of her guests.

After the Motor Ride Try This

The dirt and dust accumulated on a motor ride get into the pores of your skin, makes the complexion dead and dull, and often causes blackheads. You can delightfully refresh your skin and cleanse every particle from the pores by sprinkling a little Calonite powder on a hot, wet cloth and rubbing it gently over the face. Try it tonight before retiring and note the wonderful improvement in your complexion.—[Advertisement.

Crawford to Be Buried Today

Funeral services for Frank Crawford, known throughout Southern California as a well-to-do real estate man for the last forty-five years, will be conducted from Pierce Brothers chapel today at 10 a.m. Interment will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mr. Crawford, 68 years of age, died Monday at the Artesia Sanatorium where he had been confined for some time as the result of chronic illness. His native home was in Urbina county, New York. He leaves four daughters, Mrs. Mary Shand, daughter-in-law of Deputy Chief of Police Shand, Mrs. Nellie Jackman of San Pedro, Mrs. W. H. Pauge of this city, and Mrs. Virginia Boyd of Seattle, Wash. His home was at 3114 East Fourteenth street.

DAVIS BATTLE NEAR END

Attorneys for Wife of Rich Cemetery Man Sued Over Stenographer Rest Their Case

That the hearing of the divorce action of Mrs. Clara Davis and the cross-complaint of her husband, Len C. Davis, Glendale cemetery owner, on before Judge Guerin since last Thursday, is nearing a close, was indicated late yesterday when attorneys for the wife announced they rested their case. The announcement was made after numerous witnesses had been called in behalf of Mrs. Davis, who stood as the defendant to her husband's cross-complaint.

In handling the defense of the wife, her attorneys, William Alderson and Lawrence Cobb, attempted to prove that her husband had made every effort to get damaging evidence against her to be used in offsetting her charges against him.

BOTH CHARGE INFIDELITY

Both Mrs. Davis and her husband, in his cross complaint, accuse each other of infidelity. Mrs. Davis accused Davis of associating with his stenographer, Miss Virginia Long. Davis accused his wife of being too friendly with John E. Kreiger and James McDonald.

During the course of her examination Mrs. Davis stoutly denied the charges of her husband. At the hearing yesterday both Kreiger and McDonald denied any association with Mrs. Davis other than being mere friends.

On one of the nights the cemetery owner accuses his wife of being with Kreiger, the young man testified he attended a wrestling match and on another date set out in the complaint, he said he was in San Francisco. His testimony was corroborated by others.

VALUATIONS DIFFER

McDonald declared he had taken several auto rides with Mrs. Davis for the purpose of talking over the divorce action she had filed against Davis. He denied that their relations were other than mere friends.

Mrs. Davis asks for half of the community property which she asserts is valued at more than $2,000,000, consisting of the Grand View Memorial Park. Davis, through his attorneys, Leo Dase and Charles Cradick, contend his holdings will not exceed $300,000.

It is probable that at the close of the testimony Judge Guerin will appoint a referee for the purpose of making an accounting of the property involved because of the wide difference of the figures between the man and his wife.

Both the husband and wife seek custody of two minor boys, Leonard, 17 years of age, and Milton, age 7.

HARVARD CLUB HEARS PRESIDENT OF POMONA

Charles K. Edmunds, president of Pomona College, was honorary guest and speaker at the monthly luncheon of the Harvard Club of Southern California, at the University Club yesterday. Mr. Edmunds discussed "Education As An Adventure," and intimated that new types of experimentation and methods of procedure in university management and reorganization of faculties and curricula are making for new departures in education. He feels that the tendency of many colleges and universities is to get away from the mass grouping and to establish strong groups of allied subjects. The meeting was presided over by Joseph Smiffen, assistant principal of Franklin High School.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

With Sharon Lynn sponsoring the fiesta, Fox Films Night will be celebrated at the Montmartre this evening. Miss Lynn, regarded as one of the most beautiful and promising of the younger screen celebrities, will take an active part in the festival, judging the popular dancing contest given under the auspices of the Maddux Air Lines.

Another of the series of fall fashion shows presented by the May Company also will be included on the bill of entertainment.

NEW NOVELTIES SHOWN

Broadway novelties never before seen west of New York City are being introduced nightly in the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt Hotel by George Olsen and his band of entertainers.

Since the arrival of George Olsen the cinema notables have more than ever come to make the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt their official playground, it is reported.

ACTRESS TO BE SPONSOR

Dorothy Gulliver, who played the leading feminine role in Universal's popular "Collegian" series, and who recently completed a principal part in "Prize Fight" for R.-K.-O., will sponsor the next cinema luncheon to be given Thursday in Madame Helene's, Tea Room at J. J. Haggarty's.

This is another of a series of moving-pictures luncheons, giving each week at Madame Helene's, which have been meeting with great popularity.

NEW DISH PREPARED

While the chefs and the small army of culinary experts have been experimenting with new dishes at Roscoe's, on La Brea at Beverly Boulevard, under the management of Roscoe Arbuckle, himself, (Fatty) has perfected a new dish, known as the Lew Cody Mixed Grill.

The dish is a distinct culinarian triumph of loin of lamb chops grilled tomatoes, bacon, and French fried potatoes. The patrons have voted the new dish the best the laugh man has ever produced at his well-known dining retreat.

SOLOISTS FEATURED

Soloists will include Misses Joan Chalmers and Belle Bridewell Dansie, sopranos, at tomorrow afternoon's soiree in the Cortile Lido of the Hollywood Knickerbocker, according to an announcement by A. O. Berkhoff, managing-director. Josef Fekete of Budapest, and his Hollywood Knickerbocker Hungarian Symphonette, have prepared an elaborate program for the affair.

UNIQUE EVENT PLANNED

An unique event will be the dedication this noon of the millionaires' bachelor table at Paul Perrot's cafe, on Seventh street opposite Westlake Park. The table will be set aside exclusively for qualified members, each of whom will have his regular place.

A special musical program has been arranged by the Laughner-Harris orchestra with dancing during luncheon hour.

CHRISTMAS OUTDOORS PLAN GAINS

Mary Pickford at Head of Movement to Repeat Last Year's Yule Displays

With Mary Pickford heading the movement as honorary chairman, plans have been set under way for repeating the Christmas out-of-doors observance this year when the general public as well as proprietors of stores and shops will be urged to decorate an outdoors tree during the weeks of the holiday season.

Announcement of the plan was made here yesterday by A. Carman Smith, director of the Chamber of Commerce and general chairman of the committee in charge of the event, who said that this year many organizations have been enlisted to extend the movement over Southern California.

More than forty groups are represented on the general committee, headed by Mr. Smith, among them being civic organizations in neighboring communities, the municipal Art Commission, the City Playground Department, the City Park Department, the Board of Education, Church Federation, Parent-Teachers, radio interests, newspapers, theaters, nurserymen, electrical dealers, power companies, Boy Scouts, outdoor advertising interests, Retail Dry Goods Association and the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce.

While the campaign will center on the decoration of outdoor trees, a plea also will be made to have home owners plant trees suitable for Christmas decoration.

CHEF WYMANS RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

BAKED LAMB CHOPS

Trim and season five or six lamb chops, place them in a hot saute pan, and brown well on both sides, chop two medium-sized onions, and cook them in butter until soft, but not brown; add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, and the yolks of two eggs slightly beaten, stir and cook until thick, season with salt and paprika, turn the browned chops and cover both sides of them with this mixture, place them in a baking dish, dust them thickly with bread crumbs, place in the oven and bake until tender. Serve with green peas.

ORANGE TART

Take small individual pie tins, and cover with a rich pastry, place in the oven and bake, fill with the following orange filling, one cupful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of flour, the grated rind of one orange, one-half a cupful of orange juice, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, two eggs slightly beaten, two teaspoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, and cook until thick and creamy, beat the eggs slightly, and add to the other ingredients, cooking slowly for three minutes, cool slightly, pour into the pastry lined tins, cover with a meringue and brown in a slow oven.

SQUASH STUFFED WITH CRAB

Take medium-sized Italian squash, cut off the stem end, cover with boiling water and boil until tender, when slightly cooled, cut in two the long way of the squash, scoop out the seeds, place in a saucepan, three tablespoonfuls of butter, and allow it to brown slightly, flake one medium-sized can of crab, add a tablespoonful of butter to the brown flour, add one cupful of milk, season with salt and paprika, add the crab meat to the milk mixture and allow to cook gently for five minutes, fill the squash with this mixture, place in the oven, dot with bits of butter, and bake for fifteen minutes.

STUFFED ONIONS

Peel six even-sized onions, cut a slice from the top and carefully remove the centers, cover with boiling water, and allow to cook until tender but not too soft, then fill with the following mixture. Cover a thick slice of bread with milk, and allow to stand for five minutes, squeeze dry, break up fine, and mix with it, one tablespoonful of finely grated cheese, the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs, two teaspoonfuls of finely chopped parsley, a seasoning of salt and pepper, and the yolk of one raw egg, mix all together and stuff the onions with this mixture. Beat one egg and the egg white slightly, roll the onions in flour, then in the beaten egg, and fry in deep hot shortening, serve with a caper sauce.

CHOCOLATE BREAD PUDDING

One cupful of fine white bread crumbs, four cupfuls of milk, two squares of chocolate, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, one-half a cupful of sugar, two well-beaten eggs, beat the eggs, add the sugar to them and the salt, beat until light, melt the chocolate over hot water, add to the egg mixture, then add the milk, bread crumbs, and one teaspoonful of vanilla extract, mix well, pour in an oiled dish, place in a moderate oven, and bake until set.

FUNERAL RITES FOR MRS. EDWARDS TODAY

Funeral services will be conducted at 4 p.m. today at the Little Church of the Flowers for Mrs. Alice C. Edwards, wife of Chandler S. Edwards. Interment will be in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Mrs. Edwards was 66 years of age. She had resided in Los Angeles for fifteen years and was prominent in activities of the Friday Morning Club. Besides her husband, she leaves a son, Chandler Edwards, Jr.

FUNERAL OF MISS ADAMS CONDUCTED

Many Gather at Services for Native of State and Pioneer Teacher

Scores of native sons and daughters as well as many pioneers of California gathered yesterday at Central Christian Church to honor the memory of Miss Mattie F. Adams, who was born at Susanville, September 7, 1867, and who died the 7th inst., at White Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Edwin G. Morse, pastor of Central Church, assisted by Rev. J. F. Washburn, the latter having officiated at funeral services for members of the Adams family for the last forty years. Interment was at Rosedale.

Miss Adams came to Los Angeles in 1878 and had lived here for more than fifty years. She was a member of the second graduating class of the State Normal School. She then taught school in Los Angeles county for fifteen years.

An active member of the Christian Church, she was well known for her activities in home and foreign missionary work.

Miss Adams leaves four sisters, Mrs. Lucie McFarland of Hemet, Mrs. Nellie Bulpitt of Bishop, Mrs. Laura Emmerton of Highlands and Miss Cora Adams of El Monte. She also leaves two nephews, Dr. Paul Bulpitt of Los Angeles and Ralph Sheidler of Whittier, and seven nieces, Dr. Harriet Bulpitt, Mrs. Theodore Dederick, Misses Ruth, Naomi, Esther and Annabelle Bulpitt and Claudine Emmerton.

Fund for Home Grows in Size

The list of contributors to the $50,000 maintenance fund for the Mt. Sinai Home for Chronic Invalids now includes 700 names and the total amount raised is in excess of 60 per cent of the goal, it was reported yesterday by Ben Pratt, general campaign chairman.

Workers in the fund-raising are making a concerted drive this week with a view to increasing the number of contributors to at least 1000 by Saturday. While fully approved by the Community Chest, the institution is not included in that organization's membership and, consequently, raises its own funds for maintenance.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

COUNTIES TO BUILD WEIR

Improvement to be Made at Cost of $90,000

Construction to Begin Early in Summer of 1930

Flow of Santa Ana River to be Regulated

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 8.—The construction of a weir at a cost of $90,000 to spread the flood waters of the Santa Ana River near the mouth of the canyon east of the San Bernardino Valley to permit the flow to sink into artesian basins was agreed upon today by San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties. The work on the weir will begin early in the summer of 1930, the three counties contributing $11,200 each on the first cost of the project.

It is stipulated that no flood water will be taken from the Santa Ana River for the purposes of spreading and sinking except when the flow of the stream reaches the Chapman - avenue bridge, which is on the State highway between Anaheim and Santa Ana. This agreement will protect Orange county from possible loss of the flow of the stream. This provision has been in effect for a period of years by the Tricounties Water Conservation Association. The work will be handled by the Tricounties association and will be done by contract.

SUPERVISORS INSPECT

Members of the Board of Supervisors of Orange county made an inspection of the ground at the mouth of the canyon before the conference. The final agreement of the three counties had been delayed pending the decision by the Orange county board.

The agreement between the three counties that construction work actually shall begin next spring will be used as the basis for the application of the Tricounties association for a renewal of the State water permit for the use of surplus waters of the Santa Ana. This hearing will be held late this month.

ORANGE COUNTY PROTECTED

In the event of the construction of the Prado dam by Orange county, it is agreed that spreading on the Santa Ana debris cone will not be conducted except when the same volume of water is passing downstream now necessary to carry the flow to the Chapman-avenue bridge. Such an agreement is necessary because if the Prado dam is built the flow would automatically be halted at that point and it is conceded Orange county is entitled to as much water as is provided under existing agreements.

Magruder Today Guest of Valley University Club

VAN NUYS, Oct. 8.—One of the largest social gatherings of the season will take place tomorrow night at the Hollywood Country Club on Ventura Boulevard, beginning at 6:30 o'clock, when Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, commander of the Pacific base fleet, appears as honor guest of the San Fernando Valley University Club. He will make an address on "National Preparedness and International Peace." Members of the club, headed by J. P. Inglis, principal of the Van Nuys High School, and who is president of the University Club, have invited scores of their friends to hear Admiral Magruder.

Admiral Magruder only recently was restored to his duties as a naval officer, following his suspension about two years ago because of a series of articles in the Saturday Evening Post, drastically criticising the internal workings of the American Navy. For several months following, Admiral Magruder was the most hotly discussed national figure in this and other countries.

PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL

OWENSMOUTH, Oct. 8.—Rev. F. M. Kingsley, recently of Chicago, has accepted the call to be pastor of Community Church at Weeks Community, near here, and is in charge. Mrs. Kingsley is seriously ill in a Los Angeles hospital. The church was established here about a year ago.

NEW ASYLUM DEDICATED

Grand Lodge Officials Take Part in Ceremonies Held at Glendale Monday Night

GLENDALE, Oct. 8.—Grand Lodge officers of the Knights Templar from all over California assembled last night to take part in the dedication of the asylum of the Glendale Commandery, No. 53, in the Masonic Temple, with Robert Gaylord, Grand Commander for California, in charge of the ceremonies.

William McMillan, Commander of the Glendale Commandery, introduced the visiting officials and seventeen past commanders of the local organization.

Gaylord and Chief Justice Waste of the State Supreme Court were the principal speakers. The past grand commanders who attended were: Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe of Los Angeles, Albert E. Boynton of San Francisco, Perry W. Weidner of Los Angeles, Charles Malolm of Long Beach, Charles Day of Hollywood, Past Grand Commander of Indiana; George Burnham of San Diego, Andrew J. Copp, Jr., of Los Angeles, Robert Wankowski of Culver City.

Other officials to attend the affair included: August Delemare of Oakland, chairman of the Knights Templar educational fund committee; J. W. Snyder of Paso Robles, Grand Prelate; J. Ira Moyse and William H. Schrieder of Los Angeles, inspectors; Thomas A. Davies of San Francisco, Grand Recorder; Aubrey R. Parks of Long Beach, Grand Generalissimo.

Pleasure Trip Is Deferred by Two Burglaries

GLENDALE, Oct. 8.—The visit that Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGregor had planned to make to points in Canada was badly disarranged when two burglaries, occurring within twenty-four hours robbed them of their supply of travelers' checks and of the money they had obtained to replace the first loss.

The couple had been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McGregor at 1276 Boynton avenue and a short time before theh our set for their departure Donald McGregor bought $400 worth of travelers' checks which he left in the pocket of a coat hanging in a closet in his room.

The checks vanished, although the railroad tickets were left in the coat. Mrs. J. M. McGregor advanced funds to replace those that had been stolen, and Mrs. Donald McGregor stowed the currency away in her purse. The purse disappeared and when it was found later under a hedge near the house the money was gone. Detective Lieutenant F. C. Williams is working on the case for the local police, and a detective agency has also been retained to investigate the mystery.

Judges Chosen for Apple Show

YUCAIPA, Oct. 8.—Three Redlands women have been chosen to judge canned fruit exhibits at the Yucaipa apple show the 24th to the 27th inst., inclusive. They are Mrs. M. H. Fitzsimmons, Mrs. W. R. Clyde and Mrs. C. H. Peters.

Rules for this department of the show were announced yesterday by the chairman, Mrs. Otto Sweeters, as follows:

(1.) All fruit entered must be at the show by 10 a.m. the 24th inst.

(2.) First prize of two dozen quart jars for best quart of fruit and also for the best quart of vegetables.

(3.) Second prize of one dozen quart jars for best quart of fruit and also for the best quart of vegetables.

(4.) The fruit remains the property of the exhibitor and any number of quarts of fruit of vegetables may be entered by any exhibitor. Any one in the valley may enter for competition.

The prizes for the competition have been donated by the Kerr Jar Company. The exhibit will be separate from the regular canned fruit booth of the Woman's Club where fruit and jellies will be for sale.

GIRL STUDENTS IN DRIVE FOR FUNDS

REDLANDS, Oct. 8.—Girls of Redlands High School have pledged to raise $225 for the Mabel B. Woodbury scholarship fund and are now making plans for sales to get the money. Each class has a chairman and those selected to direct the work are: Clare Clark, senior; Nancy Hoover, junior; Ruth Annibell, sophomore, and the subchairmen are: Senior, Irene Dostal, Jean Sanford, Beatrice Maser, Beth Atchison, Chrystal Caldwell; junior, Leona Arth, Jane Brannum, Marcia Cafer, Evelyn Dibble, Ruth Dickerson, Kathryn Lewis, Charlotte Mascart, Edna Nowell, Josephine Reay, Doris Burns; sophomore, Met Jackson, Lucille Tanner, Elizabeth Hatfield, Christy McCarty, Kathryn Walker, Sayako Miki, Helen Ary and Lillian Rigby.

MINT CANYON PHONE LINE TO BE EXTENDED

NEWHALL, Oct. 8.—Plans for the construction of nine miles of pole lines and the placing of 14,000 feet of telephone cable in Mint Canyon, at a cost of about $7100, have been completed by the Pacific Telephone Company. The new lines will give service to subscribers residing in the canyon. All work will be finished by the early part of next year, it is stated.

Officers Find Case of Drugs in Santa Paula

SANTA PAULA, Oct. 8.—A case of marihuana containing fifty-seven tins of the drug, a barrel of imported china and a trunk of silks were taken from the house on Ojai street, here, occupied by Helen Nava, her husband and Manuel Carsino, in a raid conducted there last night by Chief of Police Thornton Edwards of Santa Paula, Officer Burns and Deputy Sheriffs Fraser and Hearne.

The raid of the Nava home was instigated in an effort to locate two guns believed stolen from a local section house.

The officers surprised the occupants about 2 o'clock this morning and in looking for the guns came upon the marihuana. As Chief Edwards stooped to pick up the case Nava succeeded in getting away, the officers said. They added that Nava had very little, if any, attire at that moment.

While the search was in progress a taxi drew up and when Joe Gonzales, the driver, entered the house he, too, was placed under arrest. The two men and one woman are being held pending further investigation.

Gravel Truck in Wild Dive

GLENDALE, Oct. 8. — A truck loaded wtih gravel while descendig the steep grade on La Crescenta avenue, near Verdugo City, today became unmanageable when the drive shaft broke and the brakes burned out, and plunged into a vineyard, scattering its load over about an acre of ground and coming to a halt with its nose buried among the vines and with its rear wheels high in the air. The driver kept on going and when Sergt. Evans of the motorcycle squad arrived at the vineyard he was out of sight.

The accident attracted a crowd of curious spectators, and while they were watching the work around the truck four cars collided. None of the occupants was injured.

SOUTHERN COLLEGES FORM ORGANIZATION

REDLANDS, Oct. 7.—Meeting to form a Pacific Southwest Sociological Asociation, representatives from eight colleges gathered at the Windsor Tea Room in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon, October 5.

Election of officers resulted with Prof. E. S. Bodadus of University of Southern California sociology department, president; Prof. William Kirk of the sociology department of Pomona, vice-president; and Prof. Osborn, University of Redlands sociology department, secretary and treasurer. The executive committee will be composed of these three officers.

According to plans made during Saturday's meeting, the association will meet jointly with the Southwest Pacific Academy of Social Sciences in January. In addition to this meeting, the association will hold individual meetings every six months.

Colleges represented in the association are: Pomona, University of Southern California, University of Redlands, Whittier College, Occidental College, Pasadena Junior College, Fullerton Junior College and California Christian College.

CONTRACTORS VIOLATE STATE LABOR LAW

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 8.—Charges of Stanley Gue, State Labor Commissioner, that contractors working on the new addition to the Jefferson school have violated the State labor law providing for an eight-hour day on public works, will be reviewed by the Board of Education on the 12th inst., according to a decision made at a meeting of the board.

Walter R. Hepner, school superintendent, also was instructed to secure information for the next meeting relative to the board's recent action in changing the name of Memorial Junior High School to Grover Cleveland. Logan Heights civic organizations and the American Legion have offered advice to the effect that residents of the school district and children of the school dislike the new name. The Legion installed a memorial plaque in the school when it was named as a memorial.

CONVENTION AT SAN DIEGO

Real Estate Men of State Gather to Celebrate Silver Jubilee of Organization

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 8.—By auto, train, boat and airplane, real estate men swarmed into San Diego today to participate in the annual convention and celebrate the silver jubilee of the California State Real Estate Association. It is estimated that 1000 delegates will be on hand Wednesday morning when President J. Bradley Clayton of San Jose, calls the initial general session to order.

The largest group arriving today was a delegation of 150 which left Los Angeles early in the morning and inspected farm and orchard lands at various points en route. Grover T. Russell of Whittier and Oscar R. Reed of Fresno were in charge of the cavalcade.

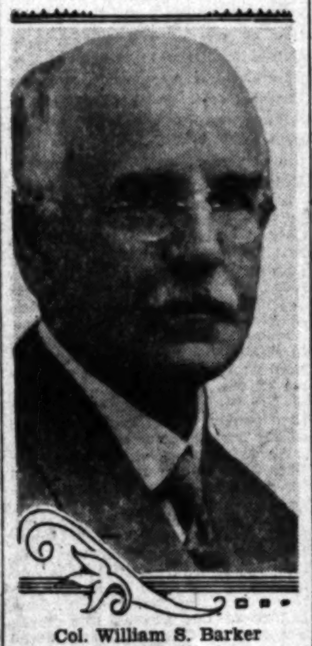
With the convention barely under way, two sharp contests loom up to enliven procedure that in past years has been more or less cut and dried. One of these contests will be over the presidency and the other on the place of next year's meeting. The names of a dozen candidates are being boomed around the lobby of the Grant Hotel, convention headquarters, to lead the association for the next twelve months, but the most concerted support seems to be given to W. H. Daum, Frank Brooks, Mason Case and G. D. Robertson, all of Los Angeles, and Peter Hansen of Glendale.

The only certainty about the matter is that whoever is chosen will be from south of the Tehachapi, with the possibility of a dark horse being run in at the last moment as a compromise candidate.

Del Monte, Santa Cruz and San Jose are all in the field for the privilege of being host to the 1930 gathering with the majority of Southern California delegates seemingly favoring Del Monte.

The first business of the convention, a conference of State and local officers, was held this afternoon, with social activities being ushered in during the evening with a smoker given by the board of governors. W. L. Pollard of the Los Angeles City Planning Commission, was the principal speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon today and will also speak before the convention.

SALVATIONIST IS BANK OFFICIAL



Col. William S. Barker

HUNTINGTON PARK, Oct. 8.—The City National Bank of this city now has another vice-president, Col. William S. Barker, for many years an outstanding figure in the Salvation Army and director of its overseas service during the World War, having been added to this list of officials at this bank. A substantial interest has been acquired in the bank by Col. Barker, according to Ralph Stephens, president of the bank.

Col. Barker entered the Salvation Army organization thirty-six years ago and continuously served that organization as a business executive until recent retirement from active duty. For many years he was secretary of the national organization and had charge of its real estate and legal departments throughout the United States. At the time of his retirement from active service in the army Col. Barker was vice-president of the Salvation Army corporation and chief executive officer in twelve Western States.

Anaheim Stages Annual Party

ANAHEIM, Oct. 8.—Anaheim's sixth annual Halloween festival and parade will be held the evening of the 31st inst., it was decided by forty merchants at a dinner meeting in the Elks' clubhouse last night.

Last year the Halloween fete attracted 35,000 persons to Anaheim.

In order to present a better attraction than those of past years committees will seek to present a better parade, it was decided. The street dance and other entertainment will be made secondary to the parade.

Fred Robins was named chairman of a committee to raise money for the event. The cost of presenting the fete was approximately $1000 last year, George W. Reid, secretary, announced.

As a special effort toward presenting a stronger parade feature, all communities of Orange county will be invited to send entries, and prizes more attractive than those usually posted will be offered, it was decided.

The speaker of the evening was Marc N. Goodnow, instructor in journalism at University of Southern California, who spoke on "Keeping Business at Home."

WHITTIER BANKER IS HEART FAILURE VICTIM

WHITTIER, Oct. 8.—George L. Hazzard, 67 years of age, and for more than twenty-five years a resident of the Whittier district, died here today at his home, 648 East Turnbull Drive, from heart disease.

He had been prominent in the financial, social and civic affairs of the community. He was formerly president of the Home Savings Bank, and a director in the Whittier National Bank. He was at one time president of the Board of Trustees of the local high school and was on the board continuously for twelve years.

He was born at Lansing, Mich. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Mary Hazzard, a daughter, Mrs. Greta Hazzard McLaren, and two sons, Carroll and Donald. Funeral services will be private at the home Thursday afternoon.

PACOIMA CHAMBER TOO ELECT OFFICERS

PACOIMA, Oct. 8.—The Pacoima Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, beginning at 6:30 o'clock, will hold its annual valley-wide banquet and election of officers. The affair will be staged in the local Community Hall on Van Nuys Boulevard, with Councilman Charles H. Randall as principal speaker. Manager J. M. Tucker of the Pacoima chamber is in charge of the business and entertainment program.

STRICTER LAW DEMANDED

Prohibitionists Not Satisfied With Ordinance Proposed by San Bernardino Supervisors

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 8.—Attacking the Supervisors' proposed restriction of wine tonic sales as too weak and not unlike the "old saloon-day regulations," Glenn C. Colvin, one of the leaders of the W.C.T.U. fight against promiscuous distribution of the tonics, today predicted protests by 15,000 persons if the proposed ordinance is not strengthened.

The Supervisors will, it was announced by Chairman C. E. Grier, adopt an ordinance restricting the sales of the tonic to a pint a day to each consumer, prohibiting the sale except by druggists and to persons under 21 years of age.

IS LEGALLY IMPOSSIBLE

To adopt a regulation that would prevent the sale of all alcoholic preparations except by physician's prescription would work a financial hardship on persons who desire any one of dozens of preparations long recognized as not within the scope of prohibition efforts, it was held by the board. It would be legally impossible to single out any one or group of preparations for a ban, it was declared.

The county ordinance will confine the sale of wine tonics in the county outside of cities to not more than a dozen places, for there are not more than that number of drug stores in the territory within the jurisdiction of county ordinances. Whether the various cities of the county will adopt ordinances regulating the sale of wine tonics has not yet been indicated.

The county ordinance does not go as far as requested by the W.C.T.U. That organization asked for an ordinance that would prohibit the sale of all alcoholic preparations except on physicians' prescriptions and likewise ban the manufacture, possession and transportation.

ATTEMPT TO HALT ABUSE

"The board does not assume to be a supergovernment and will make no attempt to go above the United States government in the wine-tonic manufacture," Mr. Grier said. "We do propose, however, to halt the abuse that has occurred under Federal regulations."

"Several persons who called me after the meeting declared that the ordinance the County Supervisors propose to pass is identical with one suggested by the grape and winery interests in the county," Mr. Colvin declared, "and I know it will prove highly unsatisfactory to those of us who want to improve conditions.

"An ordinance which limits the sale to drug stores and permits adults to purchase a pint a day would be better than the present unregulated condition in only one respect, in that there would be no sales made to minors if the law were followed."

"This sounds like the old saloon-day regulations. What makes the difference if one place sells it or another and five people in a car could buy five bottles from as many drug stores."

IMPERIAL ANNOUNCES WINTER FAIR

County Sponsors Unique Annual Event; to Build New Buildings

EL CENTRO, Oct. 8.—Imperial Valley's Midwinter Fair is to be revived as a county project and the next exposition held in February, 1930, according to plans approved by the County Supervisors in session yesterday afternoon. President Andy Preble and members of the newly appointed board of fair directors appeared before the Supervisors with plans which they said received the approval of a large number of valley residents. They stated that they proposed to spend the major part of the $37,365 appropriation received from the county this year for the erection of grand-stand, administration and other buildings, modeled after those in the Los Angeles county fair grounds in Pomona.

The buildings are to be erected on an eighty-acre site adjoining the city of Imperial, which was purchased by the Supervisors for fair purposes four years ago. The Imperial Midwinter Fair formerly was sponsored by Brawley business men but was discontinued two years ago after two financially disastrous seasons.

It was explained by the fair directors that the selection of February dates this winter was agreed upon in order to allow time for the erection of buildings. These dates may be changed in the future, it was stated.

Grape Growers Are Victims of Drivers' Strike

ONTARIO, Oct. 8.—Grape growers and shippers of this district are feeling the sting of the strike declared in New York by the truck drivers' union. A great number of carloads of grapes sent to eastern terminals within the past week and ten days have become tied up in New York because of the truck drivers' refusal to move the perishable crops.

The grapes were ready for consumption upon arrival at New York but being held over in the cars is causing them to rot into total loss, according to word received here by grape shippers and growers.

Many of the vineyardists of the sixteenth district, embracing most of Southern California growers, are losing heavily because of the action of the truck drivers in not moving the crops and not permitting commission men to remove them from the cars.

Recently the local grape men voted to curtail shipments approximately 50 per cent. Other markets have become glutted since the strike was called in New York and at present there is no eastern market for California grapes. Pleas made with the Interstate Commerce Commission have failed to bring relief to the grape men.

Two Officials Indicted by Grand Jury

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 8. (AP)—Harry N. Dunbar, deposed City Treasurer, was indicted by the Riverside county grand jury today on criminal charges of misappropriating $12,305.48 from city accounts.

Dunbar, who was ousted on virtually the same charge by the City Council last week, will surrender late today, his attorney said.

The indictment alleged shortages in the former official's accounts over a long period and said they were covered up by duplication of pay warrants.

In another indictment, Justice of the Peace Fred W. Zazler of Coachella, was charged with applying $200 bail money, posted by two men, asserted to have been arrested on "trumped-up complaints," to his personal "overdrawn account" at a Coachella bank. He was cited to appear in Superior Court the 15th inst.

PATROLMAN ASSIGNED

VAN NUYS, Oct. 8.—Edward Drager, a newly appointed member of the Los Angeles police force, has been assigned to the San Fernando Valley branch of the service. He will report to Capt. C. A. Hodgson at Van Nuys.

Hunters Commit Tactical Error

SANTA ANA, Oct. 8.—It was a tactical error that H. R. Parsons and O. Halstead, Long Beach hunters, committed when they asked County Game Warden Ed Adkinson for the loan of his spyglass to inspect several deer in Liveoak Canyon, just inside the Cleveland forest reserve.

This error was evident today, when they paid fines of $25 each in Justice K. E. Morrison's court for hunting without deer tags. If they had shot the deer it might have been worse, but after they had used the warden's glass, they decided they wouldn't take a shot at those particular deer.

Their mistake was in not learning the identity of Adkinson before borrowing his glass.

CORONER TO PROBE DEATH OF BRIDE

WEST LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—An investigation into the suicide of Mrs. Mary Chambers, 21 years of age, bride of three weeks, who died late last night at the Santa Monica Hospital after having taken poison yesterday, according to police here, was under way today by Officer Cody and Sawtelle officers.

The young woman was said to have swallowed a quantity of ant paste at her home, 1518½ Butler avenue, Sawtelle. Her husband, Arthur Chambers, rushed her to the hospital, it was reported, when she told him what she had done and asked for a glass of milk. Cody said there had been no signs of a violent quarrel. The husband is a carpenter at the Soldiers' Home. A mother and brother of the girl in San Bernardino were notified. The body is at the Price-Daniel mortuary here.

SUDDEN DEATH RESULT FROM HEART ATTACK

WEST LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—Walter MacDonough, 38 years of age, a salesman, was the victim of a sudden heart attack early this morning, dying after a fire-department inhalator had been used half an hour in a desperate effort to save his life. He was first discovered to be suffering when John B. Allen of 2155 Benica street, Westwood, saw him clutching a tree for support. Allen was on his way from his home to catch a bus.

MacDonough told Allen he was subject to heart attack, according to the police report, and asked that he be taken home in a car. He lived at 10382 Mississippi avenue, Sawtelle, where he leaves a widow. Before Allen could get his father, whom he summoned from his home, to bring a car, MacDonough was said to have slumped to the ground. Police were notified and inhalator rushed, but MacDonough expired. equipment rushed, but shortly after arrival MacDonough expired.

GLENDALE MAN BUSY WITH MONKEY BUSINESS

GLENDALE, Oct. 8.—F. M. Ayers, 306 North Highland avenue, is in the position of the man who grabbed a bear by the tail and then yelled for someone to help him let it go. A wandering monkey invaded Ayers's garage early this morning and Ayers slammed the door on it. Then he called the police. Detective Sergeant Browne closed one eye and sighted through the garage doors with the other and declared that it seemed to be a perfectly good monkey, but as he hadn't lost any simian pet he did not see what Ayers expected him to do about it.

Poundmaster Allen was next called and said he had no report of any missing monkey, and he also declined to tear any red tape in rounding up Ayers's captive and disposing of it. Meantime Ayers has the monkey locked up in his garage, where it is juggling noisily with everything that is not nailed down, while Ayers regrets his obedience to the first impulse that led him to shut the beast up in his garage.

ELKS' LODGE TO DEDICATE NEW HOME

Whittier Organization Plans Elaborate Program at New Home Today

WHITTIER, Oct. 8.—Plans are complete for the dedication of the new Elks' Temple for Whittier Lodge, No. 1258, tomorrow, which with the land, the furnishings and other equipment represents an expenditure of approximately $175,000.

The handsome new building is located at the corner of Philadelphia street and Painter avenue, Philadelphia street being one of the principal business streets and Painter avenue one of the main arteries leading to East Whittier and the Los Angeles-San Diego State highway.

The building follows a Mediterranean type of architecture and is of re-enforced concrete, ornamental, artificial stone, with red tile roof, cathedral windows and ornaments of wrought iron, such as overhanging balconies and grilled windows.

There are practically three stories, the ground floor being occupied by the spacious lobby, billiard room, memorial room, and ladies' suite of three rooms. On the mezzanine is the banquet room and kitchen, and the top floor is occupied by the assembly room. The floors of the banquet room and the lodge room are of hard wood and suitable for dancing. The heating plant, ventilating, and showers and lockers are all in the basement.

C. H. Russell of Los Angeles was the architect and J. H. Linkletter of Whittier, the builder, Earl Myers, a young business man of Whittier, is the Exalted Ruler. Harry H. Heiner of Arizona was the first Exalted Ruler. Other Past Exalted Rulers, in the order of their service, were the Messrs. L. H. Denney, Harland W. Hall, A. E. Hamm, T. B. Moorhead, T. G. Sutherland, Rex B. Kennedy, Harry Holdsworth, Paul Fraser, A. O. Bailey, Russell Graham, Wilbur J. Cox, E. A. Elmore, Myron Haig, Charles Shaw, Grant Garman, Ira D. Myers, Walter Mundt, Millard Scott, and the incumbent, Earl Myers.

The first of the dedication ceremonies will be the initiation of a class of 145 candidates Wednesday afternoon. A parade follows at 7 o'clock in the evening, when District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler C. Hal Reynolds, W. E. Simpson, past president of the State Association of Exalted Rulers, and Hon. Joe Burke, will be in attendance.

MURDER MYSTERY HINTED

Orange County Autopsy Physician Reveals S[illegible] Theory in Huntington Beach Case

SANTA ANA, Oct. 8.—The unidentified man, whose [illegible] was discovered in an abandoned chicken corral near Huntington [illegible] Sunday was the victim of an ax or hatchet murder.

This startling theory of the mystery emerged today from the findings of the autopsy by the county autopsy physician, Dr. E. W. Toch of the County Hospital, which showed:

The dead man was felled by a blow from a blunt object on the back of the head, which broke the neck. The weapon was probably a club, containing a nail, as the imprint of what looked like a sixpenny nail was found in the skull. The chest, neck and ribs had been hacked, probably with an ax or hatched, though possibly with a club. All of the ribs in front were splintered. The left arm was broken four inches below the elbow, and the left hand, severed near the wrist, is missing. The hand may have been carried away by a wild animal.

That the slayer's weapon sprayed the blood that was found staining the willow trunks beside and above the body was the theory of Deputy Sheriff H. J. Zabel of the fingerprint bureau, who is working on the case. Scratches across a [illegible] timber that extended along the [illegible] roof of the corral above the [illegible] are believed to have been made [illegible] the weapon as it rose and fell in the hands of the murderer, [illegible] said.

No progress has yet been made toward identifying the body, [illegible] Zabel. Finger prints will be [illegible] and dental work may also [illegible] a means of solving this [illegible] he said.

The Sheriff's office today [illegible] missed the theory that the dead man may be George E. [illegible] year-old Los Angeles man, [illegible]ing for two weeks from [illegible] Nolan, it was revealed, is wanted [illegible] issuing fictitious checks.

The body found was that of a man of about 50 years of age, [illegible] 5 feet 7½ inches tall. The [illegible] evidently had taken place two [illegible] more weeks ago, it was [illegible] Two hunters came upon the [illegible] Sunday afternoon, when [illegible] parked they car at the [illegible] place and started to walk through the corral.

MAYOR CALLED IN CONFERENC

Border Officers Take Han in Liquor "Fixing" Cas

Case Dates from Rece Charges Made at San Dieg

Discovery of New Lea Postpones Confab

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 8.—Confer between Mayor Clark and agents of the special border was held today at the Federal Buil ing in connection with San Die liquor "fixing" case. At the conclu sion of the conference, which Mayor Clark attended at the invitation of the Federal agents, announcement was made by the agents that of the case had been made the Mayor, and that, with the ex ception of possible conference with two other citizens, to be held this week, the case practically is com pleted.

Discussion of details of the which had its inception here in Au gust on the eve of an Americ Legion convention, was held at the conference today, and the Mayor was advised of certain angles of the case which had been investig by the Federal officers, it was an nounced. Starting at 9:30 a.m. the conference lasted for two hours.

The names of the two other per sons who may be called into con ference with the agents were not divulged.

Mayor Clark originally was to have conferred with the agents on Friday, but new "leads" in the case which were uncovered on that day resulted in postponement of the meeting. At the conclusion of to day's conference, announcement was made by the Federal officers that further private discussion of the case with the Mayor is not con templated.

To decide whether county officers in the $27,000 liquor raid "fixing" conspiracy should be independent or auxiliary to any Federal prose cution, the county grand jury to day was called to meet Thursday at 10 a.m., it was learned at the Courthouse. County Detective J. B. Cornell, believed to have obtained new information to impart to the inquisitors, conferred yesterday with his assistant, Joe Myers, and with Dep. Dist.-Atty. Oran N. Muir, legal adviser to the grand jury.

These three later conferred with Federal dry agents who have been active in investigating a purported conspiracy against the liquor laws.

ACCIDENT VICTIM DIES AT PASADENA

PASADENA, Oct. 8.—Narrowly escaping with his life last night when he fell from a Pacific Electric car in Los Angeles, William H. Palmer, 65 years of age, of 65 West Harris street, died today at the Pasadena Hospital following a heart attack.

As he was boarding an Oak Knoll interurban car for this city, the aged man slipped from the steps and would have been killed had not the motorman applied the air brakes, police asserted.

The victim of the fall insisted upon continuing his journey, but as the car approached the Colorado-street and Lake-avenue intersection, he fainted and was rushed to the Pasadena Emergency Hospital in an ambulance.

After receiving first aid for a few bruises, he was transferred to the Pasadena Hospital, where his pulse failed early today. Physicians believe that his death was due to his advanced age and faulty heart action.

LEGION POST HEADS SEATED AT MONTROSE

MONTROSE, Oct. 8.—Ray B. Willoughby, recently elected commander of the Ve..ugo Hills post, American Legion, and other officers named with him, were duly installed at a meeting held here at Legion Hall, with Wright Hubbard, district commander, as master of ceremonies. Willoughby succeeds W. A. Stone, who has served during the past year. The new officers are: Robert Longman and Otto A. Weakley, vice-commanders; H. Bruggemann, adjutant; Albert E. Aiken, sergeant-at-arms; Charles Lechner, historian; Clyde Caster, chaplain, and John Hoffman, finance officer.

case. Scratches across a one-by-six timber that extended along the roof of the corral above the body are believed to have been made by the weapon as it rose and fell in the hands of the murderer, Zabel said.

No progress has yet been made toward identifying the body, said Zabel. Finger prints will be taken and dental work may also provide a means of solving this question, he said.

The Sheriff's office today dismissed the theory that the dead man may be George K. Nolan, 50-year-old Los Angeles man, missing for two weeks from Balboa. Nolan, it was revealed, is wanted for issuing fictitious checks.

The body found was that of a man of about 50 years of age, and 5 feet 7½ inches tall. The murder evidently had taken place two or more weeks ago, it was estimated. Two hunters came upon the body Sunday afternoon, when they parked they car at the abandoned place and started to walk through the corral.

ECKENRODE VISITING IN SOUTHLAND

National Plate-Glass Head Denies Trip Linked With General Motors Plans

Seeking only a little rest and relaxation, H. J. Eckenrode, president of the National Plate Glass Company, arrived in Los Angeles on the Southern Pacific Golden State Limited yesterday. He is accompanied by Mrs. Eckenrode.

Although his organization is connected with General Motors, Mr. Eckenrode denied reports that his visit in the city has anything to do with plans of General Motors to locate a plant in Los Angeles.

"That is another end of the business entirely and I have nothing to do with that. I am here only for a little rest," Mr. Eckenrode said. He and his wife are staying at the Biltmore.

Husband Quits as Wife Gives Ring to Rival

One of Carl T. Jensen's most embarrassing moments came when he saw a ring, set with an amethyst, which he had purchased for his wife Muriel, on the finger of another man, he told Superior Judge Hazlett yesterday when asking for a divorce.

Jensen declared that when he remonstrated with his wife because of her actions she frankly told him she did not love him, that she loved the other man and hoped he would get a divorce because she was "too young to settle down."

The husband further related that on one occasion his wife left him for three weeks and that later he discovered she had spent her time with another man at a mountain resort.

After hearing the testimony Judge Hazlett granted a decree.

FORMER TENNESSEEAN TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Pearl Morgan Sydnor, wife of J. L. Sydnor manager of the White Truck Company, will be conducted at 11 a.m. today at the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Mrs. Sydnor died Monday at her home in the Los Altos Apartments, Wilshire Boulevard, following a long illness. She was 48 years of age and was born in Tennessee. She came to Los Angeles three years ago after a few years residence in San Francisco. She leaves her husband and a daughter, Anne Elizabeth Sydnor, a student in a school at St. Louis. Funeral arrangements are in charge of Will A. Reynolds.

WALLACE SMITH'S NEW NOVEL GOES TO PRESS

Wallace Smith, author, artist and globe-trotter, yesterday received word from his publishers in the East that his latest novel, recently completed in Los Angeles, has been sent to press for early publication. The book was less than a year in the writing, the author having begun it in October, 1928. In motion-picture circles, Smith is regarded as one of the most prolific writers now turning out material for the audible screen. Since January, last, he has written to order eighteen original stories, sixteen of which already have been produced by the William Fox, Samuel Goldwyn and R.-K.-O. studios. In addition to these he has prepared ten short stories for leading fiction magazines.

CITY GAINS HIGH PRAISE ON HOSPITAL

Emergency Methods Here Commended at National Session Dodge Reports

Conveying word that Los Angeles is conceded by his confreres to have the best-equipped receiving hospital in the country, Dr. Wallace F. Dodge, chief of the city's staff of police surgeons, yesterday returned to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital from Detroit where he attended the annual convention of the National Association of Police Surgeons. Dr. Dodge said the opinion prevailed at the conclave that the Georgia-street institution is particularly well adapted to the treatment of police and fire department accidents.

One of the principal subjects discussed by the surgeons, Dr. Dodge stated, was the treatment of persons arrested on suspicion of drunkenness. As a result of this discussion, he said, it is probable the association will attempt to fix a standard sobriety test to be administered in all receiving hospitals to persons with liquor on the breath at the time of arrest. The association also advocated that intoxicated automobile drivers be given double the penalty imposed on reckless drivers.

MacLean Going East in Roles of Shakespeare

R. D. MacLean, Shakespearean actor who opens in "Richard III" in the week of Shakespearean productions given by the Shakespeare Foundation of California December 2, has been invited by Charles A. Steele of Franklin, Pa., to go east and present his version of "The Merchant of Venice" before the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh.

Mr. MacLean's tour also will include several other eastern colleges before his return to Los Angeles, where he will commence rehearsals for the Shakespeare festival in December.

An all-star cast now is being assembled by Joseph De Grasse, producer and director, for the Shakespeare Foundation performances.

Publisher Tells Club Women of Press Influence

Public opinion is formed through reading of newspapers, Max Binheim, publisher of Women of the West, said yesterday, addressing members of the Laguna District Women's Club at a luncheon in Salvation Army Hall, Hicks street and Whittier Boulevard. He added that the newspaper is the greatest asset of any community and is no longer a luxury for the few.

Touching on the subject of newspaper advertising, Binheim said the newspaper today stands pre-eminent as a result producer. The speaker quoted the late John Wanamaker's remark, "To discontinue advertising is taking down your signs. I would as soon think of doing business without clerks as without advertising."

County Fire Chief Johnson spoke on fire prevention. Mrs. Grace Fox, president of the club, presided.

RECREATION CHIEFS GOING TO CONCLAVE

Raymond E. Hoyt and D. W. Lott, supervisors in the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department, will leave this evening for Louisville, where they will represent this city in the sixteenth national recreation congress. The congress annually draws more than 600 recreation leaders from cities and towns throughout the nation. Among the speakers will be William Butterworth, president, United States Chamber of Commerce; John Erskine, author; Joseph Lee, "father" of the public recreation movement in America, and Samuel S. Fleisher, founder of the Philadelphia Graphic Arts Society.

H. S. GRAHAM FUNERAL SET FOR TOMORROW

The funeral for Harry S. Graham, president of the Washington Iron Works, and Los Angeles pioneer, will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at the W. A. Brown chapel, 1815 South Flower street. Burial will be in Inglewood Park Cemetery. Mr. Graham died Monday at the Eye and Ear Hospital in Los Angeles, after an illness of about six months. He was 61 years of age. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Lucy Graham; three sons, Harry W., Charles E., and Alexander G. Graham; a brother, Edward H. Graham, and two sisters, Mrs. J. Wren and Mrs. Phillip Colby.

SUITOR AND RING ELUDE CRYSTAL GAZER'S GAZE

Recovery of a diamond ring from a client who turned suitor was sought yesterday through police aid by Rev. Bernadett Le Tourneau, who gave her occupation as clairvoyant.

Miss Le Tourneau asked Detective-Lieutenants Vail and Harrah to institute a search for Robert G. Reid, whose address she did not know, but of whose persuasive words she was well aware, for they had netted him, according to her complaint, the ring which she valued at $280, in addition to a sum of money. She said Reid came to her last July, seeking a glimpse of the future through the medium of her powers as a mystic.

The two later were mutually attracted, the crystal-gazer reported, with the result Reid engaged quarters in the apartment-house in which Miss Le Tourneau lived at 1318 West Eighth street. First she lent him the ring to wear, she asserted; and then borrowed money on an insurance policy and a deed to a ten acres of land and lent it to him to make good a check he said he had issued.

Last Sunday she decided his love was beginning to cool; so she asked for return of the ring and money.

"What's the matter," she says he remarked, "don't you trust me?" Then he went away and she hasn't heard from him since.

Detective-Lieutenants Vail and Harrah are seeking Reid for questioning.

GRAND LODGE'S SESSIONS OPEN

Masonic Body Gets Reports from Committees

Members and Guests in City Total About 1800

Today Visit Will be Paid to Home at Covina

The formal opening of the eighteenth annual communication of the Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons of California, for which members have been registering since last Sunday at headquarters in the Biltmore, took place at 10 a.m. yesterday with Most Worshipful Grand Master Gustav A. Hutaff of Dunsmuir presiding. He delivered his annual message and called for reports from Grand Secretary John Whicher and Grand Treasurer William P. Filmer and reports from the committee on accounts and the committee on returns.

GUSTAV A. HUTAFF

A salient feature of the day was the delivery of the annual oration by Dr. Tully C. Knoles, Grand Orator. The rest of the afternoon was taken up with the reports of the board of control, committee on Masonic education, the Grand Lecturer and the trustees of Masonic homes.

CHARLES M. WOLLENBERG.

At 6:30 p.m. the annual get-together dinner for the members of the Grand Lodge was given. Ladies of the conclave attended a theater. Eighteen hundred members and guests had registered at noon yesterday, including the arrival of a large delegation from San Francisco.

JOHN STEWART ROSS.

Today's session will consider through reports of committees a number of subjects including endowments, library, the University of California at Berkeley clubhouse, University of California at Los Angeles clubhouse, financing lodge buildings, meeting place of the Grand Lodge and necrology, followed by special music under the direction of Grand Organist Charles E. Anderson and the ritual committee on revision of funeral service.

ROBERT B. GAYLORD.

Members and ladies will leave the Biltmore at 2 p.m. today on a visit to the Masonic Home at Covina. At 8 p.m. the third degree, exemplified by San Francisco inspectors under the direction of the Grand Lecturer, will be presented at Sunset Masonic Temple, Pico and Orchard streets.

Among other officers present are Charles Wollenberg, Deputy Grand Master; John Stewart Ross, Senior Grand Warden, and Robert B. Gaylord, Junior Grand Warden.

McCOY TO BE SPEAKER

Health Writer Will Discuss Recent Trip at Breakfast Club

Dr. Frank McCoy, dietetic specialist and author of the daily "Diet and Health" column in The Times, is announced to be among the guests of honor tomorrow morning at the weekly meeting of the Hollywood Breakfast Club in the clubhouse at Sunset Fields, Angeles Mesa Drive. He will speak on "Breakfasting in Europe," drawing his subject matter from observations he made during his recent trip abroad.

Other guests will be Rosalie Barker Frye, contralto, and Evelyn Gaylord, musical comedy actress. In addition, Leslie Henry, president of the Southern California branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of America, will introduce to the club members of a squad of record-holding track and field athletes of the Los Angeles and Hollywood Athletic clubs. Councilman Virgil A. Martin will be host at the breakfast.

PROMINENT MEXICO CITY MAN GUEST

Roberto V. Pesqueira in Los Angeles by Airplane to Visit Consul Brother

Roberto V. Pesqueira, prominent in Mexican governmental and industrial affairs and the owner of extensive oil properties and ranch lands in Mexico, arrived in Los Angeles to visit his brother, F. Alfonso Pesqueira, Mexican Consul here, yesterday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Pesqueira, who recently spent two months in Los Angeles.

Senor Pesqueira's arrival here ended a two-weeks' airplane trip over Southern California, Northern Mexico and Lower California. He stopped off at the principal cities and visited his 200,000-acre ranch in Sonora. He spent two days at Ensenada and was high in his praise of the development of Lower California. It was his first visit to that section of the country, although he has traveled extensively over other parts of Mexico and the United States.

Although he has no official connections with the Mexican government at the present time he has been member of many important commissions during the last ten years. During the revolution he was confidential commissioner of his government to Washington, D. C., and since then has served on several industrial commissions. He lives in Mexico City.

"I used airplanes almost exclusively in traveling," he asserted yesterday. "I go to Guatemala and other cities by airplanes several times a month. I am sorry I cannot stay longer in Los Angeles, but I have to return tomorrow."

Did Seer See Love Scene or Just Think So?

Whether Mrs. Evelyn Lloyd, who admitted on the witness stand in Superior Judge Rosenkranz's court yesterday that she is a clairvoyant, actually saw her neighbor making love to a man or beheld a love scene in a crystal globe, was the question at issue in a hearing for the custody of 4-year-old Nancy Lee Ketchum following suit for divorce by G. W. Ketchum against his wife Ethel.

Mrs. Lloyd described vividly the scene she witnessed when Mrs. Ketchum, it was asserted, entertained "a gentleman friend named Mac."

Mrs. Ketchum's attorneys, however, contended the witness merely imagined the goings-on in the Ketchum menage.

Testimony will be continued today.

Count Pulaski Memorial Rites Slated Sunday

Polish-Americans and others who revere the memory of Count Pulaski will assemble at Polish Library Building, 4000 Avalon Boulevard, Sunday at 8 p.m. to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the death of the man. A program to be announced later will include names of public officials. In charge of the sesquicentennial event are J. Romanowicz, W. J. Miller, K. B. Krzeminski, F. Jankiewicz, C. Stefanowaska and W. Grabowski.

Pulaski was attracted to the cause of the American Revolution and placed himself under George Washington's command. President Hoover has issued a proclamation inviting the people of the United States to do appropriate honor to Pulaski on Friday.

Approximately 4000 persons comprise the Polish colony in Los Angeles county.

FERRON AGAIN HEADS FLYING LEGION POST

Paul Ferron of the Curtiss Flying Service, it was announced yesterday, has been re-elected commander of Aviators' Post No. 350, American Legion, having been returned to office at the last regular meeting of the organization held in Patriotic Hall, 1816 South Figueroa street. During the war Ferron was commanding officer at Kelly Field, Tex. Other officers named to serve for the next year are N. M. Lyon, first vice-commander; Mrs. Claire Fahy, second vice-commander; Richard Kelly, finance officer; A. E. Smith, adjutant; Lieut. A. R. Morrison, historian; Jack Caris, sergeant-at-arms; Paul Curtis, chaplain; and J. J. Quinn, and Charles Dyeer, members of the executive committee. The post, which numbers eighty members, meets every second and fourth Friday of each month.

DE MILLE'S MUSICAL CHRISTENED

Universal Signs Grace Hayes on Long-Term Contract; Ethel Clayton to Play Role in "Hit the Deck"; Barry Norton Finishes at Fox Studio

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

As the producing of operettas was Cecil B. De Mille's final stage activity before he entered pictures in 1913, it was quite in the cards that he should make a musical photoplay under the new talkie set-up.

CECIL B. DE MILLE

"Mme. Satan" is the title selected for a farce comedy with music which the producer-director will start working on at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer during November. Jeanie Macpherson has written the story and Gladys Unger will write the dialogue.

The music will be by a notable composer whose name is not yet ready for publication. De Mille is also taking screen and voice tests of various players from whom he will select his cast.

It does seem as though De Mille, with his notiviate experience in gorgeous sets and spectacular effects, should be the one to produce a magnificent musical comedy, so far as picturesque effects go, and combined with his experience as a musical-comedy director, there seems no doubt that we may confidently look forward to a very fine production.

Many of the scenes are to be in Technicolor.

UNIVERSIAL SIGNING MUSICAL FAVORITE

From Universal we learn that that organization has just signed a beautiful young musical-comedy actress of the New York stage on a long-term contract.

This actress is none other than Grace Hayes, star of a series of Broadway musical shows, including the Passing Show of 1926, followed by "Rainbow," "The Merry Whirl" and a couple of Charles Dillingham's productions. Besides these shows Miss Hayes has starred in vaudeville.

She is to have a featured role in "Jazz Revue" as her first Universal offering.

The young actress is said to possess an unusually beautiful voice, which, on being tested for the screen, proved to be of a quality such as will, Universal officials believe, make her a great acquisition to the talkers.

Ethel Clayton With R.-K.-O.

Once more, after an absence of several years, Ethel Clayton is back at the R.-K.-O. studios. When Miss Clayton was star over there, however, the studios were called the F.B.O. studios.

ETHEL CLAYTON

Now Miss Clayton has been signed by Luther Reed and R.-K.-O. to play one of the featured parts in "Hit the Deck," which Reed will direct.

Reed has also selected a number of other noted players for various important roles in the musical, including Dell Henderson and Wallace MacDonald.

Since appearing in pictures, Miss Clayton has played in a number of stage offerings, both here and in the East, including "The Firebrand" and others. She has also headlined in vaudeville.

Morgan Farley In It

Morgan Farley, the young stage actor whose first appearance in a talking picture won him a featured player's contract, has been assigned to a leading role in "Men Are Like That," it was announced yesterday at the Paramount studios.

Lured by talking pictures, Farley came to Hollywood early last spring, but four months passed without employment. Then his opportunity came. He was cast as Rex Greene in "The Greene Murder Case," and his performance in that picture won him a Paramount contract.

Vitaphone Short Cast Announced

Warner Brothers are continuing to assemble auspicious casts for their Vitaphone Varieties.

Anne Cornwall

The latest variety to go before the cameras and microphones is "The Maid's Night Out," with Pat O'Malley, Tyler Brooke and Ann Cornwall in the cast, it was announced by Bryan Foy, in charge of Vitaphone short-reel productions.

Sid Silvers and Tenny Wright wrote the story, and Beatrice Van prepared the screen play.

English Film Star Here

Pretty Helen Brody, English star of stage and screen, has arrived in Hollywood, and is preparing to enter talking pictures.

Miss Brody was star with British International Films, and also appeared on the London stage in musical productions. She has a beautifully trained voice and is a dancer. She appeared also on the New York stage in musical revues.

We hear that she is to appear in the Pathe International Revue, but there is no definite announcement on the subject.

Eddie Nugent Cast

Another laurel has been added to the already well-decorated crown of Eddie Nugent.

As a result of his excellent work in R.-K.-O.'s "The Vagabond Lover," starring Rudy Vallee, William LeBaron has assigned Nugent an important part in "Dance Hall."

Olive Borden and Arthur Lake have the leading roles, and others in the cast are Joseph Cawthorne, Margaret Seddon and Ralph Emerson. Melville Brown will direct.

Barry Norton Leaves Fox

His contract finished, that engaging young actor, Barry Norton, is leaving the Fox organization, we learn. Norton, you remember, scored in "What Price Glory."

It is understood that Norton has a number of offers. He has been mentioned as a candidate for the leading role in Universal's "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Production Starts

With a strong supporting cast selected, Nancy Carroll's first Paramount starring production entered work yesterday, when the entire company left for open sea shots off the Lower California coast. The picture is tentatively titled "Flesh of Eve," and was suggested by Conrad's story, "Victory."

The new members of the cast include Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Francis McDonald and George Kotsonaros.

Simmons Is Dad

Frank Simmons, who puts pieces in the paper for Tiffany-Stahl, is a proud dad. Mrs. Simmons gave birth to a daughter yesterday morning at the Good Samaritan Hospital. Mother and child are doing well, and Frank, who was buying root beer for his friends yesterday, is doing as well as could be expected.

Palace Secures Usherettes for New Showhouse

Two hundred and ten Los Angeles girls have ambitions to become theater usherettes. Twenty-two realized that ambition yesterday.

Want ads in local papers brought applicants from all parts of the city and six suburbs to the Boulevard to seek a place on the seating staff of the new Fox Palace Theater. Miss Artie Adams, chief usher at the Carthay Circle Theater, acted for the Fox West Coast management in selecting a bevy of candidates, capable and pretty, a task not altogether easy. Some, Miss Adams reported, were made only to be admired, while others apparently were born to serve, and nothing more.

Requirements demanded of the candidates were grace, agility, symmetry, brightness and intelligence, politeness and apparent good breeding. The French type was favored in selecting the Fox Palace usherettes, who will blossom forth in specially designed costumes, harmonizing with the color scheme of the new theater on the 16th inst., the opening date, when "Hallelujah," widely heralded King Vidor epic of the cottonfields, will be given its Western premiere.

Massive Stage Sets Used in "Great Gabbo"

The large size of the stage set used in "The Great Gabbo," current all-talking picture at the Criterion Theater, is indicated by the fact that one of the back-drops from a stage scene in the film is at present being used as a decorative covering for the entire front of the theater.

The drop is a curtain, bearing the words "The Great Gabbo," and was used as the background for the sequences in which Erich von Stroheim, the star, appears as the famed ventriloquist in an elaborate New York production. Brilliant coloring and lighting on the display rendered it exceedingly attractive for the many sequences in the picture which were filmed in color.

SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK, Oct. 8.—Four hundred and two persons climbed Mt. Whitney, highest mountain in the United States, during the year ending September 30, according to the register of the Sierra Club on top of the peak.

It is believed that less than 10 per cent of those who climbed the mountain failed to leave their names in this register. Next season, with the new Mt. Whitney-high Sierra horse trail completed, it is estimated fully twice that number will be registered.

Burbank Show Features Song

"October Capers," a musical burlesque featuring Charlie Pritcher, Billy Mosey, James Yeoman, Fay Norman, June Rhoads, Betsy Ross and Jane Hazleton, with a chorus of forty-five, will open for a week's run at the Burbank Theater Sunday. Producers Yeoman and Stanton have spared no time and efforts to make the incoming show an outstanding one of the season. Unusual costuming, dance creations, and late musical numbers interwoven with comedy will be the combined fare for followers of burlesque.

HUMOROUS SITUATIONS PROMISED

"Cooking Her Goose" to Start at Playhouse With Fine Cast

"Cooking Her Goose," mirthful story of the adventures of a flapper, which the Henry Duffy Players will offer at the Hollywood Playhouse, starting Sunday, revolves around two youngsters who decide to elope. They get as far as Atlantic City when the girl in the case finds she has changed her mind and does not want to get married. Humorous complications keep the action of the play at high speed, it is reported.

Nydia Westman, youthful Broadway stage star, for whom the comedy was written, has the chief feminine role, to which she brings an unusual personality and an individual comedy method. Irving Mitchell appears opposite the star. Leo Lindhard has an important comedy role as Sergt. Daly, the detective. Others in the long cast are Dorothy La Mar, James Bush, Helen Kleeb, James Durkin, Ann Warrington, George Lamont, William Macauley, Donald Campbell and Frank Dawson.

Chinese Offers Happy Blend of Native Accents

Many of the leading players of the "Cock-Eyed World," showing at the Chinese, were engaged chiefly because of their varied nativities and their real accents. For example, beautiful Lily Damita, who plays the role of Elenita, has a French-Spanish blend of accents. Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe speak in the patois of the world-traveled American marine, and Lelia Karnelly delivers her lines with a delicious accent and a natural one, for she is a Russian.

Jean Bary, who plays the role of Fanny, speaks in the true Coney Island "slanguage." She is American born of a family whose forefathers trace their ancestry back to Ireland. Italy and the Italian accent has its representative in Joe Brown, a real Italian. From the vaudeville stage to play a Hebrew marine comes Joe Rochay, a Jewish boy; from pictures comes "Curly" Dresden, while that former star of musical comedy and vaudeville, El Brendel, for years acclaimed the truest impersonator of a dumb Swede, plays the role of Olsen and runs true to form.

Ivan Linow, the former giant Russian wrestler, has an opportunity to speak in his native language and Bobby Burns, from musical comedy, contributes his Irish tenor, while Ramon Satello, a Castilian is cast as a Spanish innkeeper.

Scenario Chief Retains Office With Paramount

Edward J. Montagne, Paramount's scenario editor-in-chief, is to retain this high office, according to announcement emanating from the studio. Prior to B. P. Schulberg's departure for Europe, he superseded Montagne's original contract with the Zukor organization with a new one calling for an extended period of time and increase in remuneration.

Previous to assuming this position with Paramount, Montagne occupied the same office with Universal for approximately five years. His record of achievements while with the Carl Laemmle institution is known to have inspired annual offers on the part of other producers who sought his services.

With the expiration of his lengthy contract with Universal, Montagne decided on a change of environment. This confirmed admission on his part resulted in tempting offers from Paramount, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, United Artists and Warner Brothers, it is said.

Rogers Picture Wins Favor in Country Towns

New honors for Will Rogers! Returns from the granger and prairie States, the cotton belt and rural districts of America indicate that Will Rogers in "They Had to See Paris" is outdrawing the great centers of population from three to five times.

With Rogers smashing records at the Carthay Circle in Los Angeles and in Philadelphia, the Fox studios were jubilant, but the unexpected and overwhelming popularity of Rogers in the once-ignored "sticks" shows that the upstate votes are something to be reckoned with both in theatrical and national elections.

Meanwhile at the Carthay Circle Theater, the third week of Rogers's patronage has exceeded the second's total. Tonight Senor Ramos Otero and his Argentine gauchos will attend a performance of "They Had to See Paris." Otero's gauchos visited Will Rogers at his Santa Monica ranch on Sunday, where Rogers showed them a few tricks of the range.

Adagio Quintet on R.-K.-O. Bill

The Earle Wallace Adagio Five, who are being featured in the vaudeville revue at the R.-K.-O. Theater this week, have scored in such a manner that they will tour the entire R.-K.-O. vaudeville circuit. They will open on Friday at the Golden Gate Theater in San Francisco in the R.-K.-O. vaudeville revue. Following that engagement they will go east over the R.-K.-O. circuit.

This is the first time, it is said, that an adagio quintet has been used on the stage. There have been many combinations of three and four adagio dancers, but it remained for Earle Wallace to present an adagio quintet.

Beauty Dignifies Risque Romance

Billie Dove

Portrays a titled English lady in "Her Private Life," adapted from Zoe Akins's play, "Declassee," starting tomorrow at Loew's State Theater. Walter Pidgeon also has a prominent part in the film.

Travelogue in Sound Shown at United Artists

Talking features, talking news reels, talking comedies and now talking travelogues. What is believed to be the first of this latter variety of entertainment, is Tom Terris' production of "Burma," which is screening currently at the United Artists' Theater as an added part of the program featuring "The Dance of Life."

Tom Terris, noted for his radio lectures on foreign countries over one of the city's radio stations, independently produced "Burma," which is an expedition into the famous land of romance. Terriss is known as "the vagabond director," and has always been connected with the picture industry as a director.

He produced "Burma" as a silent subject, and took such infinite care in producing it that it would rate among the best short subjects of the year without sound. With sound, he has personally recorded his reactions to all of the scenes taken, and explains various situations which, if silent, would be left to the imagination of the onlooker. The success of his first venture is proven in the fact that the reel never fails to elicit spontaneous applause from the audience at each showing.

Triple Romance Told in Warner Downtown Film

Three love stories in one picture! A triple love theme between three chorines and three men of social standing is woven throughout "Gold Diggers of Broadway," Warner Brothers' Vitaphone comedy picture now at Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater.

The first love interest centers around the unusual romance between Nancy Welford and Conway Tearle. The second involves William Bakewell and Helen Foster, while the third concerns Albert Gran and Winnie Lightner.

An absorbing comedy of a different side of New York's theatrical world, "Gold Diggers of Broadway" in addition to being an all-talking laugh vehicle is filmed in natural color. Ann Pennington, Lilyan Tashman, Nick Lucas and others complete the exceptionally fine cast of "Gold Diggers of Broadway," adapted for Vitaphone from Avery Hopwood's stage play. Roy Del Ruth directed.

EGYPTIAN SCREENS MOVIETONE FARCE

"Imagine My Embarrassment," William Fox's initial Movietone farce, starts today at Grauman's Egyptian Theater, Hollywood. Based on "Cradle Snatchers," stage success which scored notable runs both in New York and on the Pacific Coast, the talking, singing version presents Walter Catlett, Sue Carol, David Rollins and Nick Stuart and a cast of more than 100. Several song hits are introduced, including "Doing the Boom Boom" and "Look What You've Done to Me."

On the stage Fanchon and Marco present a bevy of agile, drum-playing beauties, and a cast of favorites in "Types" Idea.

CENTURIES-OLD FASHION

Since the thirteenth century, cloth of gold and silver has played a role of lavish importance in the history of feminine fashion. Beading of pearls and crystals was also used on the trailing gowns of the fifteenth century ladies. Travis Banton, creator of Paramount fashions, appropriated forty bolts of gold and silver cloth, and eighty pounds of beads for ninety-five feminine costumes designed for "The Vagabond King," a Paramount production, starring Dennis King.

IMPRESSIONS CORRECTED

Because of her fluency in speaking foreign languages, Barbara Leonard has often been mistaken for a foreign-born actress. She wishes to correct these impressions as she is a native-born American, although she speaks five languages without an accent.

WORK IS VACATION

The two weeks' location for scenes of "Dance Hall," an R.-K.-O. picture, which will be at the beach is somewhat of a vacation for Arthur Lake and Olive Borden, principals of the production.

WON FAME IN TRAGEDY

Morgan Farley, featured in George Bancroft's new starring picture for Paramount, "The Mighty," won first notice on Broadway as the boy in Dreiser's "An American Tragedy."

Colored Players Will Appear in "Hit the Deck"

All previous records for elaborate productions at the Lincoln Theater will be shattered, it is said, with the opening Monday night of "Hit the Deck," Vincent Youman's musical comedy which the colored Lafayette Players will present.

Spectacular stage settings and special costumes will be only a small part of the program, for Robert Levy, producer, has arranged for the appearance of the greatest cast of colored stars ever seen in the West. Heading the cast of the musical show will be Evelyn Preer, last season's leading woman with the Lafayette Players. Several other new members have been added, including Laura Bowman and Charles Olden.

Other players are Andrew Bishop, Abbie Mitchell, Robert W. Brown, Claude Collins, Rupert Marks, Lionel Monagas, Theresa Brooks, Cleo Desmond, Bill Andrews and others.

A large chorus will further aid in the production, while a number of dance specialties are being planned.

Duncan Revises 'Moon Madness'

"Moon Madness," the new musical comedy playing at the Figueroa Playhouse, has gone through a series of revisions and alterations.

William Carey Duncan, late of the New York Hammerstein staff and now under contract to Paramount, states that the real writing of a musical comedy begins after the opening night. All New York productions open on the road in some small town, and are then altered to suit the wants of the New York audiences, he says. It is then that these shows go through the stages of revision, altering speeding and cutting.

"Moon Madness" moved into the Figueroa Playhouse on a minute's notice, and Mr. Duncan has been at work ever since. Calling a rehearsal every day, he has spent many hours on this show, it is said.

CAST CHOSEN FOR COMING ATTRACTION

Musical Comedy, "Follow Thru," Planned for Early Presentation

Laurence Schwab has completed the cast of "Follow Thru," the musical comedy of golf and love, which will make its Los Angeles debut in the Mason Theater on the 28th inst.

The cast is headed by Zelma O'Neal, Allen Kearns and Mary Lawlor, and includes Donald Douglas, Earl Hampton, Billie Stout, Billy Taft, Mary Hutchinson, Tom McGuire, Ethan Allen, Irene Enright, Gordon Orme, Bernice O'Neal, Virginia Lee, Fay Dixon, Cathleen Bessette, Virginia Brooks and Jack Murray.

"Follow Thru" is the first production offered by Schwab and Mandel in association with Homer Curran under their tenancy of the Mason Theater. At the conclusion of the show's engagement, it will be followed by a specially organized company of "The New Moon," the Schwab and Mandel operetta, which is now in its second year at the Imperial Theater, New York.

Paramount Will Suspend Policy for Two Crows

Gus S. Eyssell, managing director of the Paramount Theater, has announced that "Why Bring That Up?" Moran and Mack's first talking picture now playing at the Paramount, will be held for a second week, starting tomorrow.

Never before in the history of the Paramount has a picture been such a tremendous success, it is said, and the management has decided to run it a second week. In view of the inflated business the picture is doing and also in view of the many comments they have received regarding "Why Bring That Up?" theater officials feel that they are justified in overlooking the theater's one-week policy.

Evelyn Brent plays the part of the scheming woman. It is her beauty which almost causes a split between the partners. Harry Green has the role of the Black Crows' harassed manager. Green portrayed the theatrical manager in "Close Harmony."

"Why Bring That Up?" was directed for Paramount by George Abbott.

Majestic Play Holds Appeal for All Ages

That femininity and romance are still almost synonymous terms is being evidenced by the high proportion of women in the audiences both at the matinee and night performances of "The Command Performance," a romantic comedy of royalty and the stage, at the Majestic Theater.

Thursdays and Saturdays have been selected as matinee days at the Majestic Theater during the present season and while the afternoon frock and feminine laughter completely dominate, as usual, at these afternoon shows, the matinee audiences are almost unprecedented in the variety of ages represented.

"The Command Performance" is being presented at the Majestic through the medium of a versatile cast headed by Edward Everett Horton and Kay Hammond. Included are Claude King, Evelyn Hall, Wilfrid North and others.

DANGER METER TO WARN FLYER

Physicist Works on Device for Aerial Safety

Proximity of Earth or Hill to be Recorded

Navy Depth Sounder Devised by U.C.L.A. Inventor

Making an exhaustive study of all the noises made by an airplane in flight is a task to which Leo P. Delsasso of the University of California of Los Angeles physics department has devoted untiring efforts for nearly two years.

He hopes to evolve a device, the dial of which will inform an aviator flying in darkness or fog if his ship is endangered by proximity to mountains, the ground, or, in fact, any solid object. Lives and property in aerial transportation would be afforded immeasurable safety by such a device, for which long search has been made in many quarters, Delsasso points out.

AERIAL FOG HORN?

He is working on a device to produce a certain sound at intervals in a flying machine and by measuring the time from that moment to the moment at which the echo is caught the distance to the nearest object can be calculated, because sound travels and rebounds at known speeds. An automatic instrument to do this and indicate the distance in feet on a dial in front of the pilot is what Delsasso is trying to produce.

First, he explained yesterday, he made a frequency analyzer which he has taken up in all kinds of flying machines and under all sorts of conditions. Through it he is ascertaining the pitch and intensity of every noise made by a machine in flight. He has about all of them listed now. To get them he had to develop a frequency analyzer suitable to conditions under which he had to work in a flying machine. That in itself is regarded as something of an achievement.

NEW NOISE WANTED

Now Delsasso must find a new noise or sound outside the regular flying noises that can penetrate all the flying machine sounds and echo back again. It is to this second phase of his work that he is about to devote his attention. Then he must produce an instrument to utilize it.

The task is not a new one to Delsasso. He invented an ocean depth device now in use in the United States Navy and what he is trying to do now is to apply the general principle to air navigation.

Delsasso was inspired to produce the ocean depth sounder by the naval disaster at Point Honda six years ago. The Guggenheim Fund the Promotion of Aeronautics has allowed him $2000 to help develop an airplane instrument of the kind. He has been connected with U.C.L.A. for a number of years. He is 34 years of age and came here from Colorado, his native State.

GUILTY PLEA EXPECTED IN STILL CASE

Mrs. Holland Depends on Prosecutor to Recommend Probation in Her Behalf

Following a conference with members of the District Attorney's office yesterday Moses Davis, attorney for Mrs. Thelma Holland, 22-year-old expectant mother, charged with possession of a still, announced that the woman will plead guilty to the charge in Superior Judge Wood's court today with the understanding that the District Attorney will recommend probation.

Mrs. Holland last July pleaded guilty to the charge in Superior Judge Wilson's court and was sentenced to San Quentin prison. A few days before her husband, W. C. Holland, and Walter Payne, a friend, pleaded guilty to possession of the same still. Holland was sentenced to Folsom prison and Payne was ordered confined in the Preston School of Industry at Ione.

The woman demanded a rehearing, stating that she had pleaded guilty in the belief that she would be granted probation. Judge Wilson then permitted Mrs. Holland to withdraw her former plea of guilty and plead not guilty. The trial was scheduled for today.

MAN DIES IN FLAMES UNDER CAR

Realty Dealer's Clothes Set Afire When Dripping Gasoline Ignites

Caught in flames beneath his automobile yesterday, John D. Sayre, 47 years of age, a real estate operator of 1120 Logan avenue, was burned to death before relatives and neighbors could save him. Sayre was working beneath the automobile in a garage at the rear of his home.

Detectives who investigated report that apparently a short circuit in the wiring underneath the car ignited dripping gasoline, which enveloped Sayre in flames.

Mrs. McPherson to Tell of Life

Tonight, in a special service at Angelus Temple, Aimee Semple McPherson will don her old sunbonnet and be just a simple country girl again instead of a world-famous evangelist.

She has announced that she will give the story of her life and of her career which started when she was but 17 years of age.

It is her birthday and, she has announced, that each year on this date she will relate her history.

Who's Who for 1929 states that Mrs. McPherson was born at Ingersoll, Can., October 9, 1890.

LODGE PICKS OFFICERS AT CONVENTION

Royal Arcanum Adjourns Session With Installation and Reception

Election and installation of officers marked the closing session yesterday of the two-day convention at the Alexandria of the Grand Council of California, Royal Arcanum. The new officers are: Supreme Representative, David M. Carroll of Los Angeles; Alternate Supreme Representative, Thomas G. Hodgkins of Oakland; Grand Regent, C. C. McNeill, San Francisco; Grand Vice-Regent, Harry A. Hinz, Los Angeles; Grand Orator, Carl Streblow, San Francisco; Grand Secretary, G. L. Davidson, Los Angeles; Grand Treasurer, C. H. Reed, Los Angeles; Grand Chaplain, H. L. Corson, Pasadena; Grand Guide, D. E. Pease, San Francisco; Grand Warden, Elmer C. Taft, Hollywood; Grand Sentry, J. G. Grasshoff, San Francisco. Newly elected Grand Trustees are Raymond Sullivan, Earl F. Ford and Frank J. Miller.

In addition to routine business and reports, a resolution was passed at the closing session in which it was voted that the Grand Council would join the Fraternal Congress of California, following which the new officers were installed by C. O. Fischer, Grand Installing Officer of St. Louis, Mo.

The convention came to a close with a general reception for the new officers.

Choir Starts on Bus Tour to East Coast

With two large motor busses as their means of conveyance, thirty-four members of the A Cappella Choir with their leader, John Smallman, left Los Angeles yesterday morning for an eleven-weeks concert tour. Their itinerary takes them first to San Diego and thence through Arizona, Texas and on to New York with stopping at points all along the way.

Among the engagements in the East will be concerts at Yale and Harvard universities. The return trip, which will follow the Union Pacific route from Chicago, will take in many of the principal cities along the way. The choir will fill approximately thirty-eight engagements during the trip.

Tunnel Fears Told Council

A geological report containing a belief that the Vermont Canyon tunnel in Griffith Park had been built in a rock structure which contained a fault was given to the City Council yesterday by Dr. J. J. Drayden Davenport, who said in a letter to the Council that the survey had been made at his request by Robert T. Hill, geologist. The tunnel, recently opened to traffic, cost $75,000. It connects Vermont and Western avenues in the park.

Dr. Davenport in his letter said that the tunnel should be closed to traffic and an examination made to determine the safety of the passage. Although a similar letter was sent to the office of City Prosecutor Nix, the latter declared yesterday that no action would be taken to determine if the tunnel had been opened without State, county or city inspection, until some formal complaint had been lodged with his office, or he was asked to take some definite action by the Council.

DE SILVA APPOINTED AIRPORT ASSISTANT

Director of Airports Barnitz yesterday appointed Woodruff De Silva as assistant director. De Silva has been acting in the capacity for some months. R. F. McKinnon was appointed superintendent. Both De Silva and McKinnon lead the civil service lists for these positions.

ENGINEERS PAY CITY VISIT

Foreign and Eastern Delegates to World Congress in Tokio Stop to See Sights

Members of a party of engineers and their wives, including some prominent engineers from Europe, enjoyed a sightseeing tour of Los Angeles and surrounding country yesterday during a stopover on their way to attend the world engineering congress to be held at Tokio next month.

The engineering party was escorted by a committee of local engineers headed by H. L. Caldwell of the Department of Water and Power and by engineers and city officials of Pasadena, where the party detrained yesterday morning.

DAMSITE VISITED

One of the places visited was the San Gabriel damsite where the $25,000,000 flood control dam is being built. The giant landslide which recently caused an interruption in the work of excavating the west abutment foundation, was a matter of interest to the engineers, bringing forth various comment.

The party left last night for San Francisco where they will sail for Japan.

FOREIGNERS IN PARTY

Among those in the party from the East are Prof. and Mrs. Schonweller and Prof. T. E. Thomsen, Royal Danish Technical College, Copenhagen, Denmark; Col. A. Pernod, Luxembourg; Prof. Oswald Bauer, Berlin; Herman Buchholz, Neukolln; Dr. C. A. Fry, Krupp Works, Essen; Mr. and Mrs. Max Eduard Hasche, Berlin; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hayn, Buchenbach-Brisgau; Dr. and Mrs. Frank Gill, London; Prof. and Mrs. Axel F. Enstrom, Stockholm; Prof. Pleijel, Mr. and Mrs. Wiberg, Prof. E. H. W. Weibull, S. Tajima, of Mitsui Company, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Alexander of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dow and Misses D. D. Dow of Midland, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Fay, Newark, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Eldred, New York; H. B. Gear, Chicago; Elmer Sperry, Capt. M. G. Sperry, Miss C. A. Lindholm of New York; Prof. A. N. Talbot, University of Illinois; Edward N. Trump, Miss M. Trump, F. Chase and Miss F. Wright of Syracuse; Mr. and Mrs. O. G. JURY TO FIX POLICEMAN'S FATE TODAY

Officer Bost's Trial on Charge of Shooting Youth Near Conclusion

The fate of William J. Bost, police officer charged with murder in connection with the shooting July 4, last, of Christopher Sierra, 19-year-old Mexican, will be placed in the hands of a jury today in Superior Judge Wood's court.

The case was to have gone to the jury yesterday but owing to the protracted length of arguments by counsel, Judge Wood announced he will submit the case shortly after court convenes this morning.

Bost is asserted needlessly to have shot Sierra while attempting to arrest the youth during a street brawl at Utah and Kearney streets. The officer, who took the witness stand in his own defense, denied shooting Sierra or even firing his gun.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Scheinman, making the closing argument for the prosecution, asked the jury to return a verdict carrying life imprisonment. Bost was represented by Attorneys Cliff Thomas and J. W. Kearby, while Dep. Dist.-Atty. Barnes made the State's opening plea.

Witness Says Wirt Admitted Shooting Wife

Pete Tirres of Stanton, principal witness for the State in the trial of Lee A. Wirt on a charge of murdering his wife, Frances Wirt, took the witness stand in Judge Hardy's court yesterday and told how Wirt had come to his home and admitted the shooting.

"He was very nervous and told me he had tried to commit suicide," said Tirres. According to Tirres, Wirt explained he did not mean to shoot his wife, but wanted to get a man named Ramos, who, Wirt was said to have stated, had been paying attentions to Mrs. Wirt.

The State asserts Wirt shot his wife following a quarrel over a diamond ring. It is expected the State will rest its case today.

Hubby Balked at Car Upkeep

Emory Rennick, wealthy Hollywood studio owner, bought his wife an expensive car and then wouldn't give her enough money to run it, Mrs. Virginia Rennick testified in Superior Judge Rosenkranz's court yesterday.

Mrs. Rennick, questioned by her attorney, gave other instances of neglect and nonsupport. Her decree was granted.

PARK BOARD URGES ACTION ON ENTRANCE

The park department yesterday asked the Council to institute proceedings for the acquisition of a plot of ground which eventually will be used as an entrance to that part of Griffith Park known as Aberdeen Canyon, the funds for the condemnation to come from the park department. The Council referred the matter to Parks and Playgrounds Committee.

Benefit Concert Outlook Bright

Advance reservations for tickets for the benefit concert Sunday evening, the 20th inst., at Trinity Auditorium under auspices of the People's Tool Campaign for the Jews of Russia indicate that the affair will be an outstanding success, it was reported yesterday by William Knewbow, chairman of the campaign.

Members of twenty-six local Jewish organizations are co-operating in the sale of tickets. Stations also have been established at 757 South Spring street, 131 East First street, 540 Wilcox Building, 254 North Western avenue, 2129 Brooklyn avenue, 2107 Brooklyn avenue, and 2600 Brooklyn avenue.

The concert will be featured by the participation of an orchestra made up of seventy members of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

BURIAL CONDUCTED FOR MRS. CHRISTIE

Last rites were conducted at the Little Church of the Flowers yesterday for Mrs. Abilena Creighton Christie, pioneer resident of the Southwest, who died Sunday at her apartment at the Langham Hotel. Cremation followed at Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Mrs. Christie was the widow of Shirley A. Christie, Phoenix business man and rancher, who died a year ago. She leaves her mother, Mrs. Laura C. Creighton, and three brothers, Hugh M., Ned and Harry S. Creighton.

POLICE GRAFT TRIAL DELAYED

Three Charged With Bribery Face Court Today

Accused in Group of Eight Indicted Recently

Postponement Due to Murder Case of Patrolman

Trial of Harry M. Hill, Oscar L. Peterson and Leonard F. Sale, policemen indicted by the county grand jury on a charge of taking a $600 bribe from Harry D. McDonald, asserted bootlegger, yesterday was continued by Superior Judge Wood to this morning. The continuance was made necessary by the trial of another police officer, William J. Bost, who is charged with murder.

The Bost case, however, will go to the jury this morning, thus paving the way for the selection of a jury to hear the evidence in the case against the three officers indicted for bribery.

The State charges Hill, Peterson and Sale took the $600 from McDonald January 25, last, to refrain from arresting him on a Wright Act charge. Another indictment against the three, charging bribery and extortion, was set for trial the 18th inst.

Thomas B. Washburn, former police sergeant, already has been convicted of taking $600 "protection money" from McDonald in October, 1928. Washburn has filed a motion for a new trial, which will come before Superior Judge Wilson Friday for hearing.

Hill, Peterson, Sale and Washburn are four of eight police officers recently indicted in connection with that body's investigation of asserted police graft.

BACK YARDS TO BE RAKED SPICK TODAY

Appeal Made to Remove Junk and Trash as Part of Clean-up Week

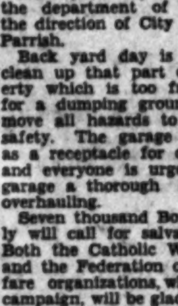
Clouds of smoke hanging over the city today will not be indications of new forest fires, but will come from thousands of incinerators burning up rubbish and trash in the observance of back yard day, today's program in the annual clean-up and paint-up campaign promoted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and indorsed by leading civic organizations.

Back yard day is sponsored by the department of health under the direction of City Health Officer Parrish.

Back yard day is an appeal to clean up that part of one's property which is too frequently used for a dumping ground and to remove all hazards to health and safety. The garage often is used as a receptacle for odds and ends and everyone is urged to give his garage a thorough and complete overhauling.

Seven thousand Boy Scouts gladly will call for salvage if notified. Both the Catholic Welfare Bureau and the Federation of Jewish Welfare organizations, which indorse the campaign, will be glad to receive articles or clothing that can be salvaged.

Legion Women Meet National Chief at Train



MRS. CARROL MARKS

Although local delegates of the American Legion failed to land the 1930 conclave for Los Angeles, recognition was bestowed on this city in the election of Mrs. Carrol Marks, national commander of the "8-40," honorary order of the Legion Auxiliary, at the national convention in Louisville.

Mrs. Marks was given a rousing reception upon her arrival here yesterday over the Union Pacific System. The entire membership of the "8-40" in uniform met her.

For many years Mrs. Marks has been an active worker in the Legion Auxiliary. She is the first Le Grande Chapeau Passe of the department of California. She was honor guest at a luncheon yesterday in Patriotic Hall.

Accompanying her on the trip was Mrs. Margaret Keading, department commander of California.

Actress Seeks Mayor's Aid On Hotel Permit

Betty Compson, motion-picture actress, in a letter yesterday appealed to Mayor Porter, asking his "moral support" in her effort to obtain permission to erect a 700-room hotel of Persian architecture in the Hollywood foothills north of Hollywood Boulevard at Curson avenue. Her request heretofore has been refused by the City Planning Commission, and her appeal from that decision is set for hearing before the City Planning Committee of Council next Monday afternoon.

Miss Compson said she voted for the Mayor, convinced that he believed in fairness and justice.

PERMIT ACTION DELAYED

Action by the Police Commission on the application of six firms seeking pawnshop permits to do business in Hollywood yesterday was deferred one week by the Police Commission, which has requested the City Attorney for an opinion as to its powers in limiting the number of pawnshops in the city, as done by an order of the board last spring.

CHAIN BANK IDEA VIEWED HOPEFULLY

System Likely to Spread All Over Nation, States Advertising Club Speaker

Pessimism has no place in any view that is to be taken of the prevailing chain or branch system of banking which, originating in California, has spread all over the United States. This was the declaration made yesterday to members of the Los Angeles Advertising Club by Rome C. Stephenson, vice-president of the American Banking Institute and president of St. Joseph's Trust and Savings Bank, South Bend, Ind.

"If the power which, under the branch banking system, becomes invested in a few individuals is used rightly and sensibly, there will be no need for apprehension in America," Mr. Stephenson told his hearers. "If, on the other hand, the power so vested is abused an outraged citizenry will arise and wipe out that power," he said with conviction.

The speaker at yesterday's luncheon-meeting paid glowing tribute to California and its banking achievements and declared Southern California the most hospitable spot in America.

"The banking business has gone through a great evolutionary period since 1926, the year of the last bankers' convention here," the speaker said.

Mr. Stephenson predicted that within the next two years the branch or chain system of banking will be in operation in every State in the Union.

The speaker was introduced by Hal Stonier of Los Angeles, another American Banking Institute official and former Ad Club president, who acted as chairman at the luncheon in the Biltmore ballroom.

Entertainment features were furnished by the Rounders of KNX under the direction of Dudley Chambers.

Chief Appoints Colored Typist

Chief Davis yesterday informed the Police Commission that he has appointed Mrs. Juanita Edwards, colored policewoman, a police stenographer under an emergency appointment, to retain her in the department until she is eligible for appointment as policewoman for the colored district under civil service regulations.

Mrs. Edwards passed the examination after serving two years as policewoman, but her name was too far down the list to be one of eleven certified for appointment as policewomen. The commission expressed approval of the action, which had been requested by leaders of the colored district.

Not—

How much do you drink?
but—
How much do you use?

The average person does not realize how much water he consumes, in one form or another, every day. He may actually drink only a quart, but, as a unit of population, he probably is responsible for the use of something like 200 gallons every 24 hours.

The "water business" deals in the most important commodity (next to air) used by the human race. Under certain conditions people can live without food, shelter, or clothing for considerable periods, but life without water is a very short affair.

It is easy to see why companies supplying water to growing communities enjoy a constantly increasing business and a dependable income. The demand for their service is fast growing, especially in districts such as those of Southern California, which are expanding rapidly along the most up-to-date lines.

The Common Stock, Class A, of American States Public Service Company (listed on the New York Curb Market and the Chicago Stock Exchange), which system supplies water to a large number of progressive communities in Southern California, offers an unusually attractive investment. BREAKING THE ICE ON HOME PLATE

It took the Cubs and Athletics six and one-third innings before Jimmy Foxx, hard-hitting young Philadelphia first sacker, thawed out the barrier around the plate by poling a home run into the center-field stands. Foxx is shown below crossing the rubber with the first run of the world's series in the seventh inning. Jimmy's run remained as the lone scoring effort of the contest until the ninth.

TROJANS LEAVE TONIGHT

Howard Jones Takes Squad of 38 Players North This Evening for Saturday's Game With Huskies

BY BRAVEN DYER

Thirty-eight strong, the Trojan horde will pull out of Los Angeles at 7:45 this evening, bent on avenging that 22-to-0 licking which the University of Washington handed Southern California away back in 1923.

Following a strenuous scrimmage on Bovard Field yesterday afternoon, in which the Trojans showed more speed and dash than they have demonstrated all season, Howard Jones announced the names of those who will make the trip to Seattle.

ERNIE PINCKERT.

Those selected are: Tappaan, R. Wilcox, Joslin, Kreiger, Steponovich, Arbelbide, Durkee and Ritchey, ends; Anthony, Seitz, Bond, Hoff, Hall, Ward and Decker, tackles; Capt. Barragar, Baker, Templeton, Winfield, Galloway, Shaw and Gowder, guards; Dye, Williamson and Hirsch, centers; Saunders, Duffield, Shaver and Kemp, quarterbacks; Edelson, Apsit, Mallory, Pinckert, Mortensen and Hammack, halfbacks, and Musick, Hill and Moses, fullbacks.

MAY BE CHANGES

There may be one or two changes following another scrimmage session this afternoon, but barring injuries this squad should stand. Jones originally planned to take a fourth fullback, but Moses showed a partial return to form last night and that settled that. With Shaver not in a suit yesterday, the Trojan mentor decided to take Kemp along to guard against a possible shortage of quarterbacks.

Jones was in a downright irascible mood last night for the first time this season and he transferred his fight and drive to the varsity to such an extent

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Solving the port-side delivery of August Johns without difficulty today, the San Francisco Mission Reds banged out a 7-2 victory over Hollywood's Stars to capture the first game of the post-season series for the 1929 Pacific Coast League pennant.

A home run into the left-field bleachers by Gordon Slade, shortstop, started the Missions on their way in the second inning. Three more in the next frame and another trio in the seventh gave the winners of the first half of the split season a commanding lead. Hulvey relieved Johns in the seventh, but the damage had been done.

DUTCH RUETHER

"Dutch" Ruether, veteran left-hander, allowed the Stars nine hits, well scattered, and received fine support. The visitors scored their first run in the fourth when Funk doubled, took third on Severeid's single and came home while Severeid was being forced out by Rumler. Lee drove in the other tally in the seventh, Maloney scoring after a walk and advancing to third on Johns's double.

The Missions' five-hit rally in the third was started by Finn. He singled and Boone, Scott, Sherlock and Hufft followed suit. In the seventh Finn singled again and came home on Boone's double. Scott doubled, scoring Boone, and Johns was chased to the showers. Scott went to second on Sherlock's

Former Angel Hurler Wins in First Start on Mound Since July

CHICAGO, Oct 8. (AP)—For the first time in the memory of the oldest world's series fan, a pitcher not numbered among the regular season's workers triumphed today when Howard Ehmke beat the Cubs in record-breaking style. In fact, it was his first start on the mound since July.

GEORGE EARNSHAW

All season, while Earnshaw, Grove, Walberg and Quinn composed the main twirling quartet of the Athletics, Ehmke warmed the bench or worked in the bull pen. He pitched in only eleven games altogether, for fifty-five innings, but showed a Winning Athletics pitcher, who fanned thirteen Cubs, a new world's series strike-out record.

[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—There are moments in nearly every lifetime when a fellow wonders just what he would do when he got into a tight pinch. One of these occasions arose today, when for the first time in my sixteen years in the big leagues I got into a world's series game.

It is the dream of every pitcher to twirl a shut-out game in the basecall classic, and, although I won against the Cubs, I was somewhat disappointed at not coming through with a row of zeros against the enemy.

I was surprised to learn that I had set a new series record of thirteen strike-outs, breaking the old mark of twelve, which, singularly enough, was also made against the Cubs.

Here's how it all came about that I got the honor of pitching the opening game. On the train out from Chicago, I felt pretty frisky and when we got to our hotel on Monday afternoon I took a nice walk along the lake shore.

NEW RECORD

I wasn't bothered for tickets by friends and I managed to get a sound night's sleep. In the morning I sought Connie Mack and told him I felt fit and was ready to work if he wanted me to.

Imagine my great joy when Connie, who has been a faithful friend through adversity and a lot of criticism, looked me squarely in the eye and said: "You pitch today and you will win. Good luck."

That's all there was to it. The Cubs were surprised and so were a a lot of our players, but it was really a last-minute decision, and I had the advantage of not knowing beforehand and worrying over the weather, the crowd and a lot of 50,740 fans, who contributed to a near record "gate" of $219,738, saw Ehmke's slow curves turn back their favorites and beat the best that Charley Root, leading flinger of the National League, had to offer. For six innings Root easily held his own in a scoreless duel, but he retired in the seventh for a pinch batter, after yielding a home run to Jimmy Foxx, young first sacker of the Athletics. This mighty drive, that fell into the center-field bleachers, started the downfall of the Cubs, but the clinching blow of the game was a rousing single to center by Bing Miller, the supposedly ailing Mack outfielder, who drove Cochrane and Simmons across the plate after Elwood English, young Cub shortstop, had contributed two successive errors to the final splurge of the A's at bat.

TRIUMPH FOR EHMKE

Otherwise the game was all a triumph for the towering Ehmke, who celebrated his debut in world's series competition in his thirteenth major-league season with one of the finest pitching performances on record. The Cubs were game. They fought hard and they threatened on three separate occasions to break through the barrier of slow curves, floaters and a change of side-arm pace but except in the ninth, when they had a three-run disadvantage to overcome, they failed to show anything like a punch in the pinch.

The biggest guns in the Cub attack, Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson, were spiked more effectively than any others. Twice these two sluggers were fanned in succession by Ehmke's tantalizing delivery, once in the third inning with runners on second and third; again in the sixth, when the A's star retired the whole Cub side on strikes. These three victims made it five in a row for Ehmke at the time. All he needed was one more to tie Hod Eller's record, made against the White Sox in 1919, but the next man up in the seventh frame, Kiki Cuyler, that the boys put on the best exhibition they have offered all year.

Ernie Pinckert and Russ Saunders were knocking the Spartans dead with their powerful smashes through the line and Troy's pass plays were clicking with monotonous regularity, but sparkling brilliancy. Jim Musick had his old drive at full, and when Duffield, Hill and Moses got in there it was a repetition of what the regulars had done.

Jones raved and stormed and after a slow start the boys clicked off their plays like clockwork, the blocking being especially deadly by the linemen. The only Spartan who had much luck stopping the varsity was Moose Thompson, the battling tackle, who will probably be moved up as the result of his continued good playing.

Sam Barry's return from scouting the Huskies in two games had considerable to do with Jones's frame of mind. Barry reported that Washington's line will outweigh Southern California plenty and that Merle Hufford is a constant threat every moment that he is in the game. Jones, Barry and the rest of the Trojan board of strategy spent more than three hours behind closed doors working out an adequate defense for Washington's running and passing attack. Following this conference Jones and his aides went to Bovard Field and gave their athletes three hours of intensive practice.

Instead of going to Tacoma Friday afternoon, as originally planned, the Trojan special, run by the Espee, will pull into Seattle and the Southern California team will take a workout on the Husky gridiron immediately after arrival at 2 p.m. Following the practice session the boys will be driven to Tacoma by motor bus, stopping at the Winthrop Hotel that evening.

RAIN FALLING IN NORTHWEST

SEATTLE (Wash.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Endeavoring to mold a power-plunging backfield for use against Southern California here next Saturday, Coach Enoch Bagshaw sent his University of Washington football squad through a long scrimmage grind in a drizzling rain this afternoon.

Bagshaw shifted and reshifted his backfield charges in a hope of finding a smooth-running, ground-gaining combination.

Charles Rosenhan, giant sophomore, was drilled at fullback. Rosenhan is a powerful lad but needs lots of experience. Bagshaw has been working with Rosenhan for several days and will likely give him a chance against the Trojans.

From all indications Bagshaw intends to replace Johnny Geehan, quarterback, for the Saturday battle. The Washington coach was far from satisfied with the way the Huskies were handled against Montana las Saturday, when the Grizzlies tied Washington, 6 to 6. Bill Mittlestedt, a newcomer from Centralia Junior College, is the leading candidate for the signal-calling berth.

Merle Hufford, Thurle Thornton, Elliott Pulver and Johnny Stombaugh were worked at the halfback posts with the former two considered the likely starters against S.C.

Sagehens Take Light Workout

CLAREMONT, Oct. 7.—The Pomona Sakehens took only a light workout here this afternoon, Coach Eugene White Nixon sending his men through a brief signal practice. The chief purpose of the afternoon's work was to loosen the boys up a bit as many of them were still feeling the effects of last Saturday's conflict with the Caltech Engineers.

The Sagehens were exceedingly fortunate as regards to injuries last Saturday, as the entire team came through the affair with only minor ailments. Capt. Poke Hartman's bad leg is bothering him some, but a rest will fix him up.

Don Murdy and Art Colley, Heath's fighting guards, acquitted themselves nobly in their first attempt at their new positions. Although they were forced to leave the game at the end of the third quarter due to exhaustion they showed plainly that they are going to develop into two mighty fine linemen.

Although the Sagehens managed to win from the Engineers, Coach Nixon was not at all satisfied with the showing that his boys made. Pomona was unable to gain consistently through the Engineers' line, the main difficulty being the seeming reluctance of the Sagehens to block. The line was cleaning up fairly well, but Nixon's backfield failed to get the Caltech ends and tackles out of the way.

Nixon intimated this afternoon that much time would be spent on the art of blocking in the next two weeks in an endeavor to instill in the Sagehens a real ability in this department of the game.

Sagehen grid followers were satisfied with the defensive ability of Coach Heath's line. Although the line gave evidence time and again of its greenness it also showed that it could fight and that amounts to a lot. Heath will spend a good deal of time in the near future in an attempt to polish the boys up a bit and show them a few tricks.

This Saturday finds the Sagehens facing La Verne at Alumni Field, Claremont, in what should be an interesting game. The Sagehens should take the measure of the Leopards, but only after a battle, for the La Verne boys play away over their heads when meeting Pomona. The game should give Nixon an opportunity to iron out a few of the rough spots and get ready for Whittier the following week-end when the Sagehens will need all they've got in order to come out on top.

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

GLENDALE'S MR. EHMKE

THE feat of Mr. Howard Ehmke, who was believed to have at least half a foot in the baseball graveyard, completely overshadows the day's news from the football fronts.

And that's about the only way even a world series shuts football out of the picture these days. But when a guy like Ehmke, who is anything but a spring chicken and has bounced around to three clubs in the course of his major league career, can establish a new world's record for strikeouts in this day of the lively ball and stand the heavy hitters of the Cubs on their heads with men on the paths the deed is worth shouting about from the housetops.

Incidentally, the throbbing metropolis of Glendale undoubtedly will get busy and rear another monument to one of its home-town athletes.

It was in Glendale many years ago that Mr. Ehmke bloomed in all his glory as a high-school pitcher, and although he seemed to have withered considerably in the past few years his thirteen strikeouts—particularly the three in the sixth inning with the heavy hitters of the Cub batting order up—indicate he still has something left in the old soup bone.

It was a dime-novel finish—that hectic ninth inning. There was Mr. Ehmke, once of Glendale, on the mound. And there was Mr. Slug Tolson, late of the Angels, at bat. Two men were down, and there were Cubs on first and third. Truly, a stirring situation for all concerned—the 50,000 fans in the Cubs park, local supporters of the Messrs. Ehmke and Tolson, and the principals engaged in that battle of wits and brawn and skill.

A strikeout meant a new world's record for Ehmke. A hit possibly meant the ball game for the Cubs.

Tolson struck out. The kid lost. The veteran won. Sentiment at least would have it so.

And in the synopsis credit Mr. Connie Mack, the aged leader of the Athletics, with an assist. When everybody else expected Earnshaw, the speedball artist, to pitch the first game, Mr. Mack crossed the wires and sent in Mr. Ehmke, who won seven games and lost two this season.

The Messrs. Earnshaw and Lefty Grove, who have been Mr. Mack's mainstays this year, both working in over thirty games, were left on the bench.

Just a little managerial coup that caught the Cubs flat-footed.

ROTHERT AND MOFFATT

ALTHOUGH rather unheralded and unsung Harlow Rothert, the star shotputter, and Phil Moffatt were the big heroes of Stanford's overwhelming 33-to-7 victory over Oregon at Palo Alto last Saturday.

Rothert stepped into Smalling's shoes at fullback after playing right half all season and soon demonstrated that he is likely to develop into another Biff Hoffman.

He was so far superior to Lud Frentrup as a heaver that Stanford completed one pass after another.

And young Moffatt also revealed some startling ability as a safety man, a punt returner and packer of the ball on Pop Warner's pet reverses.

It will be har dto displace these boys, these news stars, as it were, and a letter from Mr. Ed Rich, who used to coach them at Los Angeles High School, comes at a propitious time.

Mr. Rich, now in the insurance business with Ralph McCord, who retired as a football official last fall, was track-and-football coach at L. A. High from 1924 to 1928, inclusive. He writes as follows about these boys:

"I thought it might be of pregame intrest to know that Pop Warner has Howard Jones to thank indirectly for his two stars, Rothert and Moffatt.

"In 1925 they both played on the L. A. High team which defeated Poly for the championship at the Coliseum on Thanksgiving Day, 14-to-7, using Howard Jones's system.

"I had played under Jones in 1922, and was coaching at L. A. High when Rothert, Moffatt, Tappaan, Galloway and Moses came under my wing.

"Rothert was originally a fullback, but was moved to center because of his ability to handle the ball. Moffatt was quarterback. Tappaan and Galloway were tackles and Moses was a halfback, and they have carried their knowledge of fundamentals to success in college football.

"They will meet as rivals on October 26. May the best team win!"

THE WALKER SITUATION

EASTERN newspapers are carrying stories about Jack Kearns pulling a "fast one."

They tell of Mickey Walker being unable to make 160 pounds any more and his desire to go after the light heavyweight title.

And then they charge a shady transaction in which Kearns is to manage the middleweight champion regardless of the winner here October 29. In other words if Walker loses Kearns will then take over Hudkins.

Without attempting to dissect the latter part of the story let's see if the first is correct.

Night trails or no night trails Walker weighed 163 pounds at Ojai last week. He had been there less than a week.

The only evidence he showed of being out of condition was a slight shortness of wind.

And whether the eastern journalists know it or not Walker has considerable pride. He loves that middleweight crown well enough to fight for it, and he hates Hudkins enough to be in condition for a real battle October 29.

Let the chips fall where they may.

OLYMPIC WRESTLING GO POSTPONED BY LOU DARO

The battle that has been raging here during the past few days between Promoter Lou Daro and Billy Sandow was brought to a head late yesterday when the local promoter revealed he not only had Ed "Strangler" Lewis signed to wrestle here in the feature event of his next mat show, but that he also held a contract signed by him and his manager which would keep the headlock expert from wrestling Champion Gus Sonnenberg anywhere excepting Los Angeles on or before November 4 of this year.

At the same time Promoter Daro stated that the mat show originally scheduled for the Olympic, October 16, in which Lewis was to appear in the feature event, had been set over until October 23. Both Sandow and Lewis are very anxious to accept the offer made by Gabe Kaufman, Kansas City mat promoter, for a title match in that city between Champion Sonnenberg and Lewis.

Daro stated that Lewis and Sandow signed a contract here September 4, the afternoon of the Joe Stecher-Lewis match.

"They agreed to wrestle the world's champion in Los Angeles, and under my promotion, before he would wrestle the champion anywhere else, if he beat Stecher that night," Daro said. "The Stechers signed a similar contract.

"Lewis won, but he did not wrestle the champion. I still have his contract for his first match with the world's wrestling king to be held within sixty days of the signing of the instrument, September 4."

SPEEDY DADO TO MEET KAISER AT HOLLYWOOD

Local boxing men believe that if given the chance within six months Speedy Dado, Filipino doll of the fight game, will be the flyweight champion of the world. Owing to his youth and inexperience Frank Churchill and Jesus Cortez, managers of Dado, have kept the youngster fighting in California. They prefer to take less money and be able to groom their protege as they see fit. Dado fights Charley Kaiser in the main event at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium Friday night.

Charley Kaiser is one of the best-looking boys turned out of the preliminary ranks in more than a year. He may be taking in too much territory in meeting Dado, but Kaiser is fast and has a good punch—He isn't an old washed-up fighter and the fans should get a run for their money.

The semi-wind-up is the best that has been carded for the stadium in months. Tom Patrick is once more in training and raring to go. He fights Ray Pelkey, who recently scored a knockout at Hollywood. Patrick is one of the fastest light-heavyweights in California. He is a good boxer and hits like a champion.

SIMMONS HAILS MACK TWIRLER

Ehmke's Performance Gave Athletics Heart

Couldn't Falter Behind Great Performance

Confident of Conquering Malone Today

BY AL SIMMONS

Athletics Outfielder and Leading Runmaker

(Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Well, we have that first one in the game sack. We did not tighten up; we fought the Cubs right through to the finish with lots of the old hustle, which gives the boys on my club a lot of satisfaction.

AL SIMMONS

And what a game Ehmke pitched for us! I'll tell you honestly that at no time did I feel that we would lose. Howard had all the stuff he needed in the pinches.

They tell me that his striking out thirteen Cubs gives him a world series record. That's very fine. But, it was not the records he may have hung up that delighted me—it was the tight curving he did when the slightest slip might have cost us the game.

I am sure I never stood behind better pitching than Ehmke's in the third inning when, with McMillan on third and English on second and only one out, Howie fanned both Hornsby and Wilson. It gave me the thrill of my life.

REAL COURAGE

Hornsby and Wilson didn't do any hitting in this first game of the world series. But they are great sluggers just the same. We know that. And any pitcher who faces them with runners on third and second must have lots of courage and fine control.

Ehmke seemed to make that side-arm curve of his do just what he wanted it to do every time. He slipped it across so accurately that the batters had to hit at ... Yet they couldn't touch it and he did this twice in the hot spots.

There has been considerable written about the background in the Cubs' park and how it would cross our right-hand batters. But we didn't find that much of a handicap, although Root was supposed to be the pitcher who would give us the most trouble on account of his style of delivery.

We made only three clean hits off Root, I'll grant you. But we hit the ball pretty hard often enough to convince me that there is no mental hazard for the Athletics in any background on Wrigley Field.

Jimmy Foxx came through great in his first world series game. We boys all are proud of him. That ball he punched out into the center-field bleachers was well hit. I am glad Jimmy showed the world that he has the power and the grit to come through in the big test.

That home run in the seventh inning really won the ball game for the Athletics. It took a lot of heart out of the Cubs, I suppose. The first break in a tight pitchers' duel usually does that. Also, it put new fight into the Athletics.

I did not make a hit. Of course, that wasn't so nice to take—wearing the collar in my first world series engagement. But I will say that Hack Wilson robbed me of what felt like a real hit when he made that diving catch of my liner in the seventh inning.

STELLAR CATCH

Wilson is a nifty center fielder. I don't want to suggest that there was any luck in that catch he made off me. I know that it was a brilliant piece of fielding but I think I can say that I was "collared" in my first big match because Hack turned in a sensational play.

I can't pick a flaw in the work of my team. It is a fact that one error robbed Ehmke of a shutout. But that doesn't matter.

I guess George Earnshaw will do the pitching for our side tomorrow. I have no idea what plans Manager Mack has in mind. But that would be my guess. I suppose Pat Malone will be on the hill for the Cubs. Well, we looked over Root and Bush and while we didn't do very much to them in the way of long hitting, I do not expect that Malone will be any harder for us to hit than Root and Bush.

"TIMES" SCOREBOARD AND BROADCAST THRILL FANS

Hundreds of fans, forming a record gathering that blocked traffic at First and Broadway, got their world's series thrills before The Times scoreboard yesterday.

It was the next best thing to really being at Wrigley Field for the fans, who heard the roar of the big crowd at the Chicago park and the description of the game over the Columbia national hook-up from KHJ and, simultaneously, saw the results flashed on The Times' scoreboard.

The fans in front of The Times building got their first big thrill in the third inning, when Howard Ehmke, a former Angel pitcher, struck out the great Hornsby and Wilson while two runners were waiting to score from second and third. What a roar went up then!

Another verbal outburst was unleashed on the First-and-Broadway atmosphere in the seventh, when Jimmy Foxx, the baby of Connie Mack's great team, clubbed one of Charley Root's offerings far out into the center-field bleachers for the first run of the game.

After the Athletics had added two more runs to their total in the ninth to apparently cinch the game, a hush of uncertainty swept over the local gathering when Ehmke, on the treshhold of a great pitching triumph and a new world's series strike-out record, was struck in the side by a terrific line drive from Wilson's bat. Wilson was thrown out by Ehmke while on the ground. "Would he have to leave the game now with the strike-out record in his grasp?" was the thought that flashed through the crowd.

But when Ehmke arose and stayed in the game, checked the Cubs' desperate rally, and fanned Slug Tolson, another ex-Angel, for his record-setting strike-out, the fans let out a wild cheer that must have been heard for blocks.

The Times will broadcast the remainder of the world's series games in conjunction with their scoreboard. The festivities today will start at 11:30, so come to First and Broadway early if you want to enjoy the next best thing to seeing the big game at Chicago.

KID CARTER BATTLES RITCHIE KING TONIGHT

Benny (Kid) Carter, the Mexican scrapper who has been campaigning with great success in eastern and European rings, makes his first California fight in two years tonight when he opposes Ritchie King, the ex-navy lightweight champion, in the scheduled ten-round wind-up at Wilmington.

The six-round semifinal figures to be a gruelling affair. Joe Lewis, hard-hitting negro, battles Johnny Rameriz in this spot. Young Sport vs. Ragini Palimini clash in the six-round special. The fours show Marty Nolan vs. Steve Hayden, heavies, and Jimmy Benway vs. Joe Salvidar, welters.

JAPANESE FENCERS TO FEATURE PROGRAM

Three champion fencers from Japan will appear at the Los Angeles Athletic Club on the evening of October 19 and meet a trio of Mercury swordsmen as the feature of an open fencing evening, arranged by Prof. Harry Uyttenhove. The Jap fencers will use their own style of sword play and weapons will be opposed with the saber by H. C. Burrows, Ralph Faulkner and Caleb Patterson. The Jap trio consists of Tokichi Nakamura, champion of Japan and director of the Chosen Fencing Institute; Minoru Nakahara and Hideo Akita. The latter two are instructors at the institute.

New York Ring Bosses Will be Gu Chiefs at Title Bout

California's boxing commission is getting ready to liam Muldoon and James Farley of the New York week of the Mickey Walker-Ace Hudkins world's Jim Woods yesterday talked over long distance from San Francisco to the local boxing offices and stated that Muldoon and Farley had promised to be his guests for the big fight.

Commissioner Woods also stated he would bring a special train here from the north on which 500 clubmen, business men and members of the San Francisco Olympic Athletic Club would come south for the battle.

This makes the fourth special announced. Ventura yesterday began forming a Walker train which will carry his admirers from the Ojai Valley, where the champion is training. Promoter Ancil Hoffman also has a train coming from San Francisco and Harry Pollak is bringing another from San Diego. Pollak will have Jim Coffroth, Jim Crofton, Baron Long and other officials of Agua Caliente in his party.

Walker boxed six rounds at Soper's ranch yesterday. He worked with Willie Henry, negro light-heavy, Ray Pelkey and Roy Moore. The title-holder showed that he was returning to form by almost stopping the negro member of his sparring staff.

Hudkins took only light training at Bastanchury's ranch. He came in for the Carter-Townsend bout last night. Tonight he will box an exhibition at Ontario on the Omar Wright-Tommy Elks card.

run in the ninth when Dykes made a wild throw.

DYKES SPARKLES

Stephenson played a great game, both at bat and in the field. He looked good as he always does. He got two clean hits and ought to have had a third one. Dykes robbed him of one by a diving catch of a line drive.

"Woody" English was good in his batting. It looked as if he had started a big fuss in the third when he slammed a double down to the right-field corner with McMillan on first base at the time and only one out. Hornsby and Wilson were the next hitters. It sure seemed as if we were on our way. I can't say much about Hornsby and Wilson, who fanned in this crisis. I came up at the start of the next inning and fanned also.

So the only reason we didn't win the first game was because we didn't do our stuff with the bat. Mr. Ehmke gets the credit and we're the goats.

It may be a different story the next game.

other things that wear on a fellow's nerves.

When I started to warm up before the game my arm ached and there were a lot of skeptics who thought it was a stall. Cy Perkins watched me anxiously and I looked toward the bench to see if Connie wanted to know how I felt. He was laughing and paying absolutely no attention to me.

So I jumped into the river, as they say, and started to swim for myself. Right in the first inning my shoulder started to ache again. Then English smacked a liner through the box which I deflected toward Boley with my bare hand.

FANNED TWO

That drive hurt the second finger and I began to get nervous for the first time. It wasn't until the second inning that I started to feel right, when I struck out Cuyler and Stephenson.

Before that I had been experimenting on the batters. Then I began to cut loose. I fed Hornsby, Cuyler and Stephenson low fast ones on the outside corner the remainder of the game, and I think I succeeded pretty well.

Occasionally, I fooled them with a fast one over the heart of the plate. My main asset was my control. I was able to place the ball almost exactly where I wanted it, although on two occasions I got a little wild.

As the game wore on and I saw that Root was pitching as well as myself, I began to work a little harder and at the same time kept a little in reserve in case of trouble.

I never felt in danger until the ninth. Then I almost saw victory fading from my grasp when Wilson's hot smash struck me in the groin. I managed to pick up the ball and toss him out, but I was hurt and fell to the ground.

My mind went back to that game in the Yankee stadium a year ago when some unkind things were said when I hurt my right knee pitching against the Yankees and had to leave the game. I took a rest and then went back on the job of taming the Cubs.

Once we got ahead, which was when Jimmy Foxx blasted his homer, I knew I would win. I had a hunch in the morning. It was my day, the big event for which I had waited for sixteen years.

There isn't a man in baseball who wouldn't put out the last ounce of strength in his arm to win a game, even if it meant he would never pitch again. Personally, I think with a few days' rest, I can try and win another.

MRS. MAYO DEFEATED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Mrs. Joseph Mayo of Pebble Beach, 1928 champion, was defeated today, 6 and 5, in the opening round of the 1929 Northern California women's golf championship by Mrs. J. C. PLAY-BY-PLAY STORY OF ATHLETIC VICTORY

FIRST INNING

Macks—Bishop grounded to Grimm, unassisted. Haas struck out on a curve ball. Cochrane walked. Simmons struck out, swinging. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cubs—McMillan fouled to Cochrane. English beat out a hit to short, that was deflected by Ehmke's glove. Hornsby flied to Miller. Wilson flied to Miller in short right. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Macks—Foxx singled to left on the first pitched ball. Miller went out, swinging. Dykes singled to left, Foxx stopping at second. Boley hit into a double play, English to Hornsby to Grimm. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Cubs—Cuyler struck out, swinging. Stephenson struck out. Taylor popped to Foxx. No runs, one hit, no errors.

THIRD INNING

Macks—Ehmke popped to McMillan. Bishop lined to English, who took the ball without moving. Haas walked. Cochrane hit to McMillan who fumbled, but recovered in time to get the batter at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cubs—Root struck out, swinging. McMillan singled to center. English doubled to right, McMillan taking third. Hornsby fanned, swinging at the third strike. Wilson also fanned, swinging. No runs, two hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

Macks—Simmons flied to Stephenson in deep left. Foxx grounded to Hornsby. Miller also grounded to Hornsby. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cubs—Cuyler struck out for the second time. Stephenson was robbed of a hit on a great catch by Dykes. Grimm walked, and then went out stealing, Cochrane to Bishop. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

Macks—Dykes struck out, swinging. Boley also fanned. Ehmke lofted to Stephenson. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cubs—Taylor flied to Simmons, who made a one-handed, running catch. Root struck out, swinging. McMillan fanned, swinging. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Macks—Bishop went out, English to Grimm. Haas flew to Wilson. Cochrane fouled to Taylor. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cubs—English struck out, swinging. Hornsby fanned for the second time. Wilson fanned for the second time, making it five straight for Ehmke. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

Macks—Simmons lined out to Wilson, who made a sensational diving catch, snaring the ball while sliding flat on his face. Foxx hit a home run into the center-field bleachers, high over Wilson's head. Miller flied out to Cuyler. Dykes flew out to Stephenson. One run, one hit, no errors.

Cubs—Cuyler singled infield to Boley. Stephenson singled to left, putting Cuyler on second. Grimm sacrificed, Ehmke to Foxx, both runners advancing. Heathcote batted for Taylor and flied to Simmons in short left, both runners holding their bases. Hartnett batted for Root and struck out, swinging. No runs, two hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Macks—Bush went in to pitch for the Cubs, and Gonzales replaced Taylor. Boley grounded to English. Ehmke got a big hand as he went up to the plate, and he singled to right. Bishop sent a short fly to Stephenson. Haas flew out to Wilson in short center. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Cubs—McMillan flied to Haas. English flew to Miller. Hornsby grounded to Bishop. No runs, no hits, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Macks—Cochrane singled to right. Simmons hit to English, who fumbled the ball, and both runners were safe. Foxx hit to English, who again fumbled as he started to throw to Hornsby for a double play and the bases were full. Miller singled through the box, Cochrane and Simmons scoring while Foxx went to third. Dykes hit to Bush, who threw to Gonzales at the plate, retiring Foxx, Miller went to third and Dykes to second on the play. Boley hit to Bush, and Miller was thrown out at the plate while Dykes went to third. Ehmke grounded to McMillan. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

Cubs—Wilson went out Ehmke to Foxx. Ehmke was knocked down when he stopped the ball, but returned to the mound after a moment. Cuyler hit to Dykes who made a wild throw to first, putting Cuyler on second. Stephenson singled to center, scoring Cuyler. Grimm singled to right, Stephenson stopping at second. Blair batted for Gonzales, and forced Grimm at second. Tolson batted for Bush and struck out, swinging. One run, two hits, one error.

PEGLER DRAGS ANCIENT PLUSH NAG INTO SERIES

Mr. Ehmke's personal feats were such that his name is bound to recur for years and years in the guidebooks of the two-bit libraries and in the fall-time reminiscences of world series historians. All this will be of very little practical worth to him to be sure. Only this afternoon, before the start of the ball game, Mr. Cy Perkins, the Athletics' No. 2 catcher, an elderly man of 32 years, was saying that he supposed his name had appeared in newspaper heads no less than 100,000 times, but that if he were to bundle up all his clippings and take them around to the butchers he couldn't make an even trade for a pair of pork chops. However, Mr. Ehmke doubtless feels pretty well at the present time over what he did to the Cubs and particularly to Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson, their heavy hitters, in the opening game of a world series which had seemed quite certain to get along without him.

OLD-TIMER

Mr. Ehmke has been pitching for close on to fifteen years and this season he was gently but irresistibly crowded off the roster of starting pitchers for the Athletics. In fact, when the Athletics made their last regular tour of the West in August, old Mr. Connie Mack, the head man of the firm, left him at home for some reason and it was generally supposed that there was nothing he could do for the team that would be worth his fare and keep on a three weeks' tour of the Middle West.

Old Mr. Mack made much mystery of his intentions until a few minutes before the start of the ball game, which began almost fifteen minutes late, incidentally. His players came out of the tunnel about an hour before time and began popping a dozen baseballs back and forth in pairs along the sidelines, pausing now and again to autograph envelopes, old laundry lists and score cards, or to pose for the photographers, generally in company with Babe Ruth, who was there in a business suit fraternizing with his late adversaries. George Walberg, the left-hander, drew on his leather coat and sat down on the top step of the dugout in the manner of a man who was absolutely sure he had nothing to do all afternoon. Mose Grove, the other left-hander, threw a few to Cy Perkins, but not in a serious way. There were a great many inquiries for George Earnshaw, the socially prominent right-hand pitcher who had been expected to pitch the first game, but George was nowhere around and neither was Connie Mack, and all this muddled the mystery around the Philadelphia trench.

The elderly Perkins boy was standing by, playing catch with Bing Miller, and I asked him about this confusion.

"I hope Ehmke pitches," Mr. Perkins said. "The people don't know what a good pitcher that fellow is when he's good, and I think he is very good just now. He is a finished product."

EGGNOG REJUVENATOR

It almost seems that Mr. Mack left Ehmke behind in Philadelphia to drink eggnogs and get right when the club went touring for the last time in August, for today he pitched such a game of baseball as no man had ever quite equaled in certain respects in all the years that the world series have been going on.

Furthermore, he took up the delicate problem of just what Ehmke would do under hardest pressure and answered it in the most emphatic terms available to a pitcher.

I don't much care to go into this but there was a ball game at the Yankee Stadium along in June a year ago when the Yanks began to hammer Ehmke, and he dropped the ball, stuffed his glove in his pocket and walked out. The Yankees were very aggressive about that time and the customers knowing nothing of the special circumstances caught an impression that Ehmke was not quite as tough as a pitcher should be. He was ill for some time after that.

Eddie Collins, the captain, explained that he wasn't well that day at the Yankee Stadium, but nothing he could say could vindicate Ehmke as he vindicated himself this time when he had to face Hornsby and Wilson in the third inning, with runners on third and second. Hornsby swung at the first pitch a foot above the drifting slow ball flung up with a low sidearm motion. The next was a ball. He swung hard at the third throw, and again there was daylight between his bat and the ball. Ehmke was serving them wide. Hornsby was reaching across the plate and his fierce swing was swishing around long before the ball got up to him. Hornsby made a raging lash at the last pitch and went back to the bench, without so much as a foul to his honor, with the runners still waiting on third and second, and now Hack Wilson raked the dirt with his spikes and dug himself in to take his swings. His first was a mild foul. He went out swinging at more pitched balls, and Norman McMillan, the runner on third, picked up his glove and went back to work where he stood.

SENT DOWN

In the sixth inning Ehmke struck out Elwood English and met Hornsby and Wilson in turn and set them to whaling at the phantom cue-ball. They were not called strikes, but malicious swings, and Ehmke sent them back in order.

By now the excitement had taken a change, and the 50,000 people who hemmed in the field were cheering for Ehmke and the Athletics. They had thought quite well of their own gentlemen, but this party from out of town was bigger than Hornsby and Wilson today. He continued to enlarge, until at the end of the game he dwarfed them all, including Charlie Root, who pitched seven innings for the Cubs; Guy Bush, who pitched the rest of the way, and all the pinch-hitters that Joe McCarthy could scare up to send against him.

Ehmke seemed to have Hazen Cuyler satisfactorily struck out starting the seventh, but Kiki caught a cripple and sent it along for a single to short. Stephenson hit a single to left, Cuyler stopping at second. Charlie Grimm hit a sacrifice bunt to Ehmke, and then the pinch-hitters emerged.

Cliff Heathcote hit for Taylor, the catcher, and sent a fly to Simmons in left field, whose sharp throw-back held Cuyler at third. Gabby Hartnett took Root's place at bat, and struck out.

Ehmke should have had Cuyler for his second out in the ninth, but Jimmy Dykes at third made a crazy throw past first base into the A's own dugout and the Cubs had a runner on second base instead. The next two hitters caught Ehmke unsteady. Stephenson singled and Cuyler came in with the Cubs' only run. Grimm got a hit, too, and McCarthy sent up Clarence Blair, who only forced Grimm at second. By this time McCarthy had just about called the roll of his employees. Charley Tolson, the mountainous first baseman, brought in from the Coast when Grimm was hurt in August, stepped up and for a closing gesture Mr. Ehmke struck him out.

DARK MYSTERY

The reason for all the mystery set up by old Mr. Mack is not yet apparent. The Cubs undoubtedly knew Mr. Ehmke was on his pay roll and hanging about somewhere, and they must have heard he was an old ball player dating his service from the time of the Federal League. I presume he reckoned that the Cubs would come to work with their nerves adjusted to high velocity and would need a whole afternoon of futile threshing to adjust their strokes to the dawdling flight of Ehmke's pitching. It was a kind of gamble, but the old man must know the mental habits of ball players by this time, and whatever his idea, it was very correct at sundown, when the crowd swept out of the stadium and the A's tore through the tunnel to jubilate in the showers.

Maybe Mack will start his second game with old John Pincus Quinn, who is at least ten years older than Ehmke and rated only as a pitcher who helps out the regulars. I saw Mr. Quinn drinking some whitish drink on the train coming out here, and it might have been eggnogg.

RICHFIELDS TO MAKE SOCCER DEBUT SUNDAY

The Richfield team in the city soccer league makes its league debut Sunday against the Magyars at Loyola field in the first game on this week's schedule. Richfield drew a blank in the opening round Sunday while the Magyars trimmed Pasadena A. and C. C., 3 to 1.

Hollywood, again favored to win the league flag, faces the Scots in the 3 o'clock game at Loyola. Hollywood had little trouble thumping the Vikings, 5 to 1 in last Sunday's round, while the Scots tied the L.A.A.C. Mercuries, 4 to 4. The latter team tackles the Spanish Americans in the 3 o'clock game Sunday at the Pasadena Rose Bowl, while the Vikings take on the Sons of St. George in the first Crown City '11.

as well as the next batter, Riggs Stephenson, singled.

This seventh inning marked the second of Ehmke's great stands in which he pulled himself out, each time by the strikeout route. The A's had gathered their first run on Foxx's home, just a few moments before but Ehmke was in a bad hole when Grimm's sacrifice put Cuyler on third and Stephenson on second.

From the dugout reinforcements were rushed up by General Joe McCarthy. Cliff Heathcote batted for Catcher Zack Taylor, but Simmons grabbed his short fly to left on the run and kept the fleet Cuyler from an attempt to score Gabby Hartnett, the big catcher who has been out with a bad arm all season, batted for Root but he joined the rapidly growing list of Ehmke's strikeout victims.

ROOT HURLS GREAT BALL

Root, who had twirled masterful ball himself, yielded only three safe hits in seven innings before giving way to Bush. Outside of the second, when they bunched two singles to no avail, and Foxx's homer, the A's were themselves far from potent at bat. Root had splendid control and fine support, but his successor, Guy Bush, was treated harshly by his own defense as well as the A's bats in the ninth.

Mickey Cochrane shot a single through Hornsby to start the ninth, then English booted Simmons's grounder in his haste to start a double play. The shortstop's nerves were still upset and after grabbing Foxx's rap he juggled the ball so long that all runners were safe and the bases full. Miller brought Cochrane and Simmons across with a drive to center, but Bush personally checked further threats by grabbing two short bounders by Dykes and Boley for put-outs at the plate.

The Cub attack finally broke through in its last chance after Wilson had laid Ehmke low temporarily at the start of the ninth. The A's pitcher tossed out Hack at first but Jimmy Dykes then uncorked a wild throw on Cuyler's grounder, the ball sailing into the Philadelphia dugout. Kiki went to second under the ground rules and scored on Stephenson's single to center. The crowd was in an uproar when Grimm followed with a safe blow to right, but Dykes took Pinch Hitter Blair's rap to force Grimm at second as Stephenson went to third, and Tolson, pinch batting for Bush, struck out.

MACK'S STRATEGY WORKS

It was a great victory for Connie Mack and his strategy in selecting Ehmke, instead of one of his more famous pitching stars, such as George Earnshaw or Lefty Grove. Ehmke demonstrated so conclusively that the Cubs have no fondness whatever for slow balls, and a puzzling change of pace that it would not surprise the experts if old Jack Quinn drew the assignment for the second game tomorrow.

The Athletics gave Ehmke fine support. Dykes offset his last-inning error by the most spectacular play of the game in the fourth inning, when he dived and speared a line drive from Riggs Stephenson's bat while stretched on the ground. Al Simmons leaned over into the left-field boxes in the fifth inning to grab Taylor's long fly with one hand, while Wilson contributed the most sparkling defensive stunt for the Cubs with a diving catch of Simmons's drive in the seventh inning.

This was the ninth straight setback in a world's series battle for the National League's standard-bearers and, as a result, the Athletics tonight were stronger favorites than before to win and add to the record of the Yankees, who won the last two series in successive games for the American League.

CUE EXPERTS ENTER NATIONAL TOURNEY

The list of Southern California cue experts who will vie with those from the northern part of the State in the national professional three-cushion billiard eliminations here starting November 4, was announced yesterday by Clifford Jones.

Charley Jordan, national amateur champion, will head the locals who will attempt to win a chance at Willie Hoppe, Johnny Layton, and others in New York. Others who will play at the Jones parlors here are Joe Chamaco, Mexican wizard; Fred Mathias, former Tri-State champion; Sam Leshim, New York star, and Clifford Jones.

Prize money totaling $1000 will be posted for the players who place first and second here, it is announced.

CARPENTIER TO VIEW PETERS, HOOD BATTLE

Georges Carpentier, the ring's Orchid Man, will be a ringside guest at the Ernie Peters-Ernie Hood go tomorrow night at the Pasadena Arena, Manager Morrie Cohan announced yesterday. Georges is at present working in a Warner Brothers picture and Benny Marks, who meets Johnny Jordan in the semi-wind-up, has ben working on the same lot. Carpentier became interested and agreed to go the fights on Cohan's and Marks's invitation.

Hymie Miller and Pastore Calope clash in the special event. Miller was former national amateur flyweight champion and a member of the last Olympic team. The winner of the Hood-Peters go will more than likely meet Newsboy Brown, Cohan announced.

Leo Swedo to Lead Tigers

Leo Swedo, flashy halfback and one of the mainstays of the Lincoln High eleven last year, will captain the Tigers this season, it was announced yesterday by officials of the athletic department of Lincoln. Swedo, who was conceded to be one of the best punt returners in the City League last year, is expected to prove the star of the Tiger team this year. In practice games against tough opposition Swedo has always been able to gain considerable ground. His zig-zag style of running will prove of untold value to the Tigers, who at present look like a weak outfit. In a scrimmage held with the Lincoln reserves yesterday, the flashy halfback was responsible for several touchdowns, at one time carrying the pigskin more than fifty yards for a marker.

LIONS AND BEARS TO TANGLE TOMORROW

Two big husky ice-hockey outfits clash tomorrow night at the Winter Garden Ice Palace when Te Le Roy's Gilmore Lions meet Cliff Coleman's Sunfreze Bears in the second game of the local hockey season.

Le Roy, who was named manager of the Oilers by Earl Gilmore several days ago, has rounded out one of the strongest teams in the local circuit. He has signed last year's La Natividads championship outfit intact to represent Gilmore in the newly formed loop and not only will they be favorites to annex tomorrow night's game, but this year's title as well.

TROJAN COLORS IN SOUTH

Walton Hubbard, Jr., a University of Southern California commerce student, will fly the Trojan colors in the international yacht races to be held on Lake Ponchatrain, New Orleans, in the events to be held starting tomorrow and running until next Tuesday. Hubbard is the skipper of his boat, the Tempe III, Star 423, and this is the fourth time he has entered it in the international championship series.

MACK OUTSMARTS M'CARTHY

Veteran Athletic Pilot Outgenerals Bruin Pilot With Selection of Unsung Hurler

BY GEORGE MORIARTY
Big League Umpire

(Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Howard Ehmke pitched the greatest game of his somewhat checkered career today when he set the Cubs down in masterful fashion from the tap of the bell.

GEORGE MORIARTY

However, to begin my review of the game I feel obliged to put Connie Mack in the fore part of the picture what made the victory possible for his Athletics. The tall and crafty technician of the bench completely astonished the entire baseball world when he sent his rangy right hander to the rubber in the opening game.

But Mack's great wisdom was reflected from the very first inning when Ehmke's under-slung brand of hurling plainly demonstrated that the Cubs' heaviest sluggers would face a difficult task in trying to solve his peculiar delivery. The final result gave Ehmke the record for strike-outs in a world's series with thirteen.

This magnificent feat was not established till he waved his magic wand on Tolson, a pinch hitter, who was the last man to face him. The count tapered down to two and three when Ehmke shot past his weird, subway curve ball which Tolson futilely waved at.

Ehmke's form was amazing to everyone present. Not considered a great cog in the Mackian pitching staff, he certainly fooled his most hopeful supporters by rising to the crest in several spots that were exceedingly ticklish.

The big right-hander met his first predicament in the third inning, with McMillan and English resting comfortably on third and second. He struck out Hornsby with the skill of a master and followed this feat by striking out Wilson on three pitched balls.

Ehmke was the inspiration for his team-mates from that period on. Again Mack's daring in pitching him was revealed when he struck out English, Hornsby and Wilson in the sixth frame.

The Philadelphia manager elected Ehmke to pitch chiefly to meet the condition at Wrigley Field, which gives an advantage to a right-hander who throws the ball from the background of the center-field crowd.

Think of the criticism that awaited Mack in case Ehmke had failed! He firmly sidetracked the two greatest stars of his staff, Earnshaw and Grove, to prove to the world that he was right in his deductions.

As a matter of pure unadulterated farsightedness and daring, I cannot recall any circumstance of managerial generalship in a fall classic that equals it. It is a plain indication that the leader of the Athletics has shaped Ehmke for the destiny of the iron-man of the series.

Briefly, Ehmke did it with his tantalizing underhanded bender, mixed with wisely pitched fast balls.

Nor does Ehmke's marvelous pitching leave Charley Root completely overshadowed. The Cub's curve ball artist worked fast, was cool and careful and demonstrated Joe MacCarthy's faith in him throughout his seven full innings on the mound, during which time he allowed three hits.

The big break of the game happened in the seventh inning, when pilot Joe McCarthy essayed to take the first gambling chance of the series. After Grimm had sacrificed Cuyler and Stephenson to third and second bases, McCarthy sent Heathcote to pinch hit for Catcher Taylor. That is where the tide turned against the Cubs, and sprayed the Athletics with good fortune.

Heathcote sent a short fly to Simmons in left field. It was far too meager a swat to allow Cuyler to make the plate. Hartnett then fitted into the role of pinch batter for Root and struck out to end the inning. Thus had Joe MacCarthy taken a beautiful gamble, and lost. There was no semblance of second-guessing in MacCarthy's plan—it was merely a great, game chance that failed.

It appeared to me Connie Mack's labor had been brilliantly accomplished even before the game began. It was that stroke of genius that prompted him to select Ehmke as chief demoralizer of the powerful Cub machine. Then Connie sat back modestly, like a great diplomat, to watch his daring plan materialize.

DAVE MARTIN.

One or two errors in regard to the Southern California open golf championship, scheduled for Sunset Field next week, were cleared up yesterday, when it was officially announced that the "amateur-pro" event will be played on Tuesday and not Monday, as originally reported.

The first eighteen holes of the tournament proper are set for Wednesday, the second eighteen Thursday and the thirty-six-hole finals on Friday.

There has also been a misconception that the championship is only open to members of the Southern California P.G.A. As the tournament is an open event, however, any amateur or professional in good standing is eligible to compete no matter what his club affiliation, or from what section of the country he comes.

One of the strongest teams in the "amateur - pro" tournament was broken up yesterday when Dave Martin of the California Country Club injured his right arm. Dave has his arm in a cast, and will be out of the game for some time. He was scheduled to play with his father, Ernie Martin, one of the Southland's best known pros.

George Clark, assistant to Tom Stevens at the California Country Club, called up yesterday and wanted to know why he and Lester Coleman hadn't been mentioned as contenders for the "amateur-pro" title. George recalled to mind that he and Lester won the title last year with a 65 and have high hopes of repeating.

Tom, who will pair with Fay Coleman to make a powerful combination, established a course record of 67 at California yesterday in practice. He was out in 35, one under par, and back in 32.

Here is the card:

Par (out)	443 444 355—36
Stevens	442 543 355—35
Par (In)	345 434 544—36—72
Stevens	334 334 534—32—67

It was also reported yesterday that Lester scored a hole-in-one on the fifth hole at Sunset Fields. Lester used a mashie for the shot.

BASEBALL PLAYERS TO STAGE TOURNEY

Arnold "Jigger" Statz will defend his professional ball players' golf championship over the Griffith Park Municipal Golf Links the 29th, 30th and 31st inst., according to a report yesterday from J. W. Orndorff, chairman.

Former champions who are expected to play include Speed Martin and Fuller Thompson.

Statz and Martin, the latter now confining himself almost solely to playing golf at the Coronado Country Club, have been the leading contenders for the title for some years, but a dark horse has appeared in the form of Charley Root of the Chicago Cubs, who yesterday pitched the first seven innings of the world series battle for the Cubs against the Athletics.

It is understood that Charley hits a mean niblic shot and will give all the boys a battle.

The usual illustrious foursome, composed of Harry Williams, president of the Pacific Coast League; Judge Landis, czar of the diamond sport; Bill Lane, president of the Hollywood club, and Oscar Reichow, manager of the Angels, will play together.

Let's hope the judge doesn't start probing into the Mission, Hollywood wind-up which necessitated a play-off series. It might cause Harry to miss a few shots.

JONES BAGS HOLE-IN-ONE AT HOLLYWOOD CLUB

Jack Tarrant, new professional of the Hollywood Country Club, writes in that Johnny Jones shot a hole-in-one on the 146-yard, eighth hole last week. Johnny's witnesses were Mrs. Jones, and Mrs. I. H. Rhoades.

Billie Knost was equally proud of an eagle 2 on the 413-yard second hole.

MRS. SEBER WINS QUALIFYING PLAY AT FOX HILLS

Mrs. E. B. Seber won low gross in the qualifying play for the Fox Hills women's golf championship on Monday with an 89. Low net went to Mrs. I. N. Hatfield, 98-15-83. Match play started yesterday.

SANTA BARBARA PROS TO ENTER LOCAL OPEN

Paul Scott, professional of the Montecito Country Club, announced yesterday that the Santa Barbara district will be well represented in the Southern California open golf championship at Sunset Fields next week.

The Channel City is placing considerable faith in the ability of Pat O'Hara, former Australian professional, now connected with the Santa Barbara Biltmore.

During the past week O'Hara has played Montecito three times with consecutive scores of 66, 67 and 69. The 66 stands as the official course record.

Other Santa Barbara pros who will come south include Scott, Curley Freeman of La Cumbre, and John Kraus of Montecito.

Arrest Boys as Scalpers

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Three alleged scalpers of world series tickets, two of them Detroit high school boys, the other from Chicago, were arrested by government agents on downtown streets today. The two boys, giving their names as Irving Kirschver, 18 years of age, and Harry Katz, 18, were taken into custody when they offered several tickets at $35 each. They told the officers they came to Chicago for the series and ran out of funds. They said they accepted an offer to sell tickets on a commission basis. Those arrested will be arraigned before a United States commissioner. Bond of $500 is required.

record of seven victories and two defeats. He came within one strike-out today of equalling his total for the whole season, fanning thirteen Cubs, as against his season mark of only fourteen.

Born in Silver Creek, N. Y., thirty-five years ago last April, Ehmke began his professional baseball career, so far as the records are concerned, with the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League in 1914. He jumped to the Federal League with Buffalo in 1915 after being bought by Washington, but returned to the American League with Detroit in 1916.

The lanky right-hander, who is six feet three inches tall, spent six years with Detroit before he was traded in 1922 to Boston by Manager Ty Cobb, who sat in the press box today. Ehmke's record with the Red Sox was featured by a no-hit, no-run game in September, 1923, against the club he pitched to victory today. It was three years later, in June, 1926, that he shifted to the Athletics. His best winning percentage in the big leagues was in 1919, when he won seventeen and lost ten games with Detroit. He has a thirteen-year mark of 166 victories and 163 defeats, barely over the .500 mark.

Ehmke first attracted attention as a ball player while attending Glendale High. The lanky hurler was considered to be one of the best prep pitchers in Southern California. The Angels signed him to a contract as soon as he graduated.

DUBS PREPARED FOR H.A.C. SQUASH PLAY

All brands of squash-handball were expected to be exhibited today with the opening of the annual "dubs" tournament of the Hollywood Athletic Club with thirty-two entrants. Pairings were made yesterday by Commissioner Chet Cooper. This tournament will launch the fall and winter season at the Movie City Club and other meets will follow in short order.

Pairings: R. F. Gunn vs. O. J. Price, Chet Bennett vs. H. Caldwell, Kenneth Childs vs. Joe Zastrow, Charles Logue vs. Sam Bevis, Dr. Webster Daly vs. F. E. Rust, Carl Taylor vs. Ed Metz, Bill Polkingham vs. Vernon Smith, Russell Peck vs. G. C. Boyer, A. R. Malone vs. L. R. AL FAY VICTORIOUS IN BABE HUNT GO

TULSA (Okla.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Al Fay of New York, Jack Kearns's contender for the vacant heavyweight championship throne, won a judges' decision over Babe Hunt, Southwest heavyweight champion of Ponca City, Okla., in a slugging ten-round bout here tonight. Fay dropped Hunt for counts of nine in the first and third rounds. Fay weighed 187 pounds; Hunt 189.

EHMKE'S BLUES CURED BY WORLD SERIES WIN

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Howard Ehmke entered Wrigley Field dejectedly today and strode out a hero.

Of all the hurlers on Connie Mack's staff, Howie was the most surprised when the tall Athletic strategian chose him to hurl the World Series opener. Mose "Lefty" Grove, George Earnshaw and Rube Walberg gazed intently as Mack sat in the dugout, making up his mind, expecting themselves to be selected. Ehmke was dejected as he thought another World Series chance was to pass him by.

"Ehmke, you will pitch," Connie said, hesitatingly, "and Walberg, I want you to warm up and keep warm."

Ehmke jumped out of the dugout, apparently worried lest his manager would change his mind, warmed up and then shellacked the haughty Cubs with his fading, slow ball. As he left, the crowd gave him a tumultuous ovation.

Packed to its rafters, Wrigley Field resembled a huge football stadium with a typical football crowd and typical football weather—breezy and chilly. The extended bleachers holding 8000 were packed six hours before game time. Those who were not lucky enough to wedge into them paid $3 for the right to stand up behind the grandstand seats. Residents in homes about the park, who were unable to see the field from their windows because of the bleacher extension, packed the roofs and had a good view, anyway. Scores of boys saw the game from tree tops. Woman fans were unusually scarce. Only a few of them were in the box and grandstand seats and hardly any were in the bleachers. Seven hundred police and 371 ushers handled the crowd without a hitch.

Hawkers of hot dogs, pop, pop corn and other digestive trimmings had a poor day. Most of the fans were too interested in the game anyway to eat and the cold, raw weather did not help.

The great and near great were on hand. Several governors, screen and stage actresses, baseball magnates from major and minor leagues watched the game. Babe Ruth was on the scene looking young and healthy in a dark brown suit. Ty Cobb was in the press box along with George Von Elm, the golfer, and Cy Young, the old pitcher.

Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, baseball's comedians, strutted their specialties. They are understood to have received $2000 each for their foolishness during the series.

Spectacular catches by Jimmy Dykes, Al Simmons and Hack Wilson were cheered alike by Cub and Athletic fans, while Ehmke received a college cheer of "E-H-M-K-E," when he forced Wilson and Cuyler to churn the air and when he finished his mystery story by whiffing "Slug" Tolson in the ninth inning.

The most-photographed player of the day was Al Simmons. Hack Wilson was runner-up. Scores of cameras clicked at them before the game, and Simmons didn't like it.

Tom Shibe, president of the Athletics and Mrs. Shibe sat behind the A's dugout and cheered lustily. Owner William Wrigley of the Cubs sat near the Bruin dugout. He and Shibe shook hands before the clash, so did Manager Joe McCarthy and Connie Mack, in the A's dugout.

MISS WRIGHT AMONG GOLFING QUALIFIERS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8. (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy C. Hurd, former national champion, led the field today in the qualifying round of the Berthellyn Cup golf tournament at the Huntington Valley Country Club, shooting a briliant 80 to win the medal and set a new record for the course. Her card, 41-39—80, was two strokes under par and was considered remarkable in view of the high wind that swept the links. Miss Kathleen Wright, California, qualified with an 89.

WALLACE FINISHES UP DILLON IN FIFTH

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Oct. 8. (AP) Roy Wallace, Indianapolis lightheavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Young Jack Dillon of Louisville, in the fifth round of a ten-round boxing contest here tonight. The referee stopped the fight when Dillon apparently was unable to defend himself.

GARDNER BEATS CASTON

SEATTLE (Wash.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Knocking his opponent down for a count of nine in the second round with a wicked right cross to the jaw, Tommy Gardner of Walla Walla, Wash., won a six-round decision over Jackie Caston of Seattle here tonight. They are bantamweights.

'Hot Puppies' Cause Arrest

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Bob Lewis, traveling secretary for the Cubs, and two others, one of them the official hot dog concessionnaire, were packed off to jail today when a policeman charged he caught them intimidating independent hot dog venders outside the park. When Lewis and the others were arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct the policeman couldn't understand how he came to make the arrests. "It was only a misunderstanding," he said.

Lewis and the two others—Ray Kneip, the concessionnaire, and Ernest Cashman, a club employee—were discharged.

Cloudy Skies Forecast for Today's Game

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Increasingly cloudy skies and little change in temperature, is the forecast for tomorrow's world series weather. Rain is on the way, but the weather department predicted it would not arrive until tomorrow night.

Ed Griffiths in Limelight

BERKELEY, Oct. 9. (AP)—Keeping three of his regular first-string men on the second team for the second day, Coach Nibs Price today sent the California football team through a long scrimmage session that did not end until long after sundown.

A scrimmage session between the varsity and the goofs featured the workout, with the first-string backfield tearing through their less experienced opponents almost at will. Ed Griffiths of Los Angeles, a halfback from last year's freshman team, shaped up particularly well at halfback.

Eight searchlights have been mounted on towers around the Bears' practice field, and by the light of these Price keeps his men at work for long sessions.

ARE WE DISHEARTENED? NAY, NAY, SAY CUBS

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—All the noise from down under the grand stand at Wrigley Field this afternoon, after the Athletics' triumph over the Cubs in the first game of the world series, came from the A's dressing-room, with the Cubs silent, but anything but downhearted.

Howard Ehmke, the pitching relic of bygone days, was the hero of the Athletics' boisterous demonstration, as the players came charging up the dressing-room stairs and nearly took the door off the hinges in their attempt to throw their arms around the big, lanky, lean-looking pitcher.

"Boy, what a ball game," screamed Eddie Collins, as he threw his arms around Ehmke. "I knew you could do it. You stood them on their heads."

Kid Gleason, the white-haired grizzled other assistant to Manager Connie Mack, was beaming with happiness. He playfully poked his fist into Ehmke's ribs, as the tall, blond pitcher stood there peeling off his undershirt, before a duck into the showers.

"What a pitcher! What a man!" bellowed the Kid, looking up at the conquering hero.

"And ain't it a world's series record, this striking out thirteen of those Cubs?" Gleason asked.

Ehmke said he didn't know, but the other players boisterously told him it was. Ehmke was more concerned over the final ball thrown than he was over the back-slapping demonstration the players were staging for him.

"Where is that ball?" he yelled when he suddenly found he didn't have it himself.

Someone tossed it to him and the scowl that was on Ehmke's face changed to a wide smile as he fingered it almost lovingly.

Connie Mack, the silent leader of the Athletics, did not go into the dressing-room with his players, but left immediately for the Edgewater Beach Hotel, headquarters for the Philadelphia team. He said he was undecided as to his pitching selection for tomorrow. But it might be either Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw or Jack Quinn.

"What is there to say about today's game?" he asked in response to questions.

"The result speaks for itself. Yes, I am proud of Ehmke's pitching performance. Isn't it possible that we completely fooled the Cubs?"

Establishing a conversational contact with the Cubs was a difficult undertaking, not because of any atmosphere of depression, but because they apparently wished to be alone. They did not even talk to each other, as they silently went about peeling off their uniforms.

The Cubs conveyed the impression of being determined and eager, certainly not licked. Elwood English, Cub shortstop, who kicked away a double play which possibly wrecked a chance for a tie score, came in for no censure from his teammates. Some of them slapped him on the back consolingly.

Joe McCarthy, the Cub manager, was loud in his praise of Ehmke's pitching feat, and had no excuses to offer for the defeat of his Cubs.

"They got the breaks and won. That's all," he said. "Ehmke pitched a great ball game, not much better than Root, though. I cannot complain about Root's pitching, neither do I feel badly about English's errors. The boy perhaps was a bit overeager. He will snap out of it."

"We'll get at them tomorrow," he added. "Losing one ball game doesn't mean losing the series."

McCarthy figures to start Perce Pat Malone against the Athletics tomorrow — that is unless he changes his mind by game time.

The Cub pilot virtually admitted that Mack fooled him in starting Ehmke rather than Earnshaw.

"I thought last night that Earnshaw would be the Athletics' starting pitcher," he said, "and I did not know until just before the game that Ehmke would be the boy."

"But what's the difference? We'll hit them as often as they'll hit us."

BRUIN FROSH DEVELOP GOOD BACKFIELD MAN

The backfield of the Bruin frosh eleven, that showed anything but power last Saturday in losing to the Long Beach Junior College Vikings, is receiving special attention from Coach Freddy Oster this week in preparation for this Saturday's fracas with Taft High School as a preliminary to the Bruin varsity tilt with Stanford in the Coliseum. Bob Flavelle, hitherto a star guard, is being renovated into a fullback. Flavelle, who tips the Fairbanks beam at 206 pounds, and who can sprint down a 100-yard stretch in eleven seconds flat, promises to be a stellar backfield man, hitting the line like a ton of bricks.

"Fat" Norfleet, star Bruin frosh tackle, who was injured in last Saturday's game, will not be able to play again for two weeks, according to Trainer Billy Burke. Norfleet's elbow was dislocated in the first quarter of the Viking game.

SHATTERING the former record by more than 7 miles an hour, James Talbot Jr.'s Miss Rioco III, driven by Ralph Snoddy and powered with Richfield gasoline and Richlube motor oil, established a new world's record for 1½ litre hydroplanes of 52.64 miles per hour in the International Time Trials held at Newport Bay, October 6th.

Miss Rioco's victory, which was timed by officials of the Yachting Association of America, brings to this country the record formerly held by Miss Carstairs of England whose hydroplane Newg set the old mark of 45.5 miles per hour which has stood for several years.

Miss Rioco is the same boat which achieved a brilliant victory at the International Regatta on the Thames last June, in competition with the fastest boats of Europe for the famous Duke of York trophy. In that event, also, Ralph Snoddy relied on Richfield and Richlube to assure perfect functioning of his motor just as he has in all his great victories on water.

Exclusive choice of the worlds's greatest pilots, Richfield's unfailing qualities of speed, power and mileage, its absolute purity and dependability, have made it equally popular with hundreds of thousands of motorists on the Pacific Coast and in the East. Try it in your own car today and note the difference!

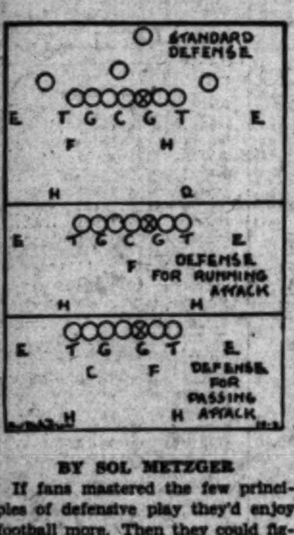
Principles of Grid Defense



BY SOL METZGER

If fans mastered the few principles of defensive play they'd enjoy football more. Then they could figure the type of play to be expected and thus more easily understand the game.

Standard defense puts seven men on the line, two backs a few yards behind it, inside their tackles, and two more from ten to twenty yards downfield from the opposing ends. It is standard because it is strongest. But it has one weakness. As the quarterback is playing up near the line, instead of back as a safety man, a quick kick, such as the Navy used to tie the Army three years ago, will let the ball roll deep into his territory. Inside a team's own twenty-yard line all teams use this defense, as a quick kick is then out of the question.

Another commonly used defense is the second one illustrated. It differs from the first in that the quarter moves back to his customary position, twenty-five to fifty yards downfield, to take care of quick kicks and long passes. Opponents are more likely to pass successfully against this defense than the first shown, as there are but three backs behind the line. Past midfield it is rarely used when the rushing attack of the team with the ball has been checked. Some teams use it, as Princeton has, by having the center drop back as the ball is snapped and as the attacking backs rush to one side or the other. He then helps in stopping passes.

The best pass defense is to play six men on the line, the center taking a back's place. This gives the defense four men to cover passes and five when near the goal-line. Against this defense a running attack is most effective.

BUD TAYLOR HELD TO DRAW

then the black-haired Chicago youth having the edge. They stood toe to toe and traded punch for punch, only clinching once. This was in the seventh round when Taylor, opening up with a ceaseless, withering fire, sank a hard left hook into Mastro's stomach.

He was hurt for an instant and was forced to fall into a clinch. Mastro, with marvelous boxing skill and speed met Taylor's greater experience masterfully. He refused to back up under Taylor's attack and actually outboxed the Terre Haute blond at times. He was particularly effective with lightning double hooks to the head and body.

The battle was witnessed by a crowd of 14,874, with gate receipts at $50,653.

The battle was so close that neither the judges nor the referee agreed on the winner. "Little Phil" Collins, the referee, voted for a draw, with one judge casting his ballot for Taylor and the other voting for Mastro.

Salvatore Ruggirello, terrific Italian puncher, weighing 204 pounds, scored his third straight Chicago victory by defeating Les Kennedy of Los Angeles, in ten rounds. It was the Italian socker's sixth bout since he landed in America last June.

My Sullivan, St. Paul welterweight contender, defeated the seasoned Jackie Brady of Syracuse, N. Y., in another ten-rounder. Sullivan, off to a slow start, began to move ahead in the third, winning eight of the ten rounds. He had Brady in retreat and hanging on in the ninth and tenth under a fierce punching to the head and body. Sullivan weighed 149 pounds and Brady 142 1-4.

SOUTH PASADENAN ON ROCKNE'S TEAM

SOUTH PASADENA, Oct. 8.—Lawrence Mullins, known in his high school football days here as "Mully," is playing "varsity" fullback at Notre Dame University this fall, according to word received here today. Mullins, whom the "Fighting Irish" have dubbed "Moon," is asserted to have been largely responsible for his team's victory over Indiana last week.

In 1925, he was captain of the South Pasadena High School eleven and a year later, received State high school conference honors as halfback. He has another year of football ahead of him at Notre Dame.

LOBOS DUE TO ARRIVE TOMORROW

New Mexico Team Coming for Game With Tigers Via Air Route

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.) Oct. 8. (AP)—Arrangements were completed here tonight for a flight Thursday of the New Mexico University football team to Glendale, Cal., for a game with Occidental College Friday night in the Rose Bowl. Fifteen players and Coach Roy W. Johnson will fly in two planes, arriving in the Coast city about 4:45 p.m., Coast time, a day ahead of the game.

Johnson and his gridsters will be the favorites of the night's entertainment due to more experienced players and greater reserve strength. The visitors boast a complete squad of thirty-nine men, while the Bengal institution had only twenty-seven men out yesterday afternoon.

The high spots of the New Mexico eleven are its heavy, but shifty line, and an unusually speedy backfield. New Mexico's line stacks up a 175 pounds to the man in comparison with the Bengals' 172 pounds per at the barrier. However, the home-towners make up for this loss by the fact that they outweigh the Lobos six pounds to the man in the backfield; the latter showing an average of 160 pounds, and the Tigers weighing in at 166.

The Lobos have eight men returning from last year's powerful squad, which made quite an enviable record in winning five games, tying one game, and losing one. They defeated the New Mexico Miners, 42-0; Montezuma, 35-0; the New Mexico Aggies, 14-13; the Texas Miners, 33-0; Colorado Mines, 32-12; losing to the powerful Flagstaff Teachers' College, 0-12, and tying Arizona, 6-6.

Outstanding in the visitors' backfield are James Willson, a 175-pound fullback, who is playing his last year on the varsity and is considered the best punter and line plunger on the eleven; and Brown, 155-pound quarterback, who also piloted their freshman eleven at the same position last year and is a triple-threat man, being one of the best ball packers on the team. It was Willson who averaged approximately 50 yards a punt last year.

A graduate of Hollywood High School in the person of Moar, 155-pound right halfback, shines as a left-handed passer in his first year as a regular. Another alumni of the Movie Stars' high school, who is holding down the center post, is Fish, who weighs in at 160 pounds. Fish is playing his second year on the varsity and is very dependable in tight places. He is also an all-Southwestern man on the mythical eleven.

Two other men who have been on the all-Southwestern team and are playing this wear, are Foster, 176-pound right guard, considered to be the best lineman, having had one year of experience, and Wamp Willson, brother of James, who fills the post of right tackle and tips the beam at 195, being heavy and fast. Willson made the all-Southwestern team in 1927, and is playing his last year of football.

New Mexico has a star right end in Crist, an all-around player who can punt, pass and run with equal ability. He is playing his last year also, and has been mentioned for all-conference end. He weighs 180 pounds.

Probable line-ups:

Occidental		New Mexico
Smith	R.E.	Crist
Snedden	R.T.	Willson, W.
Hilliard	R.G.	Foster
Chappell	C.	Fish
Angst	L.G.	Riley
Beebe	L.T.	De Gryse
De Hoag (C.)	L.E.	Rice
Johnston	Q.	Brown
Collier	R.H.	Moar
Roselle	L.H.	Good
Glover	F.	Willson, J.

Subs who will make the trip from New Mexico are: Balzer, quarterback; Cagle, end; Pucetti, guard; Jenkins, guard; Lipp guard and tackle; Howden, guard and tackle; Walsh, halfback, and Bonfro, quarterback.

CARTER KAYOED IN ROUND TWO

Townsend was impartial with his dukes.

Sometimes it was a left, sometimes a right.

The black boy has a glass jaw and Townsend has his number.

If they fought a thousand times the result probably would be the same.

WHITMAN VINDICATED

And the outcome last night vindicates Benny Whitman for stopping the fight in which Goldie Hess won by a technical knockout in the last round after being outboxed all the way.

Carter's finish came after forty-three seconds of fighting in the second round last night. With the black boy hanging dizzily on the ropes Boxing Inspector Frank Moran told Referee Billy Burke to stop it.

Carter came in weighing 134, Townsend, 135.

Another technical knockout was scored in the semi-wind-up when Mickey Grealis's Mexican lightweight, Joe Guerrero, stopped Danny Woods in the second round of a scheduled six-rounder.

Woods was knocked out on his feet from a right to the chin, falling against the ropes with his hands at his sides.

Hector McDonald, stable companion of Townsend, knocked down Dario Barron in the first round of their bout, and won a six-round decision in a gallop. Barron has slipped, and was beaten to the punch repeatedly.

FANS PERTURBED

A decision for Mission Bolo over Matt Calo in four rounds brought down the wrath of the house on Referee Bob White's head. Paper wads, programs and sacks of peanuts filled the ring when White lifted Bolo's hand, and the demonstration continued half way through the McDonald-Barron scrap.

Jess Vasquez won the award over Art Molino in the four-round curtain raiser, and the fans considered this decision enough off color to give White an awful razzing when he raised Bolo's hand in the next bout.

AND ACTIVITIES AT LOS ANGELES HARBOR

PILOTAGE FEES HEARING TODAY

Shipowner Group to Present Protest to Board

Reversal of Overton Report Adoption Sought

O. B. Kibele Outlines Chief Opposition Points

BY WALDO DRAKE

Los Angeles shipping interests are scheduled to make a forceful protest before the meeting this morning of the Board of Harbor Commissioners against the new pilotage-fee policy, as suggested in the final report of the Overton harbor rate committee. A special committee of the Los Angeles Steamship Association met yesterday and formulated the protest, which will object chiefly to using gross tonnage as unit of measure for pilotage fees and removal of the Harbor Department's damage liability.

At last week's meeting the Harbor Commission announced it plans to adopt the Overton proposal and set today as the deadline for the shipping interests to show why the new methods and rates should not be adopted. The shipowners' case was clearly stated yesterday by O. B. Kibele, former president of the Harbor Board and outstanding coast shipping authority.

VIEWED AS PERIL

"We are fighting the new pilotage policy because it will be destructive to development of the port, in that it promises to drive away foreign tonnage—which is the life of any port of prominence—and will not increase harbor revenues," said Mr. Kibele.

"The combination of draft and net tonnage—the system now in force—as a unit of measure for pilotage fees has been proven the only sensible plan and is used in all principal ports of the world. The proposal to charge one cent per gross ton would not materially affect American-flag ships, but it would work a great hardship on foreign vessels. In addition, it is proposed to charge them for municipal pilotage, whether they do or do not use a city pilot.

GREATEST NEED

"What this port needs is port charges and conditions so attractive that ship owners will want to send their fleets here. Pilotage fees will go but a little way toward paying operating expenses, but if they are unfair they will drive ships away. Constructive regulations and liberal rates will attract the new business we need and the millions of dollars in commerce gained thereby will offset a few thousands taken in by exorbitant fees."

Under the new pilotage regulations, American-flag vessels could take a municipal pilot at their option—thus relieving the Harbor Department from damage liability—provided the master or another pilot is duly licensed for this port. All foreign ships, however, would have to pay the full pilotage fees, even though they employ a pilot not on the city staff.

NEW PORT HIGHWAY OPENING DATE FIXED

The port's new integral highway system will be ready for operation by November 15, next, upon completion of three building projects now under way, it was announced yesterday by George F. Nicholson, acting port manager. These include the $32,000 Dock-street cut-off on Terminal Island, giving the Union Pacific terminals direct access to the Ocean-avenue traffic artery; the Wilmington-San Pedro Road cut-off near the Los Angeles shipyards, and completion of the short highway connecting Pier A street with the West Basin extension of Harbor Boulevard.

Mr. Nicholson said that the Pier A and Dock-street improvements are expected to materially relieve present serious traffic congestion in the Wilmington and Terminal Island areas, respectively, while straightening of the reverse curves on the Wilmington Road will fit in with the West Basin cut-off of the proposed marginal highway.

The 350 cases of champagne and whisky confiscated Monday night by the Coast Guard with seizure of the fifty-foot fisherman Terminal by the cutter CG-257 off San Clemente Island were yesterday turned over to the Customs Service and transferred to the Los Angeles warehouse. Mike Johnson and Dan McCarthy, composing the crew of the Terminal and arrested by Boatswain L. H. Williams, were being held at the port for investigation. Customhouse records show Barney Kooun of 712 Tuna avenue, Terminal Island, as owner of the Terminal.

Kingsley Navigation Company's coastwise freighter Texada, which put back to port early yesterday after springing a leak en route to Vancouver, pumped out her fuel-oil cargo at the Associated Oil Company terminal and moved to the First-street wharf for survey.

California West Coast passenger and cargo service of the newly organized American-Mexican Steamship Corporation will be inaugurated with the departure at 6 p.m. next Saturday of the British steamer Oaxaca for Mazatlan and way ports, it was announced last night by Floyd Soto, vice-president of J. Martin Silvertsen & Co., general agents for the new line.

Two other steamers similar to the 3000-ton, fifteen-knot Oaxaca will be purchased on the East Coast and added to the service immediately, according to Frank C. Hill, president. Regular service between this port and San Francisco to Ensenada, San Jose de Guatemala, Guaymas and Mazatlan, with other Mexican ports of call to be added later. Refrigeration facilities for 200 tons of perishable cargo are available on the Oaxaca, which has luxurious accommodations for forty-six passengers. Four-day service to Mazatlan will be maintained.

Norway's newest and most modern motor freighter, the Fearnley & Egar around-the-world liner Fernglen, is due at the port tomorrow on her maiden voyage, according to a radio from her master, Capt. Harold J. Werner, to Sconhoft & Gallis, local agents for the Fern line.

Capt. Werner is attempting to establish a record with the new ship by negotiating the 9388 miles from Galveston to Yokohama via Los Angeles Harbor in thirty-four days.

The Admiral Line coastwise steamer Emma Alexander will be withdrawn from service in November for annual overhaul, it was announced yesterday by Harold Germain, terminal superintendent. Her run will be taken over by the Dorothy Alexander for two round trips, the Emma Alexander resuming service on December 8.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Two new passenger liners, representing a total cost of $13,000,000 are scheduled to arrive here shortly on their maiden voyages to Pacific Coast ports. One of the vessels, the Asama Maru, is slated to make harbor here on the 23th inst. The liner, built at a cost of $6,000,000 in Japan, is one of three liners being built for the trans-Pacific service of the N. Y. K. line. The other vessel to make port will be the $7,000,000 Pennsylvania, due from the east coast on November 4.

Bound for the Orient to study Oriental life and problems and to bring students of the East and West into closer social and intellectual contact, a party of ten Pomona College students will sail from here Thursday on the liner Korea Maru. The party, headed by Sik Leong Tau, plans to stay in the Orient for a year.

Two hundred members of the California Real Estate Board from Northern California sailed from here today on the coastal liner Harvard for San Diego to attend the organization's convention. The convention opens tomorrow and will continue until the 12th inst.

PORTLAND, Oct. 8.—Wheat for the Philippines was loaded by the States line steamer Nevada. The vessel was scheduled to move into a berth at the Kerr, Gifford elevator tonight for an additional lot of grain.

Another States steamer listed in movement was the Texas, which arrived from the Philippines with a cargo of copra for the Portland Vegetable Oil mills.

SEATTLE, Oct. 8.—Capt. John Backland, one of the youngest master mariners of the North Pacific Coast today brought his fourmasted schooner, the C. S. Holmes, into Seattle from Point Barrow, northernmost point of Alaska.

Backland succeeded his father, the late Capt. John Backland, as master of the schooner. For years his father sailed from Seattle on trading cruises into the Arctic. The C. S. Holmes left Seattle May 19 and stopped at several points on the northern shore of Alaska. She encountered much ice off Point Barrow.

The motorship Villanger, first of five vessels to be used in a direct service to the east coast of South America, arrived here today from Brazil. The carrier was built for the Westfall-Larsen line.

HERE IS A RECORD

September total sales at Dana Point surpassed any previous month's business in the history of this wonderful development. More sales, more homes completed, more improvements, more commissions paid, more prospects for the largest, happiest, best paid sales organization successfully functioning in California, selling the finest property with the utmost co-operation. Wake up if you think business is poor. Former automobile and insurance salesmen are making big returns.

This is a straightforward suggestion to ambitious salesmen & saleswomen who can and must earn more than their present connection affords. Plenty of prospects. We make appointments, supply car expense and give every assistance. Good closed car essential. Contact JERRY LYLE, 3043 Wilshire Blvd., preferably before 9:30 a.m.

PACIFIC OCEAN FLYER HERE

Capt. Kingsford-Smith Plans New Hop

Australian Airman (Standing) and C. F. Lienesch

CAPT. CHARLES KINGSFORD-SMITH, chief pilot of the Southern Cross on its flight across the Pacific Ocean from Oakland to Brisbane, Australia, in June, 1928, returned to Los Angeles yesterday for the first time since taking off from here to start the trans-Pacific flight.

It was here that Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his copilot, Capt. Charles T. P. Ulm, made arrangements through Capt. G. Allan Hancock for the financial backing for the memorable Pacific flight. The Australian ace announced on his arrival at Grand Central Air Terminal, Glendale, that he hopes to complete plans here this week for his proposed westward flight across the Atlantic next spring.

He made the flight yesterday from Oakland, piloted by C. F. Lienesch of the Union Oil Company, and last night accompanied Mr. Lienesch to the meeting of the Professional Pilots' Association. He plans to fly today to Santa Maria to see Capt. Hancock.

"We have corresponded quite a bit," said Kingsford-Smith, "but this is the first opportunity I have had to see Capt. Hancock personally since the Southern Cross took off from the Oakland Airport."

Before he leaves Saturday for Vancouver, B. C., to sail for Australia for a short visit at his home, he hopes to be able to make a definite announcement concerning his trans-Atlantic flight.

Junior College Policy Watched

Eighty-three and one-half per cent of the student body of the Los Angeles Junior College is enrolled in semiprofessional courses, according to a report issued yesterday by K. Kerans, dean of registration.

"That such a large percentage has taken up this curriculum means that the Los Angeles Junior College is opening a new type of education that will enable students to take two years of junior college work and be fitted for a life's work without the additional two years of study offered in other types of colleges," Mr. Kerans said.

The courses most favored among the semiprofessional group are commerce, aeronautical engineering and social arts.

The outcome of the many new ideas being tried at the Los Angeles Junior College by Director W. H. Snyder is being watched closely by school officials throughout the country. Experiments that meet with success are to be incorporated later in other junior colleges soon to be built.

GRACE CHURCH PLANS ANNUAL HOME COMING

Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, St. Louis street and Pennsylvania avenue, the oldest church in Hollenbeck Heights, is planning its annual home-coming the 20th inst. for an all-day reunion. The regular service in the forenoon at 11 o'clock will be conducted by former pastors of the church. A basket lunch with hot coffee will be served in the banquet hall to be followed by a social time until 3 p.m., when a program will be rendered by former choir members and the present choir.

STATES MEET SATURDAY

Former residents of New York, Washington and Oregon are invited to join in a rally all day Saturday in Sycamore Grove Park. Each State will have its own section and will open county registers. The program will open at 2 o'clock.

POLICE RESPOND TO FALSE ALARM

ONTARIO, Oct. 8.—The several throngs gathered about radio shops at noon today during the height of the world series ball game were thrown into expectation at sight of policemen dashing madly toward the Bank of Italy.

Officers G. M. Brown and Fred A. Tebo rushed into the bank with guns drawn expecting to find themselves in the midst of a stick-up. Business was going on as usual except there was considerable talk about baseball.

"Something for you?" questioned a bank employee and the police said they came in response to the burglar alarm at the police station. Someone had unknowingly set the alarm going in the police station and the only excitement on tap was the ball game.

APPEAL PLANNED FOR GALLOWAY

VISALIA, Oct. 8.—Attorneys for W. J. Galloway of Exeter and Lindsay, who was taken to San Quentin a week ago to begin serving an indeterminate sentence following his conviction here on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, have ordered the court reporter to prepare a transcript for appeal. Galloway was charged with two assaults upon Fred Rayner, once with a gun and once with a small knife. An attempt was made to introduce the "unwritten law" in Galloway's defense.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY SERVICE ASSOCIATION

Members of the Los Angeles branch of the National Customs Service Association last night elected officers and committeemen at their meeting in Patriotic Hall when N. B. Ruggles of Los Angeles was chosen president; E. R. Brown of Andrade, vice-president, and A. D. Meyer of San Pedro, secretary. A dinner was served by the members of the Women's Overseas Service Club.

FIVE INJURED IN TRAFFIC

One Driver Scalded Severely and Otherwise Hurt; Another Man and Boy Sent to Hospital

Scalded severely in an automobile collision last night, Henry Van Pelt, 55 years of age, of 1835 Cotner avenue, Sawtelle, was rushed to the Sawtelle Emergency Hospital. He was burned and also received a possible fracture of the skull, when the car he was driving was struck at Wilshire Boulevard and Barry avenue, Sawtelle, by a machine driven by Dorothy Hughes, 16, of 3127 Santa Monica Boulevard, Beverly Hills, according to police.

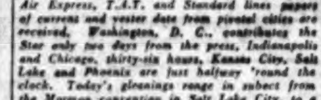
The force of the crash burst open the radiator, spilling scalding water on Van Pelt, who is a cook at the National Soldiers' Home. He received first-degree burns.

In a collision last night at Jefferson street and Mansfield avenue, Edward A. Brooks, 51, of 1643 West Eighty-third street, received head injuries and was crushed about the chest. He was thrown from his car when it was struck by another automobile driven by R. V. Anderson of 312 South Camden Drive, Beverly Hills, police report. Brooks was treated at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

Conrad Allman, 6, of 908 West Seventy-fourth street, received a possible skull fracture and internal injuries last night when the car in which he was riding was struck by another at Vermont avenue and West Seventy-fourth street. The boy was riding in an automobile driven by Mrs. J. Miller of the same address, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Zill McGoffey, and Rex Johnson of 1416 West Sixty-second street. Mrs. McGoffey and Johnson received slight injuries. All were treated at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. Police report that the other car was driven by Leo Le Vesseur of 1243 West Sixty-first street.

A youth and a girl received serious injuries last night when a motorcycle on which they were riding ran into the rear end of a stalled automobile in West Tenth street near Serrano avenue. John Lewis, 19, of 5812 Willoughby street, received a possible skull fracture and head lacerations. Erdie Farley, 14, of 2254 West Fifteenth, received concussion of the brain and a wrenched right leg. They were treated at the Receiving Hospital. Police report that the stalled car was occupied by O. B. Sollee of 3591 West Tenth street.

AIRPLANE NEWS EXCHANGE



(Not all the interesting and out-of-the-ordinary news of the day finds a place on crowded wires or waves. Every evening The Times conducts a news exchange by airplane. By Western Air Express, T.A.T. and Standard lines papers of current and yester date from pivotal cities are received. Washington, D. C., contributes the Star only two days from the press, Indianapolis and Chicago, thirty-six hours, Kansas City, Salt Lake and Phoenix are just halfway 'round the clock. Today's gleanings range in subject from the Mormon convention in Salt Lake City, to a speech made by a college professor in Chicago who declares we are living in a "shocking age.")

SHOCKING STATEMENT

Chicago Tribune, Oct. 7.

The present mechanistic age has "shocked" the human body so it is more susceptible to disease than formerly, according to Dr. Lloyd Arnold of the University of Illinois college of medicine.

"It took nature many thousands of years to build up an automatic system of control within the human body," Dr. Arnold said.

"Inventions in the past century have changed radically the mode of life for which the human body was planned. The rapid changes have subjected the nervous system to constant shocks, weakening its defense against disease germs."

WARDEN FACES JUDGE

Arizona Republican, Oct. 8.

Lo Wright, superintendent of the State prison at Florence, will appear before Judge M. T. Phelps in Superior Court this morning to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for alleged violations of orders committing prisoners to that institution.

Wright is said to have allowed prisoners to be outside the prison without guards. One specific instance was cited, that of a prisoner who came here to marry the daughter of a guard.

NUISANCE, ANYWHERE

Kansas City Star, Oct. 7.

Loan sharks are a common nuisance in Kansas and their operations may be stopped by the simple use of an injunction, and in the same way as the State may stop a bootlegger or the maintenance of a house of ill fame. That was the decision of the Kansas Supreme Court today when it reversed the ruling of Judge Frank D. Hutchings, judge of the District Court in Wyandotte county.

ANY RAZOR - BACK DUCKS?

Kansas City Times, Oct. 8.

Mrs. Albert Sprunkle made the dairy trip into the north. She was fascinated, she says, by the beautiful red and white Holstein cows, as well as by the smaller but no less attractive Duroc Jerseys. She had never seen silos fed to cattle until she made that trip, and was no less amazed to learn that one Guernsey steer in Minnesota had given 15,230 pounds of butter fat in a month. In Wisconsin she ate some excellent Swiss cheese which, she understood, came from brown Swiss cows. The machine milking arrangement interested her, and she told of how the cows are milked as they stand with their heads fastened to steel stallions.

MORMON CONVENTION

Salt Lake Tribune, Oct. 8.

With a plea to the people to recognize their obligations to God and church, Heber J. Grant, president of the L. D. S. Church, opened the 100th semiannual conference of the church in the tabernacle.

WHY NOT THE GAS-HOUSE?

Albuquerque Journal, Oct. 8.

It is suggested that the representatives of all the companies who wish to furnish Albuquerque with natural gas be lined up eight abreast in columns, and marched past a given point; that is, provided anybody wishes to give a point.

Republican Club to Hear Address by Rear-Admiral

Rear-Admiral T. P. Magruder of the United States Navy will discuss "Aspects of Sea Power" at the meeting of the Republican Study Club Friday at 2 p.m. in Barker Brothers' Auditorium. Admiral Magruder will discuss various phases of naval questions. He will be introduced by Lieut.-Gov. Carnahan.

A short greeting for the new year will be offered by Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, president emeritus of the club, and a musical program will be presented by Mrs. Emory Arnold and Miss Norma Gregg. Col. Eric Fowler, chairman of the Republican county central committee, will give a brief resume of the current political situation. Mrs. Harry A. Chamberlin, president, will have charge of the meeting.

Following the program, tea will be served in the Mary Louise presided over by Mrs. E. C. Magauran, Mrs. Nellie Dean Graham, and Mrs. Buron Fitts. The courtesy committee for the event will include Mrs. Homer Prather, Mrs. E. C. Calvin, Mrs. T. J. Bourn, Mrs. B. La Burt, Mrs. Floyd Chamberlin, Mrs. James Barry, Mrs. E. K. Allen, and Mrs. Luthur C. Wood.

NEW CRITIC ON SCENE

Son Born to Wife of Art Expert on Staff of "The Times"

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Millier, at their home, 320 Mesa Road, Santa Monica Canyon Drive. The new son is the fourth child born to Mr. and Mrs. Millier.

Mr. Millier is art critic of The Times.

SMUGGLING SUSPECTS HELD TO GRAND JURY

After a hearing yesterday before United States Commissioner Head, three men were held to answer to the Federal grand jury on a charge of smuggling alien Chinese across the border from Mexico. The three men are John Maxwell, James E. Ward and James W. Knight. Four Chinese, who were captured at the same time as the white men near Westmoreland, Imperial Valley, were held for a hearing on deportation.

JUDGE SHOWN HOW HAIR WAS PULLED

Jane Quaglino

How Mrs. Lois Quaglino pulled her husband's hair was demonstrated in Superior Judge Sproul's court yesterday by Miss Jane Quaglino, sister of Phil Quaglino, the plaintiff in a divorce case.

Quaglino testified he went home once and found his closet bare of clothes. On the dresser, however, was a pile of pawn tickets, which led him to believe his wife had pawned all his clothes. This, according to Attorney Reuben Licker, later was found to be a fact. Judge Sproul gave Quaglino a divorce.

CLASH OCCURS ON POLICE JOBS

no statement. Commissioner Pierce, when asked by Drake his opinion on the subject, remarked that "I could be arrested for what I am thinking."

A communication from Chief Davis was read, asking the commission, if its order to him in regard to getting approval for appointments, relates to some now pending, and if so, requesting specific instructions at an early date.

"At this time," wrote the Chief, "would you advise us whether or not you wish us to seek your approval before we make the regular sixty-day renewals of emergency appointments, made prior to the 2nd inst."

"The order speaks for itself," was Thorpe's sharp retort to this letter, and he directed the secretary to draw the Chief's attention to it again.

Lieut. F. F. Stevens of the police personnel bureau, asked the board if its order applies also to sixty-two different codes of civilians employed by the police department, in painting, repair work, plumbing, office, stenographic, telephone and other work of the department. He stated that it would greatly hamper the department to await action by the board. Changes in these jobs, he said, are daily and hourly occurrences, with delay meaning that work will pile up.

DELAYED FOR WEEK

Drake and Thorpe were unwilling to grant the department this much authority in the handling of its staff, but deferred action a week pending a conference between Secretary Jeffers and Stevens on a method which will give the board the supervision it desires with the least possible delay in police department work.

From the patrolmen upward, however, it was apparent that the commission intends to continue its efforts to have full jurisdiction over the personnel, under Drake's interpretation of the charter and by having all the Chief's appointments pass before it before going to the civil service department.

As to the status of Cross, the commission appeared to be stumped for the time being.

W.C.T.U. TO HEAR OF FILMS

The Los Angeles Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet tomorrow from 2 to 4 p.m. at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Hope and Eighth streets. Mrs. Carrie Lee Carter Stokes, past and honorary president of the union and for many years national lecturer, will give an address on "The Stage and the Screen in the Courts."

Mrs. Mary Shout will present five matrons in a silver medal contest. Plans will be completed for the State convention delegates at San Diego. Mrs. Ida Belle Mulford, the president, who has been attending the national convention at Indianapolis, is expected home in time for the meeting.

HALF CENTURY IN POST

Fifty-four years as postmistress of Rock Camp, a village of 100 in West Virginia, is the record of "Aunt" Cindia Harvey, now 87 years of age. When she was named to the post December 31, 1875, by President Grant, it was a departure from the usual custom to appoint a woman.

ARCHITECTURAL SESSION NEARS

State Association Meets Here Friday

Executive Board Arrives Today by Plane

Uniform Building Code Discussion Topic

Members of the executive board and chairmen of all committees of the northern section of the State Association of California Architects will arrive from the north in a Maddux airplane tonight at 6 o'clock to prepare for the opening of the organization's annual two-day convention at the Beverly Hills Hotel Friday morning.

The party will be met at Grand Central Air Terminal by a committee of local architects headed by Henry Henninings of Los Angeles. Ralph C. Flewelling of Beverly Hills is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

A. M. Edelman, executive chairman, Los Angeles, will preside. The sessions will close Saturday afternoon with an entertainment program and sight-seeing trip. The annual banquet is scheduled for Friday evening.

ADDRESS TOPICS

Harris C. Allen, president of Northern California chapter, A.I.A., will preside at the luncheon session Friday noon. Edwin Bergstrom will lead a discussion of the uniform-building-code project. In the afternoon Henry D. Dewell will lecture on "The Rigid Type of Earthquake Resistant Construction," while H. J. Brunier will talk on "The Elastic Type of Earthquake Resistant Construction." Both men are from San Francisco.

"Ideals" will be the theme of the Friday evening banquet. Carlton M. Winslow, Los Angeles, will preside, with John J. Donavon of San Francisco, toastmaster. At Saturday's session William Simpson will address the convention on "The New Contractors' Law and its Relation to the Architect," and Donald M. Baker, consulting engineer, will speak on "The New Engineers' Law and its Relation to the Architect."

EXECUTIVE BOARD

The executive board of the association follows: Chairman, A. M. Edelman, Los Angeles; vice-chairman, Charles F. B. Roeth, San Francisco; secretary-treasurer, W. I. Garren, San Francisco; assistant secretary-treasurer, Natt Piper, Long Beach; Mark T. Jorgensen and Albert J. Evers, San Francisco, and Myron Hunt, Albert J. Walker and J. C. Austin of Los Angeles.

TRANSIT NEEDS GIVEN REVIEW

"In spite of the argument that a rapid transit system would injure suburban towns and smaller cities of the Southland, past experiments have proved the reverse to be true," said the speaker.

ASSOCIATION WILL FIGHT TRANSIT BILL

A meeting of the Anti-Elevated Association will be held at 1827 Sunset Boulevard, next Friday, the 18th inst., at 7:30 p.m., it was announced yesterday by J. E. Lambert, secretary. The session will be devoted to a discussion of the proposed plans for contesting the validity of the recently passed Senate Bill No. 548, known as the Weller bill, providing that the construction of rapid-transit lines may be ordered by a City Council on the petition of 10 per cent of the property owners of any assessment district.

The association, it is announced, has retained E. O. Leake, Donald Keith and Archie Cope as attorneys with instructions to carry the fight to the United States Supreme Court. It is probable, Secretary Lambert said, that all three will speak at the meeting Friday night. By the provisions of the Weller bill, 90 per cent of the property owners of an assessment district are powerless to protest out the rapid-transit petition of the remaining 10 per cent.

Mrs. Ballard, Deceased, Was Pioneer of '61

Coming to California in a covered wagon in 1861, braving perils of Indians and of the wilderness, Mrs. Sidelia Scholl Ballard, 87 years of age, wife of former Judge John W. Ballard and mother of Municipal Judge Charles D. Ballard, whose death occurred here Monday evening, represented a class of old-time settlers who now are almost vanished.

Her father was an original "Forty-niner" and after the gold strike had subsided he returned to Indiana and brought his family across the plains and the mountains to this region, where he settled.

Mrs. Ballard's death occurred at her home, 468 South Lake street, and was caused by pneumonia. She was stricken Friday night.

She leaves her husband; her son, Charles D. Ballard, and two daughters, Mrs. Ella B. Hanna and Mrs. Zoe B. Shively. The body is at the funeral chapel of Ivy H. Overholtzer, 1719 South Flower street. The funeral services will be conducted at the Little Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn Cemetery, Glendale, tomorrow, at 2 p.m.

SALVATION ARMY FINDS MORE JOBS THAN MEN

Economic conditions are in better shape in Southern California than they have been for many years, according to Lieut.-Col. William Gooding, head of the industrial division of the Salvation Army, who bases his belief on the fact that competent workers are almost impossible to obtain, the better positions of ordinary labor being in need of men.

"While we have plenty of people who can carry hods, sweep floors and wash dishes who want jobs," Gooding said, "we find that cooks, for example, cannot be found. This is partly due to the better wages being paid to farm laborers for fruit picking, but it is due largely to the fact that men can find employment more easily than for some time past."

Col. Gooding's headquarters handles hundreds of cases each month of men coming to Los Angeles out of employment. He has been responsible for the building of industrial plants in this city, San Pedro, Long Beach, San Diego and Pasadena, where such men temporarily are employed. The department is planning an additional plant at San Bernardino.
